Telestroke care now available

Saint Thomas Stones River Hospital in Woodbury has joined the Telestroke Network, bringing quick neurology access to local patients who may be experiencing a stroke.

"The Telestroke Network, now in place at all Saint Thomas Health Hospitals, expands the gold standard in stroke care for patients to four of our rural hospitals, which means that every Saint Thomas Health patient now has access to the specialty care they need when time is of the essence," said Amy Couvillion, RN, BSN, Saint Thomas Health System Stroke/Telemedicine Director.

"When a patient arrives at one of our Emergency Departments, and symptoms of a stroke are apparent, we now have all of the necessary resources in place to administer the highest level of care, including board-certified neurologists available 24 hours a day, seven days a week via technology," Couvillion said.

"We have developed a well-defined protocol comprised of best practices that is immediately enacted when a possible stroke patient arrives. We have covered more than 250 telestroke visits since we launched," she said.

In addition to Stones River, Saint Thomas Health, announced the expansion of its Telestroke Network to two other outlying Saint Thomas Health Hospitals: Saint Thomas Highlands Hospital in Sparta and Saint Thomas DeKalb Hospital in Smithville. This expansion brings neurology access to patients who may be experiencing a stroke. See TELESTROKE, Page 9

BLUE RIBBON QUEEN

Fay Huddleston knows a thing or two about preserving fruits, vegetables

KEN BECK
The Cannon Courier

When it comes to growing blue ribbons, Cannon County native Fay Huddleston has a green thumb.

A food preserver from an early age, she has been racking up blue ribbons for canning and drying fruits and vegetables at the Wilson County Fair night on to 23 years. She's won so many blue, red and white ribbons, she's lost count, but the total may number more than 1,000. And that doesn't include those she captured at the Tennessee State Fair.

Fay, a member of the Wilson County Masters Gardeners and the Twin State Iris Society, and her husband, Charles, live on the Huddleston home place, a century farm several miles north of Lebanon that has been in the family since 1897. In their garden and orchard, they grow green beans, squash, cucumbers, beets, peppers, cherries, blackberries, strawberries, peaches, apples and grapes.

"If it grows in Tennessee, it probably gets canned here," she said from the kitchen where she does her canning and dehydrating. "We've always had a garden. When we lived in Hendersonville, our yard had so many trees there was no sunlight, so we had a farm on Coles Ferry Pike and would drive over on Saturdays.

"We taught our children. They worked in our garden. So I passed on to my children what I learned from my parents and grandparents."

After raising their three sons in Hendersonville, the couple moved to Wilson County in 1992. In 1993, Fay began entering her home preserves in the fruit and vegetable divisions of the county fair. In 2010, she entered 110 categories and netted 34 blue

Her ribbons from 2008 stretch high across the top of two walls in her kitchen. They include 20 blue and 15 red ribbons she won at the Tennessee State Fair.

"Each year I would put them up. I finally got tired of taking them down. I stopped about three years ago," she said.

Born to Marie and Taft Sadler in Woodbury, Tenn., Fay grew up with three brothers on a farm near the Cannon County communities of Parker Hill and Mooretown.

 Marino Brothers

Big things are happening in Adult Education. Our Cannon program honored 2 brothers, Stephen and Jonathan Marino, who passed their High School Equivalency Test, referred to as the HiSET. After receiving the HiSet, Stephen followed his dreams and enlisted and graduated from the Army National Guard.

In honor of Stephen and Jonathan's achievements, State Representative Mark Pody presented each with a Tennessee Blue Book, certificate of achievement and positive words of encouragement. We are so proud that these two brothers, who refused to settle, took steps to change their families' future. Let us help you take that first step that will forever change your life.

IT IS WHAT IT IS .....

If you have ever noticed...this short phrase: IT IS WHAT IT IS...is mentioned more often than not with each passing day.

Actually, we use this phrase when we have no answer for the situations that are tossed at us continually. This short phrase accompanies the existing race for presidency, who wins the Olympics, how our job turns out, today's issues on gay marriage, abortion, immigration, healthcare, etc. Even the weather IS WHAT IT IS.

How our children turn out in life... divorce...money issues...even down to; Who forgot to get more toilet paper?

There is a problem with using this phrase as an excuse for reality. Look at your DOG or Cat in the kitchen when you are preparing dinner.....No matter what it is.... they want it. They eat it. It is what it is.

Hillary Clinton needs to BUY A DRESS and burn that forever present PANTSUIT. Trump needs to get rid of the BASEBALL CAP and change his carrot top.

Trying to be patient with the BAD joke tellers. Losing stupid little fights. Monday mornings. Losing your cell phone. Mother Nature sends a tree through your roof. Police come to your door instead of the neighbors. Running a marathon without breaking in your shoes first. Pokemon. Your ONLY toothbrush was used yesterday by your son on the DOG'S teeth, Facebook is discontinued but not before 500,000 have already learned your life history and more, teaching kids how to make explosives at school, trying to throw away an OLD boomerang, off key singers in church...especially the one who is selected to sing a solo at the pulpit (a longgg one...), missing your gym appointment for the seventh year in a row, sneezing while having diarrhea, hoping your children never find out why you say OOPS when you are vacuuming their room and there is that fatal moment when you have another's eye contact while eating a banana.

Are you kidding? This list goes on forever...on IT IS WHAT IT IS.

There are good things along with this phrase as well as the frustrating ones. For instance, recently a bride asks the man who now is blessed with her father's heart to walk her down the aisle. There is Our Olympics, where athletes of all ages from all corners of the world meet, get to learn about each other in a GOOD way... to compete, to congratulate, to weep... to create a positive brotherhood with all nations. It also serves a wonderful purpose of uniting the viewers with knowledge of different people all over the world and where enemies should never exist. (My only fear is that the phrase IT IS WHAT IT SHOULD NOT BE includes the possibility of a terrorist attack. Look at the thousands of people who are participating and attending. A perfect target for what the terrorists do best. Note that I am writing this August 8th...almost a week before the Olympics have ended. I pray that nothing such as I fear ever happened.)

On a brighter note.....Have you seen the movie: BAD MOMS? I mean, aren't we moms of today trying to reflect just a little better image than that? Maybe, after the kids are OUT of the nest...but honestly...ouch !!

Aunt Polly accidentally dropped her cell phone in a rain puddle. Uncle Pete said: Well, that's that...I finally can have your attention without that thing stuck to your ear...it is what it is, Polly. She told me that she put her phone in a bowl of rice hoping it would attract Asians who will fix it.

Uncle Festus said: Oh well, it is what it is... as he tried to control his mixed feelings while watching his mother-in-law backing toward the edge of a cliff in his new BMW.

Word has it, that Cousin Sonny's physics teacher broke up with the biology teacher. There was just no chemistry. It is what it is.

Uncle Festus called in sick one day and told his boss that his uncle had died. The next day, his boss told him that while Festus was OUT, that uncle came in looking for him. IT IS WHAT IT IS, Festus.

Do you ever feel like a Shark with a nosebleed? You keep swimming in circles...

Then we have the Pessimist: Things can't get any worse. And, the Optimist : Nah, Of course they can ! It is what it is when the tombstone of a mathematician reads: He didn't COUNT on this. While reading the Politician's tombstone : He died on a cold wintry day...it was the first time he ever had his hands in his OWN pockets.

IT IS WHAT IT IS...when your doctor finally gives you GOOD advice : Always give 100%....except when donating blood. Life is a real charmer...we just have to be aware of what goes on about us...make correct decisions...and don't always use this phrase: IT IS WHAT IT IS as an excuse. Don't be lazy and bow out too early. Don't be the dopey shark who eats a clown and then says: something tastes funny. Avoid consequences due to the fact that you accepted lightly without question or common sense someone else's actions or decisions or opinions.

All of YOU can make a difference in this world of ours. Because if we continue to live day to day with the attitude that what we think and what we can do to make our life and the world better is just blowing in the wind .... you are WRONG. The new president isn't going to do it. Gold medals won't either. It's up to each and every one of us to speak up...and forget the passiveness...IT IS WHAT IT IS !! As mentioned before, this phrase can be a GOOD thing at times, but overall it reflects an acceptance that things are going to happen and we can't do anything about it. BALONEY!!

Don't let your kids get away with murder. Don't accept just ONE doctor's opinion on your health issues, Go ahead and ask questions on your increase of taxes or homeowner insurance. Is your credit score REALLY that low? A mistake on your phone bill...water bill....do you pay it? or straighten it out? Just go ahead and accept that fact that your neighbor's dog barks all night long? Put up with nosey co-workers? Obnoxious telemarketers.. (there is a number to call and delete them.) You get your car fixed and the bill is higher than what the written quote was (not an estimate)...well, straighten it out!! Stop giving away your money and losing your sanity with daily irritants that CAN be amended !! IT IS WHAT IT SHOULD BE....when YOU FIX IT!!

The guy that everyone talks about and points a finger at...just may turn out to be a great fellow. The movie or book that gathers negative criticism...just might be your cup of tea.

Plant your flowers .... over plant... love where you live -- ignore negative neighbors .... Change your hair color....If you look good in younger fashion at 70 -- wear it....Believe that 70 is the new 50 (Stop believing that 70 is nursing home material.)

Develop a sense of humor yet understanding of the youngsters' fads and ideals. (You can keep it under wraps without freaking out on them!) IT IS WHAT IT IS....but with a mild bit of control.

I even have to love my Cousin Clarence who tells me he has his PHD.....Pizza Hut Deliveryman. Now, that guy... IS WHAT IT IS!!

Did you hear what one state official said to the another? I don't know what people have against us...we haven't done anything. (and, there we go folks..... IT IS WHAT IT IS...unless we speak up and do something about it. Your VOTE counts... your opinion counts...the TREADMILL OF ACCEPTANCE must stop!! Think about ALL THIS....wake up...only YOU can make a difference...START NOW!!

Chat with all of you next week. Take care of family and friends. School has started... slow down for those buses and children walking to and from school. Be happy... Smile...and Do your little Dance.

HUGS,

Family, friends key to helping military vote while they're overseas

(StatePoint) Family and friends are vital connections to life back home for Service members and U.S. citizens overseas. During election years, many military and overseas voters cite family members and friends as important sources of voting information.

An easy way to help loved ones in the military or abroad to vote absentee is by referring them to the Federal Voting Assistance Program (FVAP), which provides tools and resources to ensure that American citizens who want to vote can do so from anywhere in the world.

Voters can visit FVAP.gov to find state-by-state official registration and ballot request deadlines, as well as information on completing a Federal Post Card Application (FPCA), which is the registration and ballot request form, or the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB), the backup ballot. Both forms are available at FVAP.gov and can be filled out with the online assistant or by hand.

For additional information, visit FVAP.gov, email Vote@FVAP.gov or call 1-800-438-VOTE (8683).

The sooner voters register and request their ballot, the greater the likelihood they can successfully vote. That's because ballots must be sent back before individual state deadlines, which vary from state to state.

How to Vote in U.S. Elections from Anywhere in 2 Simple Steps...

Ready for those cooler temperatures of fall?

Am I speeding up the seasons? Guess so, but everyone is ready for fall to arrive thanks to all the hot weather.

Receiving a list of upcoming Cannon County events from the Chamber of Commerce, put a rush on fall. Officially (or at least according to the Farmers Almanac) fall begins on the autumnal equinox which is September 22 this year.

Equinox means "equal night," which means the day and night are just about the same length of time. This happens twice a year with the vernal equinox in late March and the autumnal equinox in late September.

Nowadays, we tend to think fall begins when the time falls back. (Spring forward, fall back) That day is November 6.

At any rate, cool weather should soon arrive. Maybe! The Farmers Almanac is predicting continued "hot, steamy weather" for the rest of August and through September. Cool weather isn't expected to arrive until late October. (Just in time for a frosty Halloween, I suppose.)

Is what celebrities, sports stars say really important?

Turn on almost any news program, or news web site and you'll find actors, sports figures and people who are famous for just being famous talking about politics, religion, science, the economy or almost any other hot top of the day.

And you will immediately see a negative reaction: why should this or that person talk about this or that issue. What gives them the right to speak out? But the issue isn't these people speaking out. The real issue is the coverage they are given.

Actors and sports figures, just to use two examples, are citizens just like everyone else. They have the right to say what they want about anything they want.

But just like everyone else, they are almost never experts on economics, science or history. So what they have to say really has no value.

What I also hear is by lending their name they are increasing awareness of this disease, that social issue, this or that cause. But I wonder if the purpose isn't to bring attention to the cause, but to bring attention to themselves!

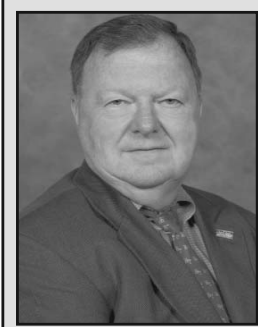

Which is why I wonder why they are given coverage in the first place? Why is it news when a person with absolutely no training starts talking about something they know absolutely nothing about?

Now I'm not talking here about commercials and promotions featuring famous people. We see dozens of stars promoting dozens of foundations. If they want to lend their names to a cause, so be it.

What I'm talking about is news coverage. Why are these comments considered news? The answer quite simply is someone else, whose value I have to question, thinks it is news.

Just because someone famous says something does not mean what they say is newsworthy. Certainly anyone is free to talk about anything they want. But is it news? Certainly not!

News from the Mountain

BY CAROL GUNTER

Roads becoming a hazard to drive on anymore and not because of me being a woman driver. Traveling to church Sunday morning and was wondering where was the fire that so many people were trying to get to at breakneck speed and do they all live at that residence? They were zooming by me as if I was sitting still. This is becoming an all too familiar happening and it's not just on the weekend. That double yellow line might as well be purple, because they are gonna get on your back bumper and come around you with the ease of one of those professional drivers of Nascar that actually do know what they're doing. I'm sure you've experienced this lack of sense by some drivers yourselves and want to know have they really got a license to drive and do this is the first question that pops on your mind? If I'm driving the speed limit that someone else (not me) posted along the road, you need to back off and drive like a responsible adult or else be take out "behind the barn" and taught a lesson to get the wild driving out of your system. It wouldn't be a spanking - a spanking would get you in all sorts of trouble and being shipped of to Siberia could be in your future. Maybe people are getting the road rage thing over those signs that tell you the mph you should be driving.

Speaking of road rage, I was in line at a drive thru fast food establishment recently and was twenty minutes or more waiting on the few vehicles ahead of me to place their orders. Some people left the scene behind me as I guess they knew it was going to be too long a wait to get some food. "Patience is a virtue" I was taught growing up so I was mulling that over in my mind and glad I had taught that to our girls as they were growing up. The wait wouldn't have been so long if the people had their order ready to give when they drove up to the machine that takes it. When I finally got up there I was ready with both barrels to place my order but the message read "please wait". Nobody blew their horn behind me because I guess they thought I was trying to make up my mind, too, as what to order. If a person did get that road rage feeling at KFC (that was where I was at) I was thinking since people don't have much patience anymore what would happen? Would people be pushing vehicles forward to get them out of their way? That would only make the wait to get their food even longer. I would only hope they would think before they acted that foolishly but I wouldn't hold my breath on that.

Maybe parents from "way back when" did their kids a disfavor by teaching them right from wrong and that they were going to be held accountable for the poor decisions they made. Spankings were probably a bad thing and that respect of elders and their property was also I image misguiding them in the wrong direction. You're smart so I know the lack of teaching the "Golden Rule" would most likely been a good thing, Right? If kids were brought up these days like way back when and to hold God in reverence, then you've figured out what's wrong in the lack of parenting that is going on today. The best you can do by your kids doesn't guarantee a thing as to how they will turn out but it's all you've got going for you to say you tried. If they see the life you're living then most likely they'll be the apple that doesn't fall far from that tree. I'm from that way back when generation myself and am so proud of it because I was taught by both of my parents to treat people the way you wanted to be treated, to show them respect, have good manners and be courteous to others at all time. No back talking to your parents as that would get you a slap on the face that you needed and you would then get the message not to ever show that kind of disrespect again. Parents were parents with the back bone to back it up. This sugar-coating everything today where kids are concerned as you can very easily see isn't working. Parents, you are expected to discipline your kids, not harshly, of course, but they will respect you for it as that is what God expects of you in raising your kids to be somebody.

Presidential campaigns Mud-slingin' & mudslides

Mainstream America remains fixated on the heated presidential campaign between Republican candidate/billionaire Donald Trump and Democratic candidate/two-time First Lady/former U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton. Indeed, Trump has lambasted her with epithets such as "Crooked Hillary," "a world-class liar," and "the devil." Hillary, however, has counter-punched, alleging The Donald is a "loose cannon," "dangerous," and "has written a lot of books about business, but they all seem to end at Chapter 11."

In terms of U.S. presidential campaigns, it would be logical to assume our forefathers were more reserved and less bombastic when speaking about their opponents to the public—not necessarily the case! Here are a few examples of some corrupt, mud-slingin' presidential campaigns from the past:

*1828: Andrew Jackson (Democrat) vs. John Quincy Adams (Republican). Since Jackson had run against Adams for the presidency in 1824, the political fire waxed hot. During the 1828 campaign, Jackson's team wrote that Adams, as an envoy to Russia, had once "pimped" out an American girl to a Russian czar. Still, Jackson's team alleged Adams was a "hideous hermaphroditical character which has neither the force and firmness of a man, nor the gentleness and sensibility of a woman."

Adams' team, though, stood its ground charging that Jackson's wife, Rachel, was a "convicted adulteress," because, years earlier, she had wed Jackson before finalizing her divorce to her previous husband. Though Andrew Jackson won the 1828 presidential election, all the back-and-forth mud-slingin' had a dire effect on Rachel Jackson. She took ill, and even though she saw Andrew win the election, she died before his inauguration. At her funeral, Jackson blamed his opponents' bigamist accusations for her death. "May God Almighty forgive her murderers, as I know she forgave them," Jackson stated. "I never can."

*1860: Abraham Lincoln (Republican) vs. Stephen Douglas (Democrat). Initially, one would think "Honest Abe" was above corrupt, political mud-slingin' ... not so! Much like Trump did Florida Senator Marco Rubio, they took potshots at each other's physicality. About Douglas, who stood approximately 5 feet 4 inches in height, Lincoln reportedly said: "Answers to the name Little Giant. Talks a great deal, very loud, always about himself." Other reports have Lincoln & team further minimizing Douglas by claiming he was "about five feet nothing in height and about the same in diameter the other way."

Douglas retorted by saying Lincoln was a "horrid-looking wretch, sooty and scoundrelly in aspect, a cross between the nutmeg dealer, the horse-swapper and the nightman." And a truly original profile on Lincoln from Douglas was, "Lincoln is the leanest, lankest, most ungainly mass of legs and arms and hatchet face ever strung on a single frame." Lincoln won the 1860 election.

*1884: Grover Cleveland (Democrat) vs. James Blaine (Republican). Grover Cleveland has been called the "Bill Clinton" of his day. Though rumors of his debauchery are abound, one moral shortcoming can be confirmed: While still a bachelor, Cleveland fathered a child with a widow named Maria Halpin. Given today's liberal stance on such (think back to late U.S. Senator Strom Thurmond), there probably wouldn't have been much to it: no marriages ruined, no paternity tests, no child-support issues. Back then, however, the Republican Party, supporting Blaine, took it and ran an Olympic dash! They made up the chant, "Ma! Ma! Where's my pa?" and used it a rallies to denounce Cleveland.

Blaine's resume was not without blemish, though. He was accused of shady dealings with the railroad, apparently confirmed in a letter in which Blaine supposedly admitted he knew he was involved in less-than-scrupulous business ventures. It has been written that Blaine signed the letter, "My regards to Mrs. Fisher. Burn this letter!" Cleveland's Democrats made up their own chant based on his writings: "Burn this letter! Burn this letter! Burn this letter!" Cleveland won the presidency.

*1960: John Fitzgerald Kennedy/JFK (Democrat) vs. Richard Milhous Nixon (Republican). In addition to it being one of the closest presidential races in American History, there still exist rumors that JFK & campaign team enlisted the mob—namely top Chicago mobster Sam Giancana—to guarantee a JFK win in Illinois, a must-win for JFK to claim the presidency. JFK carried Illinois and, too, won the 1960 election. JFK turned his back on the mob and was gunned down in the Dealey Plaza section of Dallas, TX, November 22, 1963.

*2000: George W. Bush (Republican) vs. Albert Gore Jr. (Democrat). Who will ever forget the infamous "hanging chads" fiasco? I'll refrain from going into detail here, but here it is in a nutshell: The Gore team claimed the Bush team had stolen the election. The hanging chads had to do with faulty voting machines (miscounting votes). The hanging chads incident took place in the state of Florida, of which George W. Bush's younger brother Jeb Bush was governor. After months of legal wrangling, and millions upon millions of dollars spent, Bush was declared president.

Coming down the home stretch, I predict the Trump-Clinton presidential showdown will ultimately be the nastiest in U.S. History: "Mudslides" will replace mud-slingin', to the extent it will get downright dangerous!

Short Mountain Disc Jam. August 26-28

It takes place at the Little Short Mountain Farm and Short Mountain Distillery. This is our third annual three-day event, taking place August 26-28. We will be having roughly 150 attendees. It is a Professional Disc Golf Association C-Tier tournament. Most of these will be locals from the area, Murfreesboro and Nashville, but we also will be hosting out-of-towners from surrounding states.

Also, part of the proceeds of this event will be going to Limbs For Life.

The Limbs for Life Foundation is a global nonprofit organization dedicated to providing fully-functional prosthetic care for individuals who cannot otherwise afford it and raising awareness of the challenges facing amputees. Fortunately, high tech prosthetic devices that restore a person's basic skills and independence are available. Unfortunately, many amputees lack the financial resources to obtain adequate prosthetic care. This is where Limbs For Life steps in. As you can imagine, this organization helps many veterans in our country, whose lives have been permanently changed by warfare.

Arm Numbness, Leg Swelling, and Low Back Pain Helped with Chiropractic

On December 7, 2015, the Annals of Vertebral Subluxation Research published a study documenting the case of a patient with an arthritic reversed neck curve being helped with chiropractic.

The authors of the study begin by noting the importance of proper curvatures in the spine. As viewed from the side, the spine should have a forward curve, known as lordosis in the neck; a rearward curve, known as kyphosis, in the middle back; and another lordosis curve in the lower back. These normal curvatures are essential to properly distribute forces through the body.

Without a proper curvature in the neck, forces of daily activity can create multiple structural and functional problems in the neck including subluxations. According to research, a number of conditions and symptoms have been linked to the loss of neck curvature. These include mechanical neck pain, cervical-brachial neuralgia, vascular headaches, migraine headaches, cervicogenic headache, numbness, vertigo, nausea, airway obstruction, suboccipital pain, occipital neuralgia, numbness or tingling, muscle spasms, and decreased neck range of motion.

In this case, a 31-year-old man went to the chiropractor seeking relief. His complaints included arthritis in his neck, stabbing pain in ribs, and numbness/tingling in both hands. He reported that his neck problems had started 8 years earlier and caused a sharp stabbing pain. He reported that rotating and popping his neck gave him some temporary relief. He was also suffering from sleep issues and fatigue as well as shortness of breath, heartburn, and depression.

A chiropractic examination was performed that included palpation, range of motion, heart rate variability testing, surface electromyography, thermal scans and spinal x-rays. The tests were performed to detect the presence of subluxation as well as to monitor the body's response to care.

Specific chiropractic care was started at the rate of three visits per week for the first month. After 7 weeks of care, the patient reported improvement in his symptoms with an overall decrease in his symptoms. He felt his posture had improved and he was holding his head higher, slouching less, and he found it easier to keep straight up.

Follow up testing showed improvement in all the objective tests that were performed. Neck x-rays showed a return to normal of the man's neck curvature, demonstrating that his spinal and neural integrity had improved.

In their discussion, the authors of this study note the importance of a proper neck curvature by stating, "Improvement in cervical lordosis or restoration of the cervical curve has been associated with various outcomes in the literature. It has been suggested that restoration of normal spinal curves leads to improved health outcomes, pain reduction, increased function, and improved quality of life."

EQUINE PIROPLASMOSIS DETECTED IN 17 HORSES IN RUTHERFORD COUNTY

The state veterinarian's office is investigating an outbreak of Equine Piroplasmosis (EP) in a group of racing Quarter Horses in Tennessee.

EP is a blood parasite that affects equines. Although it can be transmitted through infected ticks, today it is more commonly spread by blood and blood products through the sharing of needles, syringes or improperly cleaned and disinfected dental, tattoo, surgical or blood product equipment between infected and uninfected horses.

Seventeen horses have tested positive for EP in Middle Tennessee. All are connected to the same location in Rutherford County. The investigation is ongoing.

It may take as long as 30 days for an infected horse to test positive for the disease after exposure. Early clinical signs can range from weakness and lack of appetite to swelling of limbs and labored breathing. Horses that survive the acute phase continue to carry the parasite for an extended period of time. Horses that test positive for the disease are quarantined and may be euthanized.

Horses will not transmit the disease to other horses through casual contact. However, it is critical that horse handlers practice good biosecurity. If a needle is required, use a new sterile needle and syringe on every horse and clean and disinfect all equine equipment that may be contaminated with blood.

Some states and equine competitions require EP testing for entrance. If you plan to travel with your horse, check with the receiving state for current import requirements.

The state veterinarian is responsible for monitoring for and preventing the spread of animal disease, as well as promoting animal health in Tennessee. The office works with private veterinarians, animal pathologists and disease diagnostic laboratories to identify diseases and determine the cause of animal deaths.

AAA: Add Pedestrian Safety To Your Back-To-School List

One-Third of Child Pedestrian Fatalities Occur During After-School Hours

As summer comes to an end and the classroom roll call begins, 50 million children across the United States will head back to school. With 13 percent of those school children typically walking or biking to school, AAA warns drivers to be especially vigilant for pedestrians before and after school hours. The afternoon hours are particularly dangerous for walking children – over the last decade, nearly one-third of child pedestrian fatalities occurred between 3 and 7 p.m.

"For drivers, it may come as a surprise to see school buses and children walking near schools after the summer break, but that's why it's so important to be extra cautious," said Stephanie Milani, Tennessee Public Affairs Director, AAA – The Auto Club Group. "Motorists can do two simple things to help protect children. First, slow down. The difference between 25 mph and 35 mph can save a life. Second, stay alert. Taking your eyes off the road for just two seconds doubles your chance of crashing."

AAA offers six ways to keep kids safe this school year:

1. Slow down. Speed limits in school zones are reduced for a reason. A pedestrian struck by a vehicle traveling 25 mph is nearly two-thirds compared to a pedestrian struck by a vehicle traveling just 10 mph faster.
2. Eliminate distractions. Children often cross the road unexpectedly and may emerge suddenly between two parked cars. Research shows that taking your eyes off the road for just two seconds doubles your chances of crashing.
3. Reverse responsibly. Every vehicle has blind spots. Check for children on the sidewalk, driveway and around your vehicle before slowly backing up. Teach your children to never play in, under or around vehicles—even those that are parked.
4. Talk to your teen.

Car crashes are the leading cause of death for teens in the United States, and more than one-quarter of fatal crashes involving teen drivers occur during the after-school hours of 3 to 7 p.m. Get evidence-based guidance and tips at TeenDriving.AAA.com.

5. Come to a complete stop. Research shows that more than one-third of drivers roll through stop signs in school zones or neighborhoods. Always come to a complete stop, checking carefully for children on sidewalks and in crosswalks before proceeding.

6. Watch for bicycles. Children on bikes are often inexperienced, unsteady and unpredictable. Slow down and allow at least three feet of passing distance between your vehicle and the bicycle. If your child rides a bicycle to school, require that they wear a properly fitted bicycle helmet on every ride.

it," she recalled. "The only things we bought were coffee, tea, sugar and baking soda. If it was in the dirt, we had to grow it."

She gleaned her canning and dehydrating skills from her mother and her grandmother, Minnie E. Simmons.

"I learned very early. At first I stood on a stool and washed cans," said Fay, who still has that first blue ribbon for blackberries that she won as a junior high school student in about 1954. "We made jams and jellies. We canned green beans and tomatoes. We froze some things. We canned some meats."

"Dad was no slouch when it came to good eats either," she added, as Mr. Sadler was known for his country hams, which many a local politician sampled at their dinner table.

"For our income, we sold milk to the Murfreesboro Cheese Company. We also raised vegetables to sell to the market in Woodbury. We were known to have the first tomatoes on the market. I never ate a perfect tomato on the farm. My mother called them culls. Even today, I hate to cut up a perfect tomato."

After attending high school for two years in Woodbury, Fay graduated from Central High in Nashville and then earned a nursing degree at St. Thomas School of Nursing. She used those skills for 27 years at Nashville Memorial Hospital.

Her husband grew up in Lebanon, one of 10 children born to George and Viola Huddleston. Charles, a 1951 grad of Lebanon High, served four years in the Navy, got his engineering degree at Tennessee Tech and then enjoyed a lengthy career with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Married for 57 years, the couple has three sons: Charles, Barton and Jonathan. The first two are doctors and the latter an attorney. Fay and Charles also have nine grandchildren, all of whom Fay taught to can and dry food.

Among the most important lessons she learned from her mother, Fay shared, "You don't want to can anything that's over-ripe. You want to make sure your fruit and vegetables are fresh. My mother said, 'If it's not canning quality when you put it in the jar, it won't be canning quality when you take it out.'"

One other cardinal rule her mom taught her was the necessity of proper sterilization, and she also warned her about overcooking and not allowing anything to go to waste.

Fay advises those new to home canning, "You want to go strictly by the Ball book ['The Ball Blue Book of Preserving']. It's important to have the same head space on a jar. If you don't have proper head space, the lid can pop off in your pressure cooker. Your food can dissolve. For the proper seal you need proper head space, and this book will tell you."

She also regularly consults "Farm Garden to Kitchen," a cookbook published by the Wilson County Master Gardeners Association in 2004, which, alas, is out of print.

One day last month, she pickled grape tomatoes, large tomatoes, yellow tomatoes, cucumbers, okra, garlic and red pepper and sliced sweet pickles. She often uses sundried rosemary and fresh dill from her garden while making her pickles.

A superb organizer, she keeps a list of everything she cans, the date and the size of the jar.

For many years, Fay and her brothers taught food preservation and pioneer ways to the public, especially schoolchildren, at sites such as the Sam Davis Home in Smyrna and Cannonsburgh in Murfreesboro.

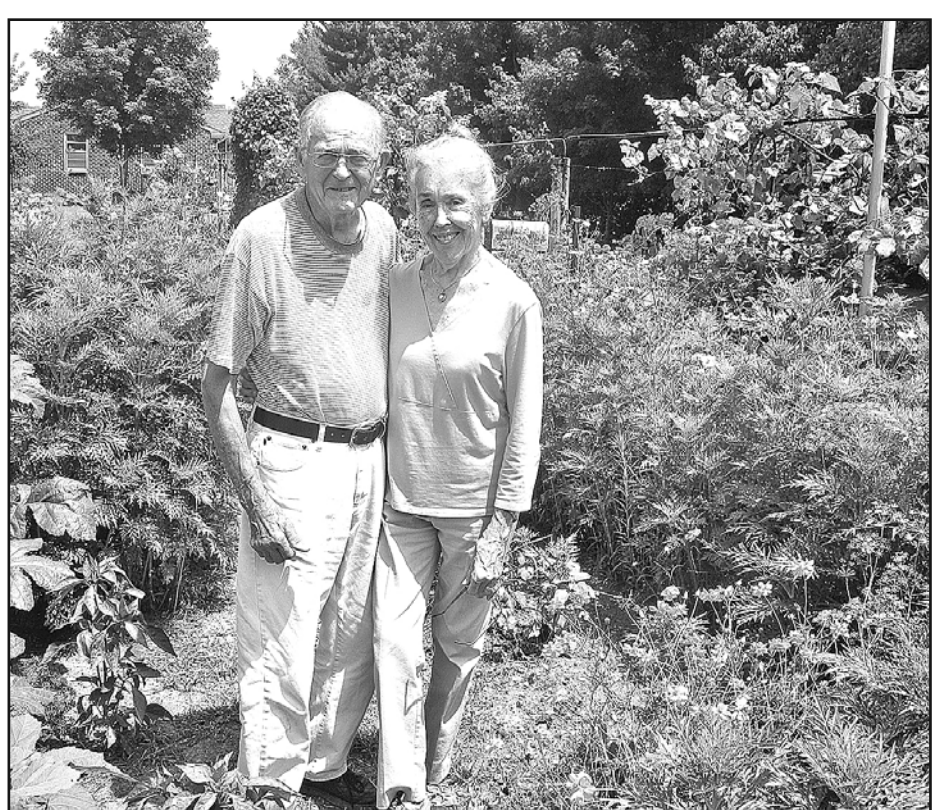

Now, she and other members of the local Master Gardeners group produce an annual Farm Day for elementary kids at the Ward Agricultural Center where the children learn about farm life and get a close-up view of farm animals.

As for the Wilson County Fair, Fay has scored a couple of best of show trophies in the fruit and vegetables sections and last year picked up one for her pickled green beans.

Pickles remain her favorite category. In the fair's food preservation division, class 2-pickles-canned, there are 19 categories (including bread and butter pickles, dill pickles, sweet pickles, peach pickles, pickled pears, pickled crabapples, pickled onions and pickled green tomatoes), and Fay normally enters each category.

This time round, she says, "I'll definitely do pickles and jams and jellies and probably enter relishes and vegetables and dehydrated vegetables and fruits and dehydrated herbs."

For those attending the Wilson County Fair and seeking pointers on gardening and canning, Huddleston will be in the Demonstration Garden 5-10 p.m. Monday, Aug. 22, to show the garden and share information.

Married for 57 years, Charles and Fay Huddleston pose in their backyard garden on the Wilson County Century Farm that has been in Charles' family since 1897. The couple always has had a garden and also taught their children and grandchildren the joys of gardening.

ACE is the place to get online degree at Motlow State now

Getting a college education for working adults just got easier at Motlow State Community College, thanks to the Adult College Express (ACE) program now being offered online.

"I am so excited to announce that the Motlow ACE program is offered online," said Dayron Deaton-Owens, coordinator of ACE and assistant professor of sociology and psychology at Motlow. "Three words sum up why (adult) students should choose the ACE program: flexibility, credibility and interactivity!"

According to Deaton-Owens, the ACE online program offers all the benefits of the traditional ACE program, a program designed to give a "fast-track" degree completion plan for busy adults and working parents. Additionally, the online ACE program allows the adult learner the convenience of learning on their own schedule.

Through the ACE online program, college courses can be completed in an accelerated five-week format, with students only needing to hit a weekly deadline.

Credibility is at the forefront of reasons why students are attracted to the Motlow ACE program, in that all online classes are taught by full-time Motlow faculty with experience in web course design and online instruction. Motlow does not contract out ACE online courses.

Deaton-Owens added, "A Motlow online ACE class is more than a mere digital correspondence course. The days of an isolated online experience are past. Motlow online ACE students participate in digital discussions, receive video and audio course content, and receive prompt feedback from their ACE professors.

"Motlow online courses boast an average student-to-teacher ratio of six to one, where," added Deaton-Owens, "You won't be another digital face in the crowd!"

The requirements for ACE are:

Complete a Motlow Application at mscc.edu

Submit official high school transcript or GED score

Submit official college transcript, if applicable

Take the COMPASS test, if required, unless previous collegiate-level work

Attend New Student orientation

Complete an ACE application at mscc.edu

Submit Hepatitis B form

Author documents historic significance of Camp Forrest

Before the establishment of Arnold Engineering Development Center and its unique aerospace testing facilities, part of the land Arnold Air Force Base sits on was used as one of the Army's largest training bases during World War II.

The camp, named Camp Forrest after Civil War Cavalry Confederate General Nathan Bedford Forrest, was active between 1941 and 1946.

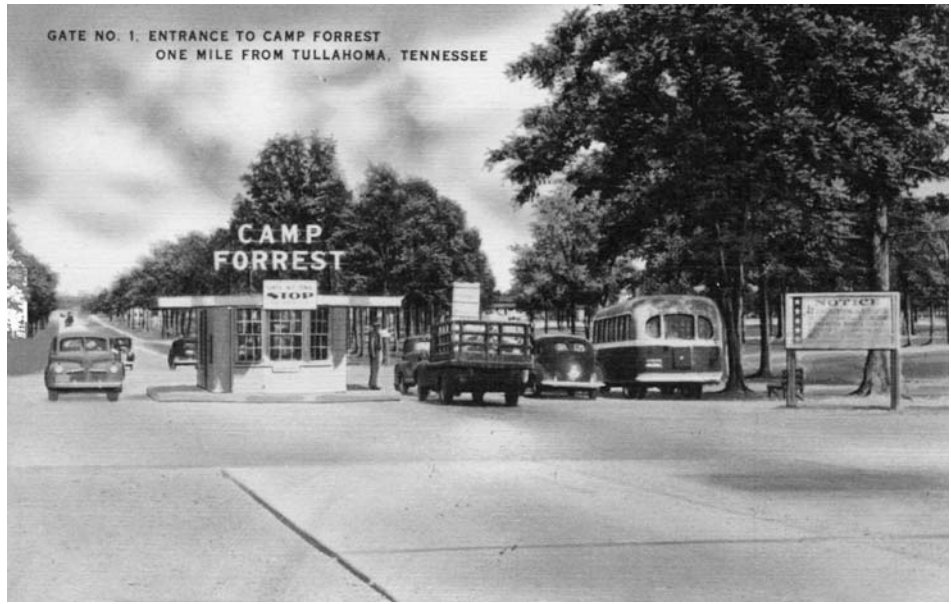

The area is rich in history, but not many publications exist chronicling the historic significance of Camp Forrest.

Elizabeth Taylor, an author from Georgia, wanted to change this and recently set out to research all she could about the camp. The end result is the book "Camp Forest," part of the Images of America series printed by Arcadia Publishing. It is a photographic history of the soldiers who were trained there, the civilians who worked there, and the prisoners of war housed there.

"There's so little available out there about it," she said. "Other than a few websites and the book, 'Reveille to Taps,' there's not much beyond that on Camp Forrest."

Taylor explained though her career has been in public administration, history has always been an interest of hers, and recently she learned a colleague's relative worked at Camp Forrest and became intrigued by the place.

"I found the stories and the campus in Tullahoma so interesting," she said.

One such story is that of Richard Weinert, an Army Private, who while at the camp wrote letters to his girlfriend, Evelyn York of Shelbyville.

"The letters had different drawings on the envelopes, and even though Shelbyville isn't that far, they wrote to each other multiple times a week," Taylor said. "Each envelope is its own work of art."

Weinert was sent to fight overseas, but upon returning married York and together they moved to Wisconsin. Not so surprisingly, Weinert found work as an illustrator for magazines.

A few of the envelopes with Weinert's drawings can be found in Taylor's book.

However, this work of nonfiction begins at Camp Peay, the precursor to Camp Forrest, in 1926 and takes the reader on a journey through the life of the camp, which spanned 85,000 acres and served a training area for infantry, artillery, engineer and signal organizations.

She notes in the introduction of the book the sheer size of the camp, "It cost approximately $36 million to build the 1,300 buildings, 55 miles of roads and 5 miles of railroad tracks the camp contained. The 1,300 buildings consisted of 408 barracks, 158 mess halls, 14 officer mess buildings, 19 guardhouses, 35 warehouses, 20 administration buildings, 30 officer quarters buildings, a bakery, an ice plant, an incinerator, a cold storage building, a laundry, a water and sewage treatment facility, a dental clinic, and a 2,000-patient hospital."

The book also illustrates how the town of Tullahoma as a whole was affected by the installation of Camp Forrest. In 1940 Tullahoma's population was 4,500. By the end of the war, the population increased to 75,000.

Then in 1946 after the war ended, Camp Forrest and William Northern Field, its air training base, were declared surplus property. Buildings were sold at auction, torn down and carted away. Water and sewage systems and electrical systems were sold as salvage. All that remained were roads, brick chimneys and concrete foundations.

Since not a lot is left of Camp Forrest, the book helps bring the camp back to life for readers through photos of the day to day events during its existence. Taylor invites everyone the opportunity to learn about this historically significant place through her book. "Camp Forrest" is available now at www.arcadiapublishing.com and local stores.

CAMPBELL COUNTY JUDGE INDICTED ON MISCONDUCT CHARGES

An investigation by Special Agents with the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation has resulted in the indictment of a Campbell County judge on charges of official misconduct.

On March 23, 2016, at the request of 3rd District Attorney General Dan Armstrong, TBI Special Agents began investigating Judge Amanda Sammons. During the course of the investigation, Agents developed information that from September 2014 to January 2015, Sammons made rulings that exceeded her official power as a General Sessions Court Judge.

On Wednesday, after hearing the facts of the case, a Campbell County Grand Jury returned indictments charging Sammons, 41, with four counts of Official Misconduct. Today, Sammons turned herself in to the Campbell County Jail and was released on her own recognizance.

High expectations set for cross country teams

DAVID HUNTER
Courier Sports Writer

Football kicks off with roar

School is back in session and that means one thing... football is back.

The Cannon County High School team opens the season on August 19 at home against Community High School from Unionville. Woodbury is excited! Last week, downtown was packed for the annual kickoff barbecue.

A huge group of supporters gathered on the Square August 5 to see the 2016 edition of the football team and cheerleaders. Every team at all age levels were introduced to the crowd. Those included the youth football and cheerleaders, the middle grade football team and cheerleaders, and the high school football team and cheerleaders.

It was a perfect way to kick off the season.

All of the student-athletes were pumped up to be introduced on the stage at the Courthouse. CCHS's football players were excited about 2016 wanting to put a tough 2015 behind them. This was the first step in doing it.

I have said many times in the space, the cheerleaders are athletes, too, and they work just as hard as the other teams on campus. That practice showed last week, because each cheer squad put on an impressive performance getting the crowd excited about the upcoming football season.

"For events like this it is kind of nerve racking sometimes, but once you get out there the adrenaline kicks in and it is really fun," senior cheerleader Tori Russell said. "I enjoy it a lot, and the other girls do too."

As for the football players, they enjoy the celebration, especially seeing the supporters who are there no matter the score. It is one of the things I enjoy about this job is seeing the fans get behind all of the Lions and Lionettes regardless of the team's record.

The student-athletes appreciate it also and that is why they get the special feeling each time they put on the Maroon and White for every game.

"You feel very prideful," CCHS football player Jayson Coon said. "You get a lot of pride from the community. I feel proud to wear this jersey, and very proud to be on this team."

CCMG cheerleader Emma McIntosh added, "It is amazing ever since I was little I dreamed of being a cheerleader. I am really glad to finally fulfill my dream."

CCMG football player Jackson Thomas said, "It feels good, because I am meeting new people from surrounding counties. It is fun to be riding with my friends and playing football for Cannon County."

High expectations are the norm for the Cannon County cross country program from third grade all the way to seniors in high school.

This year is no different as all three teams are looking for another trip to the state in 2016.

The CCHS team is filled with both youth and experience, even though only three seniors are back. However, they are some of the best in the mid-state. Lions and Lionettes head coach Marc Larson will rely on two seniors for the Lionettes, Hannah Whited and Devin Gilpatrick for the Lions to lead a bunch of talented newcomers, who are no strangers to success on the middle grade level.

"They are the heart of the team and they are blue collar runners," Larson said before training last week. "They show up every day and work hard, and it transfers over to the rest of the team."

Last season, Gaither and Whited were part of a Lionettes team, which advanced to the state meet as a team again in the short history of the program. While, the Lions barely missed out qualifying as a team against a really tough region. This year, the Lions are looking to make that next step, while the Lionettes want to continue the tradition of success.

"We just need to work really hard and give it our all in the race that counts," Whited said.

Gaither added, "If we keep our heads up, and we keep working hard out here. We are even going to get better as we keep pushing ourselves. We will be pretty good this year."

Gilpatrick added, "I think every time we do a race, especially at Regionals. We just need to think every person we pass is another point and all of those teams that barely beat us the year before have only beaten us by a small amount of points."

Both the Lions and Lionettes are loaded with talented youngsters, but they will be moving up from middle grade and the high school level. There are a lot of differences between the two, and the seniors along with the returnees have already given them needed advice on how to be successful on the high school level.

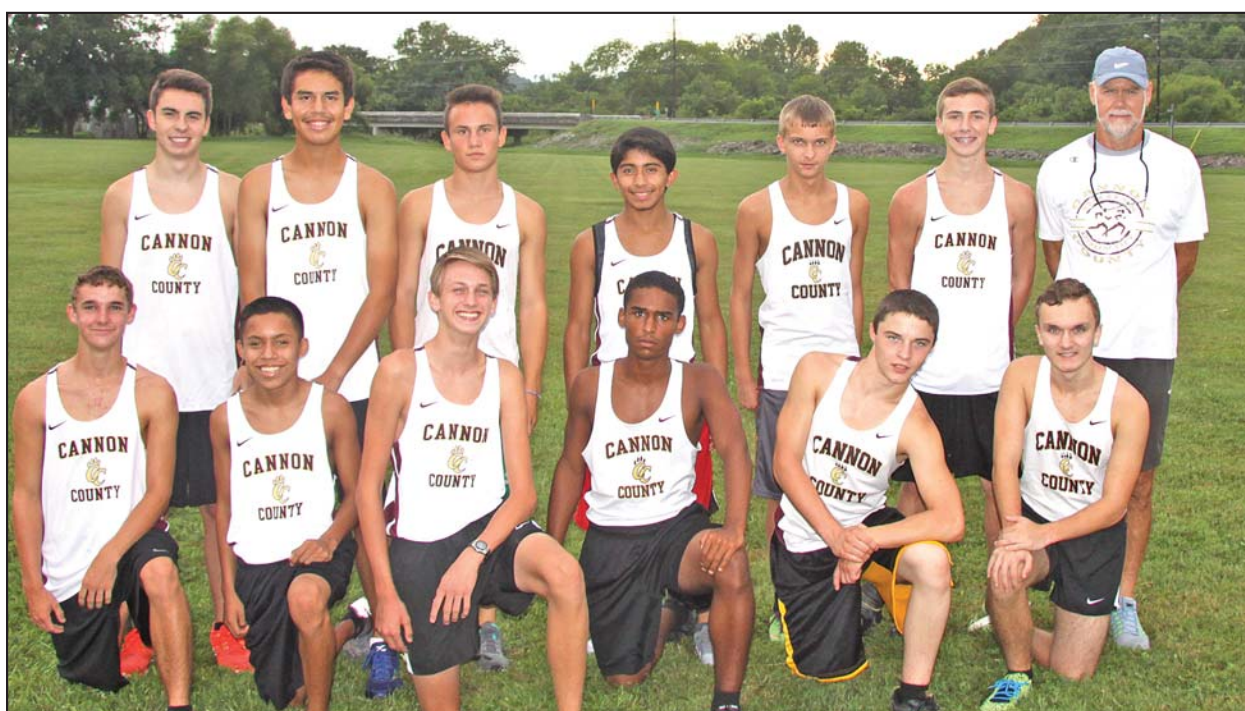

"Middle School races are two miles, and ours is three, so they are going to start out faster. So the advice I will give them is keep your pace, and do not start out fast and keep your splits even. Starting out fast is not good," Gilpatrick said.

As for the middle graders and elementary students, the process starts now as their expectations are just the same as their older counterparts. This is the fifth year of the very successful program led by Coach Brian Elrod. However, a new crop of student-athletes will be looking to continue the tradition of success.

"You got to want it," Elrod said. "It is a want-to sport. You do not have halftimes or timeouts. You do not get to sit around and catch your breath. Our events are all out and then you are done."

He also added about 80 percent of the team is new, but he has two reliable leaders who have been part of the reason for the success of the program in a short amount of time. They are eighth graders Zettie Elrod and Tyler Southworth. For the first time in team history, he selected captains, and he chose those two to lead the Junior Lions and Junior Lionettes this season.

The Junior Lions advanced to state with a fourth place finish in the region, but they want more in 2016, while the Junior Lionettes have been the standard bearer as the defending region champs and they want more of the same this season. "We need to run at an uncomfortable pace and get out there and beat everybody," Zettie Elrod said.

Southworth added, "We want to be No. 1 at Regionals."

Coach Elrod continued, "I do believe when we get on all cylinders and we get them to pack. I like to pack them up, and run them in one after another. I want to see nothing but Maroon and White jerseys coming in on top of each other. We are the defending regional champions. They are looking to get us in the girls division. They want us. If we go back and have a repeat performance like that, and we can. We have the females that are strong, and are getting stronger. Every year we try to place that much higher in the state championship.

The other Junior Lions include Jonathan Fann, Mason Tramel, James Vassar, Nick Foster, Gunter Pitts, Kyler Bryson, Daylon Dearry, DJ Moore and Jacob Foster. The Junior Lionettes include Ade Harwood, Kiley Hughes, Rudy Dearmond, Keilee Campbell, Emily Morris, Grace Campbell, Autumn Young, Alexis Rigsby, Sarah Hayes, Maddie Reed and Shelby Parker.

There is also an elementary school squad made up of third to fifth graders and they include Bella Bryson, Lia Bedwell, Amelia Gay, Emily and Alyssa Filyan, Kaitlyn Dodd, Lily Hughes and Bailey Campbell. The boys' team is AJ Armstrong, Boone Elrod, Antonio Botello, Waylon South, Matt Bane, Ethan Rigsby and Jon Andrew Bryson.

CCHS opens the regular season on August 27 at Smyrna's Sharp Springs Park for the Voyles Classic, while the middle graders and elementary runners begin August 20 at Macon County.

Bird Song Studios Welcomes Jonathan Brown for Solo Performance

Wed, Aug 17 @ 7:00 PM

Jonathan Brown is a guitarist/composer/teacher from Nashville TN. He has played on the world famous Grand Ole Opry and been an active member of the Chet Atkins Appreciation Society. Hearing the guitar styles of Chet Atkins at an early age, he was eager to learn the fingerstyle guitar technique. Jonathan has taken the fingerstyle technique and transformed it into his own style of playing that shows a wide variety of influence ranging from jazz to classical.

"Jonathan is a refreshing fingerstyle guitarist who

I really enjoy listening to. His playing is fluid and effortless with a great sense of swing and groove. Undeniably a great talent" -Brent Mason

"Jonathan is an old musical soul in a young person, with the depth of his guitar mentors, the discipline to master the guitar in a rare way, and a young spirit." -Muriel Anderson

"Jonathan Brown's fingerstyle artistry combines a wealth of musical influences with polished technique and passion to deliver the most riveting and entertaining solo guitar performance I've seen in years." -Dana Bourgeois

Jonathan has also been a recurring musician on the hit T.V. series "Nashville" with the Rayna James Band. He is a regular on the Grand Ole Opry and with Aubrey Peeples of the show Nashville.

Come meet and enjoy the talents of Jonathan Brown Wednesday August 17th at Bird Song Studios, 213 West High St, Woodbury.

Samson and Delilah

When Samson fell for Delilah, a woman from the Valley of Sorek, it marked the beginning of his downfall and eventual demise. It didn't take long for the rich and powerful Philistine rulers to learn of the affair and immediately pay a visit to Delilah. You see, Samson was judge over Israel at the time and had been taking out great vengeance on the Philistines—but that's another story.

Hoping to capture him, the Philistine leaders each offered Delilah a sum of money to collaborate with them in a scheme to uncover the secret of Samson's great strength.

Using her powers of seduction and deception, Delilah persistently wore down Samson with her repeated requests, until he finally divulged the crucial information. Having taken the Nazirite vow at birth, Samson had been set apart to God. As part of that vow, his hair was never to be cut.

When Samson told Delilah that his strength would leave him if a razor were to be used on his head, she cunningly crafted her plan with the Philistine rulers.

While Samson slept on her lap, Delilah called in a co-conspirator to shave off the seven braids of his hair. Subdued and weak, Samson was captured.

Rather than killing him, the Philistines preferred to humiliate him by gouging out his eyes and subjecting him to hard labor in a Gaza prison. As he slaved at grinding grain, his hair began to grow, but the careless Philistines paid no attention. And in spite of his horrible failures and sins of great consequence, Samson's heart now turned to the Lord. He was humbled. He prayed to God—a first—and God answered.

During a pagan sacrificial ritual, the Philistines had gathered in Gaza to celebrate. As was their custom, they paraded their prized enemy prisoner into the temple to entertain the jeering crowds. Samson braced himself between the two central support pillars of the temple and pushed with all his might. Down came the temple, killing Samson and all of the people in it.

Tennessee Receives Grant to Fund More Legal Services for Tennessee Seniors

Older Tennesseans will have improved access to legal services thanks to a federal grant received by the Tennessee Commission on Aging and Disability from the U.S Administration for Community Living.

This grant will provide funds each year for three years to study the legal needs of older Tennesseans and then develop an integrated system for helping at-risk older adults. The total award of the grant is just a little more than $300,000.

The "Model Approaches to Statewide Legal Assistance Systems-Phase I" program is a partnership between the Tennessee Commission on Aging and Disability (TCAD) and the Tennessee Alliance for Legal Services (TALS). The grant is designed to help Tennessee respond more effectively to legal issues affecting seniors with significant social or economic needs.

In Tennessee, the funding will be used to develop services specifically for seniors through a tollfree statewide legal hotline, as well as to provide legal training and outreach. Another goal of the grant is to build and strengthen partnerships throughout the state with the court system, the Administrative Office of the Courts, Adult Protective Services, Legal Aid Societies, state and local bar associations, the Area Agencies on Aging and Disability, and others. This will lead to a more coordinated and efficient system for legal services and supports for the elderly.

TCAD Director Jim Shulman emphasizes that, "As the number of older adults living in Tennessee continues to grow, more and more older Tennesseans are in need of legal assistance with issues ranging from income security and planning documents to abuse and protective services. The importance of access to quality legal assistance and supports cannot be overestimated. This grant provides Tennessee an opportunity to support this growing need and to strengthen and enhance our collaborations with public, private, and non-profit community partners."

"Since 1977, TALS, a statewide nonprofit, has been dedicated to advocating for justice for disadvantaged Tennesseans and serving the public interest by improving access to civil legal assistance. This grant provides us an exciting opportunity to enhance the services we provide to the elderly population," says Ann Pruitt, Executive Director of TALS. At the end of the three-year grant period, TCAD will prepare a report on the cost-effective, well integrated legal services systems developed as a direct result of this grant.

Murfreesboro City Council OK's Solid Waste Strategic Plan Consultant

In conjunction with Rutherford County Government, The Murfreesboro City Council unanimously approved the selection of Gershman, Brickner and Bratton (GBB) as the strategic plan consultant to develop a 20-year plan for solid waste collection and disposal in Rutherford County.

GBB was selected under a competitive sealed proposal released March 29, 2016 and received May 5, 2016. The City's share of the cost, developed through a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), is $125,050. The total shared cost is $250,100. Other cities in Rutherford County, Smyrna, La Vergne and Eagleville, could share in the cost if they elect to participate in the decision-making phase of the study.

Privately-owned Middle Point Landfill on East Jefferson Pike in Walter Hill, where 19 counties, including Rutherford County have disposed solid waste since 1989, is expected to close in approximately eight to nine years. Middle Point opened in 1987. Murfreesboro Mayor Shane McFarland and Rutherford County Mayor Ernest Burgess organized a planning committee in April 2015 to address plans for disposing solid waste when Middle Point reaches capacity no later than 2025. The committee concluded that a strategic plan guided by a consultant was necessary.

The committee defined the consultant's scope of work to include:

1. Defining a baseline of the existing solid waste management operations.
2. Identifying, analyzing and evaluating options.
3. Developing strategy recommendations.
4. Prepare an action plan for the first two to five years.

Under an agreement negotiated in 1995, both the City and County have received free disposal of solid waste. The County receives an annual host fee of $1.20 per ton for receiving out-of-county solid waste disposed at Middle Point Landfill. In 2014, more than 71 percent of the 909,125 tons of solid waste received at Middle Point Landfill came from 18 counties outside Rutherford county.

A number of options for disposing of solid waste by the City and County have been discussed, including recycling, transferring the waste out-of-county, a mixed-processing facility, gasification, and waste-to-energy. The committee determined that studying the viable and complex options requires competing expertise in the solid waste industry.

The study by GBB is expected to take eleven months.

For more information on the Solid Waste Department, visit the department webpage at <http://www.murfreesborotn.gov/Index.aspx?NID=256> or call 615-893-3681.

Nationally-Renowned Violinist works with area youth

Stefan Petrescu joins the Faculty of the Ethos Youth Ensembles

Local youth musicians are in for a treat this year. Romanian-born violinist Stefan Petrescu, who has performed in France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Hungary, and the United States both in recital and as an orchestra soloist, will bring his decades of experience to the students of the Ethos Youth Ensembles, a youth musical program based in Murfreesboro that serves over 140 students, grades 3-12, from around Middle Tennessee.

Mr. Petrescu has won numerous prizes as a violin soloist in his native Romania. He was concertmaster of the Constanta Chamber Orchestra in Romania on their tours to America and Western Europe and has worked extensively with the Nashville Symphony Orchestra.

Stefan is joining the Ethos Youth Ensembles faculty as String Specialist for the 2016-2017 school year and will work with students in the organization's youth orchestras.

Dr. Brian Russell, Music Director of the Ethos Youth Ensembles, is excited for the students to learn from Mr. Petrescu. "Stefan is the perfect combination of a giving heart and musical genius," said Dr. Russell. "I know the students will take their playing to a new level under his teaching."

Mr. Petrescu, who is concertmaster of the Murfreesboro Symphony Orchestra, also welcomes this opportunity.

Auditions for the Ethos orchestras and jazz ensemble are in late August and the Ethos Children's Choirs begin their season after Labor Day with open rehearsals for anyone interested. For more information on the Ethos Youth Ensembles or to schedule your audition, visit www.EthosMusic.net or call 615.668.7480.

Fall Care for a Healthier, Better Looking Lawn

By Melinda Myers

As summer fades into fall it is time to help lawns recover from summer stress and prepare for the winter ahead.

Continue to mow your lawn as long as it continues to grow. Grow cool season grasses like bluegrass, fescue and ryegrass 2-1/2 to 3-1/2 inches tall. Warm season grasses like bermudagrass, carpetgrass, centipedegrass and zoysia should be grown at 1 to 2 inches tall while St. Augustine should be a bit higher, 2 to 3 inches, for best results. Taller grass is better able to compete with weeds. And there is no need to cut it shorter for the health of your lawn.

Mow often, removing no more than one third the total height. Leave these short clippings on the lawn. They will quickly break down, adding organic matter, moisture and nutrients to the soil.

And as you mow you can take care of all those fall leaves at the same time. Shred the fall leaves and allow them to remain on the lawn. As long as you can see the leaf blades through the shredded leaves your lawn will be fine. And just like the clippings, they add nutrients and organic matter to the soil.

Fertilize your lawn with a low nitrogen, slow release fertilizer e Milorganite (milorganite.com). University research has shown that fall fertilization is the most beneficial practice for home lawns. Less disease problems and slower weed growth means your lawns - not the weeds and pests - benefit from the nutrients. Fall fertilization also helps lawns recover from the stresses of summer because it encourages deep roots and denser growth that can better compete with weeds and tolerate disease and insects.

Those in colder regions growing cool weather bluegrass, fescue and perennial ryegrass should fertilize around Labor Day and sometime between Halloween and Thanksgiving, but before the ground freezes.

Homeowners in warmer climates growing warm season grasses like centipede, Bermuda and zoysia should fertilize around Labor Day. Apply a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer then and in early October if overseeding the lawn. Make sure the last fall application is at least one month prior to the average first killing frost. Fertilizing later can result in winter damage.

Weeds often gain a foothold in the lawn during the stressful summer months. A healthy lawn is the best defense. Even with proper care weeds can bully their way into the lawn. Try digging, root and all, to remove small populations of weeds. Weeding can be a great tension reducer and physical workout.

If this isn't possible, consider spot treating weeds or problem areas with a broadleaf weedkiller. Those looking for more organic options may want to try one of the more eco-friendly products with the active ingredient Fehedta or Hedta. Whether using traditional or environmentally-friendly products read and follow label directions carefully. All these products are plant killers and can cause damage to other plants if not applied properly.

Fall, when the lawn is actively growing, is the best time to core aerate or dethatch northern lawns suffering from thatch build up or compacted soil. Thatch is a layer of partially decomposed dead grass plants that prevents water and nutrients from reaching the grass roots. Use a dethatching machine to remove thatch layers greater than one half an inch. Overseeding your lawn in the fall helps increase thickness and improves the overall health and appearance of the lawn. For best results, overseed directly after aerating.

Begin implementing some of these strategies and soon you'll be on your way to a healthier, better looking lawn for the coming growing season.

SUSPECT CHARGED IN SHOOTING DEATH OF UNDERCOVER TBI AGENT

Special Agents from the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation have arrested and charged a Jackson man in connection to the shooting death Tuesday afternoon of a TBI Special Agent during the course of an ongoing drug investigation.

Preliminary information indicates Special Agent De'Graun Frazier was one of several agents working alongside the Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force during a controlled buy Tuesday around 2 p.m. in a vehicle in the area of Brianfield Cove. During the exchange, a subject in the backseat of the car, identified as Brenden Tyler Burns, whom the agent met for the purposes of purchasing illicit drugs, produced a firearm in an attempt to rob the agent and an informant sitting in the front seat.

During the exchange, Burns fired at least once, striking Agent Frazier, who subsequently died at Jackson-Madison County General Hospital. Shortly after the shooting, law enforcement officers apprehended Burns (DOB 3-10-93) a short distance away in the area of Tinker Hill Cove.

This morning, TBI Agents charged him with one count of Murder in the Perpetration of Attempted Aggravated Robbery. He is currently being held in the Madison County Jail without bond.

NBCI Presents First 'Fire Bird Conservation' Awards

Region II Wildlife Manager Wes Winton was recently recognized by the National Bobwhite Conservation Initiative during their annual meeting of the nation's top bobwhite experts in Iowa. Region II is Middle Tennessee.

Award recipients are chosen by the respective NBCI-member state's quail coordinator for their contributions to that state's efforts toward habitat-based restoration of wild bobwhite populations.

NBCI Director Don McKenzie says, "We wanted to provide an avenue for states to recognize and thank those making meaningful contributions to their science-based restoration agendas, illustrate the variety of those contributing to the bobwhite restoration cause and perhaps help encourage others to join in," McKenzie continued.

The award's name symbolizes the historic reliance of bobwhites on fire in much of its range to maintain the landscape in an "early successional" stage, that is, in the native grasses, wildflowers and "weeds" providing bobwhites with suitable habitat. Both wildfires and fires intentionally set by landowners to clear farm fields and woodlots historically resulted in abundant habitat for bobwhites, as well as numerous other wildlife species. The term "fire bird" in relation to bobwhites was first coined by naturalist Herbert Stoddard, who researched bobwhites and worked to restore bobwhite habitat in the early 20th Century.

Today, "prescribed" fire under controlled conditions by trained professionals has become an increasingly important tool for helping create and manage habitat for bobwhites, as well as a suite of songbirds and other wildlife.

Savvy Senior

How to Find Financial Assistance for Elderly Parents
Dear Savvy Senior,
Where can I go to locate financial assistance programs for seniors? I have been helping support my 70-year-old mother the past couple years and really can't afford to do it any longer. Feeling Overwhelmed

Dear Overwhelmed,
There are actually a wide variety of financial assistance programs and government benefits that can help seniors in need. But what's available to your mom will depend on her income level and where she lives.

To find out what types of assistance your mom may be eligible for, just go to BenefitsCheckUp.org, a free, confidential Web tool designed for adults 55 and older and their families. It will help you locate federal, state and private benefits programs that can assist with paying for food, medications, utilities, health care, housing and other needs. This site – created by the National Council on Aging – contains more than 2,000 programs across the country.

To identify benefits, you'll first need to fill out an online questionnaire that asks a series of questions like your mom's date of birth, her ZIP code, expenses, income, assets, veteran status, the medications she takes and a few other factors. It takes about 15 minutes.

Once completed, you'll get a report detailing all the programs and services she may qualify for, along with detailed information on how to apply.

Some programs can be applied for online, some have downloadable application forms that you can print and mail, fax or email in, and some require that you contact the program's administrative office directly (they provide the necessary contact information).

If you don't have Internet access, you can also get help in-person at any of the 47 Benefit Enrollment Centers located throughout the U.S. Call 888-268-6706 or visit NCOA.org/centerforbenefits/ to locate a center in your area. Some centers also offer assistance over the phone.

Types of Benefits

Depending on your mom's income level and where she lives, here are some benefits that she may be eligible for:

Food assistance: Programs like the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) can help pay for groceries. The average monthly SNAP benefit is currently around $127 per person. Other programs that may be available include the Emergency Food Assistance Program, Commodity Supplemental Food Program, and the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program.

Healthcare: Medicaid and Medicare Savings Programs can help or completely pay for out-of-pocket health care costs. And, there are special Medicaid waiver programs that provide in-home care and assistance.

Prescription drugs: There are hundreds of programs offered through pharmaceutical companies, government agencies and charitable organizations that help lower or eliminate prescription drug costs, including the federal Low Income Subsidy known as "Extra Help" that pays premiums, deductibles and prescription copayments for Medicare Part D beneficiaries.

Utility assistance: There's the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), as well as local utility companies and charitable organizations that provide assistance in lowering home heating and cooling costs.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI): Administered by the Social Security Administration, SSI provides monthly payments to very low-income seniors, age 65 and older.
