Paschal's plea: Hold your water!

Rainfall shortage may mean restrictions

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Citizens of the Town of Woodbury could go on voluntary water restriction this week, according to Director of Public Works Alan Paschal.

Paschal told the Woodbury Mayor and Board of Aldermen citizens may have to voluntarily restrict water usage due to a shortage of rainfall and lack of water in recent weeks.

"We are not far from going to a volunteer water restriction," Paschal said. "Hopefully it will stay voluntary. We are buying a lot of water from CUD and trying to keep up mainly in the evening time. People get home and want to water their garden, their lawn or wash their vehicles and it is putting a strain on the system."

Paschal indicated if the area received rain in coming days then there could be relief; however, it doesn't look as though enough precipitation is in the immediate forecast to resolve the current situation without voluntary help from citizens.

The Board also voted 5-2 to adopt Ordinance 443 on second reading and final reading to approve the annual budget and tax rate for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2012 and ending June 30, 2013. The new budget includes a raise for the incoming mayor and board.

The new budget includes a $6,000 annual salary for the mayor and $2,000 for the aldermen. The mayor earned $3,000 annually and the aldermen earned $1,200.

Aldermen Faye Knox, who served on a committee to study the salaries, made the Woman indicted on two vehicular homicide charges

Five people were recently served with sealed indictments returned by the Cannon County Grand Jury last month.

One of those indicted is a woman charged with two counts of vehicular homicide.

The grand jury handed down the indictments against Gina McCutcheon, 222 Charlie Powell Rd., Woodbury, after the case was presented by the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

According to the THP, McCutcheon was allegedly intoxicated while being the driver of a vehicle which collided with another vehicle, occupied by Melvin and Nancy Lazzarra, on May 16, 2011.

The THP's investigation of the accident, conducted by Trooper Bruce Pryor, reports that a 2002 Chevrolet Tahoe being driven by McCutcheon was traveling east on US 705. A second vehicle, a 1994 Jeep Cherokee being driven by Melvin Lazzarra of McMinnville, was traveling west on US 705.

McCutcheon's vehicle went out of control and then crossed the center line, striking Lazzarra's Jeep. As McCutcheon's Tahoe separated from the Jeep, it went airborne and rotated before striking an embankment and coming to final rest. The Jeep rotated and came to final rest on the roadway.

Melvin Lazzarra, along with his wife Nancy who was a passenger,

Smaller schools hold up middle grade sports plan

TONY STINNETT

Basketball teams at area grammar schools, as well as middle grades sports that are offered in Cannon County but do not fall under the direction of any school, will not participate under the guidelines of the TMSAA (Tennessee Middle School Athletic Association) for the 2012-13 school year.

The Cannon County Board of Education unanimously voted to form a committee considering placing sports teams within the TMSAA; however, the issue was tabled until the August meeting and, thus, will not go into effect for the upcoming school year.

Board Chairman Randy Gannon made the motion to form a committee using the outline

Director of Schools Barbara Parker had developed since the issue first came up at the May, 2012 Board meeting. Board member Shannon Davenport agreed to second the motion only if the issue was tabled until August.

"It seems we are always tabling things and the kids get put another year behind," Davenport said. "It seems to me we are right back where we were with the Middle School forum."

Gannon said there was a need for a committee to field concerns and questions and have those answered by TMSAA representatives prior to the August meeting.

"We have more questions than

And there were giants amongst mere men...or a GIANT hoax?!

"And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight"(Numbers 13:33).

BACKGROUND: The sons of "Anak" are first mentioned in the Book of Numbers, Old Testament. As the story goes, Israelite leader Moses sent 12 spies (representing the 12 tribes of Israel) to scout out the Land of Canaan before the Children of Israel laid siege to and occupied the "Promised Land."

When the 12 spies returned from their recon, they reported to Moses that, indeed, Canaan was a "land flowing with milk and honey." Further, the spies brought back samples of Canaan's fruits, including a cluster of grapes so big and heavy it took two strapping Israelite warriors to carry it, the grapes hanging on a pole between them.

Reference also is made to these Canaanites being descendants of Nephilim. I found it difficult to pin down a definitive correlation between Anak and Nephilim. What I did find interesting, though, is some Biblical scholars/historians theorize the giant people of Anak were the offspring of Heavenly angels: angels that desired pleasures of the flesh and, in quenching those desires, came down to earth and impregnated human women. I agree, it's a bit of a stretch, but...?

Still, some argue there is direct lineage between these Anakites-a "strong and tall" people-and Goliath, the Philistine giant who, wielding a shield, spear, and a sword, was slain by David (Israel's first King; I Samuel, Old Testament), who used a only a slingshot and a rock. Biblical scholars guesstimate Goliath was between 9.5 and 10 feet tall.

(NOTE: Arguably, one of the all-time most corn-fed takes on Goliath is a sports buddy of mine who, years ago, commented that Goliath would've given Wilt Chamberlain "hell under the boards" in the NBA . . . I know-I know, but I just couldn't resist sharing it!)

Via a variety of news-letting mediums (some credible, some not so credible), word has been circulating that archaeologists found a "giant skull" in Greece, May 2012, and this discovery confirms the existence of the Anakites and Goliath.

However, many skeptics are calling this so-called great discovery a "hoax," alleging it is nothing more than doctored photography engineered by money-hungry scam artists. One must admit, given today's technology, the right technician can make most anything like look most anything else the technician so desires.

If you don't believe me, just ask some of the single males and females who have utilized online dating services to socialize: Though she appeared to be "fine" on her Facebook photo, she went from 120 lbs. to 350 lbs., overnight! You know what I'm talking about.

Actually, I don't understand why a large portion of society is so reluctant to accept the possibility that giants (both human and animal) once roamed the earth. After all, there was Robert Pershing Waldo (1918 - 1940), who, irrefutably, was the "World's Tallest Man," standing approximately 9 feet in height. For all you and I know, Robert Pershing Waldo fooled around a lot, and there's a slew of "Waldos" and "Waldonettes" out there running around.(?)

Point made: If we had a 9-foot man in the 20th Century, why couldn't we have had the same-or larger-centuries ago? Regarding the recent finding of a giant skull in Greece, I'm going to reserve commenting whether the find was authentic or a hoax, because I wasn't part of the discovery team. Even if I'd been part of the discovery team, I'm not a university-trained paleontologist, defined as someone who studies "the forms of life existing in prehistoric or geologic times, as represented by the fossils of plants, animals, and other organisms."

Was a legitimate, giant human skull found in Greece, or is it, merely, a GIANT hoax?

Sports Hall of Famers credit others' 'game'

It's interesting when two sports hall of fame members speak about the other.

That "sharing" of the "spotlight" could be "key" to their being in respective halls of fame.

Recent Cannon County Sports Hall of Fame inductee Harold (the Voice) Patrick said he knew "long ago" that "Ricky" Insell would one day be in the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame.

When someone uses the name "Ricky," MTSU's women's head basketball Coach Insell automatically knows it's likely someone calling from his boyhood Woodbury-era.

"I coached basketball against Ricky in the Jr. Pro League," credited Patrick. "That's when I first learned that Ricky was something special as a coaching mentor of youth."

Interestingly, neither men made respective halls of fames due to sports prowess.

Standing at five feet, six inches in height, one can assume Insell never "slam-dunked" a basketball. But Insell "stands tall" amongst the coaching legends of the Volunteer State.

Patrick acknowledges it was not "athleticism," but his "voice" as a long time local radio sports broadcaster that triggered his recent induction in the Cannon County Sports Hall of Fame.

"Neither Rick or I were blessed with great personal athletic abilities," Patrick assessed shortly after his recent induction into the local hall of fame, sponsored by Woodbury's historic newspaper, the Cannon Courier, that dates back to the 1880s.

Although known nationally as a top college coach, Insell consistently acknowledges "hometown roots" during newspaper interviews.

Being recognized recently in Tennessee's highest stratosphere of sports obviously "touched" the former Woodbury boy's emotions.

"I was fortunate to grow up in Woodbury," Insell stated shortly after he was installed May 19th in the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame. "It's very humbling."

"I've benefitted from great players, great parents and great communities," Insell credited with obvious humility.

"By the time Ricky started coaching professional at little West Side School in Cannon County, it was obvious he was destined for bigger things," Patrick credited. "Now, I rate him as the best women's coach in Tennessee..."

Insell left the comfort zone of his Cannon County boyhood to coach Shelbyville High girls' basketball, ultimately leading them to 10 state titles and two USA Today national championships, posting a 775-148 won-loss record. He was named national coach of the year four different times.

"Ricky was born to coach," echoed Patrick in his best baritone announcing voice that was legend on Woodbury Radio Station WBRY in the 1960-70s. "We knew that from his earliest volunteer coaching days."

It was that "first job" at little West Side Elementary School that helped "launch" Coach Insell's professional career after graduating from MTSU in 1977.

"Supt. Of Schools (the late) Barney Bragg gave me my first teacher's aide job at West Side, where they also needed a coach," Insell traced back in time. "Superintendent Bragg was a foundation stone in Cannon County education and society."

The other "coach" at West Side School was another Cannon County education legend, "Miss" Annie Cox, also now deceased.

"I was at West Side in 1977-78, before moving to Shelbyville," noted Coach Insell, the son of Woodbury natives Charles and Dot Insell. "I was blessed, really blessed to work side-by-side with Miss Annie Cox, a beloved legendary teacher who touched all our lives so positively."

The coach heaped more praise on Woodbury Mayor Patrick, now retired from broadcasting.

"With Harold's passion for youth and their sports, he touched thousands of young lives," Insell added. "Not many small schools, like (former) Woodbury High, had their sports events broadcast regularly on the radio."

"With Harold, it wasn't just basketball," Insell detailed. "He was there for softball, baseball and football...because he was respected by so many people, Mayor Patrick was a 'politician' before he knew he was a 'politician.'"

"Harold never did broadcasting as a 'job,'" Insell added. "In fact, it probably cost him money, especially games on the road, to broadcast all those years. That's how dedicated he has always been to his community."

Interestingly, after 40-plus years of newspapering, I've noticed the truly "great ones" are more prone to credit others, rather than talk about themselves.

To the Editor

County should update accounting procedures

Your May 30th article on the two proposed county budgets presented tax payers with a difficult choice. I want to offer an observation and a suggestion. We also have an opportunity to save tax dollars.

First, over the last year we have had a $14,000.00 example of the shortcomings of the county's current financial processes. That loss of our dollars occurred in large part because of the county's antiquated financial procedures.

Late last year the Comptroller's Office, Division of County Audit, audited all the county's financial procedures. As a result our commissioners were presented with a lengthy report that described several very serious problems (called 'findings'). In particular the total lack of centralized accounting procedures and the poor internal controls were cited as serious problems that wasted taxpayer dollars. The comptroller's audit report also offered recommendations for correcting each of these findings (problems). In particular the report focused on their recommendations describing centralized accounting. The recommendations described how the county could implement centralized accounting and improve internal controls. It is, I believe, irresponsible and poor politics for our elected commissioners to propose raising property taxes while continuing to support the use of our antiquated financial processes.

Further, if county employees want raises they should work tirelessly to insure that our tax dollars are spent in accordance with effective financial accounting procedures.

Disney bans snack foods - What's next?

Warning Labels On French Fries

READ ALL ABOUT IT

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

In a somewhat tongue-in-cheek column I wrote a few years ago, I joked about the possibility of someday seeing warning labels on hamburgers, desserts and other foods that we eat. I was just trying to be funny while attempting to express a point that warning labels do very little to stop us from doing what we really want to do if we want to do it bad enough.

The article was written during the time of tobacco taking a direct hit from warning labeling and the pros and cons of its success were being questioned. I never thought that someday my thoughts in an article, that was supposed to be a collection of nonsense, would ever become a possibility. But, these days nonsense often becomes law, so why should I not be surprised when Disney announces no more pop tarts on their channels.

It seems the attack is underway on snack foods and sugary drinks. The Walt Disney Company, who taught us that mice can talk, now have announced that they will be the first media company to ban junk food advertising for its TV channels, radio stations and websites intended for our children. Your kids, while still being able to watch their favorite mouse look after his dog Pluto, will not be seeing Tony the Tiger push his sugary flakes on Saturday mornings.

Instead, Disney says they will be pushing fruits and vegetables during those early morning shows when kids are usually sitting before the one-eyed monster with a bowl of something, less the prize, watching one of Disney's features. It sure will be strange seeing junior munch on a bowl of squash as Toy Story characters promote the importance of eating broccoli.

They are reporting that the Happy Meal may not even meet the standards to get a place on the Mouse's TV channels. Disney's guidelines require that a complete meal must be under 600 calories and a side dish could have no more than 200 calories. It's being predicted that Mickey and Minnie may no longer be seen together in a ice cream shop and that Goofy may be pushing French fries in dark allies to Donald's nephews. This new change is all about obesity rates and Disney is the first to attempt to do something for the younger crowd.

New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg has proposed a ban on the "Big Gulp" up in his city to cut down the size of folks in the Big Apple. He is putting a ban on sugary drinks bigger than 16 ounces, which don't fit in your automobile's cup holders anyway, to stop the over indulgences of big drinks that he says leads to your bathroom scales being unable to function.

I grew up when an 8-ounce cold drink took care of your thirst and only cost a nickel. I also have to admit there weren't a lot of us in the overly plump range either. But I don't think it was the size of the drink that caused that. It was the amount of the exercise prior to and after the drink, as well as the lack of the nickels, that kept us a lot thinner.

There are several questions in all of this. Disney is cutting out the snack food advertising during the kid's programming, but I just wonder how many kids have drivers licenses and do the grocery shopping? I saw a lot of things on TV as a child and would ask my mother for a box at the A&P, but she would do something that discouraged me from doing that very often. She would say, "No."

I guess the current generation only uses that method of discouragement for drugs and smoking, but with our health now being sent over the cliff by our eating habits, it seems we need a "Just Say No" campaign to sugary foods and drinks. It looks like if we don't start doing it ourselves, the government and Big TV is going to do it for us. Tried it on smoking, why not food.

I grew up during a time of chores at home, summer farm work, and no vending machines in the educational facilities. Plus, it was required that P.E. be taken by everyone at school. And you know, we all lived through it. Disney's programming was also Davy Crockett, Spin and Marty, and the Mickey Mouse Club, that after you watched them made you want to go outside and play. Maybe what we should do to help our kid's diets is unplug the Disney channel, have a small cold drink and go outside for a game of backyard baseball. Our children just may discover that the best Adventure Land is right in their own backyard.

I would also suggest we find them a few chores to do as well. It can't hurt and it sure would help a whole lot more than banning a few commercials.

DONNA VAN LIERE

Sex abuse victim backs Duck Derby

Bestselling author Donna VanLiere wondered how breaking a childhood secret would have altered her life.

As a young girl, two of VanLiere's neighbors molested her on separate occasions. But she was too fearful to tell. "There's so much shame, so much guilt on the part of the victim," VanLiere explained. "Shame and guilt don't belong to them but it's still there."

She didn't disclose the abuse until she confided in her husband, Troy. Since then, she wrote "Finding Grace," about her "journey of grace" through pain and suffering and unexpected circumstances. She mentions the sexual abuse inflicted on her with hope it might help others.

The Williamson County resident also wrote "The Christmas Shoes" and works as an inspirational speaker.

Because of her experiences, she and her husband, and in-laws, David and Vick VanLiere, who own Sudsy's Car Wash in Murfreesboro, became sponsors of the Child Advocacy Center's annual rubber Duck Derby June 23 at the Sportsman's Club on Medical Center Parkway.

The Child Advocacy Centers of Rutherford and Cannon Counties has served more than 7,500 sexually abused and endangered children during the past 12 years.

CAC Executive Director Sharon De Boer said nine of 10 children who are sexually abused do not report it.

"By Donna VanLiere sharing her story, she is encouraging others to report sexual child abuse to an adult to report to the Department of Children's Services," De Boer said.

VanLiere said some children keep their secret because they fear the offender. They should know they can disclose the abuse to a trusted adult.

"The shame factor breaks your spirit," VanLiere said. "If a child steps forward and breaks that abuse pattern, that's when people go to jail. When light gets to that darkness, that's when healing begins."

As parents, the VanLieres have told their two daughters and one son no one can see their private parts except the parents and their doctor.

VanLiere advises the victim to speak to someone safe so the offender will never hurt another child.

"All it takes is one small child who can break that cycle of abuse," VanLiere said resolutely. "It's important for them to know it wasn't their fault. No one is going to blame them."

Many victims confide to VanLiere about sexual abuse they suffered as a child.

"In the back of their minds, they think it was somehow their fault," VanLiere said. "To hear someone say, 'it's not their fault and they did nothing wrong' releases a wellspring of tears for women. It's so crucial for the child to hear that. If I could have heard someone say that to me, it would have made my life completely different."

Her newest book, "The Good Dream," debuting in July, is the story of a 30-year-old single woman in 1950 who discovers a hungry little boy "in circumstances no child should be in."

And she doesn't want any other children to be sexually abused. She hopes people will support CAC's mission by adopting a rubber duck for $5 apiece. The winning duck will win $5,000 donated by the VanLieres and Sudsy's.

"We want to make sure this doesn't happen to another boy and girl," VanLiere said.

Battlefield tours start Saturday

Superintendent Stuart Johnson announced that Stones River National Battlefield will offer six more presentations of Hallowed Ground: A Lantern Tour of Stones River National Cemetery during 2011. Each scheduled evening, two tours of up to thirty-five people will tour the cemetery by lantern light and listen to the stories of the soldiers who are buried there and their families.

Reed read rights on domestic assault, drug charges

Thomas Wade Reed, 7553 Hollow Springs Rd., Bradyville, was charged with Domestic Assault, Initiating the Process to Manufacture Methamphetamine and Maintaining a Dwelling to Manufacture Methamphetamine on June 3 by Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillian.

Deputy McMillian, along with St. Randy Neal and Deputy Travis Turney, responded to Reed's residence for a report of a verbal domestic. Upon arrival they were informed Reed had left and was headed toward Mooretown.

The deputies were informed by Reed's sister that he had gotten into an argument with their mother because she wouldn't give him his knives back. She had taken them earlier in the week when he became involved in an argument with his brother.

They then made contact with Reed on the 5000 block of Hollow Springs Rd. He stated he was tired of his family not talking to him and not wanting to take him to look for a job. He stated he was going to 935 Simpson Rd. and talk to Mary Barrett, someone that "would understand" him. He said he would leave his mother's residence if that's what she wanted.

The deputies again spoke with the sister, who stated she felt threatened by her brother during the domestic incident and that she was in fear for her life and safety. His mother said she did not want him to return. Following that the deputies made contact again with Reed at the old Hollow Springs Market and he was arrested.

While Reed was being booked, one of his family members went to a trailer he was staying in on the property and found what they believed to be a meth lab. They contacted the sheriff's department and in response to the call, Investigator Anthony Young obtained a search warrant.

Investigator Young went to the trailer, executed the warrant, and components of a meth lab and items used in the manufacturing of meth were found inside. Investigator Young obtained additional warrants against Reed.

Total bond was set at $235,000. Initial court date is July 10.

FOSTER

Man Foster(s) arrest on DUI, weapons charges

Jacob H. Foster, 555 Randall Hitchcock Rd., Rock Island, was charged with DUI, Unlawful Possession of Firearms, Possession of a Handgun While Under the Influence and Implied Consent Violation of June 2 by Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Seth Perry.

Deputy Perry responded to a BOLO for a purported reckless driver on a back Mazda inbound from Warren County on McMinnville Hwy. He observed the vehicle coming down the hill, turned around and initiated a traffic stop just short of the Woodbury City Limits.

The deputy walked up along the driver's side of the car just behind the front door window. He instructed the driver, Foster, to roll down the window. Foster refused. Deputy Perry knocked on the window and again told Foster to roll it down. He again refused.

The deputy then shouted at Foster to roll down the window, at which time he did and shoved out his driver's license, proof of insurance and vehicle registration, and rolled the window back up. The deputy shouted at Foster to roll the window back down again, and he refused.

During this time Deputy Perry observed Foster moving his arms and hands around the front interior of the car. The deputy was unable to tell what Foster was doing. Deputy Perry then notices a shotgun sitting in the passenger side of the car. He drew his service revolver and opened the door. When he did, Foster tried to pull it back shut, at which point the deputy noticed a pistol in a shoulder holster on the left side of Foster, at which time the deputy ordered Foster to place his hands on the steering wheel of the car.

Foster refused and continued to move all around the car. The deputy shouted at Foster to put his hands on the steering wheel and not move. Foster was non-compliant at gunpoint, at which time Deputy Perry again told him to put his hands on the steering wheel and not to move or he could be shot.

Deputy Brandon Gullett and Woodbury Police officers John House and John Fesmire arrived at the location. With the other officers covering him, Deputy Perry holstered his weapon and took the pistols (a 1911 Colt 45 and a 9mm Browning) off of Foster and handed them to Officer House. He removed Foster from the vehicle and placed him in handcuffs. Foster remained non-compliant and attempted to pull away from the officers.

Deputy Perry observed that Foster smelled of beer. He said he had consumed four that evening. He had a white-looking substance on his tongue and the inside of his mouth, and appeared to have eaten something while he as moving about in the car.

Foster was unsteady on his feet. He was placed in the back of a patrol unit. He began to sweat profusely and was unable to remain still. Deputy Gullett and Officer Fesmire retrieved two more weapons from the car, a Remington 12-gage shotgun completely loaded and an unloaded AR-15.

Foster was booked under a bond of $45,000. Initial court date is July 10.

answers at this time so I suggest we put this in a committee," Gannon said. "We need to have the concerns addressed."

Most of the concerns at the June meeting regarded elementary basketball. Principals Karen King (East Side) and Robert Pitts (Short Mountain) brought up potential revenue losses covering thousands of dollars if schools were in the TMSAA.

If a school is a member of the TMSAA only students in grades sixth-through-eighth grades may participate. If a school uses fifth- or fourth-graders on its roster then it may not play TMSAA teams.

"If we have to use fifth graders to field (a boys or girls) basketball team then my understanding is that we can't schedule other teams in the county that is TMSAA or going to the district tournaments," King said. "If we can't play all the teams in the county you are talking about $3,000-to-$4,000 of revenue out of our budget and that's a lot for us."

"We say we don't want a middle school but we want middle school sports. Why are we so gung-ho about middle school sports?"

Pitts had similar concerns.

"What was wrong with our elementary basketball anyway?," Pitts asked. "Why do we need an association?"

Davenport pointed out this was more than a basketball issue.

"My concern is that we get calls from several parents about (primarily football and softball) and we have no control of those sports because they do not fall under the School Board," Davenport said. "We had a TMSAA (assistant director Richard McWhirter) at our workshop (Monday, June 4) to answer these questions and concerns and no one showed up. It would have been nice to have these questions and concerns then so he could have answered them for us. We want to get factual information out to the public and that's why we did this, but no one showed up pro or con. Now we have these questions. It just seems like we keep putting things off for another year."

The Junior Lions football program and the Junior Lionettes softball program do not fall under the control of any specific school or organization. The middle school grades baseball program is a co-op program through Woodbury Grammar and does answer to the school board.

Pitts argued that only two students from Short Mountain played Junior Lions football and that basketball revenue at his school should not be a factor because of the lack of students at Short Mountain playing other sports.

"I am talking about county wide," Davenport said. "There are students from every grammar school playing football but we have no control of that as a school board member. We get calls and complaints but we can't act on those because they are out of our control."

The committee to gather information about TMSAA and Cannon County schools will include two board members, two principals, the high school athletics director, a member from the Sports Council and Parker will act as the ex officio member.

A $300 fee per school and which schools would be responsible in a co-op situation were also concerns of the principals.

In other business, the board approved the in-county transfer request of Mr. and Mrs. Chip Cook to move their children from Woodland to Woodbury Grammar. The transfer passed 4-0 with Chris Blackburn recusing himself. The transfer is void if Woodbury Grammar has an overcrowding situation in the fall.

The Board did not grant an in-county transfer for Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hughes, who wanted their daughter to attend East Side instead of Woodbury Grammar. Hughes cited attention deficit disorder as a reason for the move but agreed all of his child's needs were being met at Woodland School "at this time." Director of Special Education Pam Sonderman pointed out there are "60-to-70 cases of students with attention deficit disorder in Cannon County Schools. The motion failed for lack of a second.

A motion was then made by Gannon to not allow the move and it passed 3-1 with Blackburn recusing himself.

When Hughes questioned the Board as to its hesitancy to help his daughter and second the motion, Blackburn informed him of the rules put in place.

"I understand and sympathize with your situation," Blackburn said. "I am recusing myself from all of these transfer requests because the Board has come up with policies and we work hard on these. We need to stick to our policy so I am recusing myself from all issues involving zone transfers."

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Young were seeking an out-of-county transfer request but asked for the $1,000 fee to be waived. The Board voted 4-0 to allow the transfer but not waive the fee.

The Board also approved a bus bid to Cumberland Bus for $79,959 and it approved a two-year mowing bid to Dustin's Lawn Service. The Board unanimously approved the 2012-13 food service budget and approved the 2012-2013 federal programs application and budget, as it also approved policy changes to adopt the State Board of Education (5.201) grievance procedures and harassment and bullying prevention policy.

It also approved Trane's proposal to re-commission the Woodbury Grammar geothermal HVAC system at a cost of $105,736. Of that, $48,400 will be obtained through a Energy Efficient Schools Initiative Grant.

The Board will have a recess meeting for the following items at the Central Office June 21 at 6 p.m.: approve bid for Ag pavilion; approve bid for HVAC system at CCHS and approve the general budget for the 2012-13 school year.

Mooneyham now Woodbury's top cop

Kevin Mooneyham was named Woodbury Police Chief by a unanimous vote of the Woodbury Mayor and Aldermen Tuesday (June 5). Mooneyham has served as interim chief since Tony Burnett resigned the position in February. His tenure as police chief became official Friday, June 8. Mayor Harold Patrick, above right, congratulated Chief Mooneyham following the vote.

WATER ...

motion, which was seconded by Lois Larimer. Joanne Davis and Charlie Harrell voted against the new budget, which does not take effect until January, 2013.

"I want to make it very clear that this does not affect this board; it affects the board that will be coming into office in January," Knox said. "It has been at least 12 years since the mayor and the board has received an increase. The city is requiring more and more of our time. (The committee) discussed this and it is our recommendation that the mayor's salary be raised to a level of $6,000 and the aldermen be raised to a level of $2,000 per year."

All current positions on the board are up for election in November.

The Board also unanimously approved adoption of Resolution 02-12, to apply to the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation for a Local Parks and Recreation Fund Grant.

Patrick said the grant will help resurface one tennis court, the basketball court and allow the city to add bleachers to the tennis court area. It is a 50/50 matching grant.

"Our high school tennis team plays their matches there and we have visiting teams from all around," Knox said. "We have a great tennis team and we have a lot of great athletes in Cannon County. I think it is our responsibility to make accommodations for them so they will be proud for teams to come here. I believe it is wonderful opportunity to get these funds."

Patrick said cost for the work should be approximately $28,000, of which the city will pay half.

The Board voted to send Ordinance No. 444 back to the planning commission for further study. The ordinance would amend the zoning ordinance of the Town of Woodbury to add residential parking regulations within the zoning ordinance. One sticking point for board members was off-street parking.

"I have a problem with the single-family dwelling being limited to three vehicles," Knox said. "It is my opinion that if a homeowner makes accommodations to park four, five or six vehicles and they are not on the street or lawn, then who are we to restrict them from having four cars? This formula does not work in reality. If we are going to have an ordinance restricting parking then we need to have an ordinance that addresses all of the problems, not just a few."

Patrick made the motion to install interim police chief Kevin Mooneyham as police chief. Mooneyham had previously served as assistant chief but was named interim when Tony Burnett resigned to take a position with the Governor's Office. The Board unanimously voted to remove the interim label and Mooneyham assumed position of Chief of Police Friday (June 8).

State launches safe sleep effort to save infant lives

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – The sight of a baby sleeping peacefully is heartwarming to parents, grandparents and almost anyone else. Yet the lives of many babies are cut tragically short as the result of being put to sleep in an unsafe place or position. For Tennessee in 2010, the most recent year for which data are available, 131 infants died because they were not put to sleep as safely as they might have been. The Tennessee Department of Health is working to save these precious lives with a new effort to educate everyone who cares for young children about safe sleep practices for babies. "Sadly, that's about six full kindergarten classrooms that are forever empty due to these preventable infant deaths," says Tennessee Health Commissioner John Dreyzehner, MD, MPH.

"The hard part is these risks don't seem that risky. It has taken science to document and understand them, but the good news is they are very easy risks to minimize once you know how. That's why we're launching an aggressive awareness initiative to promote the 'A-B-Cs of Safe Sleep.'" Just like choosing to wear a seatbelt can protect you that one time you're in a life-threatening accident, choosing to follow the A-B-Cs of Safe Sleep can protect your baby the one time he or she may be suffocated while sleeping.

The primary message for parents and others who care for infants is to "Remember the A-B-Cs of Safe Sleep." There are three critical measures to follow when it's time for an infant to sleep. "A" is for Alone: always let the baby sleep alone, never in a bed with another person where the baby could be smothered. "B" is for on the baby's Back; an infant should be placed to sleep on his or her back, not on his or her side or stomach. "C" is for Crib: always put your child to sleep in a crib with only a firm mattress and tight-fitting sheet.

"Cribs should never have blankets, stuffed animals or toys in them," says Michael Warren, MD, MPH, FAAP, TDH Family Health & Wellness director. "While it's natural to want to surround your baby with cute objects, we have to remember young infants do not have strong neck muscles to raise their heads to prevent suffocation. A cuddly blanket or a plush toy, put in the crib with the best of intentions, can be deadly."

To increase public awareness of safe sleeping practices for infants, the Tennessee Department of Health's awareness campaign will feature

Cannon County Jail passes inspection

The Cannon County Jail was certified last week following an inspection by the Tennessee Corrections Institute. The cells, the booking room, the kitchen, the guard tower, the training of corrections officers and the policy manual all received high marks from Detention Facility Specialist Miller Meadows. The jail facility is about 20 years old. Inspector Meadows credited Jail Administrator Ed Brown and Corrections Officer Sgt. Albert Summers for their efforts in making improvements to conditions and policies. Above, Meadows, left, reviews the policy manual of the Cannon County Jail with Jail Administrator Ed Brown, center, and Corrections Officer Sgt. Albert Summers.

Gassaway celebrates

Levi Womack, above, had the biggest frog for the frog-jumping contest at the recent Gassaway Homecoming. Evidently, Levi fed frog too well because when it was time to jump, Womack's frog didn't seem to muster the energy.

At right, Hayden Quarles, 16-months-old, was up bright and early to enjoy the sand box during the Gassaway Homecoming, which featured bands, contests, food and music throughout the day.

Chamber seeking $10,000 from Cannon Co. taxpayers

KEITH READY
Courier Contributor

Each year the taxpayers of Cannon County give money to a variety of organizations, associations and agencies.

One of those is the Cannon County Chamber of Commerce.

Thursday night, the Budget Committee reviewed the County General Fund "Contributions List" requests for fiscal year 2012-2013, which starts July 1. The requests for next year total $49,454, nearly $10,000 more than this year's appropriations of $39,747.

The biggest increase being sought is from the Cannon County Chamber of Commerce, which is seeking $10,000 from the County for FY2012-2013.

That amount represents a huge jump from the $50 the County usually contributes to the Chamber. Neal Applebaum, Chamber president, will be asked to be at the next Budget Committee meeting to address the request.

Other increases being sought include the Association of County Mayors, from $150 to $1,300, and Tennessee Rehab, from $250 to $1,000.

The Budget Committee also reviewed the proposed budget of Cannon County REACH Thursday. REACH is an afterschool program.

Currently it serves five of the county's seven schools. The REACH program is funded by charging the clients on a sliding scale along with the 21st Century Grant and the Lottery for Education: Afterschool Programs (LEAPs) Grant. It was noted at the meeting that those grants will be in effect for another two years.

Total revenue brought in by the REACH program including the grants is $193,225. REACH doesn't cost the County General Fund any money. The REACH program only runs their revenue and expenses through the County's budget. In the REACH budget, $4,000 of the $20,000 brought in by the program's sliding fee scale is used to pay the executive's office for administrative costs.

Glenn Steakley, chairman of the Cannon County Audit Committee, presented his budget request to the Budget Committee. The total requested is $491, to help offset the costs of office supplies, benchmarking and training, postal expenses, advertising notices and any professional assistance that the committee may need.

Since the Cannon County Election Commission hadn't voted on it's budget yet, and the Cannon County Rescue Squad hadn't been notified to be at the committee meeting Thursday, it had no choice but to put the budget hearings of those two departments off for at least another week.

The next meeting of the Cannon County Budget Committee will be Thursday, June 14 at 6:00 p.m. at the Cannon County Courthouse.

THP: Never leave kids alone in car

NASHVILLE - The Tennessee Highway Patrol is urging motorists to take extra precautions as temperatures rise this weekend and throughout the summer months, and never leave children or pets in an unattended vehicle.

On a typical sunny, summer day, experts say the temperature inside a car can reach potentially deadly levels within minutes. Even cool temperatures in the 60s can cause the temperature to rise well above 110 degrees Fahrenheit inside a vehicle. The inside temperature can rise almost 20 degrees within the first 10 minutes. On a mild day at 73 degrees outside, an SUV can heat up to 120 degrees in just 30 minutes. At 90 degrees outside, the interior of a vehicle can heat up to 160 degrees within several minutes.

Follow a few simple safety steps to make sure your child is safe this summer:

- Dial 911 immediately if you see an unattended child in a car. EMS professionals are trained to determine if a child is in trouble.
- Never leave a child unattended in a vehicle, even with the window slightly open.
- Place a cell phone, PDA, purse, briefcase, gym bag or whatever is to be carried from the car, on the floor in front of a child in a backseat. This triggers adults to see children when they open the rear door and reach for their belongings.
- Teach children not to play in any vehicle.

• Lock all vehicle doors and trunk after everyone has exited the vehicle - especially at home. Keep keys out of children's reach. Cars are not playgrounds or babysitters.

• Check vehicles and trunks FIRST if a child goes missing. (Source: Safekids.org)

Motorists should also take precautions in the event of a break down on a highway, especially with children or senior citizens in the vehicle. The Tennessee Highway Patrol suggests the following safety tips when traveling:

For highway emergencies, summon help immediately via cellular phone by dialing *THP (*847) to connect to the nearest THP District Headquarters.

16-U Lions roll to three league wins

Courier Sports Report

The Lions' 16-under summer baseball team used dominant pitching, solid defense and continued strong hitting to roll to three wins in the Murfreesboro Baseball Association Premier League last week.

The Lions, which is comprised of Cannon County's rising freshmen, sophomores and one junior, outscored their three foes 36-3 in the three games, including back-to-back shutouts in the final two games of the week.

The Lions, who are the only remaining undefeated team in the eight-team league, improved to 6-0 in league play and 8-0 overall.

"The players keep improving and they are playing with a great deal of confidence," Lions coach Adam Sauer said. "We received outstanding pitching throughout the week but the guys are playing well in all phases of the game. The big thing is they are getting to play and improve their game and that is the focus of our summer program."

Lions 13, Cougars 3

Nathan McGuire, Austin Martin, Graden Strang and Jared Judkins all had multi-hit games as the Lions roared to a 13-3 win

The Lions had several hitting standouts but the highlight of the game was back-to-back-to-back triples from Trent Bragg, Graden Strang and Jackson Mason to help break the game open.

Martin added an inside-the-park home run, Judkins had two hits and Bailey Hale executed a perfect squeeze play to plate another run.

Lions 8, Rays 0

Strang blanked the Rays for three innings and McGuire preserved the shutout in relief as the Lions pitching continued to dominate league opposition.

Jake Todd, Cole Barnes and Trent Bragg had solid performances and Turner Gragg reached base twice.

Judkins, Strang, Bragg, Mason and Martin all had run-producing hits for the Lions.

The Lions will play one league game this week when they face the Braves at Barfield Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The Lions will play in the BPA Summer Baseball Classic during the weekend in Murfreesboro.

Keep your pets cool this summer

JASON KELTON
Guest Columnist

Summer is upon us and it's a great time for dogs, and humans, to play outside. Beautiful weather, along with unusually warm local temperatures, has lead many people to bask in the heat with their pets.

Humans sweat to keep cool, but what about your pooch? Dogs do not sweat like we do. The main way they keep cool is panting. Unfortunately, this is not enough when it is extremely hot and humid outside.

Keeping your dog safe from extreme heat is no joke and it's up to you to make sure you keep them cool on these hot summer days.

First and foremost is to keep plenty of fresh water available to them at all times.

This sounds simple, but sometimes can be difficult if you are away from home. Remember to keep water just for them if you are traveling or going to a park. Having a empty water bottle or gallon jug, along with a small travel water bowl, will allow you to provide them with the necessary water to keep them cool and hydrated.

Never leave your dog in the car in the heat.

Just a few short minutes in the car can lead to irreversible organ damage or death.

Provide shelter from the sun, especially to white, or light-colored pets. Certain areas are prone to sunburn, such as tops of ears and nose.

Let your pets play in the water.

A great way for many pets to stay cool around the house is to provide a small pool area, such as a kiddie pool (molded plastic, not inflatable!).

Many dogs love to play or lounge in a shallow body of water. Just make sure that you do change it out often - you do not want to attract mosquitoes.

If this is not a feasible option, you might try running a sprinkler every now and then to see if they like that.

If you spray your dog down, remember that they cool from the bottom up. Spray down their paws and stomach first - this will cool them down the best.

Another great idea is to have a cooling bed.

A cooling bed works by providing a means to make them feel cooler by pulling the heat away from them, similar to lying on tile or concrete floors.

Often, these beds utilize a gel-like material or simply water to keep them feeling cool. These beds are especially good for senior dogs as an alternative to hard floors. Laying out a wet towel for them to lie on will also help.

If you exercise with your dog, do it early in the morning or late at night on days that there will be excessive heat. Not only is this better for your dog, it's better for you.

Burning in hardwood forests and the impact on trees

Burning in hardwood forests: impacts on trees
Wayne Clatterbuck, Professor, Silviculture and Forest Management

I have become reacquainted with the large amount of information about hardwood forest management that is contained in the Central Hardwood Notes, published in 1989 by the USDA Forest Service, North Central Research Station and online at <http://www.ncrs.fs.fed.us/pubs/ch/CHNnotestoc.html>. For those natural resource professionals who work in hardwood forest management, this compendium of articles should be bookmarked online or copied as part of your reference materials.

One article that I would like to highlight is number 8.03 by Loomis and Paananen entitled "Appraising Fire Effects" which assesses how burning impacts hardwood trees. One of my pet peeves in the use of fire in hardwoods (I am an advocate of fire as a forest management tool), is that frequently the objective of using fire is undefined, too generic or inappropriate for the site. Often reasons are given such as to reduce fuels or to promote oak regeneration. Generally, we do not have an excessive fuels problem in eastern hardwood forests because decay is rapid and moisture is ample, unless some event occurs such as a tornado or a blowdown where an excess of woody debris is on the forest floor. Likewise, I have yet to reference a silvicultural prescription where fire exclusively promotes regeneration of oaks as susceptible to injury or death from burning. Even though most intensive fires that cause tree damage occur in the spring before leaf out, given equal fire intensity, mortality and damage are greatest for fires occurring during the growing season.

The article by Loomis and Paananen presents a summary table illustrating for four oak species (black, scarlet, white and post oaks) the percent of trees that are likely to die from fire. These percentages are categorized by tree diameter, fire scorch height (2, 4, and 6 feet high), and season of burning (dormant and growing). The data indicates that:

- Hardwood trees 3 inches in diameter and smaller are likely to die if scorch height is greater than 2 feet
- As burning scorch height increases, tree survival decreases
- Tree survival increases and burning has less impact on trees with larger diameters (thicker bark) than at smaller diameters
- Tree survival is greater if burns are conducted during the dormant season as compared to the growing season
- Species in the red oak family (black and scarlet) do not tolerate burning as well as those in the white oak family (white and post)

The article also presents information about volume and value loss associated with burning. Generally, harvesting a sawtimber tree with a year or two of burning will not impact the wood because the burned area is slabbed off during the milling process. A tree having a fire wound covering 1/2 to 2/3 of the circumference at 1-foot above ground is unlikely to survive. For more information about volume losses associated with tree diameter, wound height and wound size for 10, 20 and 30 years post fire, refer to the article.

Burning can cause injuries to hardwood trees. Just be careful and use fire to satisfy your specific management goals, and protect against deleterious effects on hardwood trees and timber.

compared to other competing species. Most hardwoods sprout and just as many oaks can be killed by burning as those that survive. However, past history has indicated that burning may have been in part beneficial to regenerating oaks on some sites, but research has not been able to replicate those conditions with any degree of certainty.

Nevertheless, burning in hardwoods also can provide benefits. Fire can enhance wildlife habitat and diversity by stimulating the seed bank for herbaceous growth of grasses and forbs. Fire can also expose the mineral soil required for germination of both woody and non-woody plants. Burning is a mechanism to modify the vertical and horizontal structure of the vegetation that is advantageous to some wildlife species. Burning is also used to maintain savanna and woodland conditions, i.e., not allow succession to proceed.

Fire effects on hardwoods vary greatly: some trees will be killed immediately, others will be injured and will die in a few years, others will incur basal wounds that can provide entry for decay, and some trees will be unaffected. A few of the factors that impact the results of burning in hardwoods include fire intensity, species, tree size and season of the fire. A larger tree usually has thicker, more insulating bark and larger circumference. If some of the cambium in larger trees is killed by a fire, the tree can continue to function. Smaller diameter trees without these attributes are more Facebook: Phishing scams: Watch your bank account!

Do you use the same password for your Facebook account and online banking log-in? If you are one of the many people who answers "yes", your bank account is at peril. Scammers can send you links that you think are from a friend.

When you click on the link, you are led to a fake Facebook login page where you type in your password to re-enter Facebook. Now the scammer has your password. All of the information needed to answer security questions to gain access to your online banking are readily available from the information that you post on your Facebook profile. High school mascot? Check; you listed which high school you attended on your "About Me" page. Mother's maiden name? Check.

Many of us list our parents and other family members; it's not hard to follow the chain. In short, it's a hacker's paradise using the information that you broadcast to gain access to your online banking. From there, technology unfortunately affords scammers the ability to create an ATM card with your account information. Bye-bye, money.

To be extra cautious, consumers should periodically change their Facebook and online banking passwords, and make sure not to use the same or recycled passwords.

Never click on a link that looks suspicious, and set your privacy settings to prohibit strangers from posting on your wall or otherwise viewing your Facebook content. If you do click on a link and are taken back to a Facebook log-in page, exit the browser and do not type in your password.

Even if you don't use Facebook or MySpace, do your children visit these sites? Hackers have figured out how to install malware on computers, often through the same trap of clicking on an infected link. You may not even realize that add-on programs have been downloaded to your computer, recording your private information and passwords without your knowledge. Familiarize yourself with your internet browser to learn how to set up protections and monitor for add-on programs that could be harmful to you.

Visit the FBI's E-Scams and Warnings page for up-to-date news on emerging scams at: <http://www.fbi.gov/scams-safety/e-scams>. Remember that with simple protections, you can greatly reduce your risk of falling victim to online fraud.

Abijah as King of Judah
 I Kings 15: II Chronicles 13

Abijah became king of Judah, while Jeroboam was king of Israel. There was war between Abijah and Jeroboam with Abijah having four hundred thousand able fighting men, and Jeroboam having eight hundred thousand able troops. Once Abijah stood on Mount Zemaraim, in the hill country of Ephraim, and challenged Jeroboam and all Israel. He reminded them that the LORD, the God of Israel, has given the kingship of all of Israel to David and his descendants forever by a covenant of salt. He recounted how Jeroboam had rebelled against his master, Solomon, and gathered some worthless scoundrels around him and opposed Rehoboam son of Solomon when he was young and indecisive and not strong enough to resist them. Abijah charged that under Jeroboam, Israel had driven out the priest of the Lord and appointed their own priest and that they continued to resist the authority of David's descendants. He proclaimed that Judah had not forsaken the Lord and that He was their God and they were faithful to Him and He would give them victory in battle so there was no need for them to fight because they would lose the battle. While Abijah talked Jeroboam sent troops around to the rear of Abijah's men. They turned and saw that they were being attacked at both front and rear and cried out to the LORD. The priests blew their trumpets and the men of Judah raised the battle cry. God routed Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. The Israelites fled before Judah and there were five hundred thousand casualties among Israel's able men. The men of Judah were victorious because they relied on the LORD, the God of their fathers. Abijah took the towns of Bethel, Jeshanah and Ephron, with their surrounding villages. Abijah grew in strength and married fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters.

Wine and Literary Society meeting notice

Sorry for such a short notice but time has slipped away as it sometimes does. But fear not, the Wine and Literary Society always has time to read and sip even if there's no time to report about it. Please come to the next meeting which will meet at 4101 Hollingsworth Road in Readyville, where we have met before. If you need directions please email pnmeyers@dtccom.net.

The meeting will be on Sunday, June 24, at 2:30. The books selected are by E. L.

James - the first two books in her Grey series. You know the books. You won't admit it but you know exactly which books. Since no one had been able to get their hands on a copy to read them for the last meeting, they were selected again for June.

The wines to be sipped are any whites from South Africa. So even if you can't get your hands on the books, grab some wine and join us. See you on June 24, at 2:30.

TEASERS & TRIVIA

Ask Ken Beck

Knoxville native made her mark in 'Dark Shadows'

Dear Ken: With a new "Dark Shadows" film out, what can you tell us about Tennessee native Lara Parker, who starred in the original TV series?

Parker, 74, who played bewitching Angelique Collins in the 1960s gothic soap opera, was born Mary Lamar Rickey, in Knoxville and grew up in Memphis where she earned a degree in philosophy from Southwestern (now Rhodes College). After acting at the Millbrook Playhouse in Loch Haven, Pa., where she played five leads in six weeks, she tried New York and within two weeks was cast as Angelique on "Dark Shadows" in 1966. She has been a guest on such TV series as "Kung Fu," "Six Million Dollar Man," "Police Woman," "The Rockford Files," "Kolchak: The Night Stalker," "Emergency," "The Incredible Hulk," "Baretta" and "Highway to Heaven." Holding a master's degree in creative writing, she has written several "Dark Shadows" novels and has a cameo appearance in the new movie. The mother of three lives with her husband in the Santa Monica Mountains of California. One bit of trivia: Parker first went to Vassar College, where her roommate was Jane Fonda. She played the wife of Peter Fonda, Jane's brother, in the 1975 film "Race With the Devil."

Dear Ken: What date will the final episode of "The Closer" air and how many episodes will there have been in the series?

The last six episodes begin July 9 with the finale airing Aug. 13 on TNT. Those shows will serve as a transition into a spin-off series, "Major Crimes," as Mary McDonnell leads the cast as Capt. Sharon Raydor. That will make for a grand total of 109 episodes of "The Closer" before the doors close.

Dear Ken: What were the biggest hits of Felix Cavaliere and The Rascals?

The band, also known as The Young Rascals, which entered the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1997, operated from 1965 until 1972. Among their best tunes were "Good Lovin'," "Groovin'," "People Got To Be Free," "How Can I Be Sure?" and "A Beautiful Morning." Native New Yorker Cavaliere, 69, has lived in Nashville for years.

Dear Ken: Who did the voices of Daphne and Velma in the Scooby-Doo cartoons?

Rikes! Indira Stefanianna Christopherson Danks was the original voice of Daphne Blake. Others who followed in her microphone were Heather Lindsay North Kenney, Kellie Martin, Mary Kay Berman and Grey DeLisle. The first actress to speak for Velma Dinkley was Nicole Jaffe. The many others include Pat Stevens, Marla Frumkin, Christina Lange, B.J. Ward, Jane Silvia, Mindy Cohn, Linda Cardellini, Meredith Slanger, Grey DeLisle and Julie Nathanson.

If you have a trivia question about actors, singers, movies, TV shows or pop culture, e-mail your query to Ken Beck at kbtg2@gmail.com

Alcoholics Anonymous

If you want to drink, that's your business. If you want to stop - that's ours. Call us at 464-4484.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees.

Our primary purpose is to stay sober and to help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups.

People who once drank to excess, they finally acknowledged that they could not handle alcohol and now live a new way of life without it.
