Drug dealers' land now public's property

KEVIN HALPERN Courier Co-Editor

Nearly 1,000 acres of land in Cannon County once owned by convicted drug dealers will soon become public use areas.

The land, comprised of over four separate areas of property, is located on Short Mountain and was forfeited to the federal government during the trial of Morris Roller and Jeffory Carl Young, who were convicted of manufacturing distribution charges in 2007. Both are currently serving time in a federal prison.

The new public use areas will be managed by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency and will initially be available for a variety of public activities, including hunting and wildlife viewing.

Additional uses still under consideration include hiking and horseback riding.

A ceremony to unveil the new wildlife management areas will be held at 10 a.m. on Wednesday,

The largest area, approximately 400 acres, is west of the current Pea Ridge Wildlife Management Area, off of Troy Cripps Road, and will be incorporated into that existing WMA.

A smaller area near the Cannon-DeKalb County line encompasses 51.52 acres off Pea Ridge Rd.

The second largest wilderness area runs mostly along the south side of Stones River Road and contains approximately 266 acres.

Two more new wildlife areas are along Gunter Hollow Road. One has 196 acres, and the other 64 acres.

Following years of negotiations, the federal government gifted the land to the State of Tennessee. The deal was finalized in April.

The land gift from the federal

Lindsey Reed, left, and Frannie Jenkins will graduate at the Top of the Class when Cannon County High School holds commencement exercises Friday at 7 p.m. Reed is Valedictorian and Jenkins is Salutatorian.

Top of the Class 2012

Reed, Jenkins earn highest CCHS honors

TONY STINNETT

Courier Co-Editor

Lindsey Reed and Frannie Jenkins did not aspire to become the top graduates of their senior class when they began their high school experience.

Doing what their mothers instilled in them landed Reed and Jenkins at the top of their class when Cannon County holds commencement exercises for the Class of 2012 at Schwartz Field Friday at 7 p.m. Reed will graduate as Cannon County's Valedictorian, and Jenkins will be Salutatorian as they close one chapter of their life and begin another. The Class of 2012 includes 135 graduates.

Reed, who also starred for the Lionettes on the hardwood, is just the third Cannon County basketball player to achieve status of Valedictorian. She said she was shocked when her name was called over the school's intercom system when the Top 20 students were announced.

"I was shocked when they called my name as

Valedictorian," Reed said. "I was hoping to be in the Top 10, but I never dreamed I would be that high. I did not set out to be Valedictorian. I just tried to do what my mom (Greta Reed) instilled in me. Mom is a teacher so she had an influence. I had to do well and I wanted to do well. I don't like to get bad Jenkins' also gained motivation from her mother (Christy Jenkins).

"I really never tried to be Valedictorian or Salutatorian or anything like that," Jenkins said. "I wanted to keep my grades high because I knew that was important. It just seemed like doing well at school and doing homework is what you were supposed to do. My mother put a great emphasis on doing well in school. I wanted to make her proud."

Reed, who was second in her eighth-grade class at East Side, already has been accepted into Tennessee

County's bank balance shows $1M swing

KEVIN HALPERN

Courier Co-Editor

As is the case with every person or business, the amount of money Cannon County has in the bank changes constantly.

During the current fiscal year, for example, there has been a swing of over $1 million in the county's General Fund bank account balance.

Last November the General Fund began the month with a bank balance of $153,645. That has been the low point for FY2011-2012.

The county began the month of April with $1,292,021 in the bank, an increase of more than $1 in six

The major reason for the large swing is the times of the year people pay their property taxes, which is mostly during the first six months of the calendar year.

However, the county's fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30 of the next year.

At the beginning of June 2011 the county had a General Fund balance of $1,055,876. By July 1 of last year it had dropped to

On Aug. 1 the balance was $280,796, Sept. 1 - $219,959, Oct. 1 - $182,475, Nov. 1 - $153,645 and Dec. 1 - $177,534.

Good Ole Days rock the Square

Students of the Cannon Arts Dance Studio perform on the Main Stage during Good Ole Days Saturday (May 19). Several acts filled the stages and provided entertainment during the two-day festival in Woodbury.

Event features something for all

TONY STINNETT Courier Co-Editor

Whether it is music, pageants, parades, food or just reminiscing with friends, Cannon County's annual Good Ole Days has something for everyone.

Hundreds of folks flocked to the historic downtown square in Woodbury to enjoy the current version of the Good Ole Days last Friday and Saturday. The festival has endured changes through the years but the current two-day format at least whets the appetite of those who look forward to it throughout the year.

"Good Ole Days used to be four days, then they moved it off the Square and it was not the same," Colin Jones said. "They brought it back to the Square and made it a two-day event. More people seem to come when it is on the Square like it is now.'

Some people like Good Ole

Days for the food. "You can get some of the best food here," said Charlie Parrish. "I just like coming to see people and listen to the music. It's pretty good this year."

Bands, dancers, cloggers, musicians and others filled the stages throughout the weekend to provide entertainment. Pageants are always a big draw and this year was no different.

Laura Beth Nichols spent a great deal of time preparing for her opportunity to compete in the Miss Teen Pageant Friday.

"It's fun and the pageants are always a big deal," she said.

Funnel cakes are always a big hit during Good Ole Days and Amber Hunt enjoyed one of the festival's top sweet treats during Saturday's festivities.

Please add this beautiful baby girl to your prayer list!

Her name is Joee Annabell Stafford. She s the daughter of Suzzanne (Parker) Stafford and her husband Joey Stafford both of Woodbury.

Sweet baby Joee was born at MTMC 5 weeks early on April 9, 2012 weighing 6lbs. 5 oz.

She was born with a few problems however. She has Down syndrome or Down's syndrome, also known as Trisomy 21. It is a chromosomal condition caused by the presence of all or part of an extra 21st chromosome. She also has two holes in her heart. These are anatomical abnormalities caused by the defective growth of the heart during fetal development. Septal defects, misplacement of the major vessels, single ventricles and numerous other disorders can vary in severity.

Sweet little Joee is scheduled to have surgery before she is 12 months of age. She has a long road ahead of her but with your prayers she can get through this. Her parents want nothing more than for their daughter to come home safe and healthy. Sweet Joee has been moved to Vanderbilt so the doctors can better serve her needs.

There is a fund set up for baby Joee at FirstBank. Contributions can be made at any FirstBank branch. I would like to thank you in advance for your kind words, prayers, and donations. Everything helps.

Suzzanne is not able to work as she is spending all of her time at the hospital with her sweet baby girl. Suzzanne and her husband also have two other children ages 5 and 2. They need all of the help they can get. Please just say a prayer for this precious baby. We love you Joee and want you to be able to go home soon!

Calling all Veterans in Cannon County

If your are able bodied, and are ready to serve your country again, and become a member of a real action team, we need your help and support.

The newly chartered American Legion Post 279 in Woodbury, Tennessee, needs a few good men and women. We have a lot of Veterans that need our help. We need to help those that stepped up to serve their country and for their personal sacrifices. Our mission is to serve and support the Veterans of Cannon County, and to establish and support programs for our youth. We want to make sure that this great country stays the greatest country in the world for our youth and their children. Come join forces with us. We meet on the third Thursday of each month at the Senior Citizens Center in Woodbury. Notice is published in the Cannon Courier and on WBRY bulletin board. The Chamber of Commerce also publishes our meeting dates. We keep our members up to date on all of the benefits available to our Veterans; Top-notch medical care at the Alvin C. York Medical Center in Murfreesboro and the VA Hospital in Nashville; prescription drugs, hearing aids, glasses, and many other services available to all veterans.

For example, all Vietnam Veterans are 100% covered for all of the illnesses caused by Agent Orange. We are very fortunate to have our own, Cannon County Veterans Service Officer (VSO).

This outstanding lady, Penny Daniels, is fully trained and the most professional VSO I have ever known in my 35 years of service and in retirement. She can help you with any problem that you have; disability, pensions, medical, recovery of lost medals, and many other areas of concern. All Veterans in Cannon County need to take their discharge papers (DD-214) and go register in at the VA in Murfreesboro. Get your identification card with your picture; get an examination and make sure everything is okay. If something is found, you will get the proper treatment. All of the comments that I hear from our members and veterans that go to the VA Hospital for treatment have all been very positive. I know my experiences with the VA have been very professional.

> Colonel James E. Stone Woodbury, Tennessee

Reader wants "Reader" back in VA

Recently I noticed that the "Reader newspaper" had been removed from the York "VA" hospital.

Since that time, May 16, 2012 I have asked and talked with several patients and employees at the VA hospital about why the "Reader" was removed. I have talked with employees at the front desk, Dr. Rosson the Patient Advocate, the Secretary to the Assistant Director, and Mr. Conklin in Public Affairs. So far, all I have been told is that "someone" had a complaint about the content of some article in the "Reader", and to prevent some perceived controversy the decision to remove the Reader Newspaper was

I notice that there are four (4) other newspapers available for the VA patients to read. Apparently this "someone" has no issue with any of these "less" controversial papers. The USA Today, Tennessean, Daily News Journal or The Murfreesboro Post.

I and a number of other Veterans who visit the VA Hospital find that the Reader offers a much needed "Fair and balanced" view to the assortment of newspapers available to us at the facility.

I was reminded that the Reader was available at various locations around Murfreesboro and veterans could pick it up. I reminded this person that a lot of the veteran patients that I saw there, were in no condition to scurry around town in search of a paper.

I still think it is a disservice to our veterans (myself included) to stifle our access to a first (1st) amendment right to read a newspaper of our choice. It is not mandatory to read the Reader but neither should it be prohibited. Nobody had told me I had to read the newspaper, but now by their action of removing it they are telling me that I can't read it.

I feel that I have had a freedom taken away by someone whom many of us fought to protect, an act of betrayal regardless of what it is called. Supposedly a meeting is scheduled to meet with the publisher of the Reader and others at the hospital. Hopefully this situation can be absolved and the Reader will be made available again.

Of Wisdom DAN WHITTLE

My trusty Nikon D-50 camera has never focused on a high-flying bird it didn't

Drama was building on fellow amateur photographer Steve Barnett's pontoon boat on a recent May morning we were out searching for heron nesting (rookeries) islands on Percy Priest Lake. But there, off in the distance, we could see some white specks on a tiny rock island not far from Four Corners' Boat Dock near La Vergne.

"Those aren't herons," I judged from

"It's gotta be a bunch of white egrets," Barnett noted as he revved the engine for

There, suddenly, when looking through our 55/300 telephoto lenses, they came into focus.

"They're pelicans!!" focused Barnett as he eased back on the engine's throttle. Initially, we "floated" quietly within photographic range, satisfying our souls by merely eyeballing these beautiful creatures up close and personal.

After the shock of seeing these formerly-endangered pelicans, we began rapid-fire picture taking.

Unlike Brown Pelicans observed in the Gulf of Mexico, White's don't dive in pursuit of fish. The majestic white birds with wings tinged with black feathers do their "fishing" as teams, herding the fish as a group into shallow waters leading up to a feast.

We estimated 40 American Whites before they launched themselves off the water and tiny rock islands to take majestic flight.

"I'm glad we got pictures, Whittle," Barnett mused. "Otherwise, no one would believe there are pelicans on Priest."

How rare is it to find pelicans on Priest? "We thought we saw a pelican a few years ago, circling and flying high over the lake," Long Hunter State Park Manager/Ranger Thurman Mullins noted. "For certain, it's the first photographs we've had taken of American White Pelicans on Priest. For the past few years, they've been spotted regularly on the Research back at the home computer revealed the big white birds were formerly endangered, making this photo adventure even more satisfying. They apparently came through Middle Tennessee while migrating north, from the Gulf of Mexico, to get to native habitat in northern states and Canada.

My show includes birds of all types typically found in backyards, parks and lakes in the Middle Tennessee, including eagles, osprey plus great blue, yellow crowned and black crowned night herons...thus, the title "God's Beauty All Around Us.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Columnist/wildlife photographer Dan Whittle's show, entitled "God's Beauty All Around Us," opens this Friday with a 5-7 p.m. public (free) reception at the nationallyacclaimed Arts Center of Cannon County on John Bragg Highway. His outdoor photography art will hang at the Arts Center through June.

To the voters of District 1...

NATHAN SANDERS

I am Nathan Sanders and I would like to announce my candidacy for the office of District 1 School Board Member.

I am a lifelong resident of Cannon County residing in the Burt community. My wife, Mindy, and I have been married for four years and have three children, Cody, Belle and Lily. We are members of Burt Baptist Church where I serve as Youth Director and VBS Directory. I am currently President-Elect of the Woodbury Lions Club.

I am a 1997 graduate of Cannon County High School and have been attending Motlow State Community College as well as MTSU majoring in Business management. I have been working in the banking industry for 16 years.

As a father of three children, I want to ensure that they receive the absolute best education in Cannon County. Education is a changing environment and I have a strong desire to learn about these changes and apply them not only to my children, but to every child in the Cannon County School District.

With these touch economic times and my experience first as an everyday citizen and also as a seasoned banker, I will be able to work and stay within budget and adjust only when needed and necessary. My 16 year banking career has seen many, many changes to policies and procedures. As your school board member, I will easily be able to revamp the Board policy when needed and put those enhancements in place.

I hope to see all you between now and August. I would like to take this opportunity to ask for your vote on August 2.

Hoping against a blizzard at Halloween

READ ALL ABOUT IT

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

As the days slowly turn much warmer and the trees change to deep summer greens, farmers across Tennessee prepare for this year's cropping season. They repair hay balers parked over the winter in metal sheds, hoping for just one more year of use and a bumper crop.

However, there is one word in the previous sentence that seems to be used a lot this growing season. It is the word "hoping" that seems to be spoken quite often around farmsteads in the Volunteer Farmers "hoping" for numerous things. They, of course, want prices for their crops be good, more production from what they plant, drought to stay away this year, some dry weather on hay harvesting days, and hope most of all to just survive another year.

The last couple of growing seasons have not been all that bad for our farmers if you overlook the floods of 2010 and 2011, along with dry weather in parts of East Tennessee in 2011. This year no one can predict what is going to happen in the form of weather after a winter that resembled spring in January and a spring that was more like an early summer. I'm just hoping we don't have snow at the end of July and a blizzard for Halloween.

This year farmers are planting with a lot of hope, which is what all of them seem to have. We are at 98 percent of the corn crop planted across the state with 92 percent of it emerged. At this time last year only 27 percent had emerged and the five-year average is around 48 percent. It is looking like things are ahead of schedule with even 23 percent of the soybean crop being planted. We usually have only about 6 percent of the soybeans planted on the average at this time of the year, so it looks like the weather is not the only thing ahead of itself these With days. development being reported ahead of the normal pace, no wonder our farmers are having some hope for this year. It is also important that we all hope right along with them, because we have just as much to lose as well. It is true farmer numbers have decreased over the years, and a continued downward trend is not a good thing for any of us. What do we have to lose if Tennessee's farms continue to go by the wayside? A lot of things that we take for granted everyday. We can lose the green, open space that we enjoy. That farm that you pass going to work, with its bright red barn and lush pastures, could become just another field of houses if the farmer who owns it has to sell out because of high input costs inadequate farm and prices. And once the farmers sell out, we will lose a culture and a way of life that has been the cornerstone for many of the values that we all believe in. The farmer will lose his job, the feed store will lose a customer, the tractor dealer will lose parts sales, and so on down the line jobs will be lost on and off the farm.

Consumers are wanting more locally grown farm produce and Tennessee's farmers are hoping to provide it this year. Oh, I forgot to tell you. If our farms go by the wayside, we will have to become dependent on food from outside our region and even our own country. No farms mean no food produced. No produced here means we have to get it from somewhere else.

Hope is good, but we need more if our Tennessee farmers are going to have future harvests. What is needed on Tennessee farms is for all of us to let our elected officials Washington D.C. know that we appreciate their votes for the farm bill and to continue to look out for the farmers of our state.

Let them know that we need to reform costly regulations and reduce federal mandates that do nothing but add cost. And we also need to continue to work to keep our food supply safe.

Farmers will always need new and better risk management programs and a crop insurance program that works. Tax reform happened this year in our own state legislature thanks from the help of our senators representatives who saw the need for eliminating estate taxes that can take family farms right out of existence. Now let's do the same in Washington.

When you see the bright morning sun coming up in the east this summer. remember that Tennessee's farmers are out there farming with hope. A hope for future harvests on Tennessee's farms that all of us can enjoy.

MANAGING ARTHRITIS: Do you suffer from arthritis or fibromyalgia? UT Extension is offering a class to help you manage their impact on your life.

Studies conducted at the Stanford University Arthritis Center in California show that people with arthritis or fibromyalgia who have completed Arthritis Foundation classes experience less pain, tend to exercise and relax more, and have more overall knowledge about arthritis.

Carla Bush, UT Extension Family and Consumer Sciences Agent in Cannon County has been trained to implement this beneficial program in our community.

Some of the topics covered include: managing your arthritis and what you can do to reduce the pain, exercise and fitness, depression and fatigue, feelings and communication, working with your doctor, medications and alternative medicines.

The dates for the ASHC are Tuesdays, beginning May 22 and ending June 26 from noon until 2:00 p.m. at the Cannon County Senior Citizens Center in Woodbury. The cost for the class is $10.

The course will be free to Family and Community Education (FCE) Club members. Class size is limited so call Carla Bush at the UT Extension, Cannon County Office today to register, 615-563-2554.

BABYSITTING COURSE: Join us for the 4-H Babysitting Course that will be Tuesday, July 24 at the UT Extension, Cannon County Office on Lehman Street beginning at 9:30 a.m. with graduation at 3:30 that day.

Participants will have fun while learning about child development, safety and first aid with children. This is an ideal program for older brothers and sisters, as well as those who would like to make some money babysitting. The cost for the class is $30.

The fee includes: The babysitting course manual, a babysitter's magic bag, a first aid kit, business cards, a reception and more!

If you have any questions or to register for the class call Carla Bush at the UT Extension, Cannon County Office at 615-563-2554. Class size is limited to ten due to the handson projects we will be completing.

Smith rings up charges

Stacie L. Smith, 1111 Red Hill Rd., was charged with Theft Under $500 and Theft Over $1,000 on May 4 by Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillen.

The deputy responded to a report of theft on that date and was told by the purported victim that she had been in the hospital since April 25. She said she found several items missing when she returned home.

Identified as missing were three diamond rings, one pearl ring with a gold band and a white gold necklace. The victim gave Deputy McMillen information about a possible suspect.

Later on May 4, Deputy McMillen was contacted by Sheriff Darrell Young, who advised him that the complainant was at Shotgun County Pawn & Gun Shop and had located her jewelry there. Deputy McMillen went there and the victim identified her rings and necklace, which had been pawned.

The victim accompanied by her son, who stated there was a Sears welder on a shelf which belonged to him which had also been stolen and pawned.

The owner of the business showed the deputy documents indicating that Smith had pawned the items on April 26 and April 28. He was also shown a pawn slip signed by Smith stating the pawned items belonged to Photographs of the items were taken. They were then released to the owners. The store owner was given a copy of the property receipt. He stated he wanted to be reimbursed the money he paid for the items, $149.

Deputy McMillen took out arrests warrants against Smith. They were served on case was reset for June 19... • Noah Wesley Harris, 583 J.W.'s Lane, Woodbury, was charged with Hindering A Secured Creditor on May 7 by Woodbury Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham. It is alleged that on Feb. 4, 2012, Harris purchased a 1994 Pontiac Firebird from Greg Fauls. Harris allegedly promised to pay $100 per month until the car was paid. On March 19, 2012, Harris took the car to Pelham's Auto Salvage and sold it for scrap and received $459.00. Harris has not paid Fauls for the vehicle. Fauls is listed on the title as the lien holder. Bond was set at $3,500. Initial court date is June 12.

• Terry Stembridge, 463 Goodridge Rd., Woodbury, was charged with Assault on April 18. The charge was filed by the purported victim.

A court summons was served on Stembridge on April 30 and he turned himself in for booking on May 4. Initial court date is June 5.

Police Chase, Catch Two, Arrest One

A foot chase, a man hiding in a downtown store and a search for a suspect's vehicle ended up with one man being arrested on May 7.

Kenneth Wayne Johnson III, 18, was charged with Forgery, Criminal Attempt Theft and Carrying A Weapon For The Purpose Of Going Armed by Woodbury Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham.

The arrest resulted from an incident which started when Chief Mooneyham was dispatched to Cash Express on E. Main St. in reference to someone attempting to pass a forged check.

Express, Chief Mooneyham was informed the individual attempting to pass the check had left. He was then handed a check by one of the employees. The check belonged to Edgar Burks, also of 232 Rains Ridge Rd. He was also given the individual who attempted to cash the check, which identified him as a resident of Hoover Mill Rd.

Chief Mooneyham was then approached by Burks' daughter, who stated that her grandson, Kenneth Johnson, had taken the check out of her purse. She said Johnson came to her house accompanied by two other individuals. She said he wanted to borrow some money. She told him she thought there was some (money) in her purse and told him to look.

Roller and Young were tried jointly, and the jury convicted each man in early 2007 of conspiracy involving more than 100 but less than 1000 marijuana plants and more than 100 but less than 1000 kilograms of marijuana. Roller and Young were also convicted of the substantive offenses for which they were charged. The district court sentenced Roller to serve 200 months and Young to serve 224 months

Authorities said Roller and Young had been dealing in marijuana since at least 1992 and had amassed 2,200 acres in 31 different tracts.

After the guilty verdict, Roller and Young agreed on the forfeiture of the 996 acres, which now becomes land which can be used now for nature activities and will be preserved for future generations.

Rescue Squad Week Tennessee Governor Bill Haslam has proclaimed May 20-26 as Rescue Squad Week in the state.

The Cannon County Rescue Squad is a member of the Tennessee Association of Rescue Squads, a non-profit organization which was organized in 1955 and is dedicated to the good of mankind. The members of the 106 squads of the Tennessee Association of Rescue Squads tirelessly give of their time and energy in humanitarian efforts and make themselves available every hour of every day of the year.

The TARS is concerned with accident prevention, and works to promote research which will serve to advance the techniques of life-saving work throughout the state, Gov. Haslam noted in his proclamation.

The TARS is an Association of Life Saving, Rescue, and First Aid Units with members organized, trained, and equipped for various types of rescue and first aid work. These members voluntarily give of their time and effort without compensation to the development of accident prevention and first aid procedures, the widespread education of the public in such procedures, and to the necessary rescue and first aid work for the relief of their fellow men. The Cannon County Rescue Squad, Inc. is responsible for the provision of primary rescue services to the citizens of Cannon County, Tennessee. Other services to County include vehicle extrication/rescue, emergency medical first response, medical stand-by, animal rescue/removal, land search/rescue, and water rescue/recovery. Extensive technical rescue assets are also provided. Our Rescue Teams have extensive training, equipment, and capabilities in cave/vertical/confined space operations, heavy/technical rescue (including farm accidents, airplane accidents, as well as trench collapses), water rescue, land based search operations, support services and disaster/medical operations.

From left, Cannon County Sheriff Darrell Young, Woodbury Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham and CCSD Chief Deputy Bruce Kirby recently traveled to Clay County to participate with other Tennessee and Kentucky law enforcement agencies in a "Hands Across The Border" Click It or Ticket enforcement blitz. The Tennessee Governor's Highway Safety Office (GHSO) and the Tennessee Department of Safety and Homeland Security are teaming up with law enforcement across the state and in bordering states to reduce roadway fatalities through enforcement and education. Cannon County's three top law enforcement officers will travel to Marion County this Thursday to participate in a similar event with Alabama law enforcement.

Reed, Francis earn Publisher's Cup

Lindsey Reed, left, and Brock Francis receive the Cannon Courier Publisher's Cups from Cannon Courier owner/publisher William R. (Ron) Fryar during the second Cannon Courier Hall of Fame and All Sports Awards Banquet Thursday (May 17). Reed is the Valedictorian and Francis ranks fifth in the Class of 2012.

Lindsey Reed and Brock Francis made many sacrifices throughout their high school careers but the biggest may have been working extra to assure their grades did not suffer because of extra-curricular activities.

Those sacrifices paid off as each student-athlete demonstrated an ability to achieve at a high level in the athletic arena, as well as in the classroom.

Reed will graduate as Valedictorian of the Cannon County Class of 2012 and Francis is fifth in the class. Reed is only the third basketball player at the class Valedictorian and Francis maintained his academic standing despite playing three sports.

Reed and Francis were honored as the Cannon Courier Publisher's Cup winners for academic and athletic excellence during the second Cannon Courier Hall of Fame and All Sports Awards Banquet Thursday (May 17).

"Like so many other students who choose to participate in extracurricular activities, these two individuals had to make sacrifices and learn to balance their time in order to achieve a high standard in academics and athletics," said William R. (Ron) Fryar, owner/publisher of The Cannon County to serve as Cannon Courier. "Lindsey and Brock demonstrated you can perform at a high level in the classroom and in other areas. They represent all that is good about high athletics."

Reed said going above and beyond is what is expected if you are going to participate in sports and clubs outside of school.

"People always make fun of the people who play ball because they think we have it so easy," Reed said. "They don't realize the late nights and getting back from a bus trip and getting home and doing homework at 1 a.m., and then you get a little sleep and make sure you get to class the next day so you don't miss anything. It can stress you out but the main reason you are at school is to get a quality education."

Francis said management was key for him because of having to juggle three sports - cross country, golf and baseball.

"Two of the sports were fall sports and then baseball starts right after Christmas so you have to be able to manage your time," Francis said. "There are many nights you don't feel like doing your homework after being at school and then practice, but you have to be disciplined and strive to do the best you can in all

Abbey Sissom and Justin Tobin were named Female and Male Athlete of the Year, respectively, during the second Cannon Courier Hall of Fame and All Sports Awards Banquet Thursday

(May 17). Sissom dominated the basketball scene during her sophomore season. She became a member of the school's 1,000-point club after averaging 20 points and scoring more than 625 the 2011-12 during campaign.

Sissom also was named a Class AA Miss Basketball finalist, joining former great Julie Powell as the only two Miss Basketball finalists in program history.

"It's an honor to win this award and it is also a surprise," Sissom said. "I tried to do my best and give everything I had for my team each time I played. I am very appreciative."

Tobin was a three-sport standout in 2011-12, starring in football, basketball and baseball. He was an all-district football player, a starter on the basketball team and was regarded as one of the top pitchers on the baseball

The June 23, 2012 wedding will be held at King's Chapel, Arrington,

"History of Woodbury and Cannon County Tennessee" now available for purchase

Not too many folks get to celebrate birthdays beyond 100 years! But the Cannon County Historical Society (CCHS) is inviting everyone to join the celebration of Cannon County's 176th birthday by purchasing the 2012 reprint of the "History of Woodbury and Cannon County Tennessee."

The group is publishing an exact copy of the original 1936 classic by Sterling S. Brown. Even those lucky enough to own an original book will publications. The reprinted edition will include an all new 50-page index of proper names, and photos plus a detailed table of contents.

The original Brown book sold for $1.50 in 1936 and was published in connection with the county's 100th Anniversary and Homecoming Centennial Celebration. Ms. J.F. Adams, wife of Dr. Adams, served on 1936 Centennial Committee. She and her husband's legacy live on with the many services provided by the Adams Memorial Library where the Sterling Brown historic reprint will be for sell.

According to volunteer Peggy Tate who serves as Adams Memorial Library genealogist and curator, the Brown history book is extremely popular. "It is so exciting to know we will be offering this valuable record of early Canon County history and family ancestry to the hundreds of people who have expressed a desire to own one," she said. Austin Jennings, a long time Cannon County "mover and shaker" is heading up the project. All proceeds will go towards funding the CCHS Genealogy Room in the all new renovated and expanded Adams Memorial Library slated for ground-breaking this spring. The library building project is expected to be completed by the end of the

Who knows what the 2012 eprint of the 1936 "History of Woodbury and Cannon County Tennessee" will sell for in another 25 years? When it can be found, the original Brown book and a 1976 reprint have been known to sell for more than $200 at estate sales.

The first 100 orders received 2012 "History of Woodbury and Cannon County Tennessee" reprint will be the book for $70.00. Make checks payable to Brown History Reprint Project and mail to: Brown History Reprint, Adams Memorial Library, 212 College Street, Woodbury, TN 37190. The books may be picked up at the library or mailed if you add $5 for shipping and handling.

UT Extension Service

Tennessee ag enhancement workshop planned for May 29th

Drop by the Cannon County Extension Office, Cannon County Farm Bureau, USDA Service Center, Old Feed Store or the Woodbury Farmers Coop to pick up the 2012 Tennessee Agricultural Enhancement Program application. Make plans to submit your request during the application submission period beginning June 1st and ending on the 7th. Remember, applications postmarked prior to June 1st are not accepted. All applicants must have a current Beef Quality Assurance certification and Identification Premise which can be obtained by contacting the Cannon County Extension Office.

An important change for this year is that requests for funding will now be approved based on applicant determined priorities instead of on a first come, first serve basis.

This year's program will again offer cost sharing opportunities for genetics, livestock equipment, hay storage, feed storage, grain storage and producer diversification opportunities. In addition to the new approval process, other changes this year include:

- Genetics - Cost share funds are now available for Goats/Sheep Genetics in addition to Cattle Genetics.

Hay Storage Applicants can no longer receive funding for Hay Storage in two consecutive program years, and a maximum reimbursement amount per square foot has been established.

- Producer Diversification - All industry sectors are now eligible for 50 percent cost share.

Remember, cost quotes are required for hay storage, grain storage and livestock feed storage and must be included in your initial application. If you are interested in attending a Master Beef Producer class to qualify for the 50% cost share, check the "plan to attend" in the Master Beef producer section of the application. Follow-up by contacting the Extension Office to register for the class to be help in the Fall.

We plan to meet at the Woodbury Lions Club Building on May 29th beginning at 6:30 to review completed applications. For those wishing to have their applications hand delivered, we plan to collect the completed applications to be dropped off at the TDA TAEP office on June 1st. Remember to complete your application, get the required quotes for hay storage, grain storage and livestock feed storage and make sure you have a current Beef Quality Assurance certification and premise identification for the farm you plan to construct the project. Participating in the TAEP Program is available to all producers which meets the minimum requirements.

Take this opportunity to make improvements in your operation. For more information, please contact Bruce Steelman at the County Cannon University of Tennessee Extension Office at 563-2554 or 542-1364 (cell).

Beef Quality Assurance Certification Meeting Planned

Individuals planning to participate in the Tennessee Agriculture Enhancement program must have a Quality current Beef Assurance certification and premise identification for the farm you plan to construct the project. During the next couple of weeks. certification meetings are scheduled to meet these guidelines. In the event that these dates are not convenient, please call Bruce Steelman at 563-2554 to schedule an appointment. All programs conducted by University of Tennessee Agricultural Extension Service are conducted on a nondiscriminatory basis without regard to race, color, national origin, age, sex, disability, Religion, veteran status or other legally protected categories.

Living with osteoarthritis

Osteoarthritis (OA), also known as "degenerative joint disease" or "wear and tear arthritis," is a chronic condition involving the breakdown of the cartilage between joints. Cartilage is vital because it helps to friction reduce providing a smooth surface to ease joint movement. OA is most common in joints of the hips, knees and hands. When the cartilage starts to lose the ability to absorb impact, supporting ligaments and tendons attempt to compensate by stretching to take pressure off of the joint and this can lead to pain. In some cases, the cartilage between joints diminishes to the point that bone is rubbing against bone; this also causes pain and greatly limits movement. OA symptoms vary in severity from person to person but typically involve pain, stiffness, limitation of movement and sometimes warmth or swelling of the affected joint(s). Unlike rheumatoid arthritis, lupus fibromyalgia (other types of arthritis) that have symptoms that affect the whole body, OA is localized to the affected joints. X-rays are sometimes used to confirm OA diagnosis and damaged show cartilage, narrowing of the space between joints and/or any bone spurs that have formed. As the joints age, the knees and hips. Knowing chemical structure of the cartilage can change, promoting cartilage deterioration increasing the risk of OA. Aging, however, does not make OA inevitable. Research has confirmed certain risk factors that increase the likelihood of OA, such as: obesity, occupations that involve repetitive movement of the joint(s), previous joint injury, being a woman and living a sedentary lifestyle. OA is sometimes found in several members of the same family and research suggests that some portion of the risk of OA may be hereditary.

There are a variety of treatments interventions that are used to help OA sufferers. OA pain is treated with topical analgesics, oral pain relievers and in some cases, corticosteroid injections. Injections are also available that are meant to increase lubrication in the joint to improve ease of movement. When OA pain becomes unresponsive to typical treatments or when the joint is bone against bone, joint replacement surgery may become necessary to sustain movement and maintain quality of life. In addition to medical interventions, lifestyle modifications also play a role in the treatment of OA. Weight loss can often help to relieve stress on the when to rest joints is useful to prevent further injury or joint stress. Exercise is the probably important way to help cope with OA. Exercise keeps the lubricated joints nourished as well as strengthening joint supporting muscles that alleviate strain on the joint. Assistive devices such as canes, shoe inserts or knee braces can also help.

The University Tennessee Extension provides programs that help people in community learn how to better manage their chronic condition at home (chronic disease self-management). Chronic conditions require more than just the routine check-up or evaluation; they require day-to-day strategies for coping in order to achieve the quality of life that is important to the individual. Several programs are offered that help people with OA manage their condition and

Veterans Service Office offers help

The Veterans Service Office at 301 West Main Street, Room 229 (Old Good Samaritan Hospital) in Woodbury assists Cannon County veterans. Penny Daniels works to assist veterans in receiving their VA benefits. The VSO will be open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8:00 A.M. until 4:00 P.M. Mrs. Daniels can also be available other days by appointment.

The VSO helps veterans, widows, dependents in filing claims of eligibility for benefits like: health care, disability compensation, Agent Orange exposure claims, pensions, dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC), education, aid and attendance or household, burial, headstone replacing markers, discharges or separation papers (DD Form 214) and awards and decorations.

The VSO is an advocate for veterans that may have specific questions when applying for entitlement to VA benefits. In order to be efficient, please bring with you on the first visit the proper documents of your military service (DD 214) and any correspondence from the Department of Veteran Affairs. You may contact Penny Daniels at the VSO at (615) 563-6683.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE TRUTHIN SCRIPTURE An Old Prophet and the Man of God I Kings 13

An old prophet living in Bethel heard from his sons that the man of God from Judah had refused to eat with King Jeroboam because the Lord had told him not to eat or drink in that place. He went and approached the man of God as he traveled and invited him to come and eat with him since he was a prophet also and that an angel had sent him to invite the man of God to eat with him. (The old prophet was lying). The man of God returned with him and ate and drank in his house.

While they were sitting at the table the old prophet told the man of God that he had

While they were sitting at the table the old prophet told the man of God that he had defied the word of the Lord and had not kept God's commands since he came back and ate bread and drank water in the place where God had told him not to eat or drink and that therefore his body would not be buried in the tomb of his fathers.

As the man of God traveled toward home a lion met him on the road and killed him, and his body was thrown down on the road, with both the donkey and the lion standing beside it. People who passed by saw the body and reported it in the city where the old prophet lived.

The prophet went and found the body, picked it up, laid it on the donkey, and brought it back to his own city to mourn for him and bury him. He laid the body in his own tomb, and they mourned over him and he told his sons that he wanted to be buried in the grave where the man of God was buried. He proclaimed that the message he had declared by was buried. He proclaimed that the message he had declared by the word of the LORD against the altar in Bethel and against all the shrines on the high places in the towns of Samaria would certainly come true.

Jeroboam still did not change his evil ways, but once more appointed priests for the high places from all sorts of people. Anyone who wanted to become a priest he consecrated for the high places. This was the sin of the house of Jeroboam that led to its downfall and to its destruction from the face of the earth.

TEASERS & TRIVIA

Ask Ken Beck

'Raven' star Luke Evans enlists with The Hobbit'

Dear Ken: What's the lowdown on Luke Evans, who stars as Detective Fields in "The Raven"?

The 33-year-old Welsh native came from a working-class background and labored in a shoe shop during his early teen years, using the money to pay for singing and acting lessons. It paid off well as he kept busy on London's West End from 2000 to 2008 before making the jump to the silver screen as Apollo in "Clash of the Titans." He's been making movies since, including "Robin Hood," "Tamara Drewe," "The Three Musketeers" and "Immortals." He stars later this year in the psychological horror film "No One Lives" and has taken the role of Bard the Bowman in director Peter Jackson's two-part adaptation of J.R.R. Tolkien's "The Hobbit." As for "The Raven," Evans partners with John Cusack, who portrays Edgar Allen Poe, as they seek a serial killer in mid-19th-century Baltimore. Filming took place in Budapest and Serbia.

Dear Ken: How old is Andy Griffith? How many of the Darlings, the hillbilly music-making family, from "The Andy Griffith Show," are still living?

Griffith, who lives in Manteo, N.C., turns 86 on June 1. As for the Darlings, Brisco, the patriarch who played the jug and once wooed Aunt Bee, was portrayed by character actor great Denver Pyle, who died in 1997. Of the four boys in the band, brothers Doug and Rodney Dillard survive as does mandolin picker Dean Webb. Mitch Jayne, who played the bass fiddle player, died in 2010. Maggie Peterson, who played Charlene and often said, "That one always makes me cry, Pa," is alive and well at age 70 in Nevada.

Dear Ken: Did Ronald Reagan ever star in a TV western series? Did he make any western movies?

Reagan served as host of "Death Valley Days" during the 1965-1966 season. He also acted in eight episodes of the western anthology series which aired from 1952 into the 1970s. As for cowboy films, among his credits were "Santa Fe Trail" (as Gen. Custer), "The Bad Man," "The Last Outpost," "Law and Order," "Cattle Queen of Montana" and "Tennessee's Partner," plus he was in an episode of "Wagon Train."

Dear Ken: What are the last lines of the campfire song "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Sea"?

Well, there may be several versions out there, but try this

There's a fleck on the speck on the tail on the frog on the bump on the branch on the log in the hole in the bottom of

So let's flick the fleck, brush the speck, twist the tail, chase the frog, flatten the bump, break the branch, burn the log, fill the hole in the bottom of the sea.

Because we need it like a hole in the sea.

See?

Hospice volunteering request... How about you?

Most of us remember a person who seemed to go out of their way to help us during a difficult time in our life... a grandparent, a teacher, even a stranger who became a friend.

The recollections of these "faces of caring" remind us of the good within each of us. No where are these faces of caring more common than among the volunteers that are part of Hospice Compassus. We are currently looking for compassionate hearts to join our team of volunteers throughout the six counties in which we serve.

If you live in Bedford, Cannon, Coffee, Franklin, Grundy or Moore and this speaks to your desire to service others, please contact, Julia Logan-Mayes, Volunteer Coordinator at 931-455-9118 or email at Julia.loganmayes@hospicecom.com.

The offering of a few hours a month can bring joy, comfort and relief to caregivers who are wearv. This is perhaps is one of the most precious and priceless gifts... the gift of time.
