

Dead horse violates local men

A Cannon County father and son who received extensive regional news coverage in late 2009 when multiple dead or dying animals were found on their 100-acre farm are facing new charges.

The father, Charles Eugene Howland, and his son, Charles Clint Howland, have each been charged with Violation of Probation following an investigation which began when a dead horse was discovered on their property off Jim Cummings Hwy. on April 11.

According to Bruce Steelman, County County Director for the UT Extension Office, a worker for a local construction company was doing repairs to a home in the area of the Howland's farm and while doing so observed a horse which appeared to be dead lying in a creek.

Steelman said that Marshall LaFever with the Tennessee Department of Agriculture was contacted to investigate the report. When LaFever arrived, along with a Cannon County Sheriff's deputy, the horse had been moved to another location on the property, Steelman said.

The horse did not appear to have been dead for a long period of time, Steelman said.

The Howlands were convicted of Aggravated Cruelty to Animals and Cruelty to Animals in Cannon County Circuit Court on Aug. 5, 2011. They were arrested on Nov. 24, 2009 after over 80 dead and starving horses and other animals were found on their property and seized by the Humane Society of the United States following an investigation by the Cannon County Sheriff's Department and the Tennessee Department of Agriculture.

Both men were placed on probation for two and a half years by Judge Robert E.

Rabies found in adopted dog

A local dog which had likely been bitten by a skunk was recently found to have rabies.

The dog was the pet of a family who reportedly lives in the vicinity of Cannon County High School.

"We have confirmed a case of rabies in a dog in Cannon County," Bill Christian, Associate Director, Communications and Media Relations, Tennessee Department of Health said Thursday.

"The dog had recently been adopted by a family and was not known to have been vaccinated when it became sick," Christian added. "Reports indicate that there was contact with a skunk several weeks before the dog became ill.

"While no one was bitten, a juvenile in the family had repeated close contact with the dog and we are recommending the child get prophylactic treatment as a precaution," Christian said.

Christian added the state health department will continue to work with the family to provide guidance as needed.

Christian also said the Tennessee Department of Health would like to remind everyone to keep their pets up to date on rabies vaccinations.

According to Dr. Gayle Tate of the Cannon County Animal Clinic, the dog had to be euthanized. A test by the state health department confirmed the canine had rabies.

Dr. Tate said a case of canine rabies is rare in Cannon County.

"This is the first case I have seen in quite a few years," Dr.

Con artists scaring people out of money

Con artists no longer need to come to your door to put the touch on you.

By using high-tech gadgets such as cell phones and computers, they can prey on you from anywhere in the world.

Local law enforcement officials say a number of Cannon County citizens have lost money recently by being the victim of telephone or Internet scams.

One of the victims told the Cannon Courier last week she was so scared when she received a call on her cell phone from a scammer it frightened her into sending money.

"They call people and tell them that within 24 hours they are going to press charges against them," the victim, who the Courier is not identifying, said.

"The caller said he was with a law firm in Florida and that they have contacted Tennessee authorities and that they have charges pending against you. If you don't send them money within two hours they will start legal proceedings."

A Courier reporter listened to a voice message left on the victim's cell phone by the scammer. It warned her that if she did not send the money police would show up at her house or place of employment and arrest her. The Nine Southern gospel groups will share glorious gospel sounds at Coming Home with Three Parts Grace on May 12 in Auburntown.

"We will have Southern gospel music in several different forms. We will have bluegrass gospel as well as a group of choirs coming in and also some of the traditional Southern gospel groups with us. Just a fun fellowship day," said Tina Nichols Fletcher, who forms the trio Three Parts Grace along with Susan and David England.

"This is a gospel music day. We're not trying to make any money. It's just a day for people to come out and enjoy gospel music," Fletcher said of the free event which begins at 1 p.m. "We're kind of going into this a little blind on faith because it's the first one."

Two African-American choirs will perform during the day: the Society Hill Missionary Baptist Church Choir from Macomb, Miss., and the Hickory Valley Missionary Baptist Church Choir from the Kittrell community in Rutherford County.

"Ernie Dawson and Heirline and our trio are doing kind of the newer style of Southern gospel, not the contemporary praise and worship but what you're hearing on the radio right now on the Four Cannon teachers to help lead Common Core transition

The Tennessee Department of Education is putting the work of the Common Core transition into the hands of those who know best — the state's top teachers.

As Tennessee gears up to implement the Common Core State Standards in grades 3-8 math next school year, more than 200 teachers from across the state will spend their summer as Core Coaches, helping colleagues in their districts navigate the transition to the rigorous standards.

Selected as Core Coaches for Cannon County were Gayron Franklin, Crystal Hill, Jamie Bowman and Bradley Underwood.

"This is an exciting moment for Tennessee as we take the important concepts of the Common Core State Standards directly to classroom teachers where they will have the biggest impact for children," said Emily Barton, assistant commissioner for curriculum and instruction for the Tennessee Department of Education.

More than 400 teachers applied to be Core Coaches, and the 205 chosen went through a rigorous application process. Kicking off the transition process to new standards and assessments, they will now spend the spring training to lead sessions this summer for more than 11,000 teachers across the state.

The Core Coaches were selected by the previously announced Common Core Leadership Council, a group of 13 educators from across Tennessee who advise and lead the state's transition to the Common Core across all grades.

John Prince, a member of the Leadership Council from Trenton Special School District, opened a recent training of Core Coaches with the charge that Tennessee educators embrace the Common Core as an opportunity to empower students and support their development as thinkers.

"I hope we will see that changing our view of mathematics and the way it is discussed in classrooms is not just another transition or another program but a chance to really do something right for our children."

Leadership Council member Vicki Kirk said she looked forward to working with the Core Coaches on the standards that she believes will transform teaching across the nation.

"Part of it is learning the standards, but part of it is learning a new way to teach," she said. "I am inspired by the Common Core because it is based on the philosophy that all students can learn. And they will."

The Common Core State Standards are a set of standards for math and English-Language Arts that were developed by state leaders to ensure that every student graduates high school prepared for college or the workforce. The standards are designed to set clear expectations of what students should know in each grade and subject. States voluntarily chose whether to adopt the standards, and to date, 46 states, including the District of Columbia, have done so.

The initiative is led by the National Governors Association, the Council of Chief State School Officers, and Achieve.

Tennessee plans to implement the Common Core English-Language Arts standards in 2013-14, and students will take new assessments reflecting the Common Core standards in both math and English in 2014-15. Core coaches for English-Language Arts, high school math, early grades and specialized disciplines will be selected this fall.

Lack of work new road to foreclosure

The word foreclosure has been said so many times in the past few years it's easy to gloss over it as something that just happens. But as those who are touched by it, work with it and understand those who are going through it will tell you, it's a long, hard road. And these days, it is most commonly being walked by those who, through no fault of their own, are unemployed.

We owe it to ourselves to understand this road and the new turn it is taking. Given that the economy is only slowly recovering and layoffs are still common, many we know and care about-and maybe even ourselves-could be walking it soon, if not already.

First of all, let's remember how it started. At the beginning of the Great Recession, many of Affordable Housing Resources' (AHR) foreclosure customers were those caught in a home buying system that was failing itself. Some were trapped by ballooning payments after their adjustable rate mortgage reset. Others had followed their eyes instead of their wallet and bought more home than they could afford. And there were many others who had been given a sub-prime or even a predatory mortgage they would never be able to pay off.

However, by 2010 the wave of foreclosures caused by the broken and abused home buying system passed. Since then, the majority of the foreclosure customers we see are in trouble due to job loss.

One of the documents AHR reviews to help its foreclosure customers, through the various Federal programs administered by Tennessee Housing Development Agency, is the Separation Notice, which identifies why their former employer had to let them go. "Lack of work" is becoming the dominate reason for unemployment on the Separation Notice. In other words, these homeowners were good and faithful workers but one day they were told there was no more work for them to do.

We need to be aware of our natural tendency to separate ourselves from those going through a difficult situation. Many are facing foreclosure due only to "lack of work." Not lack of character, not lack of being responsible, not lack of being accountable, not lack of faithfulness-but simply, lack of work in this difficult economy many of us are struggling to get through.

These homeowners facing foreclosure have lived in their homes for years, even decades. They have been steadily and dependably employed their entire adult lives, usually by the same employer. They have been responsible and accountable citizens and neighbors. But now, many just can't find a job of any kind. And many who are working again are doing so at lower salary levels, which makes it difficult to meet mortgage payments that were established when they had a higher income.

Until the economy turns around in a significant way, each of us needs to be mindful that more and more people will be forced to walk this road alone. It is our duty as citizens, neighbors and friends to have compassion-not disdain-for these people, remembering it could just have as easily been us.

Plainly, don't make them feel guilty for their situation, for many it isn't their fault. And then help them. There are a growing number of resources and solutions that can make that hard road a bit easier.

For information on Affordable Housing Resources' various free foreclosure programs you can call 615-251-0025 ext 0.

County receives good A2 bond rating

We're extremely pleased that, after a rigorous review process, Moody's Investors' Service has recognized Cannon County's financial strength with an A2 Bond Rating. That "A2" rating tells businesses interested in doing business with Cannon County that the county is a viable entity and are in the low risk bracket (like your own personal credit score).

The County Commission is looking towards the future and the financial security of our taxpayers. With the new rating from the Moody's company we will save $63,718.30 on the upcoming fiscal year on bond insurance alone. Not to forget that the county's name has been placed into the system to be seen by companies world-wide; companies who are looking to expand their businesses or invest their monies into a county's growth which has been proven to be on their way towards financial soundness like Cannon County. These companies look to Moody's for a complete and concise financial statement of reliability and risk in doing business.

The Cannon County Commissioners have focused on debt management and has recently paid off three long term, high interest loan payments; in doing this the county has saved $400,000.00 that we would have paid over the length of the note..

We have made and passed a debt policy that when followed will make sure any loan, any contract, will insure that there is complete transparency and a non-conflict matters involved with the action taken. This also includes the practice of not making any loan(s) where the county would be paying on the loan(s) long past the usefulness of the property in question. Why pay on something you can no longer use?

Another plus for the county, the commission is looking to change the way the daily business is done here in Cannon County government. This includes the school system, roads, emergency medical, fire and Sheriff's departments. The State of Tennessee is going to mandate a financial center to conduct the county's money matters by having a centralized office to oversee the finances of our county. The commission was working to get that done before the state passes the legislation.

The commission is meeting 12 times a year now compared to the four times a year it had been meeting. More business is coming to the attention of the commission and they are working hard to make this county as financially sound as it is friendly. Contact your commissioners to tell them what a fine job they are doing (or not) doing. Watch for meeting schedules and come to the courthouse to see your commission in action. Dates and agendas are published on WBRY and in the Cannon Courier.

Should preachers, pulpits and politics mix?

My old farm daddy, may the Good Lord rest his weary hard-working soul, had it right when he instructed his children to "go lock the smokehouse" any time a bragging holier-than-thou sanctified saint came visiting.

"Children of mine, don't trust nobody that has to tell you how saintly they are, or command how to live your life," Daddy Whittle preached.

Daddy's fateful words came in 1950...and are about the extent of my theological upbringing. As children, we were required to attend church, and commanded to lock the smokehouse when those "holy-of-holy" types stepped foot on our acreage.

Today, I think I know what my wise man-of-the-soil parent would be "thinking" regarding the antics of America's current religion "czars" attempting to force their brand of worshipful political indoctrination on a nation founded on Freedom of Religion.

"Disgraceful" is one word, I think Daddy would use.

For example, one of the Baptists' so-called shining stars recently lost his lustre.

Southern Baptist Convention leader Dr. Richard Land has admitted to "plagiarism" after publicly criticizing some black ministers and President Obama with fanning racial flames in the on-going Trayvon Martin shooting death now being investigated in Florida.

The words Dr. Land chose to make his charge of politicizing the dreadful shooting were "gin up" the black vote. Unfortunately, the admitted word thief's broadcast goes out through more than 600 radio stations.

Never mind that the admitted-plagiarist has served high in the Southern Baptists' hierarchy for years...

How high? So lofty, he's been the reigning president of the Southern Baptist Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission since 1988.

What a judgmental giant joke, when it was disclosed recently that the Reverend Doctor of Divinity of All Things "Ethical" Land seriously plagiarized himself in front of an entire nation, including his fellow 16 million Baptists, myself included.

Yes, I attend and maintain membership in a Southern Baptist congregation, but it's a group that does not habitually "judge" and ultimately "condemn" those of unlike beliefs and faith.

As a professional newspaper columnist for decades, I know journalists who have been fired for less than what Dr. Land admittedly stole out of a newspaper in Washington, D.C.

Righteously, it was a "Baptist" blogger who caught the man of the cloth's dirty linen, i.e., before Reverend-in-charge-of-Baptist-ethics Land "confessed" to mere mortals that he had "plagiarized."

"I was sloppy...I apologize...We're going to move on," the denominational upper-crust-theologian theologized.

He needs to "move on" out.

It's not just Baptist preachers and Catholic priests who commit seriously-flawed deeds, while hiding behind the pulpit of alleged sanctification.

As part of my journalism career in Nashville in the late 1980s, stunned was I to learn the cops had arrested the Rev. David Terry, charging him with "murder."

It had been a matter of weeks since Rev. Terry attempted to retain me to write and publish a church newspaper for him and his Pentecostal congregation. Although I needed the money, something told me not to take preacher Terry on as a client.

How heinous was this crime?

So heinous, the Rev. Terry, being a butcher by trade, chopped his victims' head off, before attempting to burn his church and the corpse, with an ultimate goal of attempting to make his congregation, family and authorities believe it was he, the preacher, lying torched and beheaded in the church's still-smoldering cinders.

Whittle's Words
Of Wisdom

What happened to the detached head? The minister confessed he took the head and dumped it in Kentucky's Barkley Lake. The head was never found.

What truly "crossed my journalist eyes" in mystical religious astonishment, was when one of Rev. Terry's flock was quoted thusly in the news media: "Rev. Terry will have a powerful ministry within the prison walls."

A close friends' child had been baptized by the preacher.

"Our son, Terry, was immersed by Rev. Terry prior to the preacher committing this awful crime," confirmed Nashville song writer John Holmes.

Well, that didn't appear to happen, for ultimately, Pastor Terry committed suicide by hanging himself in a prison cell.

My blood brother, H. Van Whittle, was a disciple of two preacher-types. Shamefully, both ordained men fell in disgrace in the early 1990s as my brother lay on his death bed at the VA hospital in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

First, it was (then) Assembly of God TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart caught with whiskey and a "lady of the night" down in Louisiana.

Brother had also stoked a friendship with a VA chaplain as they prayed against the ravages of brothers' Crohn's Disease and bone cancer. A few days before brother Van's death, sadly he witnessed police taking the chaplain out of the hospital in chains, on charges of child pornography.

I happened to be standing beside my brother's sickbed when this happened, as my brother prophesied: "Little brother (me), it just goes to show we can't keep our eyes on man..."

Amen!

It only makes sense

Investing timidly may shield you against risk...but not against inflation

A Word Of Advice

SHAWN SHORT

When is being risk-averse too risky for the sake of your retirement? After you conclude your career or sell your company, you have a right to be financially cautious. At the same time, you can risk being a little too cautious - some retirees invest so timidly that their portfolios barely yield any return.

For years, financial institutions pitched CDs, money market funds and interest checking accounts as risk-devoid places to put your dollars. That sounded good when interest rates were tangible. As the benchmark interest rate is now negligible, these conservative options offer minimal potential to grow your money.

America saw 3.0% inflation in 2011; the annualized inflation rate was down to 2.7% in March. Today, the yield on many CDs, money market funds and interest checking accounts can't even keep up with that. Moreover, the Consumer Price Index doesn't tell the whole story of inflation pressures - retail gasoline prices rose 9.9% during 2011, for example.^{1,2}

With the federal funds rate at 0%-0.25%, a short-term CD might earn 0.5% interest today. On average, those who put money in long-term CDs at the end of

2007 (the start of the Great Recession) saw the income off those CDs dwindle by two-thirds by the end of 2011.³

Retirees shouldn't give up on growth investing. In the 1990s and 2000s, the common philosophy was to invest for growth in your thirties and forties and then focus on wealth preservation as you neared retirement. (Of course, another common belief back then was that you could pencil in stock market gains of 10% per year.)

After the stock market malaise of the 2000s, attitudes changed - out of necessity. Many people in their fifties, sixties and seventies still need to accumulate wealth for retirement even as they need to withdraw retirement savings.

Because of that reality, many retirees can't refrain from growth investing. They need their portfolios to yield at least 3% and preferably much more. If their portfolios bring home an inadequate yield, they risk losing purchasing power as consumer prices increase at a faster rate than their incomes.

Do you really want to live on yesterday's money? Could you live today on the income you earned in 2004 or 1996? You wouldn't dare try, right? Well, this is the essentially the dilemma many retirees find themselves in: they realize that a) their CDs and money market accounts are yielding almost nothing, b) they are withdrawing more than they are earning, c) their retirement fund is shrinking, d) they must live on less.

In recent U.S. history, inflation has averaged 2-4%. What if that holds true for the next 20 years?⁴

For the sake of argument, let's say that consumer prices rise 4% annually for the next 20 years. That doesn't sound so bad - you can probably live with that. Or can you?

At 4% inflation for 20 years, today's dollar will be worth 44 cents in 2032. Today's $1,000 king or queen bed will cost about $2,200 in 2032. Today's $23,000 sedan will run more than $50,000.⁴

Beyond prices for durable goods, think of the cost of health care. Think of the income taxes you pay. When you add those factors into the mix, growth investing looks absolutely essential. There is certainly a role for fixed income investments in a diversified portfolio - you just don't want to tilt your portfolio wholly away from risk.

Accepting some risk may lead to greater reward. As many equities can potentially achieve greater returns than fixed income investments, they may prove less vulnerable to inflation. This is especially worth remembering given the history of the CPI and how jumps in the inflation rate come without much warning.

From 1900-1970, inflation averaged about 2.5% in America. Starting in 1970, the annualized inflation rate began spiking toward 6% and by 1979 it was at 13.3%; it didn't moderate until 1982, when it fell to 3.8%. U.S. consumer prices rose by an average of 7.4% annually in the 1970s and 5.1% annually in the 1980s compared to 2.2% in the 1950s and 2.5% in the 1960s.^{4,5}

All this should tell you one thing: you can't hide in fixed income. Inflation has a powerful cumulative affect no matter how conservatively or aggressively you invest - so you might as well strive to keep pace with it or outpace it altogether.

Organic or all natural with Uncle Sid

READ ALL ABOUT IT

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

It was a beautiful Tennessee spring afternoon when I pulled in the long gravel driveway of Uncle Sid and Aunt Sadie's farm. Their white frame house located among the landscape of the colored hillsides was the perfect example of what springtime on a Tennessee farm is all about!

Aunt Sadie met me at the front door wiping her hands on her apron as usual and led me to the back portion of their house. There, sitting at the round kitchen table, was Uncle Sid and their teenage granddaughter Jenny. Uncle Sid was working on a plate of Aunt Sadie's homemade cookies and sipping on a cup of coffee. Jenny was texting on her phone and Uncle Sid was fascinated at her ability to punch all the little buttons. After exchanging pleasantries and taking my seat at the table to also share with Uncle Sid some of Aunt Sadie's cookies, Uncle Sid once again directed his attention to Jenny's cell phone.

"Jenny, would you like some of my cookies? I just made them!" asked Aunt Sadie with a plate of warm cookies in her hand.

Rolling her eyes and giving a deep sigh, Jenny answered, "Are they organic or all natural?"

"Well, I made them myself and I do know they are made from scratch," my little gray-haired aunt said smiling.

"They're neither one," Uncle Sid quickly answered, while now looking up over his wire-rimmed glasses at Jenny. "She used Martha White and Crisco, which makes them 'all right' in my book and about as natural as bacon in a cast iron skillet."

Jenny never looked up and said, "I only eat organic or natural foods these days. You know, only real farm food!"

That was all it took. Aunt Sadie and myself each slid a little further back in the kitchen. I grabbed one of the cookies meant for Jenny and waited on the old farmer to answer that last remark from the texting generation.

Uncle Sid reached over and gently placed his callused, farm-worn hand on Jenny's as she attempted to text. When she looked up to see what he was doing, he said, "I'm glad you take your health seriously these days and pay attention to what you eat. There are so many young folks who don't and I have always been very proud of you. That little telephone you have there can contact the world and get you a lot of information and even give you directions to where you want to go. Am I right?"

Being completely taken back by the old man's move and question, Jenny answered, "Yes sir."

"A preacher told a story the other night about a man who had two mules he couldn't tell apart. So, he cut one mule's mane fairly close and the other mule's tail somewhat shorter. That worked for a while until they both grew back out and then the man had to come up with another way to solve his problem,"

Uncle Sid told his granddaughter.

I could tell Jenny was wondering where this was going and she wasn't the only one. Uncle Sid went on with his story by saying, "The man decided to study his problem a little closer, and after a detailed examination and a lot of studying, he came up with a solution. He determined that the white mule was two inches shorter than the black mule."

The room grew silent and Jenny's eyes seemed to cloud over for a second. I wanted to laugh, but thought better and just waited to see what was coming next.

"You see Jenny," Uncle Sid said smiling at her, "Many times we can't see the true answer for looking too deep at our problem. There are all types of products produced on our farms that feed us all every day. The majority of it is about as organic and natural as anything you get, but some folks have gone to a little more trouble to make it somewhat more so than others. But, if we are going to feed all these folks riding up and down these highways it is going to take all us farmers producing the best food products we can. The way I farm is called traditional, and it has fed your folks, as well as a lot of generations before you, in a very safe and healthy way. We will keep on farming this way and your Aunt Sadie will keep cooking the same way she has too, because it is about as natural for her as my farming is for me. So, I guess you could say her cookies are all natural."

Uncle Sid then left the room to go check on things at the barn, but his final statements seemed to hit a nerve. Jenny put down her phone and went over to help Aunt Sadie in the kitchen and asked for one of her "all natural" cookies.

Uncle Sid does have a way with words.

DANNY NICHOLS

Nichols to tell 'Buried Secrets'

Local author and historian Danny Nichols will present a program, Buried Secrets, about exploration of historic graveyards to the Cannon County Historical Society on Tuesday, May 8 at 6:30 p.m. at the Cannon County Senior Center in the small dining room area.

Nichols grew up in the Auburntown area of Cannon County, graduating from Auburn High School in 1971. Nichols said that history has long been a passion of his life, and while attending Cumberland College in Lebanon, his first aspirations toward performing historic research emerged.

Family history has always been at the heart of those interests, although he said he enjoys American history – especially early Tennessee history. He particularly enjoys Civil War history and how it affected family, community and country.

Nichols attended Tennessee Tech University in Cookeville and graduated with honors in 1975. During his time in Cookeville he utilized the TTU library to conduct genealogical research, which later led to the publishing of his Nichols Family History in 2005. Soon after, he led a group of 50 Willard descendants from across the country in an effort to update another line of his family history. This work, History of Beverly Willard Family of Virginia and Tennessee, was published in November 2011.

A charter member of the Cannon County Historical Society, Nichols has remained a member since its 1976 founding. He co-founded the Auburntown Historical Society in 2006, leading the organization during his presidency through publication of two books on local history and one containing favorite recipes of Auburntown citizens. The AHS is currently undertaking the writing of Auburntown Community History.

While growing up near a small family cemetery, Nichols developed an interest in the history such cemeteries contain.

"I enjoy discovering what Mother Nature has hidden from those who find cemeteries of great interest and historical value," he said, observing, "It is our history, our story that is recorded on the tombstones that now lie beneath the ground. I feel a certain comfort in knowing that finding and raising them brings back to life a certain part of our history."

Nichols continues to work toward finding the graves of his own ancestors who settled in the Auburntown community in 1803.

Nichols presentation, 'Buried Secrets', highlights the cemetery research and discoveries made during his own quest of locating ancestors buried in Cannon County and the surrounding area.

"I will speak of lessons learned so that others interested in this subject may also engage successfully in this type of historical research and preservation efforts.

The May 8 meeting is free and open to the public.

JazzFest set this weekend

MURFREESBORO - The Main Street JazzFest will return to the Square in downtown Murfreesboro on May 4-5 for its 16th installment.

The music committee is currently putting the finishing touches on a lineup that includes saxophonist Rahsaan Barber and his new project, Everyday Magic, who perform a mix of traditional and contemporary jazz.

Vocalist Connye Florance will also be in attendance along with guitarist Denny Jiosa.

CANNON CRIME

Woman on probation facing new meth charges

A little over a year after being arrested on meth-making charges, a Cannon County woman has been busted again for the same offense. Cannon County Sheriff's Investigator Anthony Young charged Antonette Frattallone, 5231 Jim Cummings Hwy. (aka 64 Arthur Hollis Lane), Woodbury, with Initiating the Process to Manufacture Methamphetamine, Maintaining a Dwelling to Manufacture Methamphetamine and Possession Of Drug Paraphernalia on April 25. Investigator Young said he received information there was a meth lab operating at the address. He went there and discovered a one-pot meth lab along with several components used in the making of the drug. Frattallone was arrested and booked at the Cannon County Jail under a total bond of $253,000. Her initial court date is June 5. Frattallone pled guilty to Initiating the Process to Manufacture Methamphetamine on Aug. 4 of last year. She was given a partially suspended sentence of 12 years, ordered to serve 6 months in jail, fined $2,000 and assessed court costs. She was also placed on Community Corrections for 12 years.

That conviction stemmed from March 3, 2011 arrest at the same residence when Frattallone was charged with Possession of a Controlled Substance with Intent to Resale, Maintaining a Dwelling for the Use, Keep or Sale of a Controlled Substance, Simple Possession / Casual Exchange, Possession of Unlawful Drug Paraphernalia, and Initiating the Process to Manufacture Meth.

FRATTALLONE

Eight of 11 meth defendants make plea bargains

Two of 11 people arrested in late February during two meth lab busts conducted by the Cannon County Sheriff's Department had the charges against them dismissed in Cannon County General Sessions Court on Tuesday, April 24. The state decided to drop the charges against Jeremy Hinkle and David Nipper. Hinkle was charged with Initiating The Process To Manufacture Methamphetamine and Nipper was charged with Initiating The Process To Manufacture

Methamphetamine and Maintaining A Dwelling To Manufacture Methamphetamine. Eight other defendants waived their right to a preliminary hearing Tuesday and had their cases bound over to the May 25 meeting of the Cannon County Grand Jury. However, attorneys representing each of those eight defendants indicated they had reached plea agreements with the state and their clients will enter either guilty or best interest pleas to some or all of the charges against them in Cannon County Circuit Court on May 24. Those eight, and the charges against them, include: Justin T. Barrett - Initiating The Process, Maintaining A Dwelling. Mary Ann Barrett - Initiating The Process, Maintaining A Dwelling. Jerry Ray Gunter - Initiating The Process, Maintaining A Dwelling, Driving While License Suspended, Registration Violation, Financial Responsibility. The state has agreed to drop the last three charges against Gunter, which stem from a separate incident.

David William McPeak - Initiating The Process, Manufacture Of Methamphetamine, Possession Of Schedule II Narcotic, Possession Of Drug Paraphernalia. Donna Machel McPeak - Initiating The Process, Manufacture Of Methamphetamine, Possession Of Schedule II Narcotic, Possession Of Drug Paraphernalia, Unlawful Carrying Of A Firearm. Tiffany N. Cross-Mullins - Manufacture Of Methamphetamine, Initiating The Process, Possession Of Schedule II Narcotics, Possession Of Drug Paraphernalia, VOP. She pled guilty to the VOP charge Tuesday and Judge Susan Melton ordered her to serve six months in the Cannon County Jail and extended her probation for four months. Cody J. Shaffer - Initiating The Process, Maintaining A Dwelling. Cynthia Denise Thomas - Initiating The Process, Maintaining A Dwelling. The 11th person arrested, Amy Tribble, has apparently fled prosecution.

Judge Melton accepts scores of guilty pleas

Judge Susan Melton presided over an extremely busy day in Cannon County General Sessions Court on Tuesday, April 24, 2012. The results of some of the cases on the docket are as follows:

gospel stations," Fletcher said.

Fletcher's partners in sound, David and Susan England, who live in Auburntown, performed country music before making the switch to gospel and are truly glad for the change in style.

"We honestly enjoy being able to do something that makes a difference. We've seen people walk the aisle, and we've seen churches get healed spiritually that have had turmoil," said David, a native of Sparta, Tenn., who is a project manager for Siemens Building Technology.

"I've been playing country music for 35 of past 40 years," said Susan, office manager Murfreesboro dentist Dr. Brian Riel. "But I sang my first church special when I was 3 in a church in Brookhaven, Miss. I sang 'How Great Thou Art.' It was my grandpa's favorite song."

She, too, finds performing gospel more fulfilling than country.

"If you're having a bad day and step up to sing a song, everything becomes peaceful to me. And if someone in that congregation is a having a hard time, it seems like the spirit settles everybody down. If you put your heart in the right place and really are reverent, everything comes together in that moment and it's all peaceful. You're just in that time with God that is really so sweet."

As for their trio, which features "wonderful harmony," it will debut its second album, "Part Two," at the gospel concert. Susan says, "God really has a hand in this group."

"We've been together for about a year and a half. We have been friends for many years," said Fletcher. "The good Lord is truly blessing us. We will be singing at the National Quartet Convention this year in Louisville the second week in September."

As for who sings what parts, she answers, "We kind of divide it out. We don't have one set lead. We all have our songs. David and Susan are more comfortable singing leads."

Three Parts Grace uses a lot of pre-recorded music but will also bring out their instruments: Fletcher plays mandolin, fiddle and bass fiddle, David plays guitar and Susan the mandolin. Among the songs they will perform are such standards as "When He Was on the Cross," "Beulah Land" and "House of Gold," plus their own composition, "What If I Did."

The three met at Shiloh Baptist Church, between Auburntown and Woodbury, where Fletcher's father serves as pastor. "We became very good friends from there. Friendship led to second family and the trio," recalled Fletcher, who teaches agriculture classes at DeKalb County High School and lives near Woodbury.

The gospel songfest will allow some of the local churches to share information about their congregations.

"We're giving pastors the opportunity to speak between groups about events coming up in their churches. In general this will be for churches in the Salem Baptist Association and some of the Missionary Baptist churches in the area (Woodbury, Murfreesboro, Alexandria, Smithville, Milton, Lascassas), and we're looking to expand next year," said Fletcher.

She recommends that folks bring lawn chairs, while vendors will sell barbecue, burgers, hot dogs and soft drinks. "We will have canopy tents set up, so rain or shine, we're gonna have it," she says of the event.

"My expectations are for the community to have a good time," concludes David England. "We'd really like to see this become an annual event."

HORSE ...

Corlew following their convictions.

As one of the conditions of their probation they were ordered to not own any dogs or cats. They were permitted to keep horses at a farm they own in Shelbyville.

When LaFever and the deputy went to the Howlands' local farm to investigate the complaint on April 11, they observed approximately 10 horses outside, approximately 22 horses in the stables, one dog running loose, one dog tied up in the barn, and the dead horse, according to the violation of probation warrants taken out against them by the Tennessee Board of Probation and Parole.

They were both arrested and released on bonds of $75,000. Their initial court date is June 28.

According to Sheriff's Investigator Anthony Young, the Howlands do not face any additional charges at this time in relation to the discovery of the dead horse. Investigator Young said the Howlands denied owning the horse and that there is indication the horse might have been dumped on the rural property by another party.

Boy in hoodie spotted as auto theft suspect

CAMPBELL

Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Jordan McGee was dispatched to an auto accident on McMinnville Hwy. on April 21. Upon arrival he found a 2001 Ford Taurus in a ditch with no driver inside or outside the vehicle.

Cannon County Dispatch informed Deputy McGee a man had picked up the driver and taken him to Woodbury. The driver was reported to be wearing a purple hoodie and he had a pieced lip.

Woodbury Police units looked for the driver but were unable to make contact.

The keys were missing from the vehicle. On the driver's side floorboard was located what appeared to be a pipe commonly used for smoking marijuana.

Woodbury Auto Express was contacted to tow the vehicle to its lot.

mother to pick him up.

Deputy McGee contacted Deputy Reed Bryson and told him he had located a male matching the description of the driver of the Ford Taurus.

When asked for identification, Campbell rambled through his pockets and produced some keys, a flashlight pen and a wallet. When asked what the keys went to Campbell said he didn't know and that he had found them in the parking lot at Walmart in Tullahoma.

The keys were to a Ford and had a remote attached. Woodbury Auto Express was contacted. The remote unlocked the doors and the key fit the ignition of the vehicle.

Campbell said he had not been driving the vehicle and that he had never seen it before it pulled up. While in the process of getting ready to place Campbell into the back of his patrol unit, Deputy McGee observed another pipe sitting beside him that had a strong odor consistent with the smell of burnt marijuana. Campbell said it was there when he showed up and denied it was his.

Campbell was placed under arrest for Leaving the Scene of an Accident, Driving Without a License, Filing a False Report and Possession of Drug Paraphernalia. Upon contact with the owner of the vehicle, she said it had been stolen. An additional charge of Theft Over $1,000 was levied.

Total bond was set at $10,750. Campbell was appointed an attorney in Cannon County General Sessions Court on April 24. His next court appearance is set for May 15.

Relay For Life to honor cancer survivors

A special Luminaria Ceremony to be held during the American Cancer Society Relay For Life® of Cannon County will remember those lost to cancer and honor those who have survived. Luminaria will be lit at Dillon Park on May 4th at 9:00 pm to represent these individuals.

Anyone desiring to make a luminaria donation may do so by contacting Korie Aycock at 615.542.6970 or by visiting www.relayforlife.org/cannon. Each luminaria candle is $10.00.

"Each luminaria represents the life of someone who has battled cancer. It is a beautiful sight when all the bags with candles are illuminated around the track," said Korie, volunteer co-chair. "The Luminaria Ceremony is a moving way to remember loved ones lost to cancer and to pay tribute to cancer survivors."

Relay For Life events are held overnight as individuals and teams camp out at an athletic track, park or other gathering area, with the goal of keeping at least one team member on the track or pathway at all times throughout the evening. Teams do most of their fundraising prior to the event, but some teams also hold creative fundraisers at their camp sites during Relay. Relay celebrates people who have battled cancer, remembers loved ones lost, and provides participants with an opportunity to fight back against the disease.

Prior to the Luminaria Ceremony, the Survivors Lap will kick off the 2012, Relay For Life event in Cannon County on May 4th at 6:00 PM as survivors will circle the track, surrounded by friends and family cheering them on. Also a part of Cannon Relay For Life event is the "Fight Back" Ceremony, in which a community leader will inspire Relay participants with his or her own commitment and will challenge them to take a personal pledge of action (e.g., stop smoking, eat more healthily, exercise regularly, etc.) in fighting back.

Information about making a luminaria donation, forming a team or walking in the Survivors Lap is available by calling Korie Aycock at 615.542.6970 or Tammy Smith at 615.904.4498 or visiting www.RelayForLife.org/cannon caller already knew the victim's address.

Victims are told to send the money using a Green Dot MoneyPak card, which are reloadable debit cards that are widely available nationwide at more than 50,000 locations.

Moneypaks can be used for funding PayPal accounts and to pay phone, cable or credit card bills. Better Business Bureaus and law enforcement officers across the county say criminals are also using them to fleece consumers. Consumers nationwide have been warned to exercise caution when using MoneyPaks to pay companies or individuals they don't know.

According to the local victim of the ripoff using MoneyPak, and Cannon County Sheriff's Investigator Anthony Young, the criminals may be acting from outside the country. She indicted the caller had a heavy Indian accent, and Investigator Young said he has received reports of a scammer with an Indian accent trying to victimize people.

Investigator Young is cautioning citizens about two other scams targeting local citizens.

One of the scams involves a fake postal money order. Investigator Young said the scam artists are contacting people by phone or by e-mail and telling them they have won money. In order to receive the prize money, the people are being told they need to send money in the form of a postal money order.

Investigator Young said at least one local resident fell victim to this scam when they sent money and received a postal money order in return. When they took the money order to the post office it turned out to be a fake.

"Although the money orders look real, they are not," Investigator Young said. "They thought they had won $10,000 but wound up losing money."

The other scam involves callers or e-mailers trying to send people, mostly senior citizens, a medical insurance card. The callers already have the victim's name, address and phone number, and then ask them for their bank account number.

Investigator Young said that once the scammers have the victim's bank account number, they can transfer money out of the victim's account into theirs.

He said people should hang up the phone or not respond to e-mails if it comes from people pr businesses they do not know and trust.

"My advice is do not give out any personal or financial information over the phone or by e-mail unless you already have an established relationship with the caller or business," Investigator Young said. "Contact an attorney or a law enforcement officer if you are being threatened by someone with legal action who you do not know."

Planners review potential zoning policies

KEITH READY
Courier Contributor
Implementing zoning policies and procedures for any county or city is a lengthy process, but Tuesday night (April 24) the Cannon County Planning Commission started reviewing potential Land Use Plan Policies for Cannon County.

The draft is the backbone of zoning ordinances. Upper Cumberland Human Resource Management Planner Shannon Copas worked up several policies for the Commission to look at. Some of the possible Industrial Land Use Policies include specifying that sign standards for industrial zoning districts shall be developed and incorporated within a zoning resolution and that the county should support all practical efforts, both public and private, to maintain and improve existing industrial site locations. Copas advised taking out the adoption and implementation policy of the International Building Codes of the Land Use Policy. He said it should be indicated in the zoning ordinances. The Commission felt it was necessary to remove it altogether until they could study up on the International Building Codes. Another step Copas recommended was including in the county budget funding for additional personnel such as the salaries, supplies, office space and other expenses of a fully operational Zoning Compliance Officer, charged with the administration and enforcement of county-wide zoning codes. Enforcement is the key to making the zoning policies and plans work, he said. Copas used the public use plan that he put together as part of a guideline to help the Commission get the paperwork in motion for zoning procedures in Cannon County. Following the various changes to the plan which were discussed Tuesday night, Copas will now draft a more detailed Land Use Plan for the Commission to consider during its June meeting.

Youth conference planned this weekend

Pleasant View Baptist Church invites you to join them in their inaugural youth conference. "Awakening 2012" will be held Friday May 4th from 7-10 p.m. & Saturday May 5th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Youth Evangelist Mike Fowler from Jacksonville, FL will be speaking at each session. Friday night will include a message, live band, drama skits, games & door prizes. Saturday will offer two sessions with lunch in between from 12-1 p.m. There will be messages on Saturday as well as a live band, a jump house and an inflatable slide. A free hot dog and drink will go to each of the first 300 in attendance. Dollar snow cones and cotton candy will be available as well. Although this is an event geared to reach the youth, everyone is more than welcome to attend. Bro. Mike is very passionate about sharing the love of Jesus Christ. He has a great sense of humor and relates the gospel to people with practical life application. Those in attendance will surely receive a blessing in hearing the Word of God proclaimed. He will encourage passionate about sharing the love of Jesus Christ. He encourages the youth as well as the Church to rise up and become a voice that cannot be silenced about the Kingdom of Heaven and towards winning souls for God. Pleasant View Baptist Church is located at 2355 Lonnie Smith Rd. If you have any questions or would like to RSVP for your group, e-mail pleasantviewbc@yahoo.com or call Pastor Jeff Crips at 615-556-8220.

Five to be inducted into Hall of Fame

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Cannon County's rich athletic tradition will be honored when the second class of the Cannon County Sports Hall of Fame is inducted during the 2012 Cannon Courier Hall of Fame and High School Sports Banquet.

Terry Gannon (coach/athlete), Glenn Higgins (athlete), Bobby Parker (coach), Harold Patrick (contributor) and Vicky Todd (athlete) were unanimous selections of the Hall of Fame Committee and will become the second class inducted when they are enshrined May 17 at the Cannon County High School Gymnasium at 6 p.m.

"Looking at the names of this class, as well as last year's class, we are talking about our rich history and tradition with these Hall of Famers," said one committee member (the five-person Hall of Fame Committee remains anonymous. "When you talk about these people and what they meant to Cannon County athletics, it's a 'Who's Who' of outstanding athletes."

Legendary MTSU Track and Field Coach Dean Hayes, who has helped coach the USA Olympic Track team four times and also coached the World Games, will be the keynote speaker.

The Hall of Fame and High School Sports Awards Banquet, sponsored by The Cannon Courier, went on sale Monday. Tickets are $12 and can either be purchased at the Cannon Courier Office or online at cannoncourier.com. You may also call the Cannon Courier at 563-2512 and pay via credit card and have tickets held at the door. Deadline to purchase tickets is May 15.

In addition to the Hall of Fame induction, The Cannon Courier's

Players of the Year in each of CCHS' 13 TSSAA-sponsored sports will be named, in addition to the Male and Female Athletes of the Year; the Female and Male Publisher's Cup Winners for top scholar-athletes, and the Lions Award.

Not only was Gannon an outstanding athlete at Woodbury Central High School, but he also coached the boys basketball team to the state tournament in 1985 - their only appearance.

Glenn Higgins was a dominant football player who went on to star at Mississippi State, where he earned All-SEC honors.

Bobby Parker was instrumental in the lives of numerous Cannon County athletes as their coach and mentor.

Harold Patrick spent years bringing the football and basketball action to fans over the radio airwaves. His contributions helped create many memories and enjoyable evenings for Cannon County sports fans.

Vicky Todd is regarded as one of the most outstanding girls basketball players in Cannon County history. She is the second-leading scorer in program history, a three-time All-Stater and led the Lionettes to the 1969 Final Four.

Cannon County sophomore Abbey Sissom, left, was named to the Tennessee Sports Writers Association All-State team last week.

Super sophomore Sissom named Class AA All-State

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Cannon County girls basketball standout Abbey Sissom was named to the 2012 Tennessee Sports Writers All-State Team (TSSWA) last week, adding to her list of accolades following a dynamic 2011-12 season.

Sissom, who debuted with a breakout freshman campaign that saw her earn All-State Tournament and All-District and All-Region Tournament, as well as Freshman of the Year, did not suffer from a sophomore slump in 2011-12.

"Abbey had an outstanding season and she helped us enjoy a great year as a basketball team," Cannon County girls basketball coach Michael Dodgen said. "The thing about Abbey is she would much rather have team success than individual success. She is very humble and she works hard in the offseason to be at our best in season. She deserves to be considered one of the best players in the state because she is."

Sissom helped lead the Lionettes to a 26-8 record and into the Region 4-AA semifinals in 2011-12. She averaged 20 points per game and scored 20 or more points 20 times.

Sissom became a member of the Lionettes' 1,000-point club as a sophomore. She ended the season with 1,005 points.

Sissom was also named a Class AA Miss Basketball finalist in 2012, joining Julie Powell as the only other finalist in school history.

"It is such an honor to be named along with those players across the state that you have played against or followed through the years," Sissom said. "I am appreciative to the sports writers who voted me to the All-State team, but I wouldn't have made it if not for my teammates. Basketball is a team sport. My teammates work hard to get me shots. They do a lot of work and they share in this with me."

Sissom scored 28 or more points four times during her sophomore season. She scored a whopping 640 points during 2011-12.

The well-rounded Sissom also averaged 2.6 assists, 2.5 steals and 4.4 rebounds. Entering the 2011-12 season Sissom was ranked No. 7 in the Class of 2014 by HoopsPlus, Tennessee Girls Basketball Report, which is the highest ranking of any Class AA player in Tennessee. She also sports a 4.0 GPA.

"Abbey means a great deal to our program and it is great when you see deserving kids get this type of recognition," Dodgen said. "The good thing about Abbey is she is never satisfied. She is always working and striving to become better. She is already working hard this offseason to help make the team better next season. That's why she is an All-State player and that means something in Tennessee, where girls basketball is big and there are several quality players."

Sissom already has received offers from MTSU, Belmont, UT-Martin and Samford, among others.

Lions sweep twinbill from Clarkrange

Courier Sports Report

Cannon County's baseball team enjoyed a doubleheader sweep against visiting Clarkrange Saturday (April 28) winning 6-5 and 14-4.

Brent Duggin reached second with none out and was bunted to third by brother Brian Duggin before Nick Vasser laid down a perfect suicide squeeze to secure the victory in game one.

Austin Brown continued his hot streak, going 2-for-4 with a run scored. Chase Gunter pitched five strong innings and Justin Tobin came on to pitch two innings of no-hit baseball to earn the win.

The Lions broke out the bats - and brooms- to complete the sweep in the nightcap. Vasser had another strong performance on the mound, scattering five hits over five innings to earn the win. Vasser was also 2-for-4 with a double and four RBI in the 14-4 win.

Brown kept his hot bat sizzling with a 3-for-3 effort that included a double, two runs scored and one RBI from the leadoff position. The junior shortstop is hitting .481 during his current nine-game hitting streak.

Dalton Bell, Brian Duggin, Jarrett Melton, Nathan McGuire and Chase Gunter also had run-producing hits in the victory.

Earlier in the week the Lions suffered a 7-1 setback against Smith County Monday, and fell 19-3 Tuesday.

Brown, Brent Duggin and Jackson Mason had hits in the Monday game, while Brown, Brent Duggin, Brian Duggin and Trent Bragg had base knocks in the Tuesday game against Smith County.

The Lions conclude the regular season at DeKalb County Tuesday at 5 p.m. They will begin play in the District 8-AA Tournament against York Thursday. Time and location for the York game was not determined at presstime.

Football lift-a-thon fundraiser Saturday

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

The Cannon County High School football lift-a-thon will be held Saturday (May 5) at the Sports Field House beginning at 9 a.m.

The event is open to the public and will serve as a fund-raiser for the football team. Players get people to sponsor them for the amount of weight they lift during this event. Fans and supporters are welcome to watch the players as they perform their lifts inside the Sports Field House.

Following the lift-a-thon a cookout will be held with hamburgers and hot dogs available to supporters. Money raised from the lift-a-thon will go directly into the football account and the cookout money will go to the Cannon County High School Athletic Council. Both fundraisers are designed to help support student-athletes and facility enhancements.

Cannon County FCCLA, an All STAR Chapter

Eleven CCHS students attended the Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) 67th Annual State Leadership Conference at Gaylord Opryland Resort April 10-12, 2012. Attending with the students were Connie Lorange (Advisor), Lynda Martin, and Jessica Gaines. During the three day convention, students participated in competitions, attended workshops, and had the opportunity to listen to exceptional speakers. One of the high lights of the trip was Hannah Wright, National FCCLA Vice President of Membership. Overall, Cannon County came home with 2 Bronze Metals, 1 Silver Metal, and 3 Gold Metals. Hayley Gannon won 1st place in Career Investigation, and she will be representing Tennessee at the National FCCLA Convention in Orlando, Florida in July. Sarah Rogers, Mary Talbott, and Josie Woolsey received Power of One Awards. Power of One helps students find and use their personal power. Members set their own goals, work to achieve them, and enjoy the results. The skills members learn in Power of One help them now and in the future in school, with friends and family, in their future at college, and on the job. CCHS FCCLA was awarded the All STAR Chapter Award (the highest award a chapter can receive in the state) and Power of Reading Award (for their community service efforts). Cannon County also came home with a state officer. Mary Talbott is the 2012-2013 Tennessee FCCLA First Vice President of Community Service and Public Relations. We look forward to another exciting year! Left to right, Mary Talbott, McKala Rollins, Shelby Lovvorn, Shawnetta Ray, Hayley Gannon, Sarah Rogers, Katlyn Arnold, Emily Agee, Emily Pemberton, Reba Barnett, Josie Woolsey.

Ms. Ovie Hollis, second from right, turned 83 years young Friday. The legendary queen of Cannon County biscuit bakers still is delivering children to Woodbury Grammar School and making pies at Joe's Place for everyone to enjoy. The school, including Principal Bonnie Patterson, far left, honored her with a big card Friday morning as she came through the parent drop off lane. What an amazing woman!

Thanks to all who helped with and attended the Friends of the Library Roast on the 19th! A good time was had by all and many funny stories were shared. Arna Smthson was well and truly "roasted".

Thanks to all you sturdy souls who braved the unfriendly elements and came to the ground breaking ceremonies on Saturday, the 21st. Sprits were high. We just wish the temperature had been a bit higher. Ground is now officially broken and you should start seeing changes soon. We are rearranging a few things inside on the main floor to accommodate the work, so please don't hesitate to ask if you are unable to find something.

Don't forget that Summer Reading Program registration begins on May 1st at both library outlets. There are prizes for all age groups and some fun activities planned including a visit from the animals of Natural History Educational Company of the Midsouth. (Remember the kangaroo from last year? Tick season arrives early in Tennessee

The Tennessee Department of Health is seeing significant increases in tick-borne illnesses this year following an unusually mild winter and spring.

Cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever are up 533 percent compared to this time last year, according to Abelardo Moncayo, Ph.D., with the TDH Division of Communicable and Environmental Diseases and Emergency Preparedness.

"We've documented 38 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, compared with only six by the same time last year," Moncayo said. "We are also seeing increased numbers of other tick-borne infections compared to last year."

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is the most serious tick-borne disease in the United States. Symptoms usually appear two to 14 days after a bite from an infected tick. The disease often begins with sudden onset of fever and headache. Early symptoms may resemble other diseases and include nausea, vomiting, muscle pain, lack of appetite and severe headache. Later symptoms may include rash, abdominal pain, joint pain and diarrhea.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a serious illness that can be fatal if not treated correctly, even in previously healthy people. It and other tick-borne illnesses can have devastating effects, but are effectively treated with antibiotics. Persons with symptoms should see their medical provider for early diagnosis and treatment.

Tick-borne diseases are best prevented by avoiding tick bites. Some tips from the Tennessee Department of Health include:

- Wear light-colored clothing to help you spot ticks that may catch a ride on you.
- Tuck pants into socks to keep ticks off your legs.

- Apply EPA-approved repellents to discourage tick attachment. Repellents containing permethrin can be sprayed on shoes and clothing and will last for several days. Repellents containing DEET can be applied to skin, but must be reapplied every few hours. Follow label instructions for repellents.

Congratulations to Auburn Elementary students who raised a total of $764.74 for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. Kindergarten was the top selling class with $152.11. First grade raised $105.67, Second grade brought in $110.36. Third grade raised $73.79, fourth $75.03, fifth $83.81, 6th $82.98, 7th $65.26 and 8th brought in $15.73. Mrs. Tracy's Kindergarten class is being rewarded with a pizza party. WHOO-HOO way to go students!!

It was a quick trip for Donna and Jim Standfield of Grandview, MO who came in to tour the Harris Farm one last time. They arrived Monday afternoon and left out Tuesday.

Coming in for a longer visit were Richard and Barbara Harris of Macon, GA, Wanda Yule of Grandview, Mo, Robin Burkhead of Peculiar, MO and Marsha Kraft of Pennington, IL. We joined them Wednesday at D&J Pizza Steak House in Woodbury.

It was an "Amazing Wonders Aviation" day Saturday the 21st at Woodbury First Baptist Church. There were 135 leaders present for this year's Vacation Bible School Clinic of Salem Association. Taking first place for the attendance was Auburn Baptist Church.

Sunday, the Association held their annual Children's and Younger Bible Drill at the office in Liberty. Taking part were Hannah and Erilyn Denninger who participated in the State Bible Drill held in Cookeville. Younger children participating were Alena and Christian Denninger, Kiley Hughes, Caitlyn Crook, Carly Brown and Brenden Reed.

A baptismal service was held at Auburn Baptist Sunday the 22nd. Candidates were Teresa Kennedy and Ben and Carly Brown.

It's a "Coming Home" event hosted by Three Parts

Grace members of which are Susan and David England and Tina Nichols Fletcher. It is set for Saturday, May 12 beginning at 1 p.m. Heirline, Ridgetop and Ernie Watkins are just 3 of several who will be on hand to perform Gospel music at the C.S. Hawkins Park. Bring your chair and enjoy.

Our birthday list begins on the 3rd when Earah Stinnett Lankford and Jamison King celebrate. Isaac Gaither's is the 4th. Wallace Hancock, Jeremy McGregor, Magaline Davenport and Shirley Young all add a year the 5th. Bobbie Whited and MaLeah Scott get their ice cream and cake on the 6th. Lauren Turney's is the 7th and Sarah Tuck winds up our week on the 8th. Happy birthday you all.

No anniversaries for this week.

Middle Tennessee State University students donated food for Woodland's Backpack Program. Students from the Human Sciences Department heard that Woodland's Backpack Program was running out of food. Stephanie Bush (Instructor of Class EHSA 222) and her students held food drives and raised money to purchase food for Woodland Elementary. They would like to thank all the students and partners for their help. Partners for the food drive include Stones River Manor Assisted Living, MTSU Student Chapter ASID/IID 2012 Showcase and Junior Cotillion Grand Spring Ball. Talking with creditors

CARLA Y. BUSH, MVTE
UT Extension, Cannon County

When your income drops and you realize you can't pay all your bills, it's important to face your debts and know how to talk with your creditors. Your past experiences with creditors count. If you have consistently paid bills when due, most creditors will be more cooperative than if you were late or didn't make regular payments. Creditors are in the business of lending money. They want to keep your business, but they also want to get paid. Contact your creditors before they contact you.

Explain your current situation. Tell them that circumstances have reduced your income and you are not able to keep up with your complete payment. Frankly discuss your future income prospects so you and your creditors can figure out solutions to the problem. Most creditors would prefer to receive smaller payments on a regular basis than to begin expensive collection procedures.

Before you and your creditors agree on a reduced payment or some other solution, determine how much money you have to pay off debts. Figure out how much income you can count on each month and how much to pay for essential monthly living expenses. You'll need to know who and how much you owe, as well as how you plan to pay them.

Once you gather information you need to contact each creditor. Be prepared to explain the following:

- The reason you fell behind in your payments.
- Your current income and prospects for future income.
- Other financial obligations.
- Your plans to bring this debt up to date, including the amount you plan to pay each month.

Visit local creditors in person. This could be the loan officer at your bank or credit union, the credit manager of local stores, or the budget counselor at the utility company. Don't forget creditors like your dentist, physician, clinic or hospital.

Contact out-of-town creditors by phone or letter. If you phone, write down the name and title of the person to whom you talked. Follow up the conversation with a letter summarizing what you and the creditor agreed to. Keep copies of your correspondence as well as any replies.

As you negotiate with each of your creditors, don't agree to any plan simply to get off the hook. Be sure you will be able to follow through on the agreement. This is why it is important to do your homework first. Establish a payment rate that is acceptable to both you and the creditor.

If you fail to follow the plan that you and your creditor have agreed upon, you hurt your chances of getting future credit. Be sure to keep your creditors informed about any changes that may affect your payment agreement. If you owe a large amount of money and your creditors won't accept reduced payments, you may have to consider more extreme alternatives such as bankruptcy.

If you miss a payment, you will face increasing pressure to pay. First, you may receive a nice letter reminding you that you have missed a payment and asking you to pay promptly. Later, you may receive a more direct letter demanding payment, or get phone calls. If bills are more than 90 days late, there's a good chance they will be turned over to an independent collection agency.

While the agency tries to get you to pay, the law protects you from certain actions.

Next week's article will have more information about working with creditors and the Fair Debt Collection Protection Act.

Cow-Calf management tips, part 3

The last two words in the following paragraph was accidentally left off the story from last week.

"Bloat Guard" can be top dressed, in a grain mixture, in liquid supplements or in a molasses block.

McDonald's Sales Larger In Europe than U.S.

The receipts of sales from McDonald's in Europe were greater than what was merchandised in the United States last year. Europe sales made up 40 percent of the total revenue. Sales in the United States made up 34 percent of the total.

One would have thought that the U.S. fast food sales would be ahead of Europe's. Maybe it can be explained in that Europe's population is greater than that of the United States.

Average U.S. Citizen Eats Out 250 Times Per Year

The average American eats out 4.8 times per week or 249 times a year in restaurants. That value includes both dining in and carry out. This was reported from the first living Social "Dining Out" survey of consumer behavior.

The survey also revealed that the most popular restaurant meal is lunch, with an average of 2.6 per week, followed by dinner at 1.4 and breakfast at a frequency of 0.8; Forty five percent (45%) of the respondents described themselves as "meat lovers," while 35% said they were "experimental eaters" and 4% regularly eat rom the growing number of mobile food trucks.

Where Was My Steak Produced?

You may be able to review the background of the steak that you are considering ordering for dinner. Aurora Packing Plant, which has been processing beef for 70 years has entered into a partnership with Identification Gen North America to start a system called DNA TraceBack, which will trace the company's beef being sent to Korea. Back to the animal's source of origin by using the animal's unique DNA.

Aurora Packing, located in Aurora, Illinois, is already utilizing the program for its domestic sales to U.S. restaurants and retailers. This process was approved by USDA in November of 2007.

Nutritional Requirements in Stage Three of Production for Late Winter Early Spring Calving Herds

Stage three of the cow's annual production cycle is the 80-90 days following calving. The nutritional requirements for the female is the time that her nutrient needs are the highest than any other time in her annual production cycle, The cow is lactating and trying to rebreed. And, if she is a first or second calf heifer, she has nutrient demands for growth as well. Here in Tennessee, the cow will be running on pasture and currently the pastures are in pretty good shape. This provides an opportunity for the producer to "match" the elevated nutritional needs of the cow with that provided by grazing which is also at its highest level. It is important to ensure that the cow is receiving adequate nutrients during this time. The body condition score (BCS) of the female will provide an excellent indicator if this is being done. If adequate nutrients are not provided, the cow's "post-partum interval" can be extended. Post-partum interval is simply the number of days between calving and the date she starts cycling. If "things" are in good shape, this period will be about 60 days. With poor BCS and inadequate nutrients, it will be extended. The later the cow is cycling, the conception is delayed and the calf is born at a younger date and the calf will also be younger and lighter next ear. This could easily result in a calf that will be 50-60 pounds lighter at weaning and marketing. Another challenge is the cows may show up open next fall and be a candidate for culling.

Beef Check off Responds to Consumers

In an effort to make beef a more convenient food choice, the "check off" has developed "cook-from frozen" preparations for the most common whole-muscle cuts, including sirloin and rib eye steaks. This is in response to research that indicates consumers take about 47 percent of steaks directly from the grocery store to their home freezers. In addition, the market research indicates that consumers would be more willing to prepare beef during the week nights if it could be more easily prepared from the freezer.

University Of Georgia Reports That The Best Way to Ensure Adequate Dosing Is to Weigh the Animals

The ability of the cattle producer to estimate the weight of cattle can affect whether or not the cattle receive the appropriate health product and eventually, profit. Correct treatment is essential for parasite control and the dosage rate is based on weight.

Results of a study reported by s University of Georgia Veterinarian showed that 85.7 percent of the cattle were underestimated by an average of 46.9 percent. In the same trial, only 19 percent of the cattle weights were estimated within "plus or minus" 20 percent of their true weights, These findings raise concerns that the estimation of the cattle's weight can easily result in treatment under dosing. . Under dosing can also contribute to build up of resistance to the health product by the parasites.

Beef producers should have a set of scales to determine the weight of their cattle and dose accordingly. Scales are fairly economical to purchase now a days and can play an important role in other management decision such as evaluating performance of the brood cows and making marketing decisions.

Artificial Insemination Lags in Beef Industry

Artificial insemination has not been used as widely in the beef industry as with the dairy industry. Rapid strides have been made by the dairy industry through the use of AI.

AI usage has increased the past two decades as other management has improved. Probably the greatest contributor had been through the development and use of cattle handling facilities and estrus synchronization. There is still a ways to go. Most cow-calf producers are not aware of the contribution that AI could contribute to their production and profitability. Following are some advantages that AI can offer the cow-calf producer:

- Access to top quality genetics
- Improved market grade of feeder cattle
- Reduced need for herd bull
- Reduce the cost of maintaining a bull
- A more uniform calf crop in age and genetic composition
- Reduce calving problems in "first calf" heifers.

- Improved replacement heifers

There are others that can be added to the list of advantages that would impact profitability. The Beef Industry has made some strides but, there are still lots of opportunity for improvement.

With Spring Comes Grass Tetany

Grass tetany is normally greater in the spring than any other time of the year. The current environmental conditions are "right" for it to occur. The grass is fast growing, lush and also low in Magnesium. In addition, high level of potassium is prevalent in the grass and interferes with absorption of Magnesium in both the plant and cattle.

The best method to attempt to prevent grass tetany is to provide supplemental magnesium in the mineral supplement. Magnesium oxide is the normal source. Magnesium oxide is not very palatable and it can be a challenge for the cattle to consume an adequate amount. Magnesium sulfate is another source of magnesium and cattle "like it" better than magnesium Oxide. However, Magnesium sulfate can cause additional problems and interfere with other mineral balances because it is high in Sulfur. This could also occur for those producers that are feeding corn gluten and/or distillers grain. These products bring additional sulfur to the cattle's ration.

Cattle need to consume 4 to 5 ounces of Magnesium Oxide per day. Producers should carefully read the "feed tag" on the mineral supplement and purchase supplements that contain 14 to 15 percent Magnesium. This percentage should provide the 4 to 5 ounces per day.

NOTICE OF SUCCESSOR TRUSTEE'S SALE

Default having been made in the payment of an indebtedness described in and secured by that certain Deed of Trust executed by WAYNE J. CRUM and wife, NANCY H. CRUM, to Hugh M. Queener, Trustee, recorded in Record Book 109, page 105, and as corrected by Scrivener's Affidavit of record in Record Book 110, page 354, both of record in the Register's Office of Cannon County, Tennessee, embracing real estate hereinafter described; and Pinnacle National Bank, the holder of said indebtedness having declared the entire unpaid balance immediately due and payable, and said Note not having been paid, and said holder having directed him so to do.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that he will on FRIDAY, MAY 18, 2012, at or about the hour of 11:00 A.M., at the front door of the Courthouse (Public Square), Woodbury, Cannon County Tennessee, SELL to the highest and best bidder for cash and free from all right of homestead exemption in and equitable and statutory redemption of the following described parcel of real estate situated in Cannon County, Tennessee, to-wit:

TRACT 1:

Map/Parcel: 019-00400
Address: 2755 Hurricane Creek Road, Woodbury, Tennessee 37190

Description: 59.00 acres, more or less

Reference is hereby made to Warranty Deed of record in Deed Book 150, page 208, of the Register's Office for Cannon County, Tennessee, for more complete details of location and description of said property.

TRACT 2:

Map/Parcel: 019-00500
Address: 209 Ridge Top Lane, Woodbury, Tennessee 37190

Description: 96.00 acres, more or less

Reference is hereby made to Warranty Deed of record in Deed Book 150, page 63, of the Register's Office for Cannon County, Tennessee, for more complete details of location and description of said property.

Said sale will be made for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, and the undersigned Successor Trustee will deliver to the Purchaser a Successor Trustee's Deed conveying said property without any covenant or warranty expressed or implied but subject to all unpaid taxes and any liens which take priority as a matter of law.

The Successor Trustee at his sole discretion may at the time and place appointed for this sale in order to accomplish the most advantageous sale and consequent discharge of his trust obligation under the circumstances by oral announcement elect to adjourn the sale during regular business hours on the same day or on a different day, or at a different place, so long as no potential purchaser is thereby precluded from placing a bid.

The failure of any high bidder to pay the purchase price and close the sale shall, at the option of the Successor Trustee, be cause for rejection of the bid, and, if the bid is rejected, the Successor Trustee shall have the option of making the sale to the next highest bidder who is ready, willing, and able to comply with the terms thereof. The proceeds derived from the sale of the property will be applied as provided for in said Deed of Trust.

TEASERS & TRIVIA

Ask Ken Beck

Brit Henry Cavill will fly as Superman in 2013

Dear Ken: What can you tell us about Henry Cavill, who will be the next Superman on film?

Cavill, who turns 29 May 5, will play Clark Kent/Superman in "Man of Steel," set for release in June 2013. He is one of five sons born to a secretary and stockbroker on the island of Jersey in the Channel Islands between England and France. He starred as Charles Brandon on the TV series "The Tudors" from 2007 to 2010 and made his film debut in 2002's "The Count of Monte Cristo." Other movie credits include "Red Riding Hood," "Hellraiser: Hellworld," "Tristan & Isolde," "Blood Creek," "Immortals" and he will be in "The Cold Light of Day" this fall. Cavill was dubbed "the most unlucky man in Hollywood" after he supposedly lost the roles of Batman, an earlier Superman project, James Bond and the part of Edward in "Twilight," plus his fans pushed him heavily for the role of Cedric Diggory in one of the "Harry Potter" films. For a fellow with such near-misses, he appears to be doing fine. He is engaged to British equestrian show jumper Ellen Whitaker.

Dear Ken: Is rubbery-faced comedian Buddy Hackett still living?

The funny man, a native of Brooklyn and WWII veteran, died in 2003 at 78 after dealing with diabetes for several years. The nightclub entertainer and star of TV and film had his own TV series, "Stanley," in 1956, and was in the movies, "God's Little Acre," "The Music Man," "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," "The Love Bug" and "Scrooged." Plus, he supplied the voice of Scuttle, the daft seagull, in Disney's "The Little Mermaid." In his later years, Hackett and his wife created a non-profit animal refuge, Buddy Hackett's Singita, for unwanted dogs and cats.

Dear Ken: What has Kate Winslet, who starred as Rose opposite Leonardo DiCaprio in "Titanic," up to these days?

The English actress starred in the 2011 miniseries "Mildred Pierce" and reteamed with DiCaprio in "Revolutionary Road" in 2008. In 2011, she also appeared in the films "Contagion" and "Carnage." She will also be in an untitled comedy set for release early next year. Regarding physical changes since 1997's "Titanic," she recently told the British press. "We do look very different, we're older. Leo's 37, I'm 36. We were 21 and 22 when we made that film. You know, he's fatter now - I'm thinner. It's true though!"

Dear Ken: Tell us a bit about the late, great Dick Clark. Where was he born, married, children?

The host of "American Bandstand" from 1957 to 1987, who died April 18 of a heart attack at 82, was born Richard Wagstaff Clark in Bronxville, N.Y. He grew up in nearby Mt. Vernon, N.Y., and his only brother, Bradley, died serving in WWII. He earned a degree in advertising and a minor in radio at Syracuse University. Clark began his career in the mailroom at WRUN-AM in Rome, N.Y., at a station owned by his uncle and managed by his father in Rome, soon became the weatherman and then an announcer. And he began his TV career at WKTV in Utica, N.Y., as host of a country music radio show, "Cactus Dick and the Santa Fe Riders." Married three times, he had three children. Among other TV shows he hosted were "Where the Action Is," "The New Hollywood Squares" and "The $10,000 Pyramid."

If you have a trivia question about actors, singers, movies, TV shows or pop culture, e-mail your query to Ken Beck at kbtg2@gmail.com

Alcoholics Anonymous

If you want to drink, that's your business. If you want to stop - that's ours. Call us at 464-4484.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees.

Our primary purpose is to stay sober and to help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups.

People who once drank to excess, they finally acknowledged that they could not handle alcohol and now live a new way of life without it.
