LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT JOINS STATEWIDE CAMPAIGN -- From left, Woodbury Police Chief Tony Burnett, Tennessee Highway Patrol Trooper Sgt. Billy Prater and Cannon County Sheriff Billy Nichols will join forces this week for the state-wide “Take Back Our Highways” campaign which will run from Sunday, July 26 through Saturday, August 1st.

Highway Patrol, Local Agencies Planning To “Take Back Our Highways”

The Tennessee Highway Patrol is teaming up with the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Georgia State Patrol, Florida Highway Patrol and Alabama’s Department of Public Safety as well as local law enforcement agencies across Tennessee, for an intensive joint initiative aimed at reducing traffic fatalities and increasing safety. During the week of July 25 through August 1, 2009, nearly every available member of THP, including Colonel Mike Walker and his command staff and administrative personnel, will actively patrol the roads during the multi-state safety campaign, called “Take Back Our Highways.”

“The goal of this effort is to save lives,” stated THP Colonel Mike Walker. “The public can expect to see a marked increase in the number of law enforcement officers on the road and a concerted effort to “Take Back Our Highways” from aggressive and hazardous drivers. If you’re drinking and driving, speeding, driving erratically or displaying any type of aggressive driving that endangers others, you can expect to see a State Trooper or local law enforcement officer.”

During the week-long enforcement period, THP will utilize all available manpower, including members of its Aviation Section, Interdiction Plus teams and Special Programs, to target dangerous drivers on all roadways in Tennessee. Troopers will also conduct sobriety and driver license checkpoints and saturation and line patrols, concentrating on areas prone to crashes. Troopers will target aggressive drivers, impaired drivers, speeders, and drivers who fail to buckle up.

Tennessee State Troopers participated in a similar “Take Back Our Highways” enforcement campaign with Mississippi and Alabama last year during the week of August 18-23. This multi-state effort first began in November 2007 when Colonel J. Christopher Murphy, Director of the Alabama Department of Public Safety, suggested the three states work together to ‘Take Back Our Highways’.

“Every time you get behind the wheel, you should buckle up, obey the speed limit and pay close attention to driving safely,” stressed Colonel Walker. “This multi-state campaign has real results, and we are proud to join Alabama and Mississippi once again along with Georgia and Florida on this effort.”

This enhanced presence will continue through the end of the summer as THP participates in other safety initiatives, including a nation-wide campaign, “Drunk Driving. Over the Limit. Under Arrest.” This annual crack down runs August 21 through the Labor Day holiday weekend. Preliminary figures show that 489 people have been killed on Tennessee roadways in 2009. That is down from 553 fatalities at this same time a year ago.

The Tennessee Department of Safety’s mission is (www.TN.Gov/safety) to ensure the safety and general welfare of the public. The department encompasses the Tennessee Highway Patrol, Office of Homeland Security and Driver License Services. General areas of responsibility include law enforcement, safety education, motorist services and terrorism prevention.

Rutherford Election Administrator Keeps Job For Now

A U.S. Federal Judge has approved a temporary order barring the Rutherford County Election Commission from firing Administrator of Elections Hooper Penuel.

Fired Cannon County Administrator of Elections Mary Lynn Bush is one of eight defendants who part of a federal lawsuit trying to get their jobs back. The suit charges that newly appointed Republican-controlled Election Commissions singled out Administrators for partisan reasons.

County Election Administrators are appointed by local election commissions and state law required those commissions to have Republican majorities because the GOP gained control of the Legislature last year.

Some of those new commissioners have ousted Election Administrators who were appointed by commissions with Democratic majorities. In their lawsuit, the eight administrators say the moves are unlawful.

At a hearing Friday, July 17, U.S. District Judge John Nixon approved a temporary restraining order barring Rutherford’s commission from moving to fire Penuel

Other counties along with Cannon and Rutherford include: DeKalb, Weakley, Henry, Loudon, Putnam and Rhea. Penuel is only defendant in the lawsuit who still works but has been told his firing is imminent.

Mrs. Bush filed her lawsuit against the Cannon County Election Commission on June 19. She had served as Administrator of Elections from 2004 until her firing in April 2009. Cannon County’s newly appointed Republican-controlled Commission appointed Stanley Dobson on that date to replace Bush.

Bush’s complaint states that during her tenure as Administrator of Elections, she performed her job and carried out the duties of the office with impartiality and in accordance with the law and the trust placed in her to be responsible for the daily operations and the execution of all elections.

Rep. Bone, Sen. Beavers Announce Funding For The Arts Center

State Representative Stratton Bone of Lebanon and State Senator Mae Beavers (R-Mt. Juliet) have released the list of grant award recipients from the Tennessee Arts Commission for Fiscal Year 2010 (July 1, 2009 - June 30, 2010) in the 46th district benefiting Cannon County.

The Arts Center of Cannon County was awarded a grant in the amount of $27,220 and also Cannon Association of Craft Artists with a $7,900 grant.

In announcing the awards, Representative Bone emphasized the contributions the arts make to the quality of life in Tennessee communities. The representative said, "The Tennessee Arts Commission's matching grants are made possible through an appropriation of state funds by the General Assembly, federal dollars from the National Endowment for the Arts, and by Tennesseans who purchased specialty and collegiate license plates."

"This state is indeed fortunate to have elected leaders who support the work of the Tennessee Arts Commission in building better communities through the arts," said Kim McClamroch, incoming chair of the Tennessee Arts Commission.

According to McClamroch, the Commission will award over 850 grants during Fiscal Year 2010, totaling more than $7.6 million dollars. Those funds have a direct impact on communities across Tennessee, in both urban and rural areas. Grant categories include: Arts Build Communities, Arts Access, Arts Education, Arts Project Support, Funds For At-Risk Youth, General Operating Support, Individual Artist Fellowships, Major Cultural Institution, Rural Arts Project Support, Student Ticket Subsidy, Technical Assistance, Touring, Special Opportunities, and Professional Development Support.

The Commission's allocation process involves a review by citizen advisory panels made up of Tennesseans with expertise in appropriate arts disciplines and a review and final approval by the full 15-member Tennessee Arts Commission.

"The arts are changing lives in Tennessee. They improve education when integrated into the curriculum. They contribute to our economy, make our communities exciting and livable, and make us better citizens," said McClamroch. He also said, "$5.5 million of the Commission's grant funding is made possible through the sale of specialty and collegiate license plates which Tennesseans voluntarily purchase each year.

The Tennessee Arts Commission is a state agency that funds and supports quality arts experiences that add value to the lives of every citizen, and enhances the quality of life in Tennessee communities.

Additional information on grant programs offered by the Tennessee Arts Commission is available at: www.arts.state.tn.us.

Representative Bone represents Cannon County in the 46th District comprised of Cannon, Trousdale and Wilson counties.

Senator Beavers represents the 17th Senatorial District which includes Cannon, Clay, DeKalb, Macon, Smith, Trousdale, and Wilson counties, and part of Sumner County.

Getting Kids Ready For School Doesn’t Have To Break The Bank

Back to school shopping is underway, and getting all the back-to-school necessities, from shoes and clothes to supplies and electronic equipment isn't cheap. According to the National Retail Federation, families will spend $548.72 on back to school purchases, a decline of 7.7 percent over the $597.74 last year.

"Challenging economic times have changed the face of back-to-school shopping this year," said Daru Burdge, president of Consumer Credit Counseling Service (CCCS) of East Tennessee. "Families are struggling to get kids ready for school without putting a further strain on the family budget."

CCCS offers tips to help make back-to-school shopping a little easier this year.

Make a budget and stick to it. Decide how much you will spend on school supplies ahead of time and, if possible, set aside the cash to avoid overspending. Use school shopping as an opportunity to teach your child about making choices by giving them a set spending amount to purchase some of the items they will need. They will learn that if they want the special folders, they may need to forego the fancy markers.

Take inventory. Begin with a list of all back-to-school needs and expenses including supplies, equipment, clothing, and fees for sports, music and science labs. Next, check around the house for what your family already owns. Look for and reuse calculators, rulers, pencil sharpeners and anything else that is still in working condition. Last year's backpack may be just what is needed to start the new school year. In fact, wait just a few weeks after school starts and many backpacks and other accessories will be on sale for a fraction of the original price. Most students will not need entirely new wardrobes-just fill in the gaps with a few new outfits or uniform pieces. Well-maintained musical instruments and sports equipment are considerably less expensive than new ones.

Plan a clothing swap. Talk with friends and neighbors about having a clothing swap-or look for one already planned in your area. This is a great way to get rid of school clothes that no longer fit and get a whole new wardrobe for this year. Find some great tips on how to get started at www.ehow.com.

Take advantage of sales tax holidays. This year, parents can enjoy tax-free shopping for many school supplies. From August 7-9, Tennessee shoppers will not pay sales tax on the following back to school items: Clothing with a sales price of $100 or less, school and art supplies with a sales price of $100 or less, and computers with a sales price of $1,500 or less. This can help your back to school budget go a little further.

Plan your shopping. With gas prices on the rise again, it may not pay to go to several stores to save a few cents on school supplies. Check the newspaper and online ads and map out your shopping plan to maximize you savings and stay within your budget.

Shop at school. Many schools offer pre-packaged school supplies for students. Often coordinated by the PTA as a fundraiser, families can purchase supply packs from the school at costs comparable to what you would pay at a retailer. You will save time and gas by not having to shop and your child's supplies will be waiting for them on the first day of school.

Shop online and at discount retailers. Several national office supply stores are offering good online prices for school supplies. Watch for dollars off coupons to save even more. Look for free or inexpensive delivery. Outlet stores, big box stores and discount chains can save you money on uniforms and other school supplies. Check out your neighborhood consignment shops and thrift stores too. Some have designated space for school uniforms and you may get some great bargains.

"Advanced planning, careful shopping and a little research can go a long way in helping you stay within your budget, added Burdge.

LifeFlight Updates Fleet With More Efficient Helicopters

Vanderbilt LifeFlight has added two new birds to its fleet.

The air ambulance service recently leased two new EC135 helicopters to replace two older BK117 models, which have been in service at Vanderbilt since 1987. The new aircraft, as well as LifeFlight's three other EC145 helicopters, are made by American Eurocopter.

Vanderbilt has four helicopter bases spread across Middle Tennessee. The new aircraft replace one helicopter kept in Mt. Pleasant, called LifeFlight 4, and a spare that is used when one of the four helicopters is undergoing maintenance.

The twin-engine EC135 is widely recognized for its high performance and outstanding maneuverability and cost less to operate and maintain than the helicopters they are replacing. This cost-effectiveness is largely due to its simple design, which allows for fast and easy maintenance.

Chief flight nurse Wilson Matthews, R.N., E.M.T., said the increased reliability will enhance flight operations.

"(The BK117's) were 18 and 22 years old. Parts were harder to get; we were always waiting for something from Germany."

Each type of helicopter has unique features to consider when transporting patients. The new helicopters are smaller in size but provide a smoother ride due to technology called anti-resonance isolation system (ARIS). The new helicopters also have enclosed tail rotors, which are safer when entering and exiting the aircraft.

The cockpit of the EC135 is nearly identical to that of the EC145, LifeFlight's other helicopter, so pilots will experience a smooth transition when switching between the two.

The cockpits feature advanced avionics that allow for zero visibility flying, night vision goggle operations and landing using HTAWS (for Helicopter Terrain Avoidance Warning Systems), which alerts pilots of their proximity to the ground below. These systems enhance crew and patient safety while flying, a goal that dominates the culture of Vanderbilt's LifeFlight program.

Another key aspect of the new helicopters is that they burn less fuel.

"These helicopters are more fuel efficient. They burn about 10 gallonsless each hour," said pilot Bric Baker.

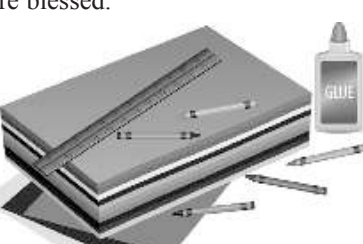

Comparing the new helicopters with the old, flight nurse Patrick Hall, R.N., E.M.T., drew the analogy, "This is a sports car. The 117 was a Cadillac."

The EC135 has a swift cruise speed of 158 mph and can climb at a rate of 1,500 feet per minute. Compared with similar helicopters, the EC135 has high endurance - it can carry a heavier payload over a longer distance than any other twin-engine aircraft in its class.

The new helicopters are now completely integrated into the LifeFlight program and began transporting patients the last week of June.

What To Do If Your Wallet Is Stolen

You check your purse or pocket and discover the worst has happened - your wallet has been stolen. What should you do first? Your wallet contains not only your money but also credit cards, your driver's license and other identification. If you find yourself in this situation, the Tennessee Society of CPAs offers some advice.

Notification Is The First Step

If you were robbed or pick pocketed, you should, of course, contact the police and let them know the circumstances. If your identification is stolen as a result of the theft, the police report you file will be an important tool in protecting yourself from identity thieves. Alert the authorities so that the thief may be caught and so that the wallet will be returned to you if it is found.

Call Your Financial Institutions

Another critical step is to immediately notify credit card companies, banks and any other financial institutions whose cards were in your wallet. The thief may be begin using your credit card or ATM card right away, so it's important to let the companies know that they should freeze or closely monitor your accounts.

The credit card company or bank phone number is often listed on the back of your card, so be sure to make a list of these numbers before any theft occurs. In many cases, banks or credit card companies will indemnify you against losses due to theft of your card, but it is still important to report any loss immediately so that your account can be monitored and a new card issued.

Be aware that you should alert financial institutions even if your wallet is returned to you, because an identity thief may already have copied your information. And remember that you will also need to contact your state motor vehicle agency to obtain a new driver's license and replace any other ID that was in the wallet.

Monitor Your Accounts

There are three credit bureaus that provide credit reports that lenders use to decide whether you should be given credit: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion. Contact them and ask them to place a fraud alert on your accounts, which lets lenders know that a theft has occurred. Those lenders will now take added steps to verify your identity if anyone tries to establish credit in your name.

Be aware that this could delay your own efforts to take out a loan, but this inconvenience may be worth it if it foils an identity thief. In addition, monitor your credit reports regularly during the months after the theft to ensure that your identity or financial information is not being used to make fraudulent purchases.

Leave Your Social Security Card At Home

Before a theft happens, remember never to carry your Social Security card in your wallet unless you know you will need it for a specific purpose. Identity thieves use stolen Social Security numbers to create fraudulent identities for themselves, so don't risk letting this happen to you. Keep your Social Security card in a safe location and memorize your number for when you need it.

What's In Your Phone Or PDA?

Many people keep personal financial information in their personal digital assistants, smart phones or laptops. The same steps apply if one of these is stolen.

Alexander Votes To Support Second Amendment Rights

WASHINGTON – U.S. Senator Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) released the following statement regarding his vote yesterday in favor of the Thune amendment to the Defense Authorization bill:

“In 2008, the Supreme Court confirmed an individual’s right to keep and bear arms. This amendment would have protected that right by allowing Tennesseans with carry permits to carry a firearm in other states with concealed carry laws, just like Tennessee driver’s licenses are accepted in other states.”

Notice To Woodbury Grammar School Teachers

You may want to go over expectations and encourage parents to contact you with their concerns. I did check with central office and everyone will receive inservice credit for the evening as long as you sign in. Please plan on meeting with your students/parents from 6:20-7:00. AUBURNTOWN NEWS

by ANNA PATRICK

It seems that Bonnie Rigsby's family has been hit pretty hard the past couple of months. In last week's column, it was sympathy in the death of a brother-in-law. She had already had twin brothers, Johnny and Jerry Hopkins, to have recent heart surgery when Monday night, she received a call that another brother, Jessie Ray Hopkins, was in emergency surgery in Erlanger at Chattanooga. We send him a speedy recovery and pray this will be the last of such for this family, at least for a good long while.

It's good to hear Phillip Hayes is home following recent surgery at Middle Tn. Medical Center.

Kiley Hughes enjoyed her 5th birthday with Hannnah Montana making a surprise visit to the birthday girl at her recent water party. Joining in with the super star to get their picture were Lily Hughes, Caitlyn and Emma Claire Crook, Carly and Ben Brown, Hagen and Cheyenne Fann, Mardi Fults, Maddi Lack, Meghin, Cassandra, Holly, Bailey Markum, Brenden Reed, Emily Whited, Mrs. Halleen Tate, Pa Kerry and Granny Elinor Hughes, and Papa Russ Fults and Nannie Helen Fults.

The Hughes' (Derrick, C.J., Kiley and Lily) also enjoyed a vacation trip recently to parts of Kentucky.

Robert and Sue Patterson were surprised Saturday the 18th, when they were the honorees at their 50th wedding anniversary party. It was a cookout at the home of their son and family, Charles, Tracy, Mary Beth and Hunter Patterson. Hosting the event along with this family was their daughter, Kimberly Corn and her sons, Andrew and Evan, who came up from Atlanta, GA. for the weekend.

Many "old" and young family and friends were on hand to enjoy the delicious grilled chicken and barbecue cooked by Charles which he began at 2:00 a.m. that morning. Wow, Charles, I really didn't know you were that industrious! The meats were accompanied by just-as-delicious sides made by the remainder of the family. To top the event off, slices of the couples' cake (which showed "before and after" pictures of the couple) were served to the guests.

Sunday, the 19th, a "family" bridal shower was given for Shannon Brown, bride-elect of my son, Kyle Patrick, here at home. Hosting the event were Anita Patrick, DeAnna Reed, and Bethany Morrison. Shannon and Kyle received many nice gifts.

Richard and Barbara Harris of Macon, GA., were here over the weekend to attend the Patterson's anniversary celebration and the bridal shower. They returned home Monday.

Saturday, Ruth and Marvin Davenport enjoyed visits with a group from their church, Forest Mills in Manchester. All 13 visitors and the Davenports enjoyed the monthly fish and chicken fry put on by our local fire department volunteers. Then it was some shooting practice at the Davenports.

The Reed girls, DeAnna, Janna, Alayna and Adrianna, have been busy this past week. Monday, they were in Lebanon to join the Buterbaughs, Jennifer, William and Grant, and the Clayborn's, Holly and Shelby, at McDonald's for a time of play for the kiddos and a time of eating and visiting for the rest. Also joining them were Shirley Allen and grandson, Micah Prater.

Then Thursday it was off to Dave and Vicky Buterbaugh's home for a time of swimming in their beautiful pool.

Winfred Gaither sent the following report regarding their recent VBS: The Auburn Baptist Church was in Vacation Bible School the week of July 13th-17th, concluding Sunday night with commencement exercises. Following commencement everyone was invited to the Auburn Baptist Activity Center for homemade ice cream, cookies, and toppings. There was enough ice cream for everyone with some left over. The "Kitchen Crew" did a masterful job of serving refreshments every night.

The offering taken this year was designated to make "Life Boxes" for our military personnel deployed overseas. Life Boxes are made up of such items as: writing material, toilet articles, music CD's, hard candy, notes from VBS children, scripture, and other comfort items.

VBS had an enrollment of 184 with an average attendance of 151 and 58 faculty members. The Director, Donna Nichols, said this was a great school this year and she wished to thank everyone who contributed in any way to the success.

Boy, did it slip up on me - Red Apple Days - that is. It's THIS WEEKEND. Can you believe it!? Red Apple Days and school starting - my how time flies when you're having fun.

Be sure to be at the C.S. Hawkins Park Friday at 5:00 P.M. when it all begins with a Gospel singing night. Then get up early Saturday morning and join in the 5K run at 7:30. There is a fun run and children's game to follow until 12 noon when the parade comes to town. From 1:00 p.m. until closing, it will be entertainment on the stage.

You can enjoy the local Lion's Club fish fry and to make it a sweeter deal, buy the "Treasured memories and Cook Books" being sold by the Auburntown Historical Society to get $1.00 off the fish plate after which you can then enjoy the cookbook and stories that go with the recipes.

There are lots of arts, crafts, food, and fun booths complemented by many yard sales taking place throughout town. So, bring your yard chair, sit back and relax and eat, eat, and eat.

Have not gotten an updated email this week from our resident soldier, Jennifer Duggin, who is serving in Iraq. Our prayers are that everything is going well and she is just really busy with her duties.

I've run out of news so now I guess it's time for the birthday wish list. Starting it off on the 30th is Steve Shirley. This brings us to the 31st where several "famous" (or at least loved) people celebrate. It just happens to be my hubby's 67th year. It is also Tommy Hayes' 66th. Winfred Gaither enters his 86th year while Jacob Duggin hits the "adult" years for his 21st. Others celebrating but I don't know the ages are Teresa Scott, Ardana Hughes and Ashley Swift. Wow, the last of July sure is a popular day for birthdays!

Starting out the new month of August are Connie Bryson (her 45th) and Chris Crook. Reid Dickey, Paul Edward Leach and John Higgins all enter another year on the 2nd. The 3rd day of the month belongs to Lauren Burkhead (also her 21st) and Hannah Bauman (her 20th). Finishing up the list on the 4th are Darnell Brown, Charlotte McCullough and our daughter-in-law, Anita Patrick. Happy birthday to all of you.

Two couples are celebrating anniversaries and both are on the same day, the 30th. They are Scott and Connie Turney and Tollie and Barbara Cantrell. Congratulations and wishing you many more celebrations.

News deadline is 8:00 A.M. each Friday. Any earlier would be great. Email me at apatrick@dtccom.net or call or fax to 464-4310.

Where In The Bible Will I Find?

Can We "Know" God Exists?

"Theism" is a belief in God while "atheism" denies God. Atheism has not and never will be able to prove that God does not exist. Those who say God is not real are fools. "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none that doeth good" (Psalm 14: 1).

There is no logical way to explain the origin of things apart from God because all things exist either because of creation or evolution. Design and order in the universe demand a creator, a designer - that is GOD. For example, a 747 jumbo jet did not just fall into place as a result of a tornado passing through junk yard. A tree with branches and leaves did not happen by accident! To NOT believe in God requires one to ignore the evidence, pretend it does not exist and blindly swallow the biggest lie that has ever been told. You might as well believe that baseballs grow on trees as to believe there is no designer. "Life" and "order" in the universe demands a source for both - that is GOD.

Evidence for God's existence is found both inside and outside the Bible. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork" (Psalm 19: 1). "For every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God" (Hebrews 3: 4). "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse" (Romans 1: 20).

Moses revealed that God is the creator. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis 1: 1). Paul also declared the existence of God in Athens. "God that made the world and all things therein...he is Lord of heaven and earth...he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; And hath made of one blood all nations of men...and hath determined...the bounds of their habitation; That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us" (Acts 17: 24-29).

Faith is not a blind leap in the dark, but is based on evidence (Romans 10: 17; Hebrews 11: 1, 6).

Consider Consolidating Retirement Assets

By the time you retire, you'll probably have accumulated money in a variety of retirement-savings vehicles at a variety of locations — an IRA here, a 401(k) there and so on. At first glance, that may sound all right, but there are some sound reasons why you might want to consolidate your retirement accounts to one provider.

Here are some of the key benefits you can receive from this type of consolidation:

- You'll keep better track of your assets. Like most people, you probably think that you will never lose track of any of the money you've saved for retirement. But many equally well-meaning people do misplace or forget about savings and investments. In fact, the National Registry of Unclaimed Retirement Benefits lists more than 50,000 individuals who are owed benefits from 401(k)s, profit-sharing plans and IRAs and either can't be reached or don't respond to inquiries. But if you hold all your retirement accounts in one place, you are probably far less likely to "misplace" them than if you kept them with several financial institutions.

- You'll have less trouble calculating minimum distributions. Once you reach age 70 — ½, you'll need to take distributions from your 401(k) and traditional IRA. (This requirement does not apply to a Roth IRA.) It's not particularly difficult to calculate the amount of a distribution from a single IRA or 401(k), but if you hold several accounts, it could get a bit tricky. For example, if you have multiple IRAs, you'll need to add them together, then divide the total balance by the IRS' life expectancy numbers for someone your age. If you have several 401(k)s, you'll need to calculate the required minimum distribution for each 401(k) separately, using the same life expectancy figures as you would with an IRA. Clearly, if you held a mix of these accounts at different places, you'd have to do a bit of detective work and a lot of number crunching to arrive at your required minimum distributions.

- You could save money. If you held accounts at several locations, you could be paying a number of fees and maintenance charges. Individually, each fee or charge may not seem like much, but they can add up. By consolidating your accounts to one provider, you might be able to save some money.

- You can create a unified strategy. To achieve the retirement lifestyle you've envisioned, you will need to create a sufficient income stream, drawing from all your retirement accounts. Among other things, you'll need to know how much you can afford to withdraw each year, how you can stay ahead of inflation and how best to control your investment-related taxes. You'll find it far easier to accomplish these goals if you have a single, unified investment strategy — and it will be far easier to develop such a strategy if you have all your retirement accounts at one place, possibly under the guidance of a single financial advisor.

So, to sum up: The more retirement savings vehicles you own, the better — but when it comes to the number of institutions holding these accounts, you might just want to stop at one.

SHORT MOUNTAIN OBSERVATIONS

by KEN GARRETT

Several months ago I picked up a book entitled "I Can Remember When America was Free" by G. Gordon Liddy. My first thought that this author was reminiscing about the Watergate break-in so I read few pages. As I read I started remember things I could do in my early years that I couldn't do now.

I grew up in a small town about the size of Auburtnow or Liberty in central Indiana. The town had a railroad (busy one) right through the center of town running North and South. There was a large right of way on each side that provided some of the best rabbit habitat in the world.

So as a teenager about three times a week I would grab the old shotgun and hunt the right of ways. Can you imagine the laws I would be breaking today i.e. terrorism, noise pollution, carrying a gun for the purpose of going armed, my parents would be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, I almost forgot "reckless endangerment" and PETA would want to burn me at a stake for murdering those little bunnies. But all my teenage years I never heard a neighbor complain of my activities.

My mind drifted on to the other changes that have been made by law or cultural evolution since my youth. In those days, we cursed ourselves for allowing the loss of six million human lives to occur in a thing called the Holocaust. Since then we have sat by and allowed more than 60 million lives to be terminated and we call that a women's right.

(Very little indignation shown). In my youth there was a strong stigma to a man not supporting his family, a child borne out of wedlock or a couple living together without the benefit of marriage. You could determine your child's school by moving close to school of choice. We could and did say the Pledge of Allegiance and morning prayers as our first agenda of each school day. On Good Friday of each year the school would be divided and attend church services at each of our two churches with each being about one fourth mile from the school.

Indiana is not a part of the Bible Belt. Golley, I'm beginning to miss the good ole' days!

Lt. Caleb Daniel has returned to his unit in South Korea. I sorta miss him too.

Gerald and Marcia Melton spent this past week-end in Gatlinburg. They hosted back to back events the previous week-end and think everyone would agree they deserved some relaxation.

Last week's visitor of Betty Jo Johnson was Ms. Geraldine Goodrum Hall of Donelson. Her father, Rev William Goodrum and Mrs. Goodrum pastored the Short Mountain Church of God 1954-1958. Geraldine and her brother Derwood attended Short Mountain Elementary School. The elder Goodrums are now deceased but Geraldine comes back now and then to visit the church and old friends

Memorial services were on Saturday at The New Vision Baptist Church in Murfreesboro for Mrs. Kimberly Beach Ridinger, 34 of Murfreesboro. She was the daughter of Paul and Alice Bogle Beach of Acworth, Georgia and formerly of Short Mountain. Her grandfather was the late Howard Bogle. Sincere sympathy to all the family in Dekalb Community Hospital. Robert Bogle is now at home after a hospital stay.

Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Underwood was Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Underwood. The raccoons are really liking Bill's corn patch. Luckily he has caught five in a trap using sardines for bait. Between the deer, coons' and rabbits on Johnstown Road Bill and Janie aren't having very good success with a garden this year !!

Rev. and Mrs. R.B. Bewley celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on July 24th

Ms Joanna Davenport was Tuesday evening guests of Frank and Shirley Daniel

Blues Hill Cumberland Presbyterian church observed their Homecoming on Sunday, July 26. Special singers were The Pelham Family and The Harmony Echoes.

It's Not Cheap To Raise A Child

Having been raised in a family of five, I for one understand the cost of food, shelter, clothing and the other things we call necessities needed for raising children. In the most recent United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) report entitled "Expenditures on Children by Families" it removed all doubt about the fact that kids are not cheap. In fact, they are downright expensive, but most parents will tell you they are worth every expenditure.

The USDA report will tell you that if you had a child born recently you can expect to pay from $148,000 to $299,000, depending on income level, on that bundle of joy for their food, shelter and the other necessities to keep them dry and happy over the next 17 years. That's only around $10,000 a year on the average, but if you figure in inflation over those 17 years, that amount adds up for your total years of child-rearing.

The report has been available since 1960 and continues to be a valuable resource for state agencies and courts in determining child support guidelines and foster care payments. Of primary interest to states is the child-rearing cost estimate for middle-income, two-parent families, which in 2007, ranged between $10,930 to $12,030, for a child in a two-child, married couple family in the middle-income group.

The report, compiled by USDA's Center for Nutrition Policy and Promotion, notes that family income affects child-rearing costs, with low-income families projected to spend $148,320; middle-income families $204,060; and upper-income families $298,680 (all in 2007 dollars) over a 17-year period. In 1960, a middle-income family could expect to spend $25,230 to raise a child through age 17.

Since 1960, as you would expect, expenses on children have changed considerably. Food decreased from 24 percent to 17.5 percent of total child-rearing costs, while childcare and education expenses increased from 1 percent to approximately 10 percent.

Most farmers could have told you that the food cost has decreased over the last forty-plus years. With improved efficiency and new production capabilities on today's farms, America is enjoying the most reasonably priced food in the world, as well as the safest.

We Americans are getting a good deal when we purchase food. It takes just five weeks for the average American to earn enough disposable income to pay for his or her family's food supply for the entire year. But, our farmers aren't getting as good of a return on their hard work. Farmers receive only 19 cents out of every food dollar spent in the United States. That is down from 31 cents just 30 years ago making today's recession numbers look like a ride in the park.

While the farmer helps us raise our kids by providing us with affordable food, we need to remember that they also desire to make a good living just like the rest of the population. They have kids too, and their cost for raising them is just like the rest of us.

Housing cost was the single largest expenditure on a child in 2007, averaging 38.5 percent of the total costs over 17 years, compared with 32 percent in 1960.

In real dollars, the overall cost of raising a child has increased 13 percent from 1960 to 2007. Housing cost led the way in total cost increases with childcare and education coming in second. Health care increased by 3 percent, with clothing cost decreasing by 5 percent, as well as transportation cost going down from 16 percent to 15 percent.

Tennessee's farmers are glad to be a part of helping to feed our children. We can thank a farmer for giving us more disposable income to spend on those large housing, childcare and education bills facing us over the next 17 years. As farmers, their job is to provide today's consumers with the highest quality food possible. Growing and raising wholesome, safe food is their top goal. They've done a good job; and are going to continue to look for every opportunity to improve quality and safety.

Weekly Column By Senator Lamar Alexander

"Securing Reliable, Cheap, Clean Energy: A Blueprint for 100 new Nuclear Plants in 20 Years"

Our country is at a critical point in its economic and energy history. Today's recession is the most severe in decades. Unemployment nears ten percent. We have too much national debt.

A gathering storm threatens t h e technological edge that has g i v e n Americans — only about 5 percent of the world's people — a remarkable standard of living that comes from producing 25 percent of the world's wealth. The sting remains from last year's oil prices. We rely too much on other countries for our energy. There is the unfinished job of cleaning our air. And, for many, the global warming of the planet has become an urgent concern.

It is against this backdrop that, for the first time ever, legislation dealing broadly with energy and climate change is coming out of the House of Representatives. The Senate is also moving ahead on both issues. The decisions Congress makes will affect our well-being for years to come. The House of Representatives has chosen the high-cost solution to clean energy and climate change. Its economy-wide cap-and-trade and renewable energy mandate is a job-killing, 100-billion-dollar-a-year national energy tax that will basically add a new utility bill to every American family budget.

I prefer a different solution, a low-cost plan for clean energy based upon these four steps: building 100 nuclear power plants within 20 years, supporting electric cars and trucks for conservation, exploring offshore for natural gas and oil, and doubling energy research and development to make renewable energy cost-competitive. Unlike the House plan, which will raise prices and send jobs overseas looking for cheap energy, my plan — which is supported by many Republicans in the Senate — will lower utility bills and create jobs and should put the United States within the goals of the Kyoto Protocol on global warming by 2030.

Nuclear power is the obvious first step to a policy of clean and low-cost energy. It already accounts for 70 percent of the pollution-free energy in our country. Building 100 new plants in the next 20 years would double U.S. nuclear production, making it about 40 percent of all our electricity production. Add 10 percent for sun and wind and other renewables, another 10 percent for hydroelectric, maybe 5 percent for natural gas, and we begin to have a cheap as well as clean energy policy.

The difficulties with nuclear power are political, not technological; social, not economic. The main obstacle is a lingering doubt and fear in the public mind about the technology. Any progressive Administration that wishes to solve the problem of global warming without crushing the American economy should help the public resolve these doubts and fears. What is needed boils down to two words: presidential leadership.

We can't wait any longer to start building our future of clean, reliable and affordable energy. The time has come for action. We can revive America's industrial and hi-tech economy with the technology we already have at hand. The only requirement is that we open our minds to the possibilities and potential of nuclear power.

As we do, our policy of cheap and clean energy based upon nuclear power, electric cars, off-shore exploration and doubling energy R&D will help family budgets and create jobs. It will also prove to be the fastest way to increase American energy independence, clean the air and reduce global warming.

Choosing An Eldercare Facility

The American population is aging. In fact, according to U.S. Census Bureau statistics, one in five Americans will be over 65 by the year 2050. As people grow older, many will choose to continue living on their own or may decide to move in with family. However, some will prefer to reside with people closer to their own age or will, by necessity, need to live in a facility that can cater to their changing medical needs. What should you keep in mind if you must choose an eldercare facility for yourself or a loved one? The Tennessee Society of CPAS offers some tips.

KNOW YOUR OPTIONS

There are several types of facilities available. Independent living options are generally intended for healthy people who want to live among other seniors in a community designed for them. Assisted-living arrangements are meant for those who are relatively healthy but who may need help with meal preparation, personal care or other needs. At the other end of the scale are nursing homes, which generally have 24-hour medical care available and are intended for those with more serious health problems who require regular care and attention.

WHAT'S BEST FOR YOUR LOVED ONE?

Your choice, of course, will depend on the current state of your older relative's health and what changes you might expect in their situation in the near future. In other words, there's no need to pay more for a facility that offers round-the-clock nursing care if it's not necessary now, but that may be a worthwhile expense if the senior has health problems.

CHECK THE QUALITY

Many people find eldercare facilities based on recommendations from others with family members in those facilities. While this is a great starting point, the only way to make a final decision is to visit the facility yourself and draw your own conclusions. Immediately on arrival, you will be able to judge whether the buildings and grounds are tidy and well maintained and seem cheerful and inviting. Ask whether a registered dietician or nutritionist plans meals, and tour the kitchen to see if it is clean and orderly. Spend some time at the facility to see if the staff seems consistently friendly and caring to residents.

CONSIDER LOCATION

Some seniors are reluctant to change residences, while others consider a move to be a welcome relief after years of maintaining a home. In either case, most seniors usually favor a facility that is near to their family and friends. To find a facility in your desired location, go to www.eldercare.gov.

CHECK RESOURCES

More information on choosing an eldercare facility can be found on the Web site of the U.S. Administration on Aging at www.aoa.gov and on the Medicare site under "Compare Nursing Homes in Your Area" (go to www.medicare.gov). Medicare's "Guide to Choosing a Nursing Home" also contains useful advice on how to pay for one of these facilities.

KNOW YOUR OPTIONS

Keep in mind that moving into a facility may not be necessary. Many communities offer services for the elderly, home health care aides or adult day care centers. A medical professional or a hospital social worker or discharge official can provide some advice on alternative choices.

MASSAGE

by Nancy Coomes, LMT

I do different things to help my clients relax during a massage. I try to keep the temperature comfortable for them. In the winter I often keep a small space heater running and some will need an additional blanket. Summer usually means a fan going in the room. I use low lighting in the room. I also play soft music to help the client relax.

More research is being done on the effects of music on our physical, mental and emotional health. Did you know that the Blue Danube Waltz by Johann Strauss is one of the best compositions to enhance physical health? Studies have been done to see the effect of music on plant growth. The plants fared the worst with rock music, often withering and dying. When classical music was played, there was increased growth. The best classical music for plants was that by J.S. Bach. But they actually found that the plants did the best when Indian sitar music, like that performed by Ravi Shankar, was played. This may be because this type of music contains many harmonies.

New Age music played with hyperactive children in schools calmed them down. I have a client who can attest to this. She regularly used music to calm her junior high math students. The kids would often request it before she would even begin to play it for them.

Music has been used with depression also. It was found that stringed music especially seemed the most beneficial.

I like the music by the company Solitudes. Some of my favorites are Natural Stress Release, Piano Cascades, Woodland Flute, and Pachabel by the Sea. I carry some of their CD's, but you can often find them in stores that have the display where you can choose to listen to an excerpt of the CD by pressing a button. There is often a selection of many relaxing CD's from which to choose.

We can't all be talented musicians who create and play the music we love, but we can certainly choose to listen to music that enhances and enriches our lives.

I keep the telephone of my mind open to peace, harmony, health, love and abundance. Then, whenever doubt, anxiety or fear try to call me, they keep getting a busy signal - and they'll soon forget my number.

- Edith Armstrong

From Heaven or of Men?

The chief priests, scribes, and elders asked Jesus, “By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority to do these things?” (Mark 11:28) These men recognized the need for authority in religion. Jesus, with his reply, also recognized that there must be authority in religion. Jesus asked them, “The baptism of John, was /it/ from heaven, or of men? answer me.” (Mark 11:30)

With this answer, Jesus identified the only two sources of authority in religion: Heaven (God) or men. Only one of these has the right to grant such authority, as identified by the Apostle Peter in Acts 5:29, “We ought to obey God rather than men.”

Though Jesus declined to answer those men who sought to cause him difficulty, he did later answer the question that they asked him. In Luke 10:22 Jesus made the statement, “All things are delivered to me of my Father...” In Matthew 28:18 (ASV) Jesus said, “All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth.”

We see, then, that Jesus had authority from God to rule over both heaven and Earth.

We are told in Hebrews 1:1-2 that, “God...Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son...” These last days would refer to the time when we are under Christ’s covenant. God has chosen to reveal his word through Jesus, to whom all authority has been given.

Jesus also spoke of another that he would send after he left the Earth to return to Heaven. In John 16:13-14, Jesus told his disciples, “Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.” We find here that Jesus has promised that he would send the spirit to “guide you into all truth.” Remember, it was his disciples that Jesus was speaking to. Jesus had also warned these disciples that they would stand before governors and kings for Him. He told them, “But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that same hour what ye shall speak.” (Matthew 10:19)

These men would be inspired and would speak by the authority that Jesus gave them. In fact, Jesus told Peter, “...whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:19) Those things taught by inspired men are, therefore, just as binding on us as those taught by Jesus.

Finally, the things that Jesus and his Disciples taught, by God’s authority, were written down for us. (I Corinthians 14:36-38, I Timothy 3:16-17) We are told that this written word “...was once delivered unto the saints.” (Jude 3) This statement means “once for all time,” not to be added to or changed. Paul said, “But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. (Galatians 1:8) Let us, then, study the Word by which we have authority revealed from God.

Gordon: Federal Spending Patterns Can’t Continue

WASHINGTON - This week the U.S. House will take an important step towards reducing federal spending by passing H.R. 2920, the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act ("PAYGO"). This legislation re-establishes the principle responsible for budget surpluses at the end of the 1990s, which required that any new spending by Congress be offset with a reduction in existing spending.

"Our federal spending patterns can't continue," said Congressman Bart Gordon who is a long-time supporter of PAYGO. "We have been borrowing money from China, as well as other countries, since 2002 to pay for federal programs and initiatives. This bill draws a firm line in the sand - moving forward, if we are going to spend a dollar, we must find a U.S. dollar to pay for it."

The first PAYGO rule was included in the Budget Enforcement Act, which was signed into law with Gordon's strong support in 1990. Over the next decade, PAYGO resulted in a gradual reduction of the federal deficit, and in 1998, the federal government saw its first budget surplus since 1969. Unfortunately, despite Gordon's objections, PAYGO was not reauthorized in 2002. Since then, the federal deficit has skyrocketed.

"As our economy continues to recover from the most severe economic downturn since the Great Depression, we must focus on creating jobs and making the U.S. dollar strong again. Reducing federal spending will help on both fronts," added Gordon. "This legislation expresses our long-term commitment to balanced budgets and financial solvency."

The PAYGO legislation to be considered in the House this week will require all new spending policies passed by Congress be offset over five and ten years. It will force a serious examination of wasteful spending programs in the budget and tax loopholes that can be eliminated to offset more worthwhile programs.

The only thing I regret about my past is the length of it. If I had to live my life again, I'd make the same mistakes, only sooner.

Foliar Fungicides for Wheat Disease Control

Stage of Growth to Apply Wheat Foliar Fungicides: Close attention must be paid to the stage of growth to obtain maximum benefit from foliar fungicides. If the application is made too late, then infection could have already occurred. If application is made too early, the flag leaf and head will not be protected. Unless powdery mildew or a rust disease is threatening the flag leaf, the best time to apply a foliar fungicide is a Feeke's scale 10.3 (when ½ of the head has emerged). If weather and disease pressure are causing concern an early application could be considered at Feeke's scale F 8 (when flag leaf is still rolled and just visible). Then if disease conditions continue to develop a second application could be made at F 10.3. Folicur and Prosaro fungicides are both labeled for head blight suppression and should be sprayed at F 10.5.1 (beginning of flowering) when continuous wet weather occurs during flowering. Each application must be made in at least 5 gallons of water per acre by airplane or at least 20 gallons of water per acre with ground rigs. Always use a spreader-binder that is labeled for fungicides with either application method.

Hardwood Analysis and Trends

The marketplace for hardwood logs and lumber in 2008 was very challenging, a difficult year for sawmills, loggers, and secondary manufacturers alike. The entire chain from landowners to retailers endured downward pricing pressure, a trend that is likely to continue, at least in the short run. Since the stock market's tumble in October, #1 common white oak lumber is off 15% and red oak has declined 9%. As demand for hardwood products has slid, so has sawmill lumber production. Many mills throughout the region have been forced to reduce from two shifts to one, and often the one that is running, is not at full capacity. A quick snap-shot of the current condition of the hardwood market follows.

Supply - we continue to have very high supply of standing hardwood saw timber, especially with oaks, yellow poplar, and hickories. The US hardwood forests have enjoyed a +117% increase in hardwood growing stock from 1953 to 2007. This should confirm that our forests are being managed sustainably, at least from the view point of growing wood. But supply on the stump doesn't necessarily indicate an abundance of logs available for processing. Timber sales are down, as are the number of loggers, collectively these have lowered log supply.

Hardwood Lumber Production - is off, way off. From 2005 to present, eastern US hardwood production is down 28.4%, to the lowest annual total production in 27 years. It decreased seven of the last nine years. Less-than-favorable business conditions are to blame.

Demand - end-user consumption of wood from 2007 to 2008 fell 12%, with lead decliners being furniture, millwork and flooring. Of the eight hardwood market sectors commonly tracked, six decreased, only two increased. A breakdown includes: pallets -3%, furniture -30%, exports -17%, millwork -30%, cabinets -8%, flooring -38%, railway ties +10%, mat timbers +2%. The recent drop in housing starts has affected the demand for hardwood furnishings. Existing housing inventory is still very high and until surplus is bought-up, housing starts will remain low and demand for many hardwood products will continue to suffer. Consider that the demand for hardwood furniture is off 73% since 1999.

A Return to Red Oak is Vital - the eastern US hardwood industry, including Tennessee, is heavily reliant on red oak. Oak species in general and red oak in particular, have long been the mainstay of our mills. And although other species can temporarily fill voids in red oak demand, mills cannot ignore processing red oak logs for long. When timber harvesting happens, red oak will largely be in the mix, and mills will have to continue to deal with it. Recent substitutes for red oak are domestic hard maple and imported rubber wood. Opportunities with emerging non-traditional markets such as: biomass, biofuel, certified wood, carbon credits and other ecosystem markets will be welcome, albeit slow to develop. Many of these will require forests to be certified, and landowners should continue exploring this as an option for their land. (Summarized with permission of the Hardwood Market Report. 2008: The Year At a Glance. Memphis, TN).

Hard Times in the Wood Industry

Along with many other parts of the economy, the forest products industry is suffering. Demand for wood products is tightly linked to housing activity, so the housing crash created ripples that are negatively affecting loggers, sawmills, flooring and cabinet manufacturers - almost all wood manufacturers - across the state. Even before the recent economic troubles and the bursting of the housing bubble, there were challenging conditions for wood products producers. Globalization has introduced new sources of competition from around the globe. This has suppressed prices for wood and wood products. In fact, a recent analysis by an economist at the University of Michigan (<http://mjperry.blogspot.com/>) suggests that lumber is cheaper than it has ever been (after accounting for inflation). In addition, the most prevalent species in Tennessee (the oaks) are currently not as fashionable for many applications as they once were.

This 'double-whammy' is resulting in a forest products market in Tennessee that many experienced industry folks are calling the worst ever. A number of mills have closed and many more are operating on reduced schedules.

The longer-term outlook is more positive, for those mills that can survive until the market picks up. Tennessee has an abundant, high-quality, sustainable forest resource and American hardwoods are well-regarded in the world market. Demand for wood products is expected to increase in general and fashion may change again to favor darker woods like oak. The forest industry is a large part of Tennessee's economy. Like other parts of the economy, the wood industry is suffering badly but, although the timing of the recovery is uncertain, we can look forward to a better future for the wood business.

Supervision is Critical For a Successful Timber Sale

I was visiting the other day with a landowner who had just completed a timber removal/sale. The landowner had worked with a wildlife biologist and forester to remove a substantial amount of timber in order to improve conditions for several wildlife species. The intentions were to maintain several tree per acre for hard mast production and flood the remaining area with sunlight to encourage the development of forbs, grasses and soft mast producing trees and shrubs.

The landowner had clearly marked the trees that were to remain on the site. Paint was applied at eye level and at the ground line as typically recommended. The ground line paint is intended to be seen after the tree is cut.

A contract was also used to explain to the buyer conditions of the sale, including a clause that discussed that the painted trees were not to be cut. To make a long story short, when reviewing the residual stand after the logger had departed, the landowner suspected that the loggers had removed several of the painted trees.

The complaints included the removal of the ground line paint, tops conspicuously placed to discourage verifying the ground line paint, and that loggers had stolen the trees. All of these certainly could have happened. I haven't followed the story since our visit, but the lesson for me was the need for supervision of the logging operation. Persons actually cutting the trees likely did not read the contract.

When they encountered the painted trees they may have noticed that they were prime specimens (large with good grade) and chose to take them while no one was looking. Then, when they were finally told that the marked trees should have stayed, . . . you can take the story from here.

My point is that a contract must be enforced by periodically visiting the logging job as it proceeds. This should be discussed with your consultant if you are using these services or you need to visit the site yourself, looking for contract violations, such as removal of specially designated trees. Upon recognition of the violation, you must notify the buyer immediately and allow them time to convey this information to the logging crew. If the contract includes performance penalties, you have more leverage in getting everyone's attention. Most logging crews want to do a good job, but as with many human endeavors communication is critical. Let us know if we can provide additional information.

Recommendations For Managing Hardwood Timber On Your Woodlot

When growing and selling timber is an ownership objective, woodlots are usually managed based on four collective considerations: protection, production, marketing and harvesting. General recommendations for management of your woodlot based on these considerations are outlined below. For more information about these recommendations, contact a professional forester, your local Tennessee Division of Forestry office (765-7373), or the Cannon County Extension office at 563-2554.

How Christ Changes Lives

By: BOB STOETZEL
Luke 1:37: For with God nothing shall be impossible. This was taken from the King James Version. The English Standard Version says; "With man this is impossible, but with God all things are possible."

I believe that scripture with my whole heart. I have seen it happen many times over. And there are many people who are believers such as that. The reason why I believe is, first, because it came from the Bible, God's Holy Word, and secondly, it happens because of faith and commitment to God.

Evangelist Speaker Frank Palermo from the Short Mountain Church of God has a testimony that will also corroborate this verse. Palermo's life was not one that God would look down upon and bless. In his testimony to the church he explains that by the time he was 14 years old he had told his teachers and friends he wanted to be a "big time gangster" just like his father.

In his testimony Palermo talks of how his life was anything but Godly, how he had learned the business from the bottom up. It took penitentiary time to bring him from a big shot to a humble servant of God. Palermo was sent from prison to prison, ending up in Atlanta Federal Prison with 7,000 other tough guys. He lived in fear for his life every day.

In everyone's life there is a moment that can make or break you and Palermo had come to this impasse. During his time in the penitentiary he had seen so much, so much that it had sickened him. The first year he was in Atlanta there were ten murders inside the joint; one of them was over 2 packs of Pall Mall cigarettes he remembers. There were no less than five attempts on his life as his only thought day and night was to watch out for his enemies. And in the business that he was in he had made enough enemies to last a lifetime, especially if it was a short lifetime.

On August 27 of one year he said that he was so lonely and so downtrodden that he thought of ending his life. There was a violent storm he recalls and he said that he "was so afraid and then he said he was so sorrowful for the things that he had done to people throughout his years that he put his face deep in his pillow and cried, and cried out to God forgiveness." He said it was then that he had found forgiveness. "God told me that I was going to be used by him to preach," he said. Palermo didn't get out of prison to preach; he stayed in prison and preached. God gave him the courage and the strength to preacher the gospel. He said his father's friends in prison laughed at him when he began to preach. But before he left Atlanta Prison he had brought 134 people to the Lord Jesus Christ.

To hear the rest of the story you are invited to come hear Interim Pastor Frank Palermo at the Short Mountain Church of God, located at 6621 Short Mountain Road.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Bryson:

Congratulations on your retirement from the Cannon Courier. I have had the great opportunity to work with you as a reporter, then owner of the Cannon Courier and also as the Foreman of the Cannon County Grand Jury for the past twenty years. During this time I have found you to be honest, fair and dedicated in being Editor of the Cannon Courier and as Foreman of the Cannon County Grand Jury.

I know that you started working at the Cannon Courier when you were seven years old and have continued to work and then own the Courier until now. Thank you for maintaining the Cannon Courier as a newspaper that was dedicated to LOCAL news. I have always enjoyed reading the news from the small communities within Cannon County.

Again, thank you for your many years of excellent service to this great community we know as Cannon County.

Sincerely,

THANK YOU WOODBURY!

The Cannon County Senior Center and Board would like to thank everyone that donated to our Bucket Brigade on July 17th. We appreciate all from Woodbury and surrounding counties that came through to give. All the proceeds raised will go to help with the cost of installing a new front door at the Center. We are so blessed to live in a county that will help our seniors. As a matter of fact we live in a fine county period that is willing to help with any needs that may arise. I am so thankful to be able to say that I live in this wonderful city.

Also a special thank you all of the volunteers that stood on the corners of College and Tatum Streets for our fundraiser. The Lord allowed us perfect weather for the day and many generous people to provide for our first phase of the entrance. Words really seem small in comparison to the appreciation we feel for each and every one of you. Connie will contact her lowest bidder and get the project started, so be sure to come by often to check on the progress. Again, the CCSC thanks everyone of you!!!!

Thanks

I want to thank everyone for all the prayers, calls, visits, food and all the help at home. I wish I could call each one by name, but I'm afraid I will leave someone out.

Also to the ones that are helping so much that I don't know who you are. God knows you and God bless you.

I do need to thank Dr. Tate, Angela and all the crew for taking care of Peyton while I was at Vanderbilt. It's his home away from home.

To everyone for everything, I do appreciate everything done.

Keep me in your prayers.
Love, Dean Daniel and Peyton

“I would rate Stones River Hospital with five stars”

As Director of the Cannon County Senior Center, I provide leadership and overall development of the facility. I work with public and private organizations in an effort to encourage coordination of services and obtain the provision of services to benefit seniors.

Stones River Hospital and Riverside Center partner with the Senior Center on several projects: “Nurse on Duty” weekly, “It’s all about You” support group monthly and the Alzheimer’s support group every other month. In 2008, Stones River Hospital was Cannon County Senior Center’s Community Partner of the Year for providing excellent health programs in 2007-2008.

Riverside has provided outstanding service to seniors with memory issues and trained the Senior Center staff on recognizing signs of depression. The Senior Center works with local doctors to provide programming with in depth conversations concerning senior’s health topics such as stroke, shingles, men’s health, women’s health, blood pressure and dementia. The level of commitment from staff, nurses and doctors to provide excellent care shows in the way they partner with our agency in providing informational health programs.

In a small town, nonprofits like the Cannon County Senior Center depend on community partners to provide quality health education programs and I would rate Stones River Hospital with five stars.

Knowing Moles Could “Save Your Skin”

Ever wonder why dermatologists pay so much attention to moles? It's because serious skin cancer can play a hide-and-seek game on a patient's skin, masquerading as an innocent blemish. Being able to differentiate between harmless growths on the skin and abnormal ones could save your life one day.

A normal mole is a circle or oval less than ¼ inch in diameter, with well-defined edges. Its profile is flat or dome-shaped, and it ranges in color from pink to dark brown. Most moles appear by the time you reach age 30, so carefully monitor any mole that appears later than that.

Most people have from 10 to 40 moles, according to the National Cancer Institute. They often begin as a tiny, flat spot that grows in width, over years, and may become raised. Sometimes they flatten out again, take on the color of surrounding skin, and disappear.

Dermatologists say the following could be signs of skin cancer and should be reported immediately to your doctor:

A mole with a crusty growth.
A mole that bleeds, itches, or includes a sore that does not heal.

A mole that grows quickly.
Shielding Yourself From the

Sun's Radiation

Aside from brimmed hats and long sleeves, sunscreen is one of the most effective tools for minimizing sun damage to your skin. As with any tool, understanding how it works increases the odds that it will do a good job for you. Sunscreens can be made from a number of ingredients that either absorb or reflect Ultraviolet radiation (often identified by two varieties of wavelength, UVA and UVB). Ultraviolet is an invisible part of the sun's light that doctors believe ages the skin and is linked to skin cancer. Dermatologists recommend that you look for sunscreen labeled as "broad spectrum" protection from UVA and UVB. Some more things doctors want you to know about saving your skin:

Understand the meaning of that SPF (Skin Protection Factor) number on your sunscreen. It means that the product multiplies the time your skin can be exposed to sunlight without burning. So if you burn after 10 minutes in the sun, using sunscreen with an SPF of 30 will give you 300 minutes of fun in the sun. (Careful—that's only 5 hours!)

The American Dermatology Association recommends using a broad spectrum sunscreen, with an SPF of at least 15, on all exposed skin. Add new sunscreen every two hours.

Some sunscreens work by providing chemicals that absorb the sun's radiation before it reaches your skin. Others include ingredients such as zinc oxide and titanium dioxide, which reflect radiation so it never reaches your skin, thus providing broad spectrum protection.

Recognizing A Stroke

Remember the "3" steps, STR.

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. Unfortunately, the lack of awareness spells disaster. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke.

Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking three simple questions:

S * Ask the individual to SMILE.
T * Ask the person to TALK to SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE such as "It is sunny out today."
R * Ask him or her to RAISE BOTH ARMS.

NOTE: Another sign of a stroke is this: ask the person to stick out their tongue. If the tongue is crooked, if it goes to one side or the other, that is also an indication of a stroke. If he or she has trouble with ANY ONE of these tasks, call 911 immediately and describe the symptoms to the dispatcher.

Snacking on the Road

When you think of vacation, what is the first thing that comes to mind...a break! A much needed break from work, school, and busy schedules. However, it does not have to be a break from healthy eating. Whether you are traveling to a local campground or 8 hours to the beach, you are going to get hungry. But stopping for a snack does not mean popping in the nearest fast food joint or raiding vending machines at the rest area. Instead, plan ahead to bring your own light snacks and meals.

Get your vacation off to a healthy start with these on-the-go snack ideas:

Sweet and Savory

Jerky is a great travel snack. It needs no refrigeration and is high in protein. Choose pre-wrapped products or separate bulk packages into small bags to control portion sizes.

Cereal and protein bars can be found in many grocery stores as well as convenience stores and can be very satisfying. These bars come in a variety of flavors like peanut butter, fruit, nuts, and even chocolate! Look for whole grain and high fiber products to keep you fuller longer. Read the label and avoid those products whose ingredients start with sugar or corn syrup.

Air-popped popcorn is a perfect travel companion. Take a few minutes to pop it in the microwave before you set out. Some travel centers may provide microwaves to customers who purchase popcorn.

Practical Produce

Fresh Produce is nature's own convenience food. Don't limit yourself to apples or bananas; fill containers with a medley of fresh veggies such as broccoli, grape tomatoes, celery, carrots, etc. Dried fruits or kid's packs of applesauce or fruit cups also provide a great car snack.

Wrap It Up

Sandwich wraps are great for light meals. Fill them with your favorite veggies or mix it up with turkey and pineapple. Be sure to bring along a small cooler filled with ice to keep them safe!

Drinks for the Road

Don't forget to bring along a case of water to keep at reach. Keep them in a cooler and restock when you pull one out. Not only is water a great thirst quencher, but its essential for good health and digestion. Add a pouch of sugar-free drink mix to flavor it up without the calories.

Not only will these ideas provide great travel snacks, they will also save you money!

Cultural Arts Exhibit

Come view the Cannon County Family and Community Education (FCE) clubs Cultural Arts Exhibit at the Cannon County Arts Center August 3rd - 7th.

The Cultural Arts Competition is held annually among FCE members at the local level in which the top winners go on to compete at the state level. There are twenty eight categories in the competition such as basketry, photography, needlepoint, embroidery, quilting, beadwork, sculptures and woodcarving.

In recent years, local winners have proudly represented Cannon County by placing amongst the top in the state. Don't miss the chance to see the great talents within our community!

Nursing Center Patients Enjoy Front Porch

The residents of Woodbury Nursing Center enjoy the front porch. Every Tuesday and Thursday the residents are taken out on the porch to enjoy the flowers donated by Ms. Caputo at Cannon County High School. The residents also enjoy the flowers and doing Hummingbird watching. Thanks to Mr. Emerson Johnston who has provided us with the bird feeders and keeps them filled up.

Mrs. Mildred Reads

Mrs. Mildred Watson keeps busy at Woobury Nursing Center by reading to children at Busy Kids Daycare. Mrs. Mildred also left color pages for the kids to color. Tina Miller collected them and returned them to the Center. Stop in and see their art work on display at the Nursing Center. Thanks Busy Kids for allowing us to visit.

Dear fellow Tennessean:

As a parent, I know that back-to-school season is one of the busiest times of the year. Parents all across the state are making preparations to ensure their students have a smooth start to the school year. Several programs offered by the state can help families with their back-to-school activities and I hope the following tools will give students across Tennessee the best possible chance for educational success.

Participate in Sales Tax Holiday.

I encourage Tennessee families to participate in the annual Sales Tax Holiday. The long weekend of savings is a way to prepare your children by making sure they start the first day of school properly equipped and ready to learn. From August 7-9, Tennesseans can purchase school supplies and clothing priced $100 or less per item, and computers priced $1,500 or less, without paying state or local sales taxes.

Make a list of the items your family needs for the new school year so you'll be ready to take advantage of the holiday. Visit www.tntaxholiday.com or call (800) 342-1003 for more information.

Enroll your student in a health insurance program.

Children's health is just as important as their education, and the two go hand-in-hand. Providing health insurance to children ensures they have access to regular preventive checkups and reduces absence from school due to illness. CoverKids allows qualifying children 18 and under to get FREE, comprehensive health insurance so they may obtain preventive health care such as vaccinations and services like doctor visits, prescriptions and hospital visits.

Take advantage of the opportunities this program provides for Tennessee's children and enroll. For more information about CoverKids, please call 1-866-COVERTN or visit www.CoverKids.com.

Schedule your student to receive required immunizations.

Back-to-school season means it's time to make an appointment for your student to receive his or her state-required immunizations. Getting your student vaccinated may prevent future illnesses and many visits to the doctor. Vaccinations vary by age group, and impact students from kindergarten to college. Required vaccines and others recommended for children are available at Tennessee's County Health Departments and at more than 1,500 physicians' offices across the state. For more information about required immunizations for school-aged children, visit the Department of Health Web site at <http://health.state.tn.us/ceds/required.htm>.

Order a copy of your student's Birth Certificate.

For many of our first-time students, a birth certificate may be required for school registration and enrollment. Parents can order a certified short-form birth certificate for $7 at any of Tennessee's local County Health Departments. A list of local Health Department locations and phone numbers is available on the Web at <http://health.state.tn.us/LocalDepts/index.html>.

Start preparing our youngest Tennesseans.

I have always believed that books in the home are a signpost of children who will do well in school, and it's never too early to start preparing your child. That's why I established the Governor's Books from Birth Foundation, a program which seeks to encourage children to begin reading at an early age by putting a new, age-appropriate, hardcover book in the hands of every child each month until their fifth birthday. Make a commitment to read with your child every day, starting at birth, at no cost to your family. To register a child online visit www.Governor'sFoundation.org, or call the foundation toll-free at 1-877-99-BOOKS.

Other programs available this year:

Education has always been a number one priority within my administration, and I'm proud that Tennessee will be implementing new graduation requirements, standards and assessments for students of all grade levels through the Tennessee Diploma Project this fall. Our goal for the program is to prepare all students for college or a desirable career by requiring a deeper understanding of knowledge and skills and measuring students for college readiness. This approach allows educators to determine what skills each student has mastered and where each student needs additional instruction before it is too late. For more information, including a complete list of graduation requirements, visit www.tennessee.gov/education/TDP/index.shtml.

Tennessee students can look for our continued program "Between the Barrels", an award-winning program offered to our state's high schools. It delivers a powerful message of the importance of safe driving, especially in highway work zones. More than 40,000 Tennessee high school students participated in a "Between the Barrels" presentation last year, and we received more than 75 entries in the video contest for teens, "Project Orange." Students may visit www.tn.gov/tdot/wzsafety for more information.

I encourage communities to get involved in the Safe-Area Mitigation program creating "safe areas" in schools, such as reinforced walls and hallways, for teachers and students to take cover in bad weather. To date more than $2.72 million has been awarded to fund projects such as these in Tennessee schools. All counties in the state are eligible to participate. For more information, call the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency at 800-262-3400 and ask for the State Hazard Mitigation Officer.

Best of luck to all of Tennessee's families in preparation for the new school year.

If you have any questions or comments about this issue or any other, please e-mail me at phil.bredesen@tn.gov.

Ready, Set, Go

With school starting just around the corner-August 7th to be exact, it's time to get ready for another year. On Wed July 22nd employees with State Farm Insurance Co. in Murfreesboro became better prepared to kick start a great school year with their child, thanks to Principal Karen King from East Side Elementary School. Principal King explained what was needed to get your school year off to a great start and how to develop a better relationship with your child's teacher in just a few important steps.

1. Be involved-no matter how big or small
2. Let your child know their education is important to you
3. Ask questions-to both your child and their teacher
4. Develop good communication lines-email, phone, even texting
5. Have a Good attitude about school

6. Lead by example
7. Be respectful and polite when communication with your child's teacher
8. Have an open mind-school has changed since you were there
9. Remember everything begins at home-set rules and stick with them
10. Finally remember learning can be fun, find ways to make learning a game or putting it to everyday use example: Let your child count out the money for your bill at McDonald's or read your street signs. State Farm employees are grateful for Principal King's advice and are now ready to head down a path to a great school year. Don't forget that East Side School and Principal King will be having their "Back to School Bash" on July 28th at 6 pm to kick off their 2009-2010 school year.

CLASS OF 1989 20 YEAR REUNION - With near perfect weather classmates began descending on the Readyville Mill Sat July 18th 2009 like it was the first day of school with the exception of a few gray hairs nothing has changed. Well almost nothing, yes there are a few gray hairs, a few heads with no hair, their hips may be a little wider and may have a wrinkle or two but in their hearts they still feel 18. Excitement of seeing old friends and memories relived filled the cool night air. With 45 classmates in attendants, a great meal was shared and a wonderful time had by all. One would think that 8 hours of reliving the past would be enough to catch up on everyone's life but many of these classmates stated that it had been way too long and were making plans to have an annual event. After all, life is too short not to enjoy ALL of your friends. The entire night was dedicated to the only classmate that has passed on which was Angie Adamson and I'm sure she was smiling down on them thinking what a great party it was. The Readyville Mill was the perfect setting for an event like this. There was room inside and out for eating, dancing and generally great place to catch up on everyone's life for the past 20 years. Tomm Brady, owner of the Mill, was the perfect caretaker offering its history to anyone that asked. Many out-of-state classmates enjoyed coming back to the river stating that no where the country was as beautiful as Cannon County. Thanks again to Donnie Ramsey, Chris and Susan Knox, Derick and Leanne Simmons for making this special night happen for the Class of "89".

Hurray For Hollywood

On June 20th, Hollywood came to Cannon County in the form of young stars dancing across the stage at Hollywood Nights, an event put on by Cannon Arts Dance Studio in conjunction with the Old Feed Store.

The summer showcase featured dance numbers from past Hollywood icons such as Shirley Temple to the latest Hanna Montana routines. Studio dancers ranging in age from 3 to 18 strutted their stuff to numbers such as Pink Panther, A Whole New World, I Just Can't Wait to be King, Starstruck, and Bounce. In addition to ballet, tap, hip hop, and jazz offerings, John Bassinger and partner topped off the evening with a ballroom demonstration gliding to the refrains of New York, New York. Mike Vaughn, owner of the Old feed Store, welcomed the large crowd to his "backyard", where he served up popcorn from a vintage movie house machine and the movie Back to the Future.

Alcoholics Anonymous

If you want to drink, that's your business. If you want to stop - that's ours. Call us at 464-4484.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees.

Our primary purpose is to stay sober and to help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups. People who once drank to excess, they finally acknowledged that they could not handle alcohol and now live a new way of life without it.
