General Election 2010: County Executive

KEVIN HALPERN
Courier Co-Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first in a series of articles detailing the duties and responsibilities of the county offices up for election in August.

Cannon County voters will go to the polls August 5 to elect persons to serve in a number of county offices for the next four years.

One of the persons they elect will serve as county executive. The current salary for the position in Cannon County is $66,702 per year.

Three people will be on the ballot for voters to choose from: Mike Gannon, Rebekah Hindman Parton and R.O. (George) Pittman.

Gannon is the current county executive and has held the position the last eight years. He is seeking his third four-year term.

Parton is a current Cannon County

Commissioner, having served the last eight years on the body. She is the owner and operator of A Touch of Home Flowers.

Pittman currently helps at J.P.'s Fine Swine Bar-B-Cue, which is owned by his son. He has a background in business, having worked as a vice president for an explosives manufacturer.

The proposed budget for the executive's office for the 2010-2011 fiscal year is approximately $178,000. The executive has two assistants, a secretary and a bookkeeper.

Million Dollar Class Leaves CCHS

The CCHS graduates make their way through the gate and onto the field for the start of the graduation ceremony.

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

There were anxious moments throughout Friday afternoon as Cannon County High School administrators kept close tabs on the severe weather throughout the Mid-State area in an effort to determine whether to hold graduation ceremonies on Fred Schwartz Field or move them inside the gymnasium

Graduates Encouraged To Focus On Their Memories

Friday night.

All school officials had to watch was the weather.

Cannon County seniors were anxious about closing one chapter of their lives and beginning the next.

In the end Mother Nature obliged as 160 Cannon County seniors earned their degree before a standing-room only crowd at Schwartz Field Friday night. Graduates made their way from the school to the football stadium, where they were greeted by hundreds of family members and friends who attended the milestone moment.

The weather - much like the graduates recognized on this night - was never a problem.

"We were watching the weather all day and hoping we would not have to move the event inside the gymnasium because if we did we would lose about 75 percent of our audience," Cannon County High School Principal Tim Knox said. "We watched it and we tried to wait as long as we could to make a decision. It was all around us but it never hit here."

In fact, it was a beautiful evening with blue skies, creating the perfect backdrop for an ideal evening. It is fitting that even Mother Nature cooperated with the Cannon County

Representatives Give Students Voice On Issues

At any Cannon County School Board meeting you can expect to see the usual players - teachers, administrators, concerned parents, and members of the media.

You're also likely to see CCHS Junior Student Representative Jeran Tenpenny.

CCHS has two student representatives each year. Teachers vote to elect a representative during the student's junior year and they serve the second half of their high school career. Jeran Tenpenny was elected in 2009 and will serve until he graduates in 2011.

The primary role of a student representative is to serve as a liaison between the student body and the school system's administration and teachers. One example is the controversial updates to the See VOICE, page 11

Arrests Made On Drug Indictments

Investigators for the Cannon County Sheriff's Department concluded a nine month drug operation on Friday, May 14 when nine cases were presented to the Grand Jury who had convened for the May term.

Presenting the cases to the Grand Jury as sealed indictments was Investigator Charlie Wilder, who along with Investigator Vance Walker, conducted the drug operation.

Bonds for all defendants were set by Circuit Judge David Bragg after the indictments were returned.

As of Wednesday, May 26, three defendants have been picked up on the warrants. They included:

• Donna Kim Falkenback, 50, 5824 Dickens Hill Road, Bradyville. Ms. Falkenback was charged with Sale of a Schedule IV Controlled Substance (two counts) and Maintaining a Dwelling for the Purpose of Selling Drugs. Bond was set at $40,000.

When Investigators Charlie Wilder and Vance Walker conducted a traffic stop to arrest Ms. Falkenback, a passenger in her vehicle, Ralph Gerald Pena, 47, 5824 Dickens Hill Road, Bradyville was also arrested on an outstanding warrant from Rutherford County. He was booked at the Cannon County Jail and later picked up by the Rutherford County Sheriff's Department.

• Gregory Jason Porter, 33, 406 Lester Street in Woodbury. Porter was arrested by Deputy Brandon Gullett on Wednesday, May 19. The See ARRESTS, page 11

Bullard Remembered For Desire, Passion, Humility

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Those who coached and knew former Woodbury standout athlete Steve Bullard remember him as not being the biggest or fastest athlete on the field; however, what he lacked in size and strength he more than made up for in desire, passion and humility.

Bullard, 53 of Joelton, Tenn., passed away Sunday, May 23 at St. Thomas Alive Hospice. Funeral services were held Tuesday, May 25, at Cheatham County Funeral Home. He was buried in the Will Smith Cemetery in Ashland City.

Bullard starred as a receiver and safety on the gridiron for Woodbury Central in 1974, helping lead the Lions to their first 10-0 season - a feat that has not been duplicated since. It was Bullard's only season to play high school football but it left a lasting impression and helped pave the way for future personal success.

"He was just a natural athlete," former Cannon County football coach Mike Mayfield said. "It was just unbelievable what he did on the football field and had he played more than one season there probably would have been several of the bigger

THANKS SO MUCH

Once again, I need to thank a lot of people here in the great little town of Woodbury and this is the best way. First, thanks to all the people at the Stones River Hospital for their care of me when I had a very serious health problem in December for eight days. Then I spent almost 3 weeks at the Woodbury Nursing Center for rehab. I thought I knew all about them, my wife being there for 5 years now, but my time being there as a patient myself showed me even more what a great nursing home it is. Thanks to their care and hard work, I left there feeling almost 100 percent.

A special thanks to my good friends Al and Sandy Sacthell who took care of my dear little Angel.

And last but not least the people at the Cannon County Animal Clinic, Gayle Tate and Angela Tate Mullinax and all the others for their understanding and sympathy when I lost my dear little Angel. Thank you also for the help you have given me since with my new little Dolly.

Thank You...Emerson Johnston

Thank You

Tammy and I would like to thank everyone who helped make our Relay For Life a success on May 21st held in Cannon County.

Your donations of baked goods, money, time, being here with us, all of it, meant everything to us! By working together, we can and will make a difference in the fight against cancer!

To our "Melba's Mavericks" Team Members, you were awesome! You made us rock! Your hard work and team spirit in the fight against cancer was amazing to see!

A special thanks goes out to Korie Aycock and Harriett Stewart who inspired, and believed in us, every step of the way.

To all of you, thank you for sharing this heart-warming, wonderful experience with us.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

Rebekah Parton Announcing Candidacy for County Executive

REBEKAH PARTON

I, Rebekah Hindman Parton, am announcing my candidacy for county executive.

I grew up in the Woodland Community with my parents, Roger and Sharon Hindman and sisters, Kayla and Shannon. I now reside in the Eastside Community with my husband, Hugh and son, Landon.

For the past 8 years I have served on the County Commission for District 4. I have always strived to represent my district well and do the best for the entire county. I love this county and the way people are so close, like one big family. If you give me the chance to serve as county executive, I would love to make this county grow. When I say grow, I mean good growth, such as Industry. I would like to get these small factories in this county and create jobs. We have had so many in this community impacted by the layoffs. You sometimes don't realize unless it's you. If we can get some of these small companies to come in here and offer 30-50 jobs we can boost the revenues.

R.O. (George) Pittman Announces for Office of County Executive

GEORGE PITTMAN

I would like to take this opportunity to announce as a candidate for the Office of County Executive.

I have been happily married to the fabulous Mrs. Anna for forty years and we have two wonderful children, Lisa, our oldest, and Jason, owner of JP's Fine Swine Bar-B-Que.

As many of you know the economy has been very slow for the past two years. Many have lost jobs and have taken lesser jobs than they would like. Our tax base has grown smaller over this time to the lowest level in a long time.

If elected to this important position, I pledge to work hard to get new businesses to locate to Cannon County. This will not only help create jobs, but will also help bring in much needed revenue to operate the County Government.

Most people must go to neighboring counties to purchase their needs. We must have in place the business infrastructure in this county to increase sales tax and property tax revenue to be able to provide basic county services.

Increase in revenues would be great for the taxpayers.

There are other ways to bring in money besides raising the taxes. As a small business owner I have faced the challenges of decreased revenues due to the lack of industry in our community. There are so many people here leaving this community to work.

I have owned and operated A Touch of Home Flowers over the past 4 years. Through this experience I have learned so much. The county will be managed with the same efficiency as we manage our own business.

If elected county executive, I will be held accountable for the office I hold. I will spend countless hours to achieve the goals I have set forth for this county. I am prepared to sacrifice the hours needed to help this county move into the future. The office of county executive will be more accessible and more open to the possibilities available to this county and it's citizens. As a county resident and taxpayer I want to know where our tax dollars are being spent. My view is the citizens feel the same way as I do.

If elected, the expenditures of the county will be available to the public. You can trust small town politics are no longer working for this county and it's future. Vote to make a difference and I'm that difference. Your vote will count. Let's move this county forward, together, accessibility and accountability, not just talk.

I come from a business background where I was sent to operations that were failing to meet sales and operating projections. It was my job to turn these operations around in a short amount of time to be profitable. I know how to make the tough decisions to get things up and running again.

If you choose to elect me for this job I will bring this ability to the Office of County Executive for the good of all. Give me this opportunity for one term and if I have not made a difference in the operations of this county, then unlike other elected officials, I will not burden you any further.

I would also like to remind all registered voters and all those that need to be registered that it will be YOU that will make a difference in how the county government is operated. I urge all citizens to register to vote and then to exercise that right at the poles on August 5th and cast a vote for your future.

Thank you for your time and remember a vote for R.O. (George) Pittman is a vote for your future and change.

There will be a pancake breakfast fund raiser for my campaign at Westside Grammar School on Saturday, June 5 starting at 6:00 a.m. until 10:00 a.m. Please come and meet me there as well as other candidates for office.

You hit home runs not by chance, but by preparation.

--Roger Maris

Karen Ashford Announces For ReElection as District 2 Commissioner

In her most recent position at Vanderbilt, executive director of the Parents and Grandparents Campaign and Parents and Family Programs for the university's four undergraduate schools, Hazelwood led a 2009 campaign that raised $12.4 million in gifts.

"We are excited to have Claudia join our development team at Webb," said Interim Head of School Gordon E. Bondurant. Building on its rich traditions and strengths, I look forward to partnering with Webb's incoming head of school, Ray Broadhead, faculty and staff, the Board of Trust, and our alumni and parents to continue Webb's progress and make the next leap forward."

Rigsby Announces For County Commissioner 3rd District

My name is Greg Rigsby, and I am running for the position of County Commissioner in the 3rd district. I was born and raised in Cannon County, and I have lived here most of my life with my wife, Connie, and my two children, Candise and Trevor.

My work experience includes 26 years at Nissan North America in supplier quality engineering where I am responsible for communicating with hundreds of suppliers concerning part changes and quality issues. In my spare time I work on cars, enjoy camping with my family, and enjoy my newfound hobby of beekeeping.

I believe we live in the greatest country in the world where the people make a difference at all levels. With your votes, I will represent all the people of the 3rd district and will strive to make our county the best it can be.

We live in a county that is one of the most picturesque in the state with a great county seat that is anchored in rich history. However, we need to work to improve and not just maintain. Improvement does not mean losing the small county feel we all know and love; it means to make that small county feel the best it can be. We need a plan to improve things that we now enjoy, to bring new ideas that will help bring support, and to get people involved.

We need people to look into the future at where we want to be and not just be satisfied with doing what will get us through the next year. I ask the people of the 3rd district for their vote, and if elected, I will serve with pride.

If another's heart can be made glad through your sacrifice, it's no longer a sacrifice but a privilege.

Hupp To Serve 90 Days For Violating Probation

Judge Susan Melton presided over Cannon County General Sessions Court on Tuesday. Some of the results from the various cases which appeared on the docket included:

Timothy Hupp pled guilty to the charge of violation of probation. His probation was extended and he was ordered to serve 90 days in jail.

Rhonda Davis pled guilty to the charge of driving without a license. She was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. That sentence was suspended upon an equal amount of time on probation, paying a $2.00 fine and paying the court costs.

The remaining cases on the docket were civil and simple traffic cases. In the traffic matters, Judge Melton either assessed a fine and court costs or ordered defendants to attend driver safety school. In the civil cases, either a hearing was held or default judgments were entered.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

County Jail Prisoners Are People Too

TO THE EDITOR:

EDITOR'S NOTE: A copy of the following letter was submitted to the Cannon Courier for publication.

Billy Nichols, Sheriff
Cannon County Jail
Woodbury TN 37190

Billy,
As you can see, I am addressing this to you as a person not necessarily as the Sheriff. I have worked in public service for 27 years, I do not consider myself an expert on human nature, but I do have a lot of experience in dealing with people when they are at a crisis point in their life. Therefore, I feel comfortable writing you this note commending you and your staff on the handling of 'people'.

At the Good Old Days, I was very impressed with the mannerisms, caring attitude and willingness to assist that your volunteers provided to the public. I, like you, have observed a lot of people through my job, what were good people, in desperate situations, making the wrong decisions. I admit, it took me a few years of working with the public, and some aging, to learn the lesson of not to judge immediately when becoming involved with a situation and with people.

These young men were absolutely superb. The gentleman at the gate would no less than insist the senior citizens wait for an escort to help them carry their chairs to a shady spot around the stage. Our booth workers, as well as all booths, were checked on at least three times a day to see if anyone needed anything. The young men you provided were irreplaceable at setting up tents, unloading merchandise, helping with lights, etc.

I caught Anna at the fairgrounds and told her how proud you all should be of these young men. They were not just doing a job, they had been given the opportunity to be a part of something, get involved and unknowingly be reminded of the manners that were instilled in them when they were young. I don't have to tell you Billy, as it apparent you know, sometimes it is a simple project such as this that wakes up a person, reminding them to get their life back on track.

I realize some people we come in contact with cannot be helped, as they will not help themselves. I know you come in contact with individuals who are dangerous. With that said, I want to commend you for not only remembering you are not just a Sheriff but a person; and more so for taking the time to acknowledge that there are individuals you oversee in your jail are not just prisoners, but people.

'Cancer Never Sleeps, And One Night Each Year Neither Do We'

Teams of walkers participated in Cannon County's Relay For Life on Friday, a symbolic all-night relay that represents the struggle faced by cancer patients.

The mood at Dillon Park wavered from solemn reflection to jovial celebration. One moment CCHS students were playing upbeat rock, and in another a cancer patient spoke of her struggle.

"They gave me six months to live," Melba Chancey explained. "That was back in October and I'm still here... When I was diagnosed I prayed for two things, the wisdom to accept it and then for my fighting spirit to return. Both prayers were answered." Chancey's relay team, Melba's Mavericks, had a Mardi Gras theme and were handing out beads for donations.

American Cancer Society Staff Partner and organizer Harriett Stewart detailed the meaning of the Relay.

"Our motto is 'Cancer never sleeps, and one night a year neither do we.' The relay symbolizes the experience of a cancer patient, beginning at 6 P.M. the teams begin walking... The relay goes on for a full twelve hours. We do one walk by candle light which represents the patient's darkest hour. By early morning the participants are worn and tired and the public has left... The morning light shines over the trees just before 6 A.M. and that symbolizes a clean diagnosis."

The Relay serves a number of functions, it is a fun atmosphere for the public, it is a way for people to deal with the loss of loved ones to the disease, but most importantly it raises a lot of money for cancer research.

No official figures have been released but the Relay is expected to raise over $15,000.

Meaner Than Fiction: Reality TV High On Aggression

Newswise — All the gossip, insults and dirty looks add up fast on popular reality shows, far outpacing the level seen in equally popular dramas, comedies and soap operas according to a new Brigham Young University study.

The researchers looked at five reality shows and five non-reality shows and found 52 acts of aggression per hour on reality TV compared to 33 per hour for the non-reality programs.

"The Apprentice" topped the list at 85 acts of verbal or relational aggression per hour.

Simon Cowell and "American Idol" checked in a little lower at 57 aggressive acts per hour — but then again, backbiting is tough to do while singing.

"I knew the level of aggression was going to be high, but I had no idea it was going to be this high," said Sarah Coyne, a BYU professor of family life and lead author of the study. Coyne's findings will appear in the June issue of The Journal of Broadcasting and Electronic Media.

The researchers analyzed 120 hours of programming and coded every instance of physical, verbal and relational aggression. The 10 shows selected for the study are popular with audiences in Britain, although several shows are American productions.

And despite the "reality" label, half of the aggression appeared to be incited by producers. One common tactic is to put participants in a booth and bait them into saying something nasty about their competitors.

What's the big deal?

Numerous other studies, including one by Coyne, demonstrate that meanness rubs off on viewers. And that was using very contrived and clearly fictional scenes.

"Of any type of program out there, I would think that reality programs are the most likely to be imitated," Coyne said. "All audiences think it won't affect them, but we aren't as immune as we think we are."

Guest Columnist, Tennessee Farm Bureau

Uncle Sid Calls The Election

It was a beautiful Tennessee spring afternoon when I pulled in the long gravel driveway of Uncle Sid and Aunt Sadie's farm. The hills behind their house this year are bathed in hues of deep greens due to all of the rainfall that we have received and it sure looks like spring is finally here. Their white frame house located among the landscape of the spring colored hillsides seemed to be part of an artist's painting hanging in a gallery on the strip in Gatlinburg. Springtime on a Tennessee farm is something to behold!

But, their drive did show the signs of "The Flood of 2010" with some pretty deep ruts cut by over 13 inches of rain that the table to share with Uncle Sid some of Aunt Sadie's cookies, I noticed Uncle Sid was looking at one of those large colorful postcards that you get at election time from the candidates telling you about how wonderful they are and how terrible the other folks have been. I knew this was going to be an interesting discussion, because politicians and Uncle Sid go together like pretty and ugly.

"What do you think about that fellow Uncle Sid?" I asked while biting down on one of Aunt Sadie's chocolate chip cookies.

With the campaign card in his hand and a lap full of mail, he slid the card back into the pile and placed all of it on the floor with a bang that frightened their yellow farm cat, who was sleeping on the back rail, half to death. "All I want is for these fellows to tell me what they are for and what they are agin," he said, now pouring himself a glass of iced tea. "Tell me what you are going to do and what you believe in, plain and simple."

With his tea glass in his hand and kicked back in his glider, he started a story by saying, "The way they are doing things over in Nashville reminds me of a baseball game we had here back in the forties. Our community team was playing the adjoining community team and it was a real rival."

I got me an extra cookie and eased up on the edge of my chair to take in on the action of every word.

"Doc Jarvis came to umpire because everyone considered him fair and he wasn't kin to anyone we knew, but he was running for constable in the area, which could cause a problem," Uncle Sid went on with the story. "It was a hot, July day and both teams played hard. It was the bottom of the ninth and our team was in town with Gimpy Haaks at the bat. Gimpy had never been much of a batter and we knew we were in trouble.

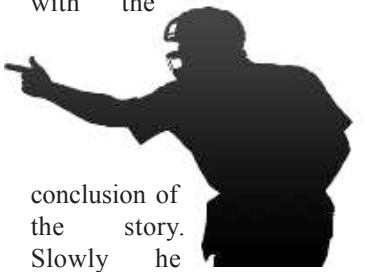

Uncle Sid took a sip of tea and went on with the tale. He said, "With the first pitch, Gimpy swung the bat with his eyes closed and hit the ball all the way to the outhouse in left field. He took off running as hard as he could. He had got the name Gimpy for a reason, but he was a fighter. He rounded second while the other team was still looking for the ball in the weeds. We didn't have a fence, so a ball was playable as long as you could find it. A little guy finally saw the ball in a stand of rabbit tobacco and grabbed it. One problem. A black racer snake had also claimed the ball and didn't want that little guy to have it either."

With that, I dropped my cookie.

"The right fielder who wasn't afraid of snakes came all the way over from right field, grabbed the ball and threw it home. Gimpy started sliding all the way from third and kicked up dust all the way," Uncle Sid said while grabbing for a cookie. "The ball, Gimpy, and the catcher were all hidden by a cloud of red clay dust. As the dust settled, you could see Gimpy and the catcher in the face of Doc Jarvis, both wanting to know if Gimpy was safe or out."

Uncle Sid poured another glass of tea and took his time with the conclusion of the story. Slowly he said, "Old Doc knew he was running for constable in a few weeks and his decision could mean the outcome of more than a baseball game. Taking off his cap, wiping his brow and spitting out his chew of tobacco you could hear him say before he made his final decision, 'What's the score?'" used their gravel drive for a riverbed the first weekend in May. There are places in their drive you can now change the oil in your car just like they do down at the Quick and Grease It place in town.

Does sound familiar.

Of course, Aunt Sadie met me at the front door wiping her hands on her apron and led me through the house to the back porch where Uncle Sid was looking at the mail while enjoying the warmth of afternoon sun on the porch sitting in a lime green glider. There, setting on a white painted round table, was a plate of freshly baked cookies and a pitcher of iced tea, sweet of course, and some jelly glasses just waiting for someone like me to help myself to some of Aunt Sadie's homemade delights.

Fourth Larry Trail Memorial Scholarship Awarded To Simpson

ERICA S. SIMPSON

The fourth award of the "Class of 1970 Larry Trail Memorial Scholarship" was presented Tuesday evening May 11, 2010 during Awards Night at Cannon County High School.

Class of 1970 representative, Kathleen Pack Davenport, presented the award of $1000.00 to Erica S. Simpson of 1615 Preacher Spry Road, Bradyville, Tennessee. She is the daughter of Eric and Sherry Simpson.

While at CCHS, Erica was active in The Beta Club, Math Club, Spanish Club, and the Art Club. She also was involved in Business Systems Technology at Tennessee Technological University for 120 hours during the summer.

As a student at CCHS, she worked at a daycare and in a medical office performing a variety of tasks which included doctor's coding, registering patients, assisting patients with co-pay issues, and scheduling appointments. She also volunteered an entire summer to teach reading to a Jamaican boy at Vanderbilt Hospital suffering from Osteogenesis Imperfecta, a degenerative bone disease.

At Leoni Church of Christ, she has participated in the Bible Bowl for eight years and served as a volunteer to take food to elderly widows and widowers.

At the awards ceremony, Erica also received the DTC Scholarship, Accounting Award and a Lottery Scholarship.

Erica plans to attend MTSU where she plans to study to become a registered nurse. She stated in her essay that as a nurse, she would be able to assist people in Cannon County who may have a medical emergency whether in a store, restaurant or on a highway. She further said that her heart's desire is to be able to associate and interact with people of all age groups.

The scholarship is awarded annually to a deserving high school senior who plans to pursue a college degree. In order to be considered for this award, the recipient must be a Student graduating from Cannon County High School with a GPA of 3.5 or higher who has been accepted for admission by an accredited college or university. The candidate must submit an application and test results from the ACT and/or SAT.

It must also be accompanied by a 500-700 word essay, which explains why he or she deserves this scholarship and how winning it could benefit the Cannon County community. Additionally, a proof of acceptance letter from the college or university the student plans to attend must be included with the application.

The Woodbury High School Class of 1970 established the scholarship fund in memory of Class member Larry Trail who passed away August 21, 2006. Members of the class of 1970 are asked to contribute to the fund each year.

Because Larry's work in the community was so well known and appreciated, the fund is open to contributions from anyone who desires to contribute. All checks should be sent to CCHS, One Lion Drive, Woodbury, Tennessee 37190. Each check should have the designation - Larry Trail Scholarship.

Duke Experiences Double Dose Of Trouble

A local man was the victim of a series of unfortunate events between May 19 and May 21.

First, Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillan mediated a verbal dispute between Raymond Dale Duke of 5594 Jim Cummings Highway and Kimbel Curtis Pugh of 3506 Jim Cummings Highway on May 19. Duke told McMillan he was driving by Pugh's home as Pugh was mowing his lawn, and a rock came from the mower and hit Duke's windshield, resulting in a crack. Pugh told McMillan he had contacted his insurance company, who Pugh said agreed to pay the claim. Duke said that would be satisfactory.

Two days later, Duke reported on the morning of May 21 the theft of a 1999 Honda 300EX four wheeler (valued at $2,100) and a 1995 Kawasaki KX85 dirt bike ($900) sometime during the previous night. Deputy Reed Bryson took the report.

In other recent reports from the Cannon County Sheriff's Department:

- Apparent gang-related vandalism occurred at 533 Simpson Road on or about May 19. Deputy Matthew Parsley responded to the residence on that date with regard to a vandalism report. Michael Brauchi stated he received a call from his realtor, Bill Jordan, who had received information from a subject named Joe, who lived in the area, and had seen juveniles in the vicinity of the residence and who could have committed vandalism.

Brauchi found large areas of what appeared to be gang-related material spray painted on the back side of the home. Damage was estimated at $600.

- Deputy Anthony Young was dispatched to 2966 Bradyville Road on May 19, 2010 on a report of a suspicious vehicle made by homeowner Sherry Morton. Young checked the residence and found everything to be in order. He later spoke with both Sherry and her husband Russell Morton. They stated there was a screen on the back bedroom window that was bent. They said they had noticed it being like that before.

- Patricia Rains of 10689 Jim Cummings Highway reported being the victim of online fraud on May 19, 2010 at the CCSO. She told Deputy Anthony Young that she had ordered a book on the Internet on May 12, 2010. Since then she had had nine fraudulent credit card transactions on her bank account at Regions Bank. The total of the transactions is $1,490.44. All the transactions look to have been made out of country. She was advised to get a report of this incident for future reference.

- Gregory Jason Porter was arrested at 406 Lester Street on May 19 by Deputy Brandon Gullett on a capias warrant for sell of controlled substance and transported to the Cannon County Jail for booking.

- Deputy Steve McMillan went to 5621 McMinnville Highway on May 20 to take a report of vandalism. Mark Lewis told him that someone had damaged a door on his storage building by knocking off the latch and damaging the door. The storage bin was rented to Altie Mckin of Fayetteville, TN.

- Authorities found a home in "total disarray" and possible drug-making materials on May 19 at the residence of Bobbie Jo Copes, 6629 Dug Hollow Rd., Bradyville. Deputy Anthony Young, Detective Charlie Wilder and Officer Shelly Christensen with Probation and Parole. During the search of the residence, Detective Wilder found four coffee filters with a white residue on them in a cabinet in the corner of the kitchen. A set of electronic scales was also discovered inside a China hutch. Both were taken as evidence and the coffee filters were sent to the TBI lab for identification of the white residue.

- Rebecca Reed of 1553 Bradyville Rd., Woodbury, reported her neighbor's dogs tried to bite her on May 20 as she went to her mailbox. She said one of the neighbor's border collies grabbed her by the pant leg. Deputy Anthony Young spoke with May Weatherly of 1558 Bradyville Road. Young found five dogs at the residence, including four border collies. Weatherly said she would put the dogs in the pen in her back yard. The dogs also had shock collars on them.

- Richard Burton III, 209

Lewis Lane, Woodbury, was arrested by Deputy Anthony Young on May 20 and charged with domestic assault. Burton reportedly became inebriated on Jim Beam and allegedly physically and verbally assaulted the victim.

- Clayton Crawford of 835 Duke Road, Morrison, reported a theft of lights, two extension cords, a crescent wrench and vice grips from a cabin located in the woods behind his home on May 22, 2010. Deputy Reed Bryson took the report. Items were valued at around $125. The theft apparently occurred between May 15 and May 22.

- Charles Douglas Cooper of 6817 Auburntown Road, Auburntown, was transported by Deputy Eric Moss on May 22 from the Rutherford County Sheriff's Department to the Cannon County Sheriff's Department where he was turned over to booking for violation of an order of protection.

- Deputy Tommy Barker went to the Rutherford County Jail on May 23 to pick up James Daily of 640 W. Main St., Murfreesboro, to transport him to the Cannon County Jail, where he was booked on a charge of violation of probation.

- Timothy Ryan Lawson, 136 H. Parker Rd., Woodbury, was the victim of an apparent assault on May 22, but he was the one who ended up in jail. Deputy Tommy Barker was dispatched to Stones River Hospital in reference to an assault which had happened off Cavender Road. Lawson told Barker that he had been assaulted, but did not want to reveal the identity of the person, and did not wish to pursue charge. During the course of the interview dispatch informed Barker that Lawson had outstanding warrants in Bedford County. Lawson was placed under arrest and held at the county jail for transport of Bedford County following his release from the hospital.

- James Adam Senart of 2000 Dement Hollow Road, Readyville, reported he heard something in his kitchen at 3:30 the morning of May 23. Senart told Deputy Patrick Fann when he walked out of his bedroom and into his living room he noticed that the entry door to the kitchen area was open and then he saw a man on his hands and knees in front of his refrigerator. When Senart started toward the man, the intruder flipped the dining table over in front of him and got up and ran out the door. Senart said he did not see which direction the man ran because he went to check on his family. Fann did not notice any signs of forced entry or direction of travel. Senart said there was nothing taken.

- Melton Lane neighbors Patricia Collins and Misty Orr became engage in a dispute over mowing on May 23, and Deputy Randy Neal handled the call. Collins, who lives at 136 Melton Lane, told Neal that Orr would not stay off her property. Collins said Orr would mow part of her yard when she mows and said she had asked Orr now to do so. Collins also said she had her property surveyed on April 20, 2010 and that Orr pulled the stakes up before they could get metal stakes driven into the ground on the property line.

Neal then spoke with Orr, who lives at 122 Melton Lane, who said she pulled the stakes up to mow her yard. Neal advised Orr that the Collins did not want them on their property. She said she would. She also asked Neal to tell the Collins to stay off of her property. He went back to the Collins residence and did so.

- Deputy Reed Bryson was dispatched to 2399 Big Hill Road, Liberty, on May 22 in reference to a theft. He was met there by Margaret McAleer, who stated that when she came to the residence she found all the windows open and they had not been left that way. She said she was in the process of moving out of the residence, and had left there the night before at 1700 hours.

Upon returning and looking around the property, they found several items missing, including a walk behind Troy-Bilt mower and a Poulan chain saw. McAleer stated she has been having problems with the landlord and some of the maintenance workers, and that is why she is moving from the location.

- Allen Madding of 7501 Hollow Springs Road, Bradyville, reported to Deputy Eric Moss on May 23 that his neighbor who lives behind him was shooting what appeared to be a rifle and he had heard rounds go over the top of his house. Madding said he had no problem with his neighbor shooting his gun, just not toward his home.

Moss went to 7107 Hollow Springs and spoke with Christopher Haley, who stated that he was target shooting and a round ricocheted. Haley said he would be sure to shoot in a safe direction in the future.

- Deputy Brandon Gullett went to 10342 Jim Cummings Highway on May 24 to serve a warrant on Katherine Y. Goodman. She was located sitting in a chair at the residence and was arrested and taken to Human Experimentation?

Recent reports in the national media about human experimentation are extremely disturbing. The Nashville Banner, Tuesday, June 28, 1994, revealed that Vanderbilt University experimented on human beings over a twenty year span. Radiation experiments were conducted on eight hundred and nineteen pregnant women "to learn how iron was absorbed by pregnant women" (p. A-1). Vanderbilt's experimentation on pregnant women was done under the auspices of the federal government. Between 1932 and 1972 our government decided to investigate syphilis among black men in Tuskegee (Macon County), Alabama. Doctors from the Public Health Service conducted tests to ascertain how black men were affected by untreated syphilis. The government simply investigated syphilis; they made no attempt to treat it.

Even when penicillin was discovered and widely used to combat the scourge of syphilis, the doctors in the Tuskegee Syphilis Study allowed the men afflicted with syphilis to continue their suffering without any medical relief. Millions of Americans reacted with horror when they learned of the cruel human experiments of the Nazi government. American service men were submerged in water while the temperature of the water was gradually lowered until the soldiers froze to death. The purpose of the experiment was to learn how quickly German pilots would die when they were shot down over the North Atlantic.

German doctors performed hundreds of experiments on human beings. Some of these brutalities are chronicled in Robert Jay Lifton's book, "THE NAZI DOCTORS." In our condemnation of German scientists, were we not condemning ourselves for equally hideous practices? How could American doctors or German scientists or anyone else have so little regard for human life. Could it be that they did not believe in the sacredness of all human life?

Could our killing of one million six hundred thousand unborn babies stem from the same disregard for life? Does not our president and other government leaders show disregard for human life when they legalize and support experimentation on aborted fetuses? Are not all human beings - unborn babies, handicapped people, old people "fearfully and wonderfully made" (Psalms 139:12-14)?

In view of God's view of those creatures made in His image, how can anyone support abortion, infanticide, euthanasia and suicide? Does not this put to naught the second commandment of Christ to "Love thy neighbor as thyself" (Matt. 22:39)?

ELECTION ...

A county executive is both a manager and a mediator. The person who holds the position is responsible for running the business of county government. They are a manager of money and people.

The county executive interacts with state and federal government officials and agencies. He or she serves as a primary point of contact for companies interested in doing business in the county.

Unofficial duties include providing assistance to citizens who need services, or have a complaint about county government.

The County Executive is the chief executive officer for Cannon County and is the highest elected official. The Executive has the responsibilities of coordinating, processing and analyzing all County legislative measures as well as exercising a role of leadership in Cannon County government.

- The County Executive compiles a budget for all county departments, offices, and agencies, which is presented to the County Commission.

- The County Executive may examine the accounts of all county officers.

- The County Executive manages the county's payroll function of all county employees.

- The County Executive manages accounting functions such as bank accounts, accounts payable and accounts receivable.

- The County Executive manages the Cannon County personnel (human resources) function. This function is responsible for the legal hiring and firing of employees, recommending salary ranges and pay scales, administering employee benefits, etc.

- The County Executive manages Cannon County's purchasing function.

- The County Executive works closely with the County Attorney on all legal matters affecting Cannon County.

- The County Executive manages the county's insurance needs and liability issues.

- The County Executive sets the standard for ethics for Cannon County. He must be familiar with the conflict-of-interest laws and disclosure laws which are applicable to Cannon County and its employees.

- The County Executive works closely with the surrounding municipalities and County Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to attract new businesses and industries to Cannon County.

Subject to the approval of the county legislative body, the county executive appoints department heads and members of county boards and commissions when the general law or private acts do not provide for the election or appointment. However, this authority is limited as the general law or private act creating the department or board usually specifies the method by which the various department heads or board members are selected.

As office management is an important function of the office, county executive should have knowledge of personnel procedures as affected by both state and federal laws. The county executive should have a basic understanding of potential liability, including both personal liability and county liability, and of the Tennessee Governmental Tort Liability Act.

A county executive must be a qualified voter in the county, be at least 25 years old, have been a county resident for more than one year prior to filing the nominating petition for the office, and must not otherwise be disqualified from holding public office (by reason of criminal conviction or other legal disqualification). No educational or experience requirements apply to the office.

The county executive is elected by popular vote at the regular August election every four years coinciding with the governor's election, and takes office on September 1 following the election, after receiving the proper certification of election, obtaining the official bond and taking the required oath of office. Failure to take and file the proper oath and bond is a misdemeanor offense.

schools after him. He only played the one season because of various factors but he was something to watch."

Bullard was a three-sport star who was most known for his play on the football field. He intercepted two passes in his first game as a Lion, running each back to the 10. Mayfield recalls another game against a top-ranked team where Bullard intercepted a pass in the Lions' end zone and also had a 86-yard touchdown reception to give Woodbury a 7-0 lead.

And then there was the memorable game against Lynchburg, which Woodbury had not beaten in 25 years - until 1974. Lynchburg was unbeaten and had been unscored upon but Bullard caught two touchdown passes and ran the second half kickoff back 90 yards for a touchdown. By the time the smoke had cleared Bullard had led Woodbury to a 22-87 win.

Woodbury Mayor Harold Patrick called the action for local radio and he remembers Bullard as one of the best all-around athletes ever to play in Woodbury.

"He was absolutely one of the best I've seen play here through high school," Patrick said. "He wasn't big, maybe 5-foot-11, 165 pounds, but he had talent and he just played. What stands out to me is how hard he played. (Bullard) gave you his heart and soul the entire game. What he may have lacked in talent he made up with his heart, passion and tenacity."

That's how Hall of Fame Coach Boots Donnelly remembers Bullard. Donnelly signed Bullard to play football at Austin Peay following a stellar two-year career at Northeast Mississippi Junior College. Bullard helped lead Austin Peay to its first and only Ohio Valley Conference football championship in 1977. In fact, it was Bullard who hauled in the game-winning touchdown with 30 seconds remaining to beat Tennessee Tech and give Austin Peay the title.

"Bullard had, without a doubt, as soft a pair of hands of any kid I have ever coached," said Donnelly, following Bullard's funeral Tuesday. "He was a great receiver for us at Austin Peay. He was a tremendous athlete and a very humble kid. He was just a very, very good player and late in life he became a better person than he was an athlete."

Donnelly said Bullard left his mark on the young people he taught and coached in Cheatham County.

"He had a knack for getting along with people and with people that for whatever reason had problems," Donnelly said. "He left his mark on the people who came into contact with him and he was great with special needs children. He had a big place in his heart for them."

Bullard was preceded in death by his parents, James M. Bullard and Marlene A. Taylor. He is survived by his wife Angela Bullard; daughters, Dena Thomas, Regena Hughes and Stacey Groves; son, Brian Bullard; granddaughters, Cierra and Chloe Thomas; brother, Mike Bullard; and sisters, Pam Nash and Sandy Gray. Jesse Moulton, Danny Barksdale, Mark Forbes, Dustin Bullard, Zeb Bullard and Brian Vann served as pallbearers.

Donations in Bullard's memory can be made to the FHU Athletic Dept. Scholarship Fund c/o Mike McCutchen, 158 E. Main St., Henderson, TN 38340.

Meth Found On Petty Gap

Tuesday afternoon, May 25, at approximately 3:30 P.M. Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillen was dispatched to 440 Petty Gap Road for a report of vandalism.

Deputy McMillen was met by Terri Loftus who stated that her father, William Spradley owns the property and found some suspicious items under a metal wash tub. The items included a one gallon jug of Muriatic acid, some aluminum foil and several coffee filters in a plastic bag.

Upon further investigation Deputy McMillen called for additional officers to respond to the scene. Within a short time Investigators Charlie Wilder, Vance Walker and Sheriff Billy Nichols responded and helped with the investigation and a search of the area where the items were located.

Investigators Wilder and Walker found one coffee filter containing three to five grams of finished product (methamphetamine) with an estimated street value of $500.00.

The items were photographed and taken as evidence by the officers.

VOICE ...

2010 CCHS Prom Rules.

"The student body was pretty involved with redoing the prom rules. [Senior Student Representative] Zac Barker and I provided a lot of input and mediated the changes... We had to reconcile Knox's changes with student's concerns," Tenpenny said.

Another hugely contested issue is CCHS's schedule reworking and migration to a block lunch format. Tenpenny elaborates on the role of a student representative.

"Again we had a lot of input from the students. We were looking at seven different schedule proposals. We did a survey and block lunch won big." The block lunch format is a one-hour period in the middle of the day where students are free to eat, socialize, and catch up on work.

"Principal Knox and myself went to Hillsboro High school where they already do a block lunch to see how it works. Eventually the block solution came to committee and they voted 16 - 0 in favor. We're going to implement it for the tail end of the 2010 year while the seniors are gone."

Asked about Cannon County's need for a middle school, Tenpenny said "it's inevitable with the changing standards. You just have to start earlier [with a more standard and stringent curriculum] for kids to enter high school prepared and on course to graduate."

Jeran Tenpenny plans to attend college, possibly MTSU, and study in the education or medical fields.

ARRESTS ...

Grand Jury indicted him on charges of Simple Possession / Casual Exchange, Maintaining a Vehicle for the Use or Sale of Drugs and Schedule IV Drug Violations (two counts). He posted a $40,000 bond and was released.

- Katherine Yvonne Goodman, 52, 10342 Jim Cummings Highway. Goodman was charged with two counts of Sale of Schedule II narcotics and Maintaining a Dwelling to Keep, Sell or Use Schedule II narcotics. She posted a $40,000 bond and was released.

County Budget Committee Turns Down Several 2010-11 Requests

KEVIN HALPERN
Courier Co-Editor

Having gone through the process of hearing all of the budget requests from the different county departments and agencies, the Budget Committee of the Cannon County Commission began its final review of the proposals Thursday night.

Based upon the review by the committee, it is unlikely every county department or agency will receive all of the money they are seeking, although the ultimate decision will be in the hands of the full county commission.

In addition, the requests presented include a three percent pay raise for county employees, and it has yet to be determined if there will be enough money available to make that possible.

Entering Thursday's meeting the proposed County General Budget for fiscal year 2010-2011 shows estimated revenues of $5,064,178 and projected expenses of $6,209,881.

The first proposed budget to get pared by the budget committee's knife Thursday was that of the Cannon County Ambulance Service. Director Ricky Cope is seeking $114,153 more for Medical Personnel to pay for an additional crew. The sentiment expressed by budget committee members Chairman Mark Barker, commissioners Greg Mitchell and Kevin George and citizen representative Bill Jennings was that it is not affordable at this point to increase staffing.

The sheriff's department is seeking a nearly $100,000 budget increase, the majority of it for increases in employee salaries, wages, overtime pay and benefits. The committee made some minor downward suggestions to those budget line items.

During the discussion of the proposed budget for the sheriff's office, Fifth District Commissioner Bob Stoetzel questioned why there were line items and salary figures listed for the positions of Chief Deputy and Sergeant(s) when there were currently no persons filling those positions and there are no plans to do so. The committee decided to move the money the sheriff proposed setting aside for those positions to another line item in the sheriff's budget, that of Deputy(es).

(EDITOR'S NOTE: During the discussion of the sheriff's budget, this reporter and Stoetzel got into a heated verbal exchange after I blurted out for Stoetzel — who was sitting behind me — to "hush" when he interrupted me while I was attempting to ask Chairman Barker a question. We continued our heated dialogue following the meeting. I apologize to the members of the committee and those in attendance for my part in the incident.)

Other major budget increase requests the committee recommended trimming or eliminating Thursday included:

- That of Fire Prevention and Control, which is seeking an additional $252,000 for Motor Vehicles ($200,000) and Other Equipment (including pumper/SCBA Bottles).

- Funding a $40,000 salary for the Supervisor/Director of Cannon County Emergency Management.

Also considered or recommended by the committee Thursday:

- The Cannon County Senior Center requested a $15,000 contribution from the county, up from $4,000 this year, but the committee suggested $6,500.

- Cannon County SAVE, which provides services to victims of domestic violence, desires a $10,000 contribution from the county. The committee will forward the request to the full commission.

- The budget requests of the County Executive Office and the Election Commission Office were trimmed slightly.

- Left relatively unchanged were the requests from the Adams Memorial Library System, the Parks and Fair Boards (Community Center), Agricultural Extension Office and Veteran's Services.

Man Turns Mad After Mud Bog

Chad Stephen Leverett of 123 June Street, McMinnville, was charged with multiple offenses following an incident after the Centertown Mud Bog on May 22, 2010.

According to a report filed by Deputy Eric Moss, he was dispatched to 2528 Auburntown Rd., Woodbury, in reference to a possible drunk driver who had left the scene. There he spoke with Donald Curlee and Cortney Anderson, who said that while they were leaving the mud bog a red GMC Sierra with tinted windows got behind them and followed them all the way home.

Curlee said the driver of the GMC would run the vehicle up on their bumper at excessive speeds while flashing his bright lights on them. He said the vehicle also passed in front of them at one point and the driver then slammed on the brakes. Curlee said the vehicle was surviving all over the road throughout the ordeal.

Curlee said when he pulled into his driveway, the GMC pulled in behind him and struck the rear of his vehicle, backed up and then drove through his front yard, damaging the grass, and then headed back toward Woodbury.

Anderson told Moss that during the time the truck was chasing their vehicle the driver has his window down and was flipping them off. She said the driver was a big man with dark hair, a tattoo on his left arm, earrings and was wearing a dark t-shirt.

Moss radioed available city officers and gave them a description of the vehicle. Later, while at the hospital on an unrelated call, he was contacted by hospital dispatch and informed that city officers had a vehicle fitting the description of the red GMC stopped at Hill Street and McMinnville Highway.

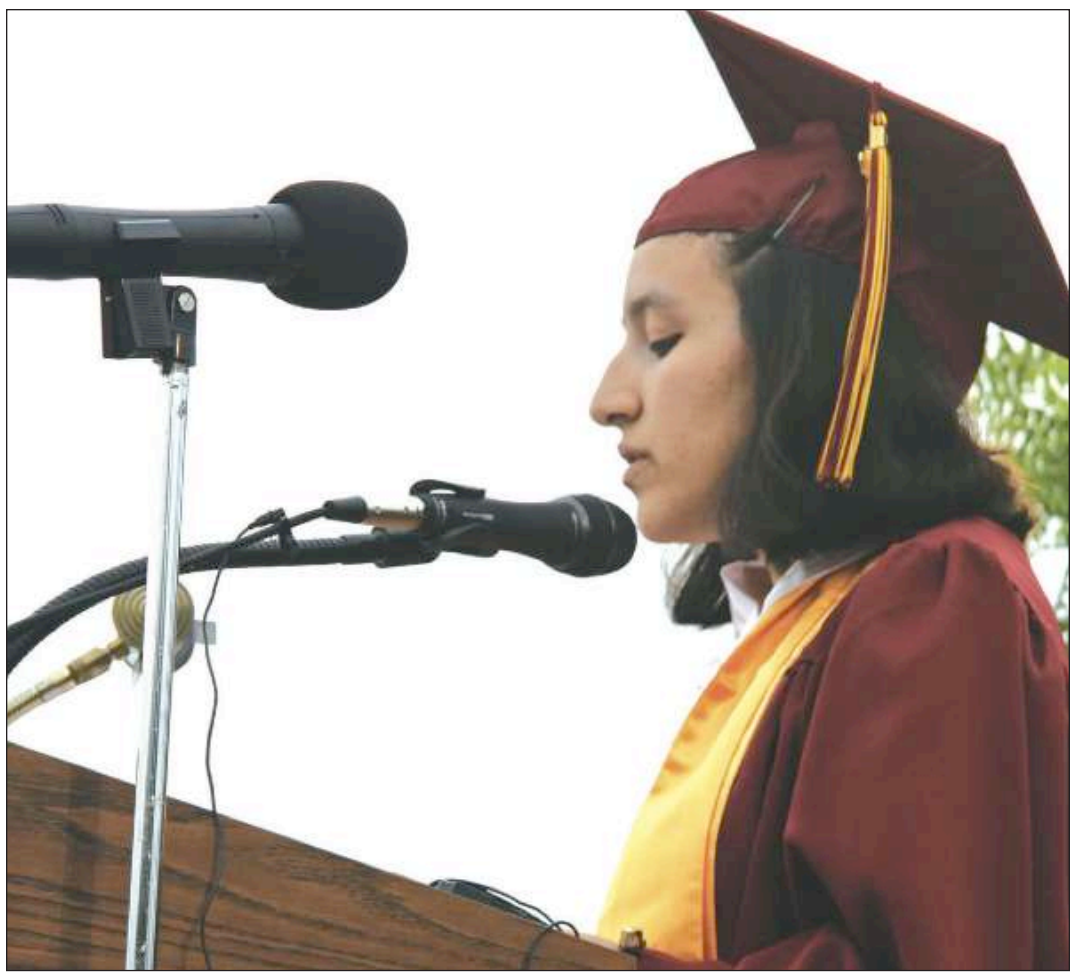

Moss went to the location and observed a red GMC with tinted windows and damage to the front bumper. He also observed the driver fit the description that was provided by Curlee and Anderson. Moss contacted Curlee and Anderson and brought them to the scene, where Leverett was being placed under arrest for DUI. They identified the truck as the one which had followed them from the mud bog to their home. They also identified Leverett as the driver.

Moss took Curlee and Anderson to the sheriff's department where they met with a judicial commissioner. Warrants were issued against Leverett for aggravated assault with a weapon on Curlee and Anderson, one for leaving the scene of an accident, and one for destruction of property.

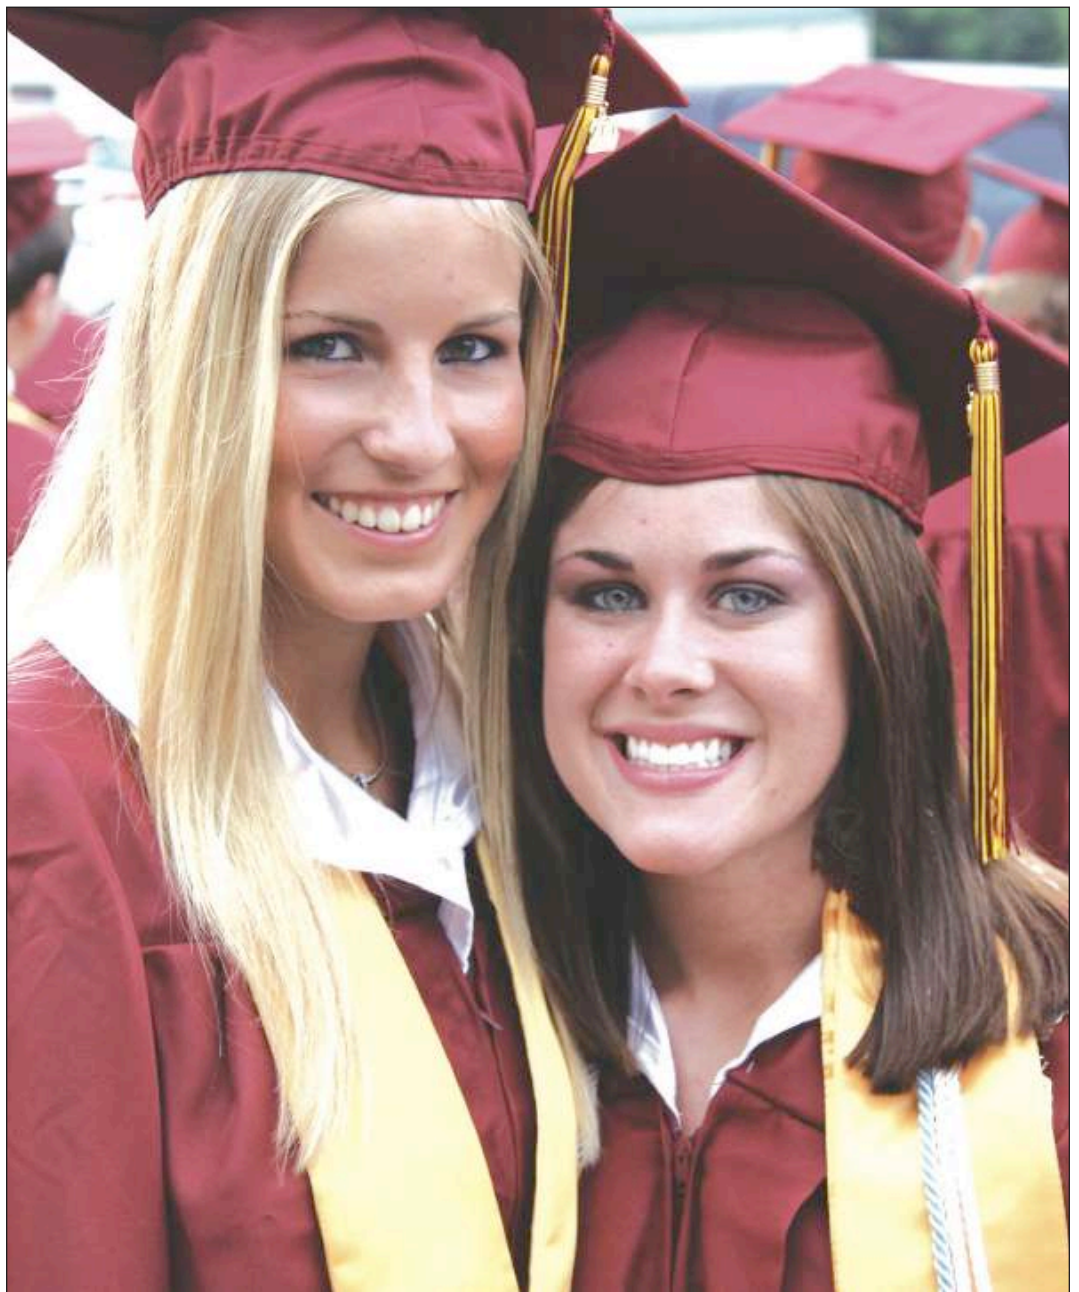

Leverett was read the warrants at the county jail while he was being booked on the DUI charge.

graduation exercises because the Class of 2010 proved to be highly supportive and productive throughout the high school experience.

The hard work and dedication is reflected in the nearly $1 million in scholarship money earned by the Class of 2010.

"It is a great academic class," Knox said. "This class will receive almost $1 million in scholarship money. They have accomplished a lot and they are great kids. It's a well-rounded group and we are proud of all of them."

"This is our biggest night of the year. This is why we get into teaching and why we do our jobs. This is the culmination of a long year, but a great year."

Valedictorian Sabrina Gomar's marvelous speech was a reminder of the great memories developed during the high school years, but she also reminded her peers not to forget the people who helped push them to reach this point. Gomar urged her fellow classmates to stay on course and continue to make "the right choices."

"This is the last day we will all be together at the same place at the same time," Gomar said. "The best memories we most likely will have will include our final days at Cannon County High School. We have work ahead of us but that does not mean we won't have fun anymore. We will not have our parents or teachers there making sure we are on the right path."

Sara Bowman, the 2010 Salutarian, drew a rousing ovation from classmates and attendees, as well as moments of laughter as she delivered a strong speech chronicling different aspects of the seniors' lives and how they reached this point. It was funny, emotional and touching but more than anything, it was memorable.

"When we were freshman all we talked about was graduation and how we couldn't wait," Bowman reminded her classmates. "You are going to miss seeing these people you are used to seeing every day. I made some of my best friends and memories at this school. Now it is winding down. We are down to an hour or less."

It was then Bowman looked at the Class of 2010 and provided perhaps the greatest of all advice, saying, "Let go of your grudges and focus on your favorite high school memories, and remember when you think you have gone as far as you can go then you are only halfway there. As proven by us being here tonight, you can make it!"

Friendships and memories were prevalent themes but as the ceremony unfolded one could easily decipher there is much more to Cannon County's Class of 2010.

How much more will be determined with what they do with the next chapter of their life. The one that just closed was filled with success at varying levels and areas for the 160 graduates Friday night but as Bowman and Gomar pointed out, "this is just the beginning."

Showtime At First Baptist At Arts Center June 4-19

Showtime at First Baptist will play onstage at The Arts Center of Cannon County, June 4th through 19th. Tickets are $10 with discounts available to groups, seniors and students. Call the Box Office at 615-563-2787 or visit www.artscenterofcannoncounty.com to make reservations or purchase tickets.

Join the church ladies of First Baptist of Ivy Gap as they return to the Arts Center stage celebrating the smashing success of First Baptist's 100 anniversary picnic. The ladies are giddy with joy except for one little thing: a bolt of lightning that struck the sanctuary, destroyed the steeple, the organ, and sent the pastor, Edith's husband, to the hospital.

In order to raise money to rebuild, and perhaps as a way to preoccupy themselves, the ladies come up with the idea of having a big "talent show" for everyone. Lucille is adamantly opposed to the idea since it is, of course, of the devil, but through laughter, tragedy, and showbiz, the church - and the women - survive, stronger than ever.

Directed by Donald Fann and produced by Jill Spry, this show features Karen Lewis as the pastor's wife Edith and banker's wife Vera (Nancy Stewart) are joined by Suzanne Oliver as church organist Mae Ellen and Meredith Lane as former Vegas showgirl Olene.

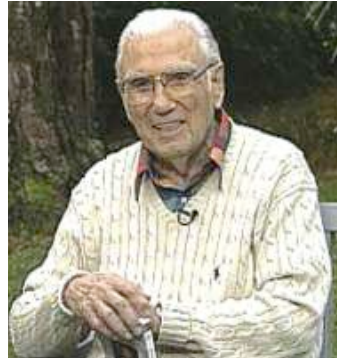

Showtime also features Faye Northcutt-Knox as "Assistant Deputy Sheriff" and mayor's wife Lucille, who patrols Main Street in a red Caddy, complete with siren. Her daughter-in-law Annie, her new husband in Vietnam, is played by Casey Hindman, caught amid the seasoned women who run the town and the church.

The performance schedule for all shows is Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:00 p.m. Ticket prices are $10 and may be purchased by calling the Arts Center box office at 615-563-(ARTS) 2787 or 1-800-235-9073. A $2 discount for students, seniors or groups over 10 is valid for all performances.

Tickets may also be purchased online at www.artscenterofcc.com. The Arts Center Cafe is open before all performances, so be sure and call in advance for our discounted dinner/show packages.

Showtime at First Baptist is sponsored by Smith Funeral Home and is part of the 2010 Stagedoor Series sponsored in part by The Old Feed Store Antique Mall. The Arts Center is located on 1424 John Bragg Highway, just west of the town of Woodbury

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER Michael A. Guido, D.D.

A rancher said to the district superintendent, "We want a preacher."

"How big a man do you want?" he asked.

"We don't care," said the rancher. "But when he's on his knees, we want him to reach heaven."

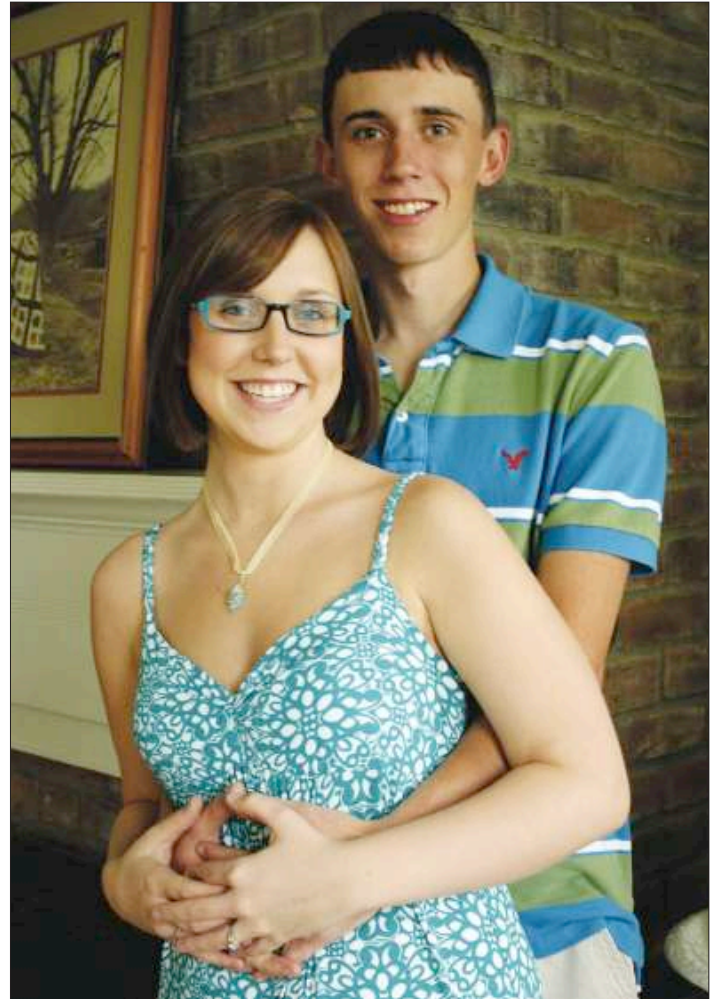

Reaching God is the objective in prayer, and you can through Christ.

Prayer is an invitation from God. You can't intrude upon Him. He invites, "Call upon Me, and I will answer thee." He's more ready to answer than we are to ask.

Prayer is an invitation to God, to let Him give strength for weakness, wisdom for folly, guidance for gloom and help in hazards.

Yes, prayer is heaven's telephone. It's free to all, never busy and always in order.

Roamin' Cannon County

By BOB STOETZEL, Contributing Writer

Grady George Sr. Starting a family

As it has been depicted in story after story of the days after WWII, the men were coming home. Grady was at Camp Atterbury in Indiana when he got discharged from the Army. Avaneil came up there; she had gone back home to finish high school. She was still in high school when they got married which was pretty much normal back in those days.

"The allotment she was getting for me let her go back to school," Grady said. Grady had guaranteed Nell's daddy (Sam Jones) that he would make sure she got her diploma; that was one of the rules that Sam told Grady that had to happen if Nell was to marry him. He also said he would take care of her. To go back a little in the story Grady's children were in the interview when they asked their dad to tell again how he had "proposed" to their mother, Avaneil.

Grady says that back in the forties in Woodbury the kids would come to town on Saturday and walk around the square looking in the shops and meeting up with friends. Grady was in his car with a friend, Albert Grisham, and Avaneil and Irene Nichols were walking up the sidewalk when Grady said something to them and they got in the car.

They were talking about some friend of theirs had gone to Rossville, Georgia and got married. "While they were still talking I said to Avaneil, do you want to get married?" Avaneil said, "yes". "I hadn't planned to ask her to get married, but then I couldn't back down." They sat there in the car for a while and then Sam Jones, Nell's dad, came up to the car to get Nell and he said, "Come along home Nell; we got to do some feeding," and Nell said, "No daddy, we are going to get married." Grady continues on and said Mr. Jones stated "Aw, you look like you are going to get married, now come on."

Grady said he told Mr. Jones that yes sir we are going to get married. "I was hoping she would finish school and she is too young to get married," said Sam. Grady told him that he would see to it that Avaneil finished High School and that he would take good care of her. Sam went back to the car and then Georgia (called Georgi) Jones came up to the car and told Nell to get out of the car and come on, but she kept telling her mother that she was marrying Grady.

There was a rumor going around after that that the county judge said he could hear Georgi yelling over at the courthouse. Grady said she was disappointed and still mad when she got home to Gassaway.

They went to Georgia that night and returned early in the morning, around 2:00. "My uncle and aunt Gerdy lived near where we did. Grady said that nobody locked their doors so Avaneil and he were going to take the spare room.

When they walked in they were asked what they were doing and they told them that had just gotten married. They didn't believe them and was told yes. Grady asked how much. The answer was $9,000.00 for the house and 114 acres. The man told Grady that a couple had looked at it the day before but they didn't say anything to him about holding it for them. Grady told him he would take it. "I bought it sight unseen and never knew anything about it. I didn't even know that it had a creek on the property."

But there was still one matter to attend to; they were

Grady that before he and Nell stayed there he had to show them a marriage license. "So I went back out to the car and got the license to show them."

Grady remembered that when they were going to get married they stopped in Manchester to let Nell buy a dress for the wedding. The man who performed the ceremony was Ray Crowe. David, the oldest son, asked his dad if he was mad at Ray Crowe, Grady said, "No I liked old Ray, I had a good wife".

The next day he took Nell with him back to the base and got her set up in a room because he was going in the field for a couple of weeks. And as it was said before, when he left for Europe Avaneil went home and finished school.

Grady and Nell had a farm in Seals Hollow and they sold it because they were going to Indiana to work. Grady was a welder and there were job opportunities there for him in that trade. They were leaving for Indiana and real soon. So they talked to John D. and Marie Milligan and asked him if he would live there and oversee it until they came back. John D. agreed and the Georges could go up to Indiana and feel relaxed. The house Grady says was built in 1908 by the brother-in-law of Lonnie Ferrell.

Lonnie and his family moved in across the road. Lonnie Ferrell died some time ago. He was 6 years old when they moved into the house across from Grady's house and lived there until he died when he was in his 90's.

All the trading that Grady was famous for helped out the family during their lifetime. Grady went to farm school which was given at the Veterans Memorial Gym. Avaneil and Grady were entrepreneurs according to Grady Jr. While farming the Georges operated a portable Roller Rink.

Avaneil owned several places here in Woodbury at different times. They actually owned the building where the first Dollar General bought; it was the Georges Five and Dime. After they sold the building to Dollar General, Nell was the first manager of it. The Dollar General has been in about three different places and is now the Dollar General Grocery Store at Edgefield.

Nell had the Trade Fair (the Quick Shop) and the Fina near Piggly Wiggly. They operated a restaurant at the corner of Lester and McCrary Street where the Good Will trailer sits today. Scotties was a the original restaurant there. There was the Ice Cream Shop on Main Street right across from the Courthouse. When the girls were older they always helped their mother in whatever she did in the food business, and she was always successful in what she did.

Grady and Nell had five children: David, Jana, Grady Jr, Faye and Beth. They were always a close family and the way that Grady described his father, he was the same way.

Nell had been hit by a bread truck right at her driveway in the late 1990's and the family said that is when her health started going down. She died in 2005. Grady is now having heart problems which started about a year ago. He currently has a pacemaker to help his heart.

His family is seriously devoted to him and they show it. Grady has twelve grandchildren, great grandchildren and one great-great grandchild.

Grady feels himself blessed to have had such a good family, a good wife and partner. He continues to live on the farm that he has had for 60 years and remembers the woman whom he had married and stayed with for 61 years.

temporarily living at Nell's mothers' place up Rock House (Hwy 53 North towards Gassaway). They were still trying to find a farm of their own, even knowing that they would be gone for a while.

Grady said he and Nell were looking at a place to buy on the other side of McMinnville and on their way they passed this place in the Leoni community. Grady said Nell told me that that is the place that she would really like to live. I told her you couldn't buy that for love nor money. But on their way back from looking at the place in McMinnville they came upon the house again and there was an auction sign in front of the house where it had not been earlier when they came through.

Grady and Nell were at the auction place the next morning when they opened up. It was Hoyt Bryson's auction company. They asked if a person could buy the land before the auction date and he

Over 250 Turn Out For Turney

Story and Photos By Donna Nichols

As his life flashed before him, he sat with his wife of forty-three years and felt mixed emotions to be leaving Auburn School which greatly had impacted his life. Along with a host of well-wishers, he watched with interest a PowerPoint presentation that chronicled his forty-four year career in education. The staff of Auburn School hosted a retirement reception for him with over 250 in attendance on Sunday afternoon May 23rd. With a tearful voice, Roger Franklin Turney thanked everyone for coming, then he jokingly said, "I didn't know there would be this many people so glad to see me gone!"

First grade teacher for thirty-six years, Ms. Betty King stated, "Working with Mr. Turney has been a roller-coaster ride of tears and laughter - it has been fun." Director of Cannon County Schools, Ms. Barbara Parker stated, "It will be difficult to replace a legend like Roger Turney who will greatly be missed." Melinda Crook fifth grade teacher for nine years stated, "Mr. Turney is a great supervisor who lets us do our job. If we need help with something, no job is too small or too large. He has a huge impact on Auburn School as well as the Auburntown Community."

In addition to his vocational career, Mr. Turney is a dedicated civic and church leader. His youngest son Travis finds it hard to visualize his father as retired. "He is the man that never stops going," he declared. Mr. Turney has served on the Auburntown City Council since 1970 and as mayor since he was first elected in 1972. He has been an elder at the Church of Christ in Auburntown for the past twelve years. He is a 1972 charter member of the Auburntown Lions' Club and has served as its president for more than a decade.

Mr. Turney chuckled when he said that after retirement he would most likely visit Auburn School frequently, "Just to make sure it is still there after serving as principal for thirty-six years". Although born in Ohio, Mr. Turney lived in Auburntown when he was enrolled in first grade at Auburn School under the tutelage of Miss Elna Duggin. During the fourth grade, he and his parents, Hop and Mable Turney, moved to California with his siblings Dennis and Jacqueline. However, they always returned every couple years to visit family. "When I was a teenager, I noticed a pretty school girl named Shirley Turney.

Between visits, we kept in contact by mailing cassette tapes to each other," he explained. "Shirley was the real reason I moved back to TN to attend Middle TN State University (MTSU)," he disclosed. Mr. Turney lived with his maternal grandparents, Charlie Hawkins, the first mayor of Auburntown and wife Jennie. He earned both a bachelors' and masters' degree and taught at MTSU for four years prior to becoming principal at Auburn School.

When asked to name his greatest career accomplish, Mr. Turney showed his sense of humor by saying he was just glad to have survived! He reported that his biggest challenge came after the Auburn School burned in 1977. Many people felt the county could not afford to rebuild the school. Mr. Turney reported his father-in-law, Tommy Turney, was a member of the county court and instrumental in promoting funding for a new elementary school. The new Auburn School opened in 1980 with additional space constructed in 2002.

Mr. Turney is looking forward to retirement and spending more time with family, including sons Todd, Corey and Travis and five grandchildren. Mr. Turney's wife Shirley has enjoyed retirement from teaching for the past three years. Mr. Turney has planned a garden to share and already has thirty-six tomato plants. Perhaps that is one tomato plant for each year he was principal at Auburn School. Mr. Turney also has plans to renovate his 1964 Ford Falcon and enter it in antique car shows.

During the retirement reception for Mr. Turney, a book with hand written notes, letters and pictures, was lying on the gift table. His students at Auburn School had designed and given him this special gift showing their friendship and respect. One 5th grader wrote "...I will miss you like when you pass me and you always tap me on the head and we laugh. I will miss that. No one will ever take away that memory." A couple of kids commented on their principal's math teaching skills. "Thanks for helping me on my math lessons and thank you for helping me with all that algebra." A teenager said Mr. Turney made it fun to come to school and another said she would miss walking with Mr. Turney when he takes her class on their daily exercise walk. A 4th grade child declared Mr. Turney was "astonishing" while his fellow classmate drew a bright blue sea with the inscription that he would miss Mr. Turney "forever and ever".

If anyone could be called, "Mr. Auburntown" it would be Roger Turney. His many accomplishments were recently recognized by the members of the 160th General Assembly of the State of TN. A Resolution honored him as an outstanding educator who has provided the highest quality of education for Tennessee's students. That is the sentiment of so many family, friends, co-workers and community leaders who came to wish him well on his special day to celebrate his much deserved retirement.

Hot Rods Sizzle In Coach-Pitch

Practice Makes Team Nearly Perfect

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

The saying is, "Practice makes perfect," and for a team of Cannon County 7-8 year-old Coach-Pitch players the motto almost held true during what has been a fabulous 2010 season in the Cannon County Youth Baseball League.

The Coach-Pitch Hot Rods, coached by Scott Schwartz and Thad Raines, reeled off 13 straight wins before finally staring into the face of defeat. That first loss came against the rival Bulls last Tuesday (5/25) at the Fairgrounds on a night when the park was bustling with activity and most eyes were on the Hot Rods as they continued their pursuit of perfection.

There is also a saying that no one (or team) is perfect and on that night, the young Hot Rods learned that valuable lesson.

"I think they need to learn how to win as well as how to lose," said Coach Schwartz, who is in his fifth season coaching youth baseball. "They need to learn from both ends of it because no one wins all the time and you need to understand how to lose too. I'm just here for the kids and want to make it fun and enjoyable for them."

It has, indeed, been a fun and enjoyable season for the Hot Rods, who were mostly dominant on their way to the 13-0 start. During that stretch they scored 15 or more runs nine times, including 20 or more in five games. Even while they were seemingly invincible the players realized they were conquerable. In fact, numerous players said they were surprised to have won all of their 13 games before being tamed by the Bulls.

Team members include Garrett Alexander, Hunter Harris, Eddie Hill, Michael McCord, Brandon Miles, Jake Raines, Brandon Schwartz, Brady Sissom, Austin Taylor and Davin Wilson.

"I'm really surprised we have been this good," said stellar standout Jake Raines. "I thought we would lose some games because there are a lot of good teams and there are good players on those teams. I think we have done really good this year, better than we thought we would. We just show up every day to play ball. That's what we do."

And they do it very, very well.

There's a reason though and it's rather clear why these NAPA Hot Rods appear to click on all cylinders when they get on the game field.

What's the secret to success? "Practice, practice, practice," third baseman Brady Sissom said. "We practice hard and we play hard."

"Practice is what has made us so good. It's the No. 1 thing," said first baseman Branden Schwartz, son of manager Scott Schwartz. "I am surprised at how good we have done. I thought we would be pretty good, but not this good. I guess no one is perfect."

Practice may be the overwhelming factor for the team's success; however, there are other variables. Several of the players have been together two or more years and many of the Hot Rods on this year's roster are older players. In fact, eight of the 10 are in their final year of Coach-Pitch so this team definitely has experience that matters.

"At the start of the season I knew we had a chance to be pretty good because we have a lot of older boys," Coach Schwartz said. "They have played together and they just have the ability to do it. They don't have the big head. They are just a good group of boys that want to play ball. They don't show a lot of excitement or disappointment depending on how it is going. They always play the same and that has made for a good experience for the players, coaches and parents."

The Hot Rods spin out some guady offensive numbers but they also are rather dyanamic in the field. They turned one triple play and two double plays in the same game this season.

"We do seem to play good defense," Sissom said. "We work on it a lot because it's fun when you get out there and are able to do that - turn a triple play or get people out. It's a lot more fun than getting out or striking out."

The Hots Rods are one of 40 teams participating in the Cannon County Youth Baseball League this season. Teams play at fields at The Fairground Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Information regarding the league can be accessed at cannoncountybaseball.com.

Young Lions Step Up During Spring Drills

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

After losing 12 seniors from its District 9-AA championship squad in 2009, Cannon County's football team will feature several new faces in key positions for the 2010 campaign.

If the 2010 spring practices and Saturday's (May 22) scrimmage against Sequatchie County to close out the spring are an indication then it appears only the names have changed - the same championship mentality still exists.

"We lost a lot of good talent, real good talent, but we are going to be OK," Cannon County coach Joel Schrenk said. "We are a million miles ahead of where we were last spring, and I saw progress throughout this offseason. A lot of guys have stepped up and that's what we needed to happen."

One such player is sophomore Brandon James, who won the starting quarterback job coming out of spring drills. But James is just one of several young players who have caught Schrenk's attention throughout the spring.

Sophomores Zach Osborne and Ryan McLaurine have solidified starting jobs on the offensive line. Justin Tobin and newcomer Collin Jones also have made a splash.

The most glaring questions facing Cannon County entering spring practices were which young players would step up? Would the Lions continue to be physical and compete? Who would earn the starting quarterback position?

All were answered during the two-week process that culminated with an impressive, physical scrimmage against Sequatchie County Saturday.

"Brandon James has stepped up and won the quarterback job and Heath Simons is the No. 2 quarterback and he is very capable so we have two solid quarterbacks," Schrenk said. "I think the offensive line is going to be strength for us and I was a little worried about that. These kids have always been physical, more than anywhere I've been. They love being physical. I think we answered all the questions we had going into this spring."

make a run at the job," said James, who played on Cannon County's 2009 championship team as a freshman. "I felt like I had a good spring but there is still a lot of work ahead. We had a great spring as a team and we have a lot to build on going into the summer."

Two of Saturday's scores featured goal-line collisions in which Collette willed his way into the end zone by bullying over the defenders blocking his path.

Cannon County's defense allowed just one touchdown during the 10-play portion of the scrimmage and otherwise had a strong performance forcing numerous turnovers and collecting three.

"We take pride in winning battles and being a physical team," linebacker Gabriel Walkup said. "We had a real strong spring. We improved and were able to accomplish the things we set out to accomplish."

Simons, one of the veterans who will be counted on for leadership, said the tone was set during the spring and the new attitude Cannon County has is evidenced in increased numbers and improved play on the field.

"We had to find a lot of people to step up during these spring practices and we did," Simons said. "We found out what we needed to and we know what we have to do heading into the summer. I believe our defense is going to be pretty good. It's a physical bunch that likes to hit and that is to our advantage. We lost 12 really good seniors but we have a good group coming back and that showed this spring."

Coach Joel Schrenk talks to the team after the scrimmage game.

James demonstrated how and why he earned the starting nod at quarterback exiting spring drills during Saturday's scrimmage. He had a 35-yard touchdown pass to Damon Collette and another to Simons. Cannon County also scored three of five times inside the 10 and Simons also led a scoring drive.

"At the beginning of spring drills coach (Schrenk) told me I had to step up and

Lady Raiders Hire Fuller

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. - Middle Tennessee head women's basketball coach Rick Insell has announced the addition of Alex Fuller to his staff as an assistant coach for the upcoming 2010-11 campaign.

"What a great asset to our program," Insell said. "We have a variety of different young ladies at our post positions, which is exactly where Alex spent her career playing."

"She brings a unique attitude and work ethic to the team. I am very pleased to bring her on board and have her help continue the tradition we have set forth." Fuller, a 2008 Tennessee graduate and former player for Insell at Shelbyville Central High School, was a graduate student manager at Kansas last season under Bonnie Henrickson. The Jayhawks finished 17-16 and advanced to the third round of the Postseason WNIT.

Fuller completed her undergraduate work at Tennessee, while lettering for four seasons for head coach Pat Summit. She was a part of two NCAA Championship teams, in 2007 and 2008.

She played in 139 career games with 31 starts, averaging 5.5 points and 3.8 rebounds throughout her career. She redshirted her freshman campaign of 2004-05 due to a knee injury. Her most productive season came as a senior, when she averaged 7.5 points and 5.9 rebounds for the Lady Vols.

Playing under Insell at Shelbyville, she helped lead the Lady Eaglettes to a trio of state titles in 2001, 2003 and 2004. The 2003 campaign saw the school post a 37-1 record, while she garnered 3A Miss Basketball honors as a senior on the way to consecutive state crowns.

Walk-Off Homer Eliminates Raiders

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. - Three newcomers were the key for the Blue Raiders as they battled against Troy before falling 6-5 on a walk-off home run in an elimination game at the Sun Belt Championships.

Juniors Eric Gilley and Will Skinner along with freshman

Ryan Ford posted outstanding performances in the loss. Gilley worked seven innings allowing four runs on five hits to guide the Blue Raiders throughout the game.

"A very good ball game. Eric (Gilley) pitched a very good game. I felt like I went with him as long as I could. Not that he wanted to come out, by any means. Nothing happened today that I haven't seen during the season," head coach Steve Peterson said. "Shaky is a nice word to describe our bullpen. We have to out-trick them and things like that because we don't have a closer per se. We weren't able to do it. The wild pitch was huge, but really, all our relievers got hit pretty hard."

Skinner and Ford combined for three RBI and scored three runs as each had a home run while Skinner's second hit was a double. Skinner went 2 for 4 while Ford was 1 for 4. Ford's home run was the first of his young career and handed Middle Tennessee a 4-2.

It was an exciting part of the game, and I got to hit that one, but all in all, it's nothing when you don't get the win," Ford said.

The Blue Raiders ended the season 35-23 after going 1-2 in the Sun Belt Championships with both of their losses coming to the Trojans. Middle Tennessee led 5-2 headed into the bottom of the eighth before Troy tied it a 5.

Troy's Steven Felix handed them the win with his home run to left center in the bottom of the ninth. The Blue Raiders played their first game as a visiting team in the 3rd base dugout during Friday's contest.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Abraham Tested
 From Genesis 22

God: "Abraham!"
 Abraham: "Here I am."
 God: "Take your son, your only son, Isaac, whom you love, and go to the region of Moriah. Sacrifice him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains I will tell you about."

Abraham traveled for 3 days with Isaac and two servants until he saw the place in the distance. Leaving the servants he took Isaac and continued on to the place he said they would worship and then come back. The wood for the burnt offering was placed on Isaac. Abraham carried the fire and the knife.

When Isaac asked about the lamb for the offering, Abraham told him that the Lord would provide. Reaching the place, God told Abraham about, he built an altar and arranged the wood. He bound his son, placed him on the wood and raised his knife to slay Isaac.

Just then an angel of the Lord called out to Abraham from heaven and told him not to slay his son. Abraham had proved that he feared the Lord.

Looking up, Abraham saw a ram caught by his horns in a thicket. Abraham sacrificed the ram as a burnt offering instead of his son. Abraham called the place THE LORD WILL PROVIDE.

MASSAGE MOMENTS

by Nancy Coomes, LMT

One thing that I have been hearing a lot from clients is that their allergies are acting up and that it is a bad spring for allergy sufferers. I don't have a lot of problems with airborne allergies so I am not always aware of how bad the allergy season is. But I have been hearing a lot of sniffing and congestion. Frequent Kleenexes are being dispensed throughout the massage sessions, too.

According to Ian Wahl, D.Ac, L.Ac of ChicagoHealers.com there are steps you can take to help prevent allergy flare-ups.

*Take a whole-food-based vitamin C. Vitamin C is a natural antihistamine.

*Drink a lot of water. Hydrating your body is one way to help flush out toxins and help provide relief.

*Keep your dryer vent clear. When it is clogged or an excessive amount of lint is built up then it will create added dust in your house.

*Use a HEPA filter vacuum cleaner. This type of filter does not recirculate back into the air the dust the vacuum cleaner has just picked up.

*Wear sunglasses. There is certain amount of photosensitivity with hay fever and allergic rhinitis. The sunglasses help reduce the light sensitivity which cuts down on the excessive watering of the eyes.

*Take magnesium. Many immunologists recommend 400 milligrams of magnesium daily as it is helpful for allergies and breathing problems. Try eating magnesium rich foods during this time. Foods like nuts, beans, green leafy vegetables, and whole grains.

*Stay away from dairy. If your allergies are acting up, cut back or eliminate dairy as it is phlegm producing.

*De-clutter. Get rid of the junk and clutter in your house. Clutter is a major source for dust and dust mites which can severely aggravate allergies.

You can read more about allergy prevention at www.ChicagoHealers.com.

The Gospel Plan of Salvation

Consider what the Lord has revealed to us.
The Gospel Plan of Salvation

1. In order to be saved, we must hear the word of God that we might believe on Him. (Romans 10:13-17)
2. Having heard the Gospel, we must believe in Jesus the Christ. (John 3:16, John 8:24, Hebrews 11:6)
3. We must confess that belief before men and God. (Romans 10:10; Matthew 10:32-33)
4. In order to be saved, we must repent of our past sins. (Acts 2:37-39; Acts 17:30-31)
5. Having done this, we must be baptized for the remission of sins. (Mark 16:16; Acts 2:38; I Peter 3:21)

When this has been done, the Lord's plan of salvation has been followed. The only result of this process can be a Christian, a saved follower of Jesus Christ! This is not the end, however. It is simply a new beginning! From this point on, the Christian lives only to serve his Lord. It is by obedience to this plan and by this faithful service afterward that we can expect to inherit eternal life. (Matthew 25:14-30; Revelation 2:10)

If you have not obeyed this plan, God's Plan of Salvation, you are not a Christian. If you have not been obedient, you cannot inherit the Kingdom. (Matthew 7:21-23) If you are now reading this and find that you have not followed this plan, the good news is that it is not too late.

The scripture says, "...I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation." 2 Corinthians 6:2

If we of West High Street Church of Christ can help you in any way in your obedience to our Lord, please contact us using any of the methods given below.

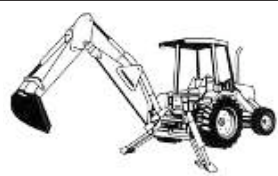

Until next time, let me encourage you to search the scriptures daily, whether these things are so. Acts 17:11

AG Warns Against On Line And Other Frauds

BOB COOPER
Tennessee Attorney General

The capacity for thieves to steal your identity and commit fraud is only limited by their creativity.

According to Tennessee Bureau of Investigation crime reports, online and other fraud is a serious problem in Tennessee. Federal Trade Commission statistics place our state in the top half of the nation in fraud, identity theft, and related consumer complaints. This means that all of us should remain vigilant against identity theft and other deceptive activity.

More people than ever are using the internet to shop, bank, search for jobs, and, as seen recently, donate to or volunteer for charitable work. While managing your life online is convenient, it may come at a high price if you are a victim of fraud or identity theft. But you can take steps to mitigate this risk.

The General Assembly has provided both my office and the District Attorneys powerful tools to use in combating identity theft and other fraud. Under consumer protection and criminal laws, identity theft is defined expansively, interpreted liberally, and subject to substantial financial and criminal penalties. Taken together, the laws protect a wide-range of sensitive information including biometric data, social security numbers, and health insurance account numbers from law breakers in this state. But unfortunately, many of the most sophisticated scams operate from beyond our state and national borders.

Consumers themselves are the front line defense against identity theft and related fraud. My office's Consumer Division works closely with the Commerce and Insurance Department's Division of Consumer Affairs to help Tennesseans learn how to avoid disclosing their personal information and to resolve those cases where sensitive data may have been compromised.

In some instances, it is not the consumer's fault that personal information is compromised. My office sees a number of cases in which personal information is compromised when the security of computer databases is breached at hospitals, schools, banks and other institutions, including government offices. All it takes in such cases is the theft of a single laptop, flash drive, or hard drive to provide access to extraordinary amounts of sensitive personal information.

In 2007, Tennessee and a group of other states led a multistate investigation into the theft of confidential information stored on computers owned by a major national retailer. Company officials said the hackers broke into an electronic system handling credit and debit card transactions as well as checks and merchandise returns for customers. Information from payment cards and other transactions from almost 50 retail stores in Tennessee were potentially compromised. To resolve the case, the corporation voluntarily adopted heightened safeguards to protect sensitive customer information in the future.

The recent popularity of social media and the widespread use of internet "classified"

Corn and Soybean - Replanting, Fertility, Etc. (Angela McClure, Corn and Soybean Specialist)

There were a number of folks who made the statement back in mid April that corn planting had gone too smoothly this year!! So, we have hit our bump in the road (photo from Tim Campbell, Dyer County). Corn loss estimates are still coming in on river bottom fields as the water continues to rise, and there is clean-up to do in those bottom fields that have drained off. The good news is that compared to last year where we had weeks of cool temps and almost continuous rain, our rains have come and gone. As fast as it rained, I think a lot of water ran off upland fields which are now drying and corn is bouncing back with 80 degree sunny weather.

Most upland fields look good- some washing on hillsides and wet low spots, but as long as the corn and soybeans were out of the ground I don't think our stands are going to be badly impacted as long as the soil is able to drain. Where corn or soybeans had not emerged, check fields over the next few days. Emergence may be poor in areas that silted over too deep. Since we are into early May, a uniform corn stand of 24,000 plants per acre would definitely be a keeper. Some may choose to keep a lesser stand and accept that yield potential is going to be reduced. We don't have a lot of soybean acres planted. Our target population for keeping a soybean field is uniform stand of 100,000 plants per acre or better for a Group 4 bean.

How Long does Corn Survive under Flooded Conditions?

It depends on duration of flooding and temperature. The warmer the temperature prior to flooding, the less time plants can tolerate being under water. Emerged soybeans may be more tolerant to short term flooding than corn. Back in 2007, I had a soybean test at Milan that was flooded for several hours. The soybeans were about 10 inches tall and blooming and were coated with silt, but they sloughed off the mud and kept on growing. The plants didn't set pods on the lower branches but the crop made 50+ bushels/acre.

Where corn is under water for one day or less, I would consider salvaging that field as long as the stand is something you can live with and the plants are healthy otherwise. With corn, flood water can deposit silt and potential pathogens into the whorl. Be aware that corn can die from a condition called 'dead heart' where the tissue down in the stem turns brown and mushy but the exterior of the plant still looks okay for a few more days. Another condition called crazy top can show up late in the season caused by water damage to the growing point and tissue that forms the immature tassel.

Saturated soils or 'wet feet' will slow plant growth and have a bigger impact on nitrogen loss from the field. N loss is addressed below.

What About Replanting Corn in May or June??

Flooded river bottom fields planted to corn will be wet for 2 or more weeks. Crop insurance requirements may dictate how much

N Source	Weeks After Application of N Fertilizer
	0	3	6
	%
	of Fertilizer as Nitrate Nitrogen
Urea	0	50	75
UAN solution	25	60	80
Ammonium Nitrate	50	80	90
Anhydrous Ammonia	0	20	65

corn is replanted this year. We ran into this issue last spring where replant corn got pushed into late May and June. We are working to get our recommended corn planting windows adjusted earlier, but at this time there are no changes from last year. May 20th is still the cutoff for full coverage insurance and June 15th is the late planting cutoff that is qualifies for reduced insurance coverage. Some crop insurance companies have more flexibility as to how they push those late replant dates. The extension service is available to help in any way we can to expedite this process.

What about My Nitrogen Losses (with Hugh Savoy, Extension Soils Specialist)?

The following is a slightly tweaked version of some information we provide last year where N loss was an issue. Extremely heavy rains last weekend and subsequent flooding have created concern with producers in those fields where fertilizers that were already applied prior to or at planting may be lost. Fortunately, while P and K fertilizers are water soluble and move into the soil profile fairly rapidly, they generally stay in the upper 3 inches of the soil profile unless the soil is removed from the field with flood waters. Nitrogen fertilizer loss is more complicated. A small amount of rain will protect surface applied nitrogen from volatilization loss by moving urea or UAN down into the soil profile. Heavy rains leading to flooding and saturated soils for several days contribute to nitrogen loss through denitrification. Nitrogen loss to denitrification occurs when nitrogen in the nitrate (NO3) form is converted to nitrogen gas by bacteria in the soil. The amount of denitrification increases with the amount of time a field is water logged (soil needs to be saturated for at least 2 days in order for the bacteria to start the denitrification process).

In fields where some or all nitrogen fertilizer has already been applied, estimating the amount of N loss depends on the 1) nitrogen source used, 2) how long the nitrogen has been on the field, and 3) duration of flooding if water is standing in the field. Below is a table we borrowed from the University of Kentucky with some commonly used N sources and the percentage of fertilizer that is likely available as nitrate nitrogen at different times after application.

An estimate of denitrification loss is 3-4% loss of nitrate nitrogen for each day soil stays saturated beyond 2 days. As an example: Ammonium nitrate applied at 180 lbs N/Acre before heavy rains where fields will stay saturated for 5 days.

o Example 1: ammonium nitrate applied a few days before rains. At < 1 week ammonium nitrate will be at 50% nitrate form (180 lbs N/acre x 50% = 90lbs nitrogen/acre). With 5 days of saturated soils minus 2 days it takes bacteria to start causing denitrification = 3 days that denitrification loss will occur. At 4% loss per day x 3 days loss time = 12% loss has occurred (90 lbs nitrogen/acre X 12% loss = 10.8 lbs nitrogen lost per acre)

o Example 2: ammonium nitrate is applied 3 weeks before heavy rains. At 3 weeks ammonium nitrate will be at 80% nitrate form (180 lbs N/acre x 80% = 144 lbs nitrogen/acre). With 5 days saturated soils minus 2 days for bacteria to begin causing denitrification= 3 days that denitrification loss will occur. At 4% loss/day x 3 days = 12% loss has occurred (144 lbs nitrogen/acre X 12% loss = 17.3 lbs nitrogen/acre lost).

Postemergence or side dress nitrogen applications to supplement nitrogen that may have been lost or to apply the bulk of nitrogen fertilizer needs should be made before the V6 stage of corn, but can be economical up to tasseling in some situations. If no nitrogen was applied at planting or the majority was lost due to flooding, side dress nitrogen should be applied as soon as practical after V3 corn. These nitrogen sources work equally well as a side dress source: ammonium nitrate broadcast, injected UAN, dribbled UAN or granular urea + Agrotain. Temporary leaf tissue burn of broadcast ammonium nitrate can be minimized by spreading the material when plants are dry. Leaf burn from nitrogen fertilizer will not harm yield.

Plant analysis may be used to assist the corn grower with a side-dressing decision after growth stage V6 and up to tasseling. Eighteen to twenty of the first fully mature leaves below the whorl should be collected from the affected area (no larger than 10 acres) and sent to the Soil, plant and pest center in Nashville (see: <http://soilplantandpest.utk.edu/planttissue.html>) for Total N determination. Total N in the leaf during this time should be between 3.00 and 3.5 percent. Plant analysis is generally not very effective until after the V6 growth stage unless there are severe N deficiencies in the field.

A pre-side-dress soil test (http://soilplantandpest.utk.edu/pdf/PSNTC_infosheet105.pdf) may be used prior and up to V6 growth stage. A side-dress nitrogen application rate to correct potential nitrogen deficiency is difficult to quantify with any great degree of certainty. The range of 40 to 75 lbs N /acre is often used by corn growers making a decision to side-dress based upon calculated nitrogen loss or plant analysis results. More specific recommendations may result with the pre side-dress N soil test.

SOLDIERS OF THE NIGHT

The girl picked up and began to softly whisper the sing-song chant to herself.

With the girl in the safety of the woman's arms the rest of the beasts surrounded her, protecting the girl with their own bodies. Once again, without word or command, the group moved out the building.

And all hell broke loose.

Two beasts went down as soon as they were out the door. The soft coughs of their silenced weapons dueled the dull thud-thuds of the enemies as the team threw stealth to the wind and ran to the swamp's safety. A beast fell down with a cry, not of pain, but of anger. Now that they had their prize in their arms, they were now able to feel. The twisted yet awesome power in them let them feel, for a moment, all the emotions that they had when they were once human. The beasts escorting the girl felt fierce protection and loyalty-not like they didn't before. But the things they did when around humans were just a façade, a ruse. Truly, they thought nothing and felt nothing.

Just the awed, revered, and mysterious admiration of the moon.

That is why, in their last moments, the beasts became human once more. They cried out pain, they unleashed their anger on enemy soldiers, they set their faces in grim, heart-rending pain as they saw comrades die. They once again took the burden and blessing of human emotion because of the girl. Despite her dirty face, soiled dress, and tussled hair, the beasts fought with the strength of the animals and the tenacity of the humans because in her small, pinched face, they saw their beloved moon under attack.

And in a voice that was both animal roar and human cry, the Soldiers of the Night fought to protect their mother moon.

A soldier near the child felt his neck being torn out by a stray bullet. He kept his legs moving even as his mind began to blacken and as he stumbled, fell, and stayed, the last thing in his mind was, of course, the face of the child and the moon. In the end, it was hard to distinguish one from the other.

The girl kept mentally playing the rhyme in her head as the soldiers dashed for the swamp. She knew the poem because it was one her daddy had memorized it to her. When she begged to know about its origins, her father only smiled and said that the rhyme came from a story about a gunslinger looking for a dark tower. It was written by a man called Stephen King. When the girl asked for the story, her daddy only said, "There are many worlds, Claurice. And not many of them are very nice. The dark tower is one of them. In that world, demons and monsters and rot reign like the kings of old. Maybe when you're older, you'll learn about that gunslinger and his dark tower-but for know, your going to stick with nice stuff that little children should always know of."

But know, amid the screams of man, beast, and bullet, the girl entertained a dark thought that maybe she would never know the tale of the mysterious gunslinger and the sinister sounding tower because she wasn't going to live long enough to learn about them.

Not true, she thought. I'll live because the lady and the good-bad men are here to help me.

Not true, said a gleeful, mad voice. You'll die because it's nighttime and anything is possible.

No, thought the girl. Yes! said the gleeful voice. You'll die because it's night and anything is possible at night!

The girl tightened her eyes and repeated the rhyme in her head as the beasts ran.

See the TURTLE of enormous girth!

A beast to the right feel to the ground, burning with phosphorous bullets.

On his shell he holds the earth!

An armed man, one of the bad men who captured the girl before, horribly screamed as he was hit in the stomach.

His thought is slow but always kind;

Two beasts diverged off to kill a man with a minigun.

He holds us all within his mind.

The beasts angrily roared as they killed the man, took his multi-barreled gun, and began to wreck havoc with it.

On his back all vows are made;

An explosion sounded and something warm splattered on the girl's face. She didn't open her eyes to see what it was.

By Joseph Acuna

He sees the truth but mayn't aid.

"I'm hit! Take her!" yelled the beast carrying the girl. The girl felt herself being taken by another pair of strong arms.

He loves the land and loves the sea,

She heard men splash in the water as they neared the swamp.

And even loves a child like me.

"Go! Go! Go!" screamed the woman, now carrying the girl. As the remaining beasts withdrew, two beasts remained with machine guns to slow down the enemy. The steady, metallic sounds of bullets were the only sounds that the beasts heard as they ran through the swamp. Eventually, only one gun still roared. An explosion sounded off, along with a cry of pain. Then, mercifully, silence.

The beasts, like earlier, waded through the waist-high water in silence. They grimly looked at their platoon that had lost more than half of good soldiers. Fellow beasts that had walked and breathed like them were now shot, burnt, or blown up, barely recognizable as human even in death. But if the beasts had a religion, they would say that their friends were now with their beloved moon. As they didn't, they only counted the costs and, eventually, let their memories of their friends fade as they lost themselves in the pale, mysterious moon.

Though it was descending down into the sky now, the moon still smiled down upon her children.

They reached the compound at the very first breach of dawn.

The moon was long departed and the beasts curiously felt empty. It was if only the night and the moon could return their emotion and former human selves.

They walked like machines, ignoring the fatigue in their limbs, and handed the girl over to a grateful looking colonel at the compounds center.

"Is she alright?" asked the colonel.

"Your niece is alright, sir," said the commander neutrally.

The colonel gently gave the girl over to an aide who would find a warm bed for her. The colonel sighed and said, "Her father will be glad she's alright...thank you, team. You've done well."

The remaining beasts snapped a salute before shambling off to their tents.

The colonel went to the bed in his office, where the girl was blissfully asleep. As he poured himself a glass of water from his private sink, the girl sleepily moved and looked at her uncle.

"Morning, Claurice."

"Good morning, Uncle."

The colonel sat beside the girl. He looked very tired to her. She asked him, "Uncle, who were those men that saved me?"

The colonel, who had lied to soldiers about to die, civilians looking for the truth, and women he promised that he loved, couldn't lie to the small, dirty, and tired girl in the bed. So, as best as he could, he tried to tell her as much as the truth as one can tell to a child.

"Claurice," spoke the colonel. He tried to find the words and just couldn't. The girl must have picked up on it because she said, "Were they good?"

The colonel paused to think that. Individual soldiers had to wrestle with that question ever since men began following other men towards the battleground. But these soldiers...

They were volunteers, but that still didn't excuse the horrible thing they went through. They willingly gave up emotion, pain, and the very essence of human nature. They were machines, beasts that felt no remorse, no joy, and no compromise in what they did.

But, as it was eventually proven, not all of human nature can be stopped.

In moments involving innocents like Claurice, something inside of the beasts clicked to where they rediscovered their humanity and individuality. Just as quickly as it was turned on, it was soon turned off and they were soon back to their strange, silent selves. The only thing that seemed to bring a response in them was the moon. When asked why they fought, they would never answer-only smile and point at the sky. In daylight, the answer was meaningless. But at night, the answer was clear. Whether it was under a darkened sky or a crescent moon, the beasts fought for the thing just like them-strange, somewhat understood, and forever a question mark.

"Claurice," said the colonel slowly, "I don't think those soldiers can be called good or bad. They're something different from me and you. They just...do what they're told, and they do it for reasons like me and you can't really understand. But I do know this." He took her hand, felt its coldness and smallness, and tried to keep himself from envisioning the men cruel enough to hurt a girl like this, and said, "They saved you because it was their mission but I think you reminded them of something they loved. They were willing to fight and die for it, and if that isn't the sign of someone good, I don't what is."

The colonel leaned back as the girl curled in the bed and thought over what she was told. She had a felt a wrongness being with them, that was undeniable. But as the beasts had been willing to fight for her, she was forever grateful to them. As she once again fell asleep into blackness, the last thing she saw was a strange moon high in the sky, watching over men who were beasts and very willing to die for their own, strange reasons. If man cannot understand the hearts of beasts, then they definitely can never understand the smiling, strange, and faithful warriors called the Soldiers of the Night.

American Legion Officers Take Oath

Officers of the newly-formed Hilton Stone Post 279 of the American Legion were given the oath of office Thursday, May 20.

Vice Commander of the Department of Tennessee American Legion James Patterson gave the oath to the officers in a short ceremony. District Commander from Coffee County Ron Inyart, Post 78, explained the duties of the office to the Commander

Those sworn in were Britt Knox, Commander, Dan Bowling, Finance Officer, Carol Johansen, Third Vice Commander, Penny Daniels, Adjutant, Ron Lewis, second Vice Commander. Also sworn in were two of the Executive Board, they are Jim Stone and Bob Stoetzel, the third member of the E- Board Charlie Harrell was not present. Along with the administration of the Oath of Office some officers were given other duties. Jim Stone is the Chaplain for the Post and Bob Stoetzel is the Post Historian.

A guest speaker was present to talk to the Post and the wives about creating an auxiliary unit. Linda Winkles, from Manchester Post 78, talked to the ladies that were present and explained to them what an auxiliary did. One of the main duties of the women's auxiliary is to volunteer at the VA hospitals. To do whatever they can to help the VA patients, this could be sending cards for them or running errands as well as aiding the families.

The concept of the American Legion is to help the veterans; the Legion supports 100% Americanism and brings to the minds of everyone that will hear the plight of today's veterans. The Legion takes no political sides and does not back any candidate. We promote the memories of those wars of the past so people will never forget the sacrifice that our fighting men and women gave. There are presently over 3 million members of the Legion. Please help us help those who served.

Over the Good Ole Days and the swearing in ceremony four new members were signed up.

We send get well wishes to Bobby Don Melton who is recovering from some very serious surgery performed last week at Vanderbilt. Currently, he is in Critical Care.

What a day for a retirement party! It was an excellent turnout of family, friends, many past and present students and teachers who came to wish Roger Turney the best and even to remember the past 30+ years spent here at Auburn School. Way to go now rest for the summer and come back as strong or stronger next school year.

Receiving graduation honors Sunday the 23rd from Prosperity Baptist Church were Allison Rigsby who recently graduated from Tennessee Tech in Cookeville where she received her BS in Early Childhood Education with Special Education endorsement. DeAnna Reed is to graduate this fall from MTSU in Murfreesboro where she will receive her Master of Science in Teaching specializing in Mathematics. Congratulations "girls".

Sunday was also a day church members honored their pastor with a birthday dinner following church. Bro. Don Rigsby turned 63 on the 21st.

Chris, Sara Drue, Drew and Canyon Zimmer are visiting her parents, Donna and Eddie Nichols, for a few days. Chris is returning to Syracuse, NY to finish his dissertation in contemplation of receiving his PhD. in computer science from Clemson University this summer.

The Auburntown Historical Society met Thursday night, May 20th for their regular monthly meeting with 16 people present. Following the business session Ms. Ria Baker, Mayor of Alexandria, was introduced as the guest speaker. She gave a very informative and delightful narrative with slides, on the "DeKalb Co. Fair" dating back to 1866. The Fair has withstood several fires, floods (including one this year), tornadoes and has never missed a year since its inception. She followed the presentation with a question and answer session.

The Donnell Cemetery Memorial Service is being held Sunday, June 6th at 2:30 p.m. David Dunn, Auburntown Church of Christ minister, is to bring the message.

It's Saddle Ridge Ranch time boys and girls so get ready to "ride the range" at Prosperity Baptist Church beginning this Sunday night at 6:00. The VBS classes will go through Thursday night, the 10th, ending each night at 8:30. If you need a ride, call 464-4160 or 464-4662

Then Saturday, June 12th beginning around noon, past students, teachers, bus drivers, janitors, cooks, etc., will gather in at our local Community Center to enjoy our volunteer fire department members cooking up their delicious fish and chicken and the trimmings for our Y210 Auburn School reunion. The main reason for gathering, however, is to enjoy catching up and seeing how "young" everyone looks from the time they were at school.

I've heard some say they didn't know about the reunion so please get your class members notified as well as any teachers or workers who were there when you attended or were a staff member. We're anticipating a big time.

The next big event here is Red Apple Days set to begin Friday night and continue all day Saturday and Saturday night. Tina Fletcher is still taking applications for various contests which includes but is not limited to the queen competition for ages 6-18 years of age. Entry deadline is June 30th. Contact her at 464-4462 or 692-2845. She is working hard to make this among the best if not the best Red Apple Days in history.

Oops! Looks like my little black book got stuck and a day's worth of birthdays and anniversaries got left out of last week's column. It was May 26th when Marvin Davenport, Thomas Holder, and James Hastings celebrated another year. That made Marvin over 3/4ths of a century old!

That same day, Lindsay and Donna Gunter celebrated their 26th wedding year.

This week's birthdays belong to Scarlett Turney on the 4th, Terry Thomas, Lytle King, and Nancy Haley on the 5th, Becky Gandy and C. J. Hughes on the 6th, Alyssa Whited and Brady Lee on the 7th with Alberta Griffith finishing up on the 8th. Happy birthday to all of you.

On June 4, 1959, Velma Armstrong became the bride of Joe Turner and on June 6, 1972, Clarence and Pam Nipper exchanged vows. Happy anniversary to both couples.

TDOT, Rascal Flatts Encourage People To Adopt-A-Highway

NASHVILLE - If life is a highway, it's a messy one in many parts of Tennessee, so country music super group Rascal Flatts is joining the Tennessee Department of Transportation to ask Tennesseans to do their part to clean it up by adopting a highway.

Rascal Flatts members Gary LeVox, Joe Don Rooney and Jay DeMarcus are featured in a new 30 second public service announcement and on billboards across the state encouraging Tennesseans to "Show Your Pride and Adopt-A-Highway today". The goal of the campaign is to raise awareness of the volunteer program, encourage more participation and to remind motorists to Stop Litter in Tennessee.

In the new 30 second PSA, Rascal Flatts guitarist Joe Don Rooney picks up a piece of litter tossed along the side of a roadway and asks, "Think this is no big deal?", as vocalist Gary LeVox remarks, "Think about 12 million pounds of it."

Since the Adopt-A-Highway program's inception in 1989, volunteers have collected more than 12 million pounds of litter from Tennessee's roadsides. These volunteers help produce cleaner roadsides, reduce maintenance costs, and boost litter prevention awareness in the "Volunteer State."

"The volunteers of the Adopt-A-Highway Program are essential partners in protecting and preserving the natural beauty of Tennessee," said Governor Phil Bredesen. "I hope even more Tennesseans will take the advice of Rascal Flatts and volunteer to Adopt-A-Highway today."

The Adopt-A-Highway Program allows Tennesseans to volunteer from a business, civic group, service organization, community club, church group, environmentally-conscious group, as an individual or an entire family to help keep Tennessee roadways litter free.

Volunteers "adopt" a two-mile stretch of a state route and commit to conducting four litter pick-up events during the course of one year. Hundreds of Adopt-A-Highway volunteers who work each year to keep litter off state roadways.

"Each year, the state of Tennessee spends more than $11 million on litter clean-up and prevention," said TDOT Commissioner Gerald Nicely. "In this tough economic time, our Adopt-A-Highway volunteers not only contribute time and energy conducting litter pick-up events, they are also helping reduce state maintenance costs associated with litter clean-up."

To volunteer for the Adopt-A-Highway Program, go to www.tn.gov/tdot/environment/beautification/adopt-a-highway.htm or contact TDOT's Beautification Office at 615-741-6896 for more information.

TEASERS & TRIVIA

ASK KEN BECK

Anthony's Eskimo may have been 'the Mighty Quinn'

Dear Ken: Who had the hit song in the 1960s about "The Mighty Quinn"?

"Come all without, come all within,
"You'll not see nothing like the mighty Quinn."
The song, "Quinn the Eskimo (Mighty Quinn)," was written by Bob Dylan in 1967, and became a hit for the British band known as Manfred Mann in 1968. It is possible the title was a reference to an Eskimo that actor Anthony Quinn portrayed in the 1959 film, "The Savage Innocents."

Dear Ken: How many films has WWE wrestler John Cena made? Where is he from?

Cena, 33, hails from West Newbury, Mass., and has completed three movies: "The Marine," "12 Rounds" and "The Marine 2." The latter was recently released straight to DVD in the United Kingdom. He has two more flicks that should be out later this year, "Fred: The Movie" and "Brother's Keeper." The former college football player, bodybuilder and limo driver has also released a rap album.

Dear Ken: Who played Tom Hanks' best friend on the TV series "Bosom Buddies"?

The sitcom, which only ran for two seasons, from 1980 to 1982, recently received recognition at the TV Land Awards. Hank's partner in the cross-dressing comedy was Peter Scolari, who went on to co-star in "Newhart," which was set in a Vermont inn.

Dear Ken: Is Goldie Hawn making any more movies? How many has she made?

The 64-year-old actress and grandma has not made a movie since 2002's "The Banger Sisters." She made her film debut in 1969's "The One and Only, Genuine, Family Band" as a giggly girl. She has about 27 films under her belt.

Dear Ken: Did Ken Curtis star in another TV series before he became known as Festus Hagen in "Gunsmoke"?

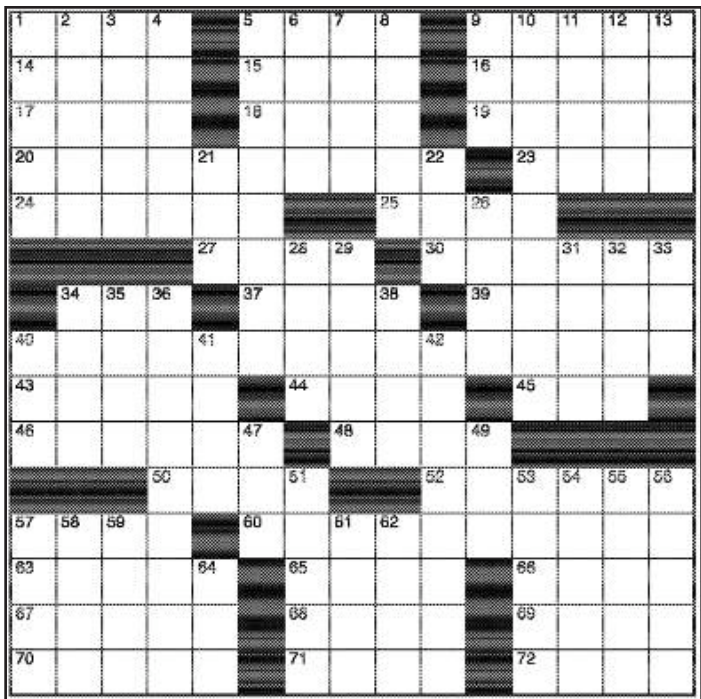

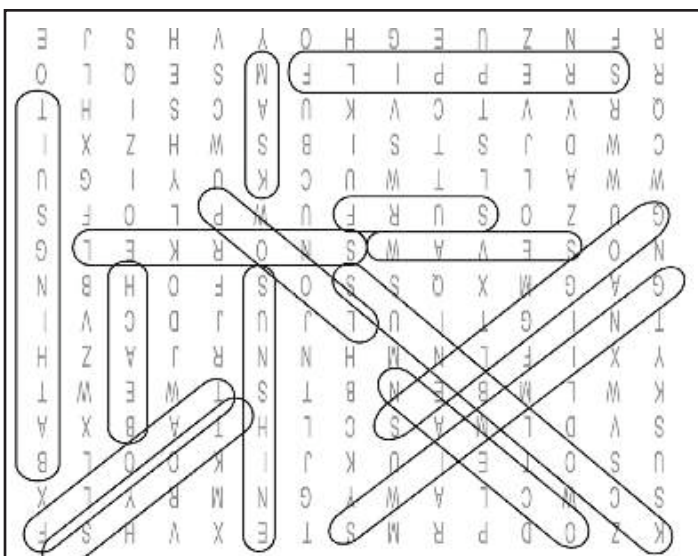

Geronimo! Curtis starred from 1961 to 1963 with Larry Pennell for two seasons in "Ripcord," an adventure series about two guys who owned a skydiving business. Of course, before that he was a big band singer with the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra and then a member of the Sons of the Pioneers western singing group and a movie star, who often worked with John Wayne in such films as "The Quiet Man," "The Searchers," "Rio Grande," "The Wings of Eagles," "The Horse Soldiers" and "The Alamo." He was also a fine gentleman.

If you have a trivia question about actors, singers, movies, TV shows or pop culture, e-mail your query to Ken Beck at kbtg2@gmail.com

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups. Red, White & True Mystery

Sometimes it pays to be in the right place at the right time. This was never more true for anyone than it was for Leslie King. Twice. Leslie was born in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1913, but he was raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His parents divorced when he was three, and his mother remarried. Leslie's new stepfather adopted him and Leslie took his last name. Years later, Leslie was able to rise to the top position in his profession when his boss resigned. Being in the right place at the right time made it possible for him. Leslie went on to play football at the University of Michigan, where he became an All-American. He was named the team's MVP after his senior year, but it wasn't as a football player that he made his mark. After college, he attended Yale law school and then served in the Navy during World War II. It wasn't as a war hero that he made his mark, though. The blond-haired, blue-eyed Leslie also did some modeling, appearing on the cover of Cosmopolitan in 1942. In fact, it was while he was on a modeling assignment that he met his future wife, a young divorcee named Elizabeth Bloomer, who was also a model. The two were married in 1948. It wasn't as a model that Leslie made his mark, though. Elizabeth, meanwhile, would later become addicted to painkillers after she suffered a pinched nerve in her neck, and this was followed by a drinking problem. She would later help establish a rehabilitation center for other people with substance abuse problems. In fact, she became very familiar with the Betty Ford clinic. Leslie King entered politics in 1948, being elected as a Republican representative. He served as a rep for 17 years before he became House Minority Leader in 1965. One of his bosses during his career was President Richard Nixon. In fact, Leslie and his wife accompanied President Nixon on a trip to China in 1972, and he was working for Nixon when he resigned the presidency in 1974. Like I said earlier, sometimes it pays to be in the right place at the right time, because there's one thing that I forgot to tell you. When Leslie King took the name of his new stepfather, he took both his first and his last names. His stepfather's name was Gerald Ford, meaning that Leslie King became known as Gerald Ford, Jr. - the same Gerald Ford that would grow up to become the 38th president of the United States. For our younger readers who might not know, the surprising thing about Gerald Ford being in the right place at the right time was that this wasn't the first time that this sort of thing happened to him. Gerald Ford became the new vice president in 1973 when Nixon's original vice president, Spiro Agnew, resigned due to charges of income tax evasion. ###

"I Didn't Know That"
by Karlen Evins

Gosh Dern. Holy Crap. For Pete's Sake. They call 'em euphemisms. They are expressions we substitute for something that would otherwise be far more off color. They take the place of words and phrases that are deemed offensive (as in cursing or swearing). If you went to a Christian school like I did, you were taught these were just as bad in the eyes of God as the expressions they were designed to replace. Even if you thought you were playing it safe, one "gosh dern" could land you in detention. On the other hand, when something bad happens and turrets is about to overtake you, seems to me these beat the heck out of their more vulgar alternatives. ("Heck" being another example of a euphemism as it is the watered down version of...Hell(o)!) When it comes to Pete, we are for sure talking about St. Peter, Jesus' apostle and cornerstone of the Christian church, whose name also has the honor of being the kinder, gentler substitute for taking the Lord's name in vain. To get the gist, imagine you've invited your preacher over for Sunday dinner. The table is set. The blessing is said. You're just about to serve your minister a big ol' serving of pot roast when the plate slips. Next thing you know, your honoree is wearing the gravy. In a split second (just when you want to curse) you quickly remember your manners, and instead utter "For Pete's Sake!" (It may not be what you really wanted to say, but it will keep you from embarrassing yourself, if only you can think before you spew!) That's how euphemisms work. Trick is to have them handy and not be so familiar with their vulgar counterparts, that you blurt a word you were thinking, but knew since childhood you were never to say!
