School Board Names Parker Director Of Schools

Education selected former Superintendent Barbara Parker as their next Director of Schools over two other candidates at their regular meeting last Thursday evening at the Courthouse.

"I want to thank the Board for having confidence in me to be selected as their next Director of Schools," said Parker. "I have a lot of work to do and plan to pick up where Dr. Edd Diden left off. The students will be first and I will be accessible to anyone who has a problem."

Dr. Dan Hampton, Parker and Dr. Charles Edmonds were the finalists that were interviewed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before Thursday's meeting.

Prior to the Parker's selection,

The Cannon County Board of members of the Board made these comments:

> "I have tried to be open and fair as possible. I have been disappointed in the size of the crowds at our "Meet and Greet the Candidates" and the final interviews. I will work with whoever is chosen as Director," said Shannon Davenport.

> "I have had a lot of sleepless nights during the past few weeks while the selection process has been going on. All the candidates had a lot to offer," said Chris Blackburn.

> "The Board has spent many hours in making their selection from the list of candidates and the new Director will have a difficult time for the next two years," said Cathy

"Everyone who has talked with me in my district wanted the next Director to be local. The election process took that away from us," said Roy Parker.

Board Chairman Randy Gannon said, "I have gotten very few calls on this important decision. The Board's main goal is what is best for the kids and the schools of this county. I want to thank Chris Blackburn for serving as Chairman of the selection committee. I appreciate the support we have been given from the teachers, the principals and the Central Office.

Following the remarks, Roy Parker made a motion to name Barbara Parker as Director. The motion was seconded by Cathy > Teacher's salaries for a 12-month period was discussed. Currently salaried teachers are only paid 10 months. For several years the Cannon County Education Association has lobbied with the Board to extend the 10 months to 12 pay periods.

"This contract was negotiated in good faith between CCEA representative Beth Palombo and the Board," said Cathy Hyatt, who was the Board's representative in the talks between the two parties.

Newly appointed Cannon County High School Principal Tim Knox addressed the Board on two issues.

One was the use of cell phones by students. Knox asked the Board to change Board Policy to state that cell phones will not be used "from bell to bell". The motion passed stating that no cell phones will be used or displayed by students during class time and the policy of cell phone use would be up to each individual school principal. "I would say that today that approximately 75 to 90% of students have a cell phone at the high school."

Knox next asked the Board for help with the current parking problem at CCHS.

Mrs. Annie Cox, West Side Elementary Teacher, Dies

The Cannon County School system and West Side Elementary lost their "teacher icon" last Tuesday when Mrs. Annie Cox, 86, died at her home in Woodbury.

"Miss Annie" been recovering from a stroke she suffered last March while attending the Girls State Basketbal Tournament in Murfreesboro.

The West Side teacher had been on staff at the K-8 school since desegregation in the mid-1960s and even at age 86 showed no signs of slowing down or retiring.

She had been the girls basketball Coach for 44 years and had taught thousands of students in her long and storied career in education.

"Miss Annie" graduated from Holloway High School

Murfreesboro because blacks were not allowed to attend Woodbury Central High prior to 1965. She received her B.S. degree from Tennessee A & I (now known as Tennessee State University).

A year after she was hired at West Side, she became the girls basketball coach and remained in the position until her illness in March. "Miss Annie had asked me to help her coach the team," said West Side Principal Robert Sain. "I had previous experience as the Girls Coach at Cannon County High School and she told me that would be helpful to the team. I was happy to help such a fine lady. Everyone Cannon County knew and loved her and affectionally called her Miss Annie. She will be missed by everyone."

Through the years "Miss Annie" was bestowed with numerous honors: the Town of Woodbury named a street in her honor "Annie Cox Drive"; in the 1990s the was named to the Tennessee Teachers Hall of Fame; on October 27, 2005 West Side Elementary officially named a outdoor pavilion and their "Mrs. Annie Gymnasium"; honored numerous newspaper articles about her career in education including one in the Cannon Courier in 2005.

"We will have the largest junior class in the history of the school this fall. We have only 230 parking spaces for students. We have students parking on the grass, blocking drives and dumpsters and even have to tow some vehicles," Knox said. "Our policy in the past was to give first option for spots by alphabetical order to seniors and the remaining spots to juniors but now there will be 170 juniors who will not have a chance for a spot. That also will eliminate sophomores who drive."

Following some discussion the Board agreed to table the problem until the August meeting. During the coming weeks Board Member Blackburn and Principal Knox will sit down and come to some sort of a solution to the problem.

Chairman Gannon announced that the Budget Committee had increased the School's portion of the upcoming budget by $2\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. This money was earmarked for health insurance.

The next meeting of the Board will be on Thursday, August 13 at 6:00 P.M. The site will be determined at a later date.

A Board workshop will be held Tuesday, August 11 at 6:00 P.M.

Budget Committee.....

In prior budget meetings the Committee cut last year's salary for the assistant from $17,510.00 to $16,380.00.

It was the opinion of Committee members that it was inappropriate to pay the assistant the same salary as the former assistant who had four years experience.

Dobson stated the assistant was working more hours than the former assistant.

Following some discussion among the members, it was decided to add $500.00 to the assistant's salary for a total of $16,880.00.

The Committee was told by Dobson that he would "do what he had to do" if the salary was not funded as requested which some took as reference to a possible lawsuit against the county.

It was also noted that the Committee learned of the resignation of Adams Librarian Stephanie Fuson. The committee may have to add funds for health insurance at a later date to attract a replacement for Fuson.

Fire Chief Bill Johnston addressed the Board stating the department was in the process of submitting a federal grant for the construction of a new fire hall for the town

"Our plans call for the building to be 9,300 sq. ft. and through this grant the only cost to the city will be the land," said Johnston. "We have found a piece of land on the corner of Houston Lane and Highway 70S. The property is for sale at a price of $100,000."

The Board commended Johnston for his efforts in researching and submitting a grant application at a huge savings to the city. A motion was passed to put a $1,000 option down on the property until the city learns if the grant has been approved or denied.

Operation FALCON 2009 Captures More Than 600 Fugitives In Middle Tennessee; Two From Cannon

Middle Tennessee is much safer today as local, state and federal law enforcement joined forces for a month-long fugitive apprehension effort. FALCON, the acronym for Federal and Local Cops Organized Nationally, soared into the region June 1 and by the time the operation was over 624 fugitives had been apprehended and 801 warrants cleared. Over 350 officers from 64 different agencies participated in the operation in Middle Tennessee. Nationally, a record 35,190 arrests were made, and 47,418 warrants were cleared during the June

Two fugitives were captured from Cannon County, they included: Dana Stadelman and Joseph Starnes.

Operation FALCON 2009, the sixth in the series of U.S. Marshals Service-led fugitive apprehension initiatives, partnered Deputy U.S. Marshals with local police, sheriffs, state agencies, and other federal agencies, each dedicating manpower and resources to the goal of removing as many violent offenders from our streets and communities as possible while clearing backlogged warrants from law enforcement's

The successful partnership has been bad news for criminals for the past five years as law enforcement joined together with community safety and crime reduction as a common goal. Since its inception in 2005, Operation FALCON has made 91,086 arrests and cleared 117,874 warrants. It continues to be the largest and most successful fugitive apprehension effort in U.S. Marshals history.

Tennessee targeted fugitives wanted for crimes of violence, sex offenders, and narcotics violations. Participating agencies encouraged to identify wanted persons within their communities, who were then targeted by assigned teams within geographical area.

"The goal of Operation FALCON is simple - to make communities safer," said John F. Clark, Director of the U.S. Marshals Service. "Each time we wrap up a FALCON operation in any location, there are less dangerous individuals - and fewer threats to the community than before we arrived there. That is very gratifying."

The success of the FALCON operations has proven to be the largest and most successful fugitive apprehension efforts in the history of the U.S. Marshals. When law enforcement agencies combine their resources, the greater good of society always comes out on top.

"It is a privilege to watch 64 agencies work together seamlessly as a team to bring fugitive felons to justice," said Middle Tennessee U.S. Marshal Denny King. "FALCON has changed the entire landscape when it comes to mustering forces to capture large numbers of criminal offenders. Apprehending almost 3,000 fugitives in these operations here in the past five years is a major accomplishment "

"Marshal King and his team of officers and agents have once again compiled an impressive array of arrests and apprehensions during Operation FALCON," said U.S. Attorney Ed Yarbrough. "This Arrests in the Middle District of important initiative demonstrates the outstanding results that can be achieved when our local, state and federal partners work together. I am proud of verv accomplishments.'

Roamin' Cannon County

by BOB STOETZEL, Cannon Courier Feature Writer

"Miss Annie" Cox Passes

In my humble opinion there has not been another teacher in Cannon County that has received as many accolades as Mrs. Annie Cox. There have been numerous stories written about her, not only from the Cannon Courier, but neighboring counties and state school administrators.

Miss Annie, as she is most notably known, has been teaching for 64 years. She has been instrumental in the lives of thousands of school students across this county. She has been named Teacher of the Year nine times and has been inducted to the Tennessee Teachers' Hall of Fame in Murfreesboro. She is much loved in this community of people.

She attended Cannon County Elementary School, Holloway High School in Murfreesboro and what is now Tennessee State University

(TSU) in Nashville. On page 476 in the Pictorial History of Cannon County she is shown as a teacher at the Woodbury Water Street Grammar school with her 23 students (a school where she attended). Their names are still known today and they have all been a part of our history here in Cannon County.

She told me in an interview in 2004, "I want to teach until I can't." Well that happened on July 6th. She had medical difficulties this year and was bedridden with a stroke. She wasn't able to see anybody and it was told if you did go see her she probably wouldn't recognize you. She was a kind woman with a lot of fire when it came to teaching, coaching and her family. She was a teacher in all ways.

At the Woodbury Church of Christ where she was viewed and where her funeral was held, there were many people who had come up to where her family had set up some memorials and testimonies for her in vestibule. These people commented on the time they had been taught and coached by Miss Annie. You could tell how fond they were of her; you could hear it in their voices. She had touched many children in so many different ways.

I met her early on when I came here in 1982. In 1984 I was coerced into becoming the coach of an all woman softball team sponsored by Pelham Auto Salvage. Her daughter, Nancy, who we all called Prudie, was on my team. Miss Annie would come to every game and cheer the team on and chew me out. She sat - Louisa May Alcott right behind the dugout on the bleachers and every once in a while she would call me over and give me some advice. On more than one occasion when the women would start bickering between themselves she would say to me, "You don't really know how to handle women ball players do you?" She told me I should not be nice to them; that they understood being yelled at. She told me to tell Prudie to "shape up or you would set her on the bench."

grandson, Danny Young, with her at the games. Danny would listen to his grandmother because I think he knew better. Danny would later pitch for the Cannon County High School baseball team and he made it to the majors pitching for the Chicago Cubs or as my mother would call her favorite team "the cubbies". Miss Annie was so proud of Danny that every time we met we could carry on the longest conversations about him. Miss Annie had a street named after her next to the new Woodbury Elementary School; she has a pavilion at her school of Westside named after her. Mr. Freddy Curtis was Principal at that time and he stated he wish they could name the school after her. The State of Tennessee legislature awarded her a proclamation for her outstanding contribution to the school system of Cannon County and the State of

Miss Annie was a lady, a true southern, graceful lady; a Christian woman that loved her Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ and such a woman that my wife Teresa said she would love to live such an honorable life as hers.

Escape from police custody -Legislation that strengthens penalties against those who escape arrest has become law as a result of legislative action this session. The bill, SB 388, provides that a person commits the offense of escape if they knowingly flee the lawful custody of a law enforcement officer. A violation of this bill would be a Class A misdemeanor

Auburntown City Council Meet

The Auburntown City Council met Tuesday, July 07, 2009 at 6:00 P. M. for their regular monthly meeting. The Mayor and all councilmen were present with the exception of Beth Hancock.

The previous minutes were read and approved as presented.

The Financial report was given by Treasurer Rita Davis which showed the fiscal year ending balance of funds, June 30, 2009, as $41,045.23.

Red Apple Day, July 31 and August 1, 2009 was discussed. It was noted that DTC-TV has listed the event on their local channel which should be a boost in getting the word out to this area. Mayor, Roger Turney, said that he had received multiple inquiries from vendors interested in coming to the event. All requests have been referred to Chris Blackburn, Chief Fireman, who is in charge of this year's celebration.

The Auburntown Historical Society is also going to have their latest publication for sale in the Gazebo at C. S. Hawkins Park during the celebration. publication is a Cookbook with a little different twist. With each recipe there is to be a story, incident, antidote of historical significance regarding people, places and things of the community. If you want a piece of Auburntown Community History with a lot of good eating to boot, you will not want to miss getting a copy of this nominally priced treasure. It is thought that the publication will be a collector's item just as quick as all the books are initially sold. There are no plans for a second printing.

The letting of the contract to run utility water up Hurricane Creek Rd. is on hold depending on the receipt of an acceptance letter from the Grant provider. The letter could be received any day now and when it is received the contract could be let within about two weeks.

The meeting ended at 6:35 P.M.

Winfred Gaither, Rep.

The General Assembly passed a regardless of whether the person was being held for a misdemeanor, civil offense, or felony.

Guns law - The final day of the Prevention month. In Tennessee, legislative session included approval of major legislation cracking down on violent crime in Tennessee that builds on the "Crooks with Guns Law" passed during the last General Assembly. The bill, SB 672, adds attempted first degree murder to the Crooks with Guns Law.

Tennessee ranks second in the nation in the number of violent crimes. The legislation would work to keep those offenders off the street where they are no longer a danger to the public. Sixty-seven percent of those convicted of violent crimes are re-arrested within three years of being released from prison. The recidivism rate increases to 80 percent when you move past that three-year marker.

The bill adds a minimum of three years to the sentence of a violator who possesses a firearm during the commission of attempted firstdegree murder, to be served after the underlying offense. If a violator possesses a firearm during the commission of the attempted firstdegree murder and has a prior felony conviction, then a mandatory minimum of five years would be added to the sentence.

In addition, if a violator possesses a firearm during the commission or an attempt to commit a dangerous felony or attempting to escape, then a mandatory minimum of six years is added to the sentence to be served after the underlying offense. A prior felony conviction from this would add 10 years onto the sentence.

Domestic Violence – The State Senate approved a bill dealing with domestic violence. The legislation, SB 314, sets forth a process for surrender of a firearm in cases where an order of protection has been granted in domestic violence The legislation aims to prevent an act of violence by setting up a procedure for the person to hand the gun over to a third party. The possession of a firearm while under an order of protection is an offense under federal law.

Children / Crime

Child Abuse and Neglect – The Tennessee General Assembly has made improvements to the state's child abuse laws over the last several years. Legislation approved this year continues those efforts by giving prosecutors the tools they need successfully to prosecute this horrible crime and end what too often becomes a cycle of violence.

everyday from child abuse, a reality which prompted the legislature to Strengthening Crooks with declare April as Child Abuse the state's Department of Children's Services responds to 37,000 reports of child abuse or neglect annually. This is one of the reasons that Tennessee ranked 42nd out of 50 states last year for overall wellbeing for children.

Serious bodily injury -Legislation, SB 866, was approved in 2009 that adds specificity to what constitutes serious bodily injury in children, including second or third degree burns, a fracture of any bone, a concussion, subdural or subarachnoid bleeding, retinal hemorrhage, cerebral edema, brain contusion, injuries to the skin that involve severe bruising or the likelihood of permanent or protracted disfigurement sustained by whipping children with objects.

Sex Offenders / areas frequented by children -Legislation prohibiting sex offenders from being or remaining within 1,000 feet of certain places where children are likely to gather has passed. The new law, which aims to strengthen Tennessee's laws to protect Tennessee children from sex offenders, applies to schools, licensed day care centers, child care facilities, public parks, playgrounds, recreation centers or athletic fields when children under age 18 are present.

Current law sets a parameter of 500 feet as the distance sex offenders are prohibited from going near school property. legislation, SB 511, expands that distance to 1,000 feet, and adds other places where children are likely to gather.

The bill also removes an exception that previously allowed sex offenders to be present on school property during school hours if they are making deliveries.

Missing Children / Prompt Action – The General Assembly has approved legislation requiring law enforcement agencies to enter information into the NCIC (National Crime Information Center) database within two hours of receipt of a report of a missing child. The bill brings Tennessee into compliance with the Adam Walsh Act which was signed into law in 2006.

The Adam Walsh Act is the sweeping federal law named after the murdered 6-year-old son of "America's Most Wanted" host John Walsh that required states to adopt strict new standards for Nationwide, four children die registering sex offenders and providing public information about their crimes and whereabouts. This included publishing photos and addresses of sex offenders online and toughening criminal penalties for those who fail to register, among other provisions. Tennessee made several changes to comply with the law last year. The states must comply with provisions of the act by 2009 or risk facing a 10 percent cut to their share of funds in a congressional grant program used to fight crime.

The legislation, SB 110, makes sure that Tennessee is acting quickly to enter the needed information to alert enforcement of a missing child. It is hoped that this measure will help bring these children home quicker.

Immigration

Immigration bills – Several bills addressing illegal immigration were approved on the Senate floor and in committees this year. Senate Republicans have a series of bills to continue the fight for commonsense illegal immigration reform in Tennessee. This year's efforts build on action taken by the 105th General Assembly, which included the Memorandum of Understanding law to help state and local police deport illegal aliens, a separate measure ensuring employers receive proper identification before hiring, and a new law cracking down on those who transport illegal aliens into the state.

Sanctuary Cities – The General Assembly approved a bill, SB 1310, aimed at preventing any city in Tennessee from becoming a "sanctuary city" for illegal aliens. "Sanctuary city" is a term given to a city in the United States that follows certain practices to protect illegal aliens. Thirty-eight cities in the U.S. have been recognized as sanctuary cities, but many sources have identified over 200 city or county governments nationwide as having practiced such policies.

Fake IDs - Lawmakers also approved a measure, SB 294, that would make it a Class A misdemeanor offense to knowingly provide, transfer or submit a fake identification for the purpose of obtaining or maintaining employment. The new law makes production or use of each false identification document a separate offense under Tennessee law if it is determined that any person in connection with the violation is not legally present in the United States and require the court to notify the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

Where In The Bible Will I Find?

Can The Blind Lead The Blind?

The Lord's Word often offended the Pharisees and Sadducees and on one occasion this was pointed out to him. "But he answered and said,

To be a teacher of the Gospel is a very serious and sobering endeavor.

God's Word says, "My brethren, be not many masters (teachers), knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation" (James 3: 1).

We are even told to examine or question those who teach us. "Beloved, because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (I John 4: 1).

When one is content to believe and follow a lie, the Lord said he will be "rooted up." This is referring to the judgment day. Multitudes blindly believe and follow blind preachers today. Those who do not love the truth will believe a lie and will be damned because of if (2

On the 4th, the Reeds along with about 30 or so other Prosperity Baptist Church members enjoyed the evening swimming and eating out at the home of Alan, Lesa, Bailey and Garrett Hayes in Liberty. Following these festivities, they went to Murfreesboro where they watched fireworks.

P-pa and I ate our hamburgers in Woodbury with son, Ray and family, Anita, Dustin and Daxton. Others enjoying the cookout were Kyle Patrick and Anita's parents, Richard and Sarah Haley, her brother, Darryl Haley and his son, Spencer, and another brother Roger Haley. Topping off the meal were delicious homemade brownies, cake and ice cream.

Although Marvin Davenport's birthday is May 26th, he was given a belated birthday gift of a trip down Natchez's Trace Parkway as far as Florence, Al, where some delicious catfish was eaten at Newbern's Restaurant. Going with him were wife, Ruth, Robbie Owen and Prentice and myself.

We stopped at several points of interest along the way - one of which were the beautiful Jackson Falls and another the reconstructed roadhouse where Meriwether Lewis of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition team was shot and killed or committed suicide (the jury is still out on that one) and where he was buried beside the tavern.

Hello....it's your weekly update from Northern Iraq. I hope my weekly email finds everyone happy, healthy and recovered from a long holiday weekend. Things are going well here. We started receiving our things that we packed in TN to bring along for this mission so that has kept us somewhat busy. The weather has been really hot, but I think I'm starting to get used to it, if that's possible. I learned quickly that a routine is the key to making it and surviving this year, and I have FINALLY acquired one.

The holiday weekend, well it was just business as usual for us, but that's ok, because then you don't think about home so much. I missed my mom's 60th birthday on the 4th, and my son, Will's 14th birthday on the 5th. This is just the beginning of many missed holidays, but I know in my heart the sacrifice is worth

A group of us did sit down Saturday and talk about the meaning of the 4th of July......and how many people have given their lives so we as Americans can be free, not even really thinking about that's what we are willing to do here in Iraq. We have only received mail once since we have been here, as they only bring it up to us on Tues and Sat, due to the fact we are in the middle of nowhere. The sandstorms have prevented the delivery of mail. but it's suppose to be nice today, and I know that there will be lots of mail, since we haven't had any in two weeks. Jay Reed, Janice Fletcher, Joe Campbell and Stacy Kennedy (his 44th) celebrate the same day. Julianne Neely's is the next day. Are Your Investments Working as Hard as You Do?

It's Labor Day - and if you're like many people, you certainly feel that your household is laboring pretty darn hard. And you'd be right. In fact, from 1975 through 2002, the average hours worked by all family members rose by 11 percent, according to the Economic Policy Institute. But all that work may not necessarily translate into the attainment of your financial goals - unless your money is working as wants to retire early and then travel hard as you are.

How can you make sure that this happens? For starters, you need to define just how hard your money needs to work - in other words, what sort of performance you'll require from your investments. Not everyone needs the same type of return from his or her portfolio. For example, if you plan on working past normal retirement age, and then stay fairly close to home, you might not need as much income from your investments as your neighbor, who the world. To get a reasonably close estimate of the level of resources you'll need to draw on during your retirement years, you may want to work with a financial professional. Once you know how much you'll need, you can assess if you're on track toward reaching this figure. After factoring in what you can expect from Social Security - an amount that will only make up a relatively small percentage of your retirement income - consider your employer-sponsored retirement

If you work for a company that offers a traditional "defined benefit" plan - one that pays you a pension based on your age and length of employment - there's not much you can do to get more "bang for your buck," apart from working more years. But if your employer offers a "defined contribution" plan, such as a 401(k), you can take action to ensure that your investment dollars are working hard for you.

Start by evaluating your 401(k) portfolio. Are you "overweighted" in conservative investments, such as bonds, cash alternatives or annuity contracts? These vehicles, while not without value, are "lazy" in the sense that they won't give you any significant appreciation. To provide yourself with substantial growth opportunities, you may need to put a relatively large percentage of your 401(k) plan into equities. Then, when you near retirement, you might want to lock in any gains you have achieved, and reduce your portfolio's volatility, by shifting some - but certainly not all - of your 401(k) equity dollars into the bond and stable value accounts.

And the same course of action applies to your individual investments. Even if you are, by nature, a conservative investor, you will need at least some exposure to stocks to achieve the growth you need for retirement and other longterm goals. If your portfolio is laden with bonds and CDs, you might lower your investment risk - the possibility of losing some principal but you'll assume more purchasing power risk, because fixed-rate investments may barely keep you ahead of inflation.

In short, you need to construct a diversified portfolio that reflects your risk tolerance, long-term goals and time horizon - but you have to make sure it contains plenty of investments that are working hard for you. Without these investments, you may be the one who has to keep working hard - for more years than you'd like.

While the Daniels from Atlanta were visiting, John and Audrey went out to visit Mrs. Charlie Mae (late Jackie) and Heather Daniel.

My Daniel grandsons always held their late uncles Billy, Jackie and Joe Daniel right up there close to the sainthood level. necessarily for religious reasons but each of them had farm equipment like tractors and combines and could be conned into giving them a ride easily. They were also very fond of Aunt Charlie Mae, Aunt Virginia (one of them called her Uncle Virginia for a while) and Aunt Mary Ann because all of them would dispense with the hugging, petting and cookies if you needed it. Of course they were always in need.

Betty Sullens spent a few days in the hospital to get recalibrated. She spent a lot of her time there smiling and telling about both of her granddaughters expecting babies to increase her number of great-grand children. She was also pleased that Regina (a grandmother) was coming in from Detroit for a visit at the end of July. Son Frank Boyd is about to become a grandfather with Jenna and Leslie both expecting. Jo Nell is a grandmother. Now this brings us to daughter Peggy Scott who is claiming to be a grandmother because son Brian has got a Boxer puppy that follows him everywhere. I won't say that's cheating, I just report what I hear.

Aaron and Amanda Crabb of the well known Crabb Family will be in concert at the Short Mountain Church of God on Thursday night July 23. A spaghetti meal will begin at 5:30 P.M. and the singing will start at 7:00 P.M. A love offering will be received to help with expenses. The church is located at 6621 Short Mountain Road.

Mr. and Mrs. James (Sonny) Motley visited with relatives here and attended the Motley

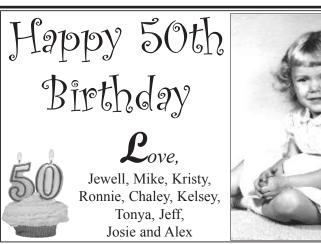

Underwood family reunion on Sunday. Also among those attending were David, Renee and son, Sean Boyko. David is the son of Nick and Virginia (Motley) Boyko. The Sr. Boyko's are not up to too much traveling nowadays. Their daughters Rose Wagatha and Vivian Phail and families didn't make it to Tennessee this year. The crowd was a little smaller this time but with 60 people in attendance there was a lot of good eating and chatting going on !!

Mr. Cordell Lawson from Texas is visiting with Uncle Repsie Johnson and other friends and relatives here. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson that ran a store not far across the Cannon/Dekalb County line on Highway 146. Mr. Lawson has been gone from here for many years and is planning a move back to Tennessee shortly.

Ms. Yvonne Darnell spent some time last week helping care for her grandchildren while their mom Tammy Coppinger was busy helping out with the fireworks booth in McMinnville. Short Mountain Church of God says thanks to all who worked so faithfully to make the project a success!!

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Underwood were in Kingston on Tuesday evening for a Rotary Club meeting. Bob was a charter member of the organization there when it began 55 years ago. He is a very active member in the Melbourne, Florida club and when in our area he considers the Rotarians in Smithville his home base.

An Opinion On Climate Change And Cow Burps

I have had the opportunity to write on many numerous items that some writers would never have thought about putting their wordsmithery abilities to use on. I have written about free-range chickens, moles in the yard, coon hounds howling on a winter night, what do you call city water piped to the country and a sundry of other way-out-there subjects that you may never see grace the pages of this publication again. Each has been an opinion expressed by yours truly and I have often received reactions from my readers that implied just how way out the articles may have

If I didn't express my opinion on the current hullabaloo over the amount of burping cows in this country are doing to cause damage to our climate, I would be guilty of not doing my job and failing to stand up for our bovine friends. Many climate change worrying dogooders have forgotten what cows do for us and instead have pushed them to the social forefront concerning what comes naturally for a cow grazing in a field. They eat folks to want regulations to be put grass and as they do so they have to digest it. This is where the burping and the chewing of the cud comes in. For those of you who don't understand what cud is, let me contribute to climate change. explain cud is a portion of food that returns from a ruminant's stomach to steer out of this whole thing and its mouth to be chewed for the second time.

To be more accurate, Wikipedia says, "It is a bolus of semi-degraded food regurgitated from the reticulorumen of a ruminant. Cud is produced during the physical digestive process of rumination. The alimentary canal of ruminants, such as the cow, goat, sheep and antelope, is unable to produce the enzymes required to break down the cellulose and hemicellulose of plant matter.

Accordingly, these animals have developed a symbiotic relationship with a wide range of microbes, that largely reside in the reticulorumen, and are able to synthesize the requisite enzymes. reticulorumen thus hosts a microbial fermentation that yields products (mainly volatile fatty acids and microbial protein), the ruminant is able to digest and absorb."

on cows and other ruminant animals to prevent the release of methane, which they say causes 2 percent of Agriculture, all the U.S. emissions that R u r a l

I say our cows are getting a bum Food and Drug there are a lot of folks out there with a lot of time on their hands needing A g e n c i e s ALEXANDER a life if they have nothing to do but Appropriations bill, which was count cow burps and other normal functions that produce methane from these creatures. Cows have yesterday afternoon, includes been processing their food in the significant funding for a number of same manner since creation and agriculture, energy and conservation their burps haven't seemed to make programs across Tennessee. The bill the other generations before us overly concerned.

There were millions of buffalo and you never heard the Native economy and help preserve our Americans complain about buffalo environment," said Alexander, a burps. And, what about the member dinosaurs? On second thought, let's not go there. Their burps may have led to their demise.

To hear some reports, you would think cows only exist in the United States. In recent counts there were around 995 million cows in the world with India having 281 million of that number. Brazil is second, China is third and we come in fourth with less that ten percent of the world counts. And, I haven't heard a single report of anyone running down to India with a boatload of giant Beano tablets.

Here in this country, they are attempting to get farmers to change the diet of our livestock so the cows can hold it in. Even if we do make our cows sociably acceptable it would only be a drop in the bucket of what is needed worldwide.

In fact, scientists in Canada are even looking at the genes that cause methane production in a cow's four stomachs, so they can breed a more environmentally friendly cow. It has been suggested if farmers could reduce cow emissions by 12 percent, it would equal to about a half a million cars being taken off the road. I've a better idea to reduce emissions. Why don't we follow Will Rogers's suggestion of passing a law that only paid-for cars are allowed to use the highways, which is about as logical as some of the ideas in this climate change debate.

I fear before all this talk is complete on climate change, the climate is going to change just like it always has. And, it's not going to happen because old Daisy the cow burped either. Until other nations around this world have to share the burden to control carbon emissions, it shouldn't be up to this nation and its cows to take all the blame.

Summer has officially arrived in Tennessee, bringing scorching temperatures and the risk of West Nile Virus. Activities of daily life often mean exposing ourselves to extreme heat or going outdoors at times when mosquitoes carrying WNV may be active. The Department of Health is sharing simple tips that can help you reduce your risk of seasonal illness during the hot summer months.

Temperatures that soar into the 90s and beyond bring the risk for heat-related illness. Heat-related illnesses include heat stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat rash. Signs of heat-related illness include dizziness, heavy sweating, muscle cramps, rapid heart beat, nausea, headaches and cold/clammy are common, yet preventable Heat stroke occurs when the body is related problems," said Health Commissioner Susan R. Cooper, MSN, RN. "When temperatures are extremely high, Tennesseans must make smart decisions about their exposure to heat. Avoid going outside during the hottest part of the day whenever possible, and be sure never to leave anyone unattended in

It's also important to take steps to protect and care for the very young and the elderly, who are at greater risk in extreme heat. People with chronic diseases such as heart disease, diabetes, obesity and lung disease are also at an increased risk of heat-related illnesses.

Heat stroke is the most lifethreatening heat-related illness. Each year, about 400 people nationwide die from heat stroke.

unable to regulate its temperature, which rises quickly without the ability to cool down. If emergency treatment is not provided, heat stroke can cause death or permanent disability. Symptoms include body temperature above 103 degrees Fahrenheit; red, hot and dry skin without sweating; rapid, strong throbbing headache; dizziness; nausea; confusion and loss of consciousness.

Call for immediate medical help if you believe you or another person is experiencing heat stroke. While waiting on emergency assistance, get the victim to a shady area, cool him or her rapidly using cool water and monitor body temperature until it reaches 101 to 102 degrees Fahrenheit, and do not give the victim any fluids to drink.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention offers a few simple steps to avoid these preventable heat-related illnesses.

- Drink plenty of fluids. Don't wait until you are thirsty to drink.

Remember to consume nonalcoholic, low-sugar drinks in hot weather.

- Replace salt and minerals. Heavy sweating can deplete your body's salt and minerals. Non-alcoholic drinks, like sports drinks, can help you replenish these reserves.

- Wear appropriate clothing and sunscreen. Choose lightweight, light-colored, loose-fitting clothing, as well as a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses with UV protection. Wear SPF 15 or higher sunscreen every day.

- Schedule outdoor activities carefully. Try to limit outdoor activity to morning and evening hours with rest breaks in shady areas, if available. UV rays are strongest and do the most damage during midday hours.

- Pace yourself. If you are unaccustomed to working or exercising in a hot environment, start slowly and increase effort gradually. If your heart is pounding or you are gasping for breath, stop the activity and rest in a cool, shady

- Stay cool indoors. If your home does not have air conditioning, go to the mall or library to cool off. Cool showers or baths, and keeping your stove and oven off, are other ways to cool down inside.

- Use the buddy system. Partner with a friend and watch each other for signs of heat-related illness. Senior citizens are more susceptible, so if you know someone over age 65, check on them over the ph one twice a day.

Recognizing A Stroke

Remember the "3" steps, STR. Sometimes symptoms of a stroke difficult to identify. Unfortunately, the lack of awareness spells disaster. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a

Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking three simple questions:

S * Ask the individual to SMILE. T * Ask the person to TALK to SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE such as "It is sunny out today."

R * Ask him or her to RAISE BOTH ARMS.

NOTE: Another sign of a stroke is this: ask the person to stick out their tongue. If the tongue is crooked, if it goes to one side or the other, that is also an indication of a stroke. If he or she has trouble with ANY ONE of these tasks, call 911 immediately and describe the symptoms to the dispatcher.

As you schedule outdoor activities to avoid adverse affects from the heat, make sure you are protecting yourself and loved ones from West Nile Virus too. This illness is most commonly transmitted to humans through mosquito bites. Most mosquitoes likely to transmit WNV bite at dawn and dusk. The best way to prevent WNV infection is to avoid mosquito bites.

These simple tips can help:

- If you must go outside during dawn and dusk, use insect repellent or wear long sleeves, long pants and
- Eliminate standing water near your home, which can serve as a breeding ground for mosquitoes. Many containers, even those as small as a bottle cap, can hold enough water for mosquitoes to breed.
- Keep windows and doors closed or cover them with screens to prevent mosquitoes from entering vour home.
- Use insect repellent containing either DEET, Picaridin, oil of lemon eucalyptus or IR3535.

MASSAGE MOMENTS

by Nancy Coomes, LMT

Recently while I was massaging a client he asked the question, "What would happen if someone got massaged every day?" I immediately thought of Bob Hope and said that person might live to be one hundred. You see Bob Hope had a massage every day. On days when he was touring and rehearsing for his overseas shows for the troops he would often have two massages in one day.

But then I started to think about massage and its benefits. To begin with one of the biggest pluses about massage is that there are very few bad side effects. Occasionally, someone may feel sore the day after a massage. Often this is because the muscles are respositioning themselves after being in a taut, strained position for so long. I tell the client that it might feel like sore muscles you haven't used for a while. People whose systems are very toxic will often feel sore and maybe have a headache the next day. This is because the massage is ridding the muscles of waste products caught in the tissues. Consequently it can sometimes create a strain on the body to detox and filter out those waste products. But most of the time, massage only has positive

Getting back to the client on the massage table, I told him that if someone was getting a massage daily he would probably experience better muscle tone, increased circulation, increased range of motion, and increased flexibility. The lymphatic system would be stimulated causing increased lymph flow thereby helping the body rid itself of toxins more readily. And one of the pluses was that it would reduce stress. Stress has been shown to be one of the biggest factors contributing to poor health.

The list goes on but the benefits of daily massage, or even regular massage, can't be denied. We all can't be like Bob Hope. Most of us do not have the financial capability to afford daily massage, but, hopefully, we can have the opportunity to take advantage of luxuriating in the hands of a capable massage therapist now and then. It will benefit both your mind and body.

A Joyful Noise

The question is sometimes asked of members of the Churches of Christ, "Why don't you have music in your worship services?" The answer to that is simple, really. We do. What we don't have is mechanical instruments such as pianos, organs, guitars, etc. This, of course, begs the question, "Why don't you use mechanical instruments?" That, too is simple. We don't read of the Church of the Bible using them. What!? You say. It's true. The Church of the New Testament, the Church that Christ built, did not use instruments of music other than the human voice.

Check the scriptures—you'll find that this is so. The following passages each express God's instructions to his Church for music in worship. In each one, there is a command, example, or implication; is it to sing? Is it to play an instrument?

Please read Matthew 26:30, Mark 14:26, Acts 16:25, Romans 15:9, 1 Corinthians 14:15, Ephesians 5:19, Colossians 3:16, Hebrews 2:12, Hebrews 13:15, and James 5:13

Besides these passages, there are a few other passages in the New Testament that do not fall into the same format as these, and so must be dealt with individually. Three such passages are found in Revelation. The first is Revelation 5:8&9. It has reference to song, but it is not as the other passages as it is a part of the vision of John. The other passages have to do with us, who would worship God here on the earth.

This passage in Revelation does not.

The second and third are Revelation 14:2&3 and Revelation 15:2&3. These both reference to harps or the playing of harps. These are, again, part of John's vision. In this they are figurative and not literal. Even if they were literal, they are not speaking of how men are to worship God. These passages deal with a specific set of circumstances that do not apply to us as we worship.

Besides those passages in Revelation, there is Luke 15:25. This is the parable of the prodigal son. In this passage we find that as the elder son returns to the house he hears music and dancing. What kind of music, though? We are not told. It may have been simply singing-that would certainly constitute music. It may also have included instruments of music, but this still would not apply to worship. This was a secular celebration for the return of a relative who was away. In no way should this be taken as authority to use instruments in worship So why do we not use instruments of music in worship? Because first century Christians did not, we believe that twenty-first Century

Christians should not. If we do, where in the Bible is there authority? Until next time, let me encourage you to search the scriptures daily, whether these things are so. Acts 17:11

How many times have you heard that expression? Even in favorable economic times, otherwise cautious people can be duped by get-richquick schemes or investments that promise unrealistic returns. But when times get hard, folks increasingly fall for these scams in their quest to make ends meet.

mutually supportive friends? It's sometimes easier to digest information and make action plans together. A good place to start is by reading "The Difference: How Anyone Can Prosper in Even the Toughest Times," by best-selling author and "Today Show" finance editor Jean Chatzky.

Finally, don't rule out consulting with a financial planner. Even if you can't afford ongoing moneymanagement services, consider hiring a third party temporarily to help you crystallize your financial goals and trouble-shoot areas where you may be lacking, such as retirement savings, estate planning or having adequate insurance protection.

Many types of professionals call themselves financial planners but they don't all have the same training or specialties. Different groups that certify planners have their own credentialing requirements, regulators and ethical guidelines, but education and experience requirements vary.

If you don't have a trusted referral, good resources to learn more about different kinds of planners include the Financial Planning Association (www.fpanet.org), the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (www.napfa.org), and the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards (www.cfp.net).

If necessary, interview several candidates until you find someone you trust, who asks pertinent questions about your situation, and who won't try to sell you unneeded products or services. Ask for references, and make sure he or she is registered with the North American Securities Administrators Association (www.nasaa.org).

Just as we consult doctors about our health, sometimes having a professional do a financial check-up can pay off as well.

Should we have a love for the truth? II Thess. 2:10-12 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish: because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved and for this cause God shall send them strong delusions, that they should believe a lie

2 Tim. 4:4 And they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables.

Is there a oneness in scripture regarding Truth/Jesus? Eph. 4:4-6 There is one body and one spirit even as also ye were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

1 Pet. 1:22 Ye have purified your souls in your obedience to the truth. (When you obey the will of God, you do not earn but accept salvation. You cannot accept the grace of God unless you obey him completely.)

What about a doctrine that is contrary to the truth/apostle's doctrine? Gal. 1:8-9 But though we or an angel from heaven preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received,

Where are the 2,054 beliefs with several hundred denominations found in New Testament scripture? For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints 1 Cor. 14:33.

The breeding season for late winter-early spring calving cow herds will be getting underway around the first of April. Producers should be sure that the bull is "ready to go" when placed with the females. Before the bull is placed with the cows, his reproductive potential should be evaluated. Breeding Soundness Examinations (BSE) should be done on each bull 45 days before the start of the breeding season. Very few bulls are actually sterile, but a large number have problems that will reduce fertility.

Approximately 11 percent of bulls are either sterile or subfertile between 12 and 14 months of age. About 5 percent of proven sires develop fertility problems between seasons. As bulls age, they are more likely to have problems. An average of 15 percent of the bulls used are unsatisfactory breeders due to unsoundness in feet, legs and eyes and other problems that would reduce their reproductive potential. A BSE includes an evaluation of the bull's reproductive tract, semen evaluation and structural soundness.

Condition of bulls is related to reproductive potential. Mature bulls should be in a body condition score (BCS) of 6 at the onset of the breeding season. Bulls will need this condition to "draw on" as the breeding progresses. season Yearling bulls recently purchased may need to be "let down." They should be in a BCS no lower than 6. These bulls will quickly lose weight and condition when turned with females. These young bulls will need to be fed extra grain to maintain appropriate condition and continue to grow.

Bulls with a BCS of 3 and less will not produce satisfactory semen and will not have the stamina to get the job done unless they gain in condition. From 80 to 100 pounds of weight gain are required to improve body condition one score. A bull in a BCS of 3 would need to gain 240 to 300 pounds to reach a BCS of 6. Sperm production takes about two months; so that used on the first day minerals available in supplements were adequate before the additional of the gluten or distillers, but are inadequate now.

The best solution may be to limit the use of these high sulfur feeds. The intent of this article is not to be negative toward corn gluten and distillers grains. These feeds work in beef cattle rations when used at recommended levels and with proper supplementation. The intent is to make beef cattle owners aware that if they are experiencing problems now that were not present earlier, this might be something to

Control of Weeds in Pastures Is Very Important

As fertilizer prices have risen, beef producers have started looking for ways to increase productivity of their pastures without drastically increasing costs. Controlling weeds is one of the best ways to insure that all fertilizer applied is utilized for grass production. The two tables below show the benefit of weed control results in a major increase in the pounds of weeds produced while adding little to the grass produced. Application of fertilizer after controlling weeds resulted in a significant amount of forage. The data show that removing the weeds allowed the fertilizer to be used for productive purposes. Be sure to soil test so that the appropriate amount of fertilizer needed is applied.

Weed Control in Tall Fescue Pastures and Weeds are one of the biggest problems in tall fescue pastures and hayfields. Buttercup, musk thistle, buckhorn plantain and horsenettle are just a few of the weeds that can move quickly into fields and cause production losses. There are several things that can be done to minimize the problems.

Correct stand and soil fertility problems. Weeds move into fields because they are able to outcompete the existing plants. Thick, aggressive stands of tall fescue have little weed pressure. There is no space for a weed seed to germinate and grow. A strong stand of grass minimizes weed pressure. All the weeds can be killed this year, but if large portions of the ground remain bare, a new crop of weeds will germinate and grow. Be sure that provide the information needed for proper fertilization. Soil test and follow the recommendations. Once fertility problems are corrected, evaluate the stand of grass. If it is weak, consider replanting this fall.

Identify the weeds. Before using herbicides, know the specific weeds that need to be killed. Certain weeds are more difficult to kill, so herbicides, application timings and rates may vary. If the name of a weed on the farm cannot be identified, take a sample to the local Extension office for help in identification and for specific herbicide recommendations.

Spray at the appropriate time. Knowing whether a weed grows during the winter or summer is essential in knowing the proper time to spray with a herbicide. For winter weeds such as buttercup, musk thistle and buckhorn plantain, a herbicide should be sprayed during either December or March for adequate control. After two to three days of warm weather, the weed will be growing enough to take up the herbicide and be controlled. Some weeds, such as horsenettle, pigweed and cocklebur, only grow during the summer. They germinate and grow from May to October/November. The winter or spring application will not adequately control them, because they are not up yet. A late May or June herbicide application is needed for these weeds. Summer sprays are more difficult, mainly due to all of the sensitive crops that are around. Cotton, soybeans, tomatoes and tobacco can be severely damaged by drift from herbicides.

Know the surrounding crops before using herbicides, particularly during the summer.

Select the proper herbicide. There are many herbicides available. Be sure to use one that is labeled for pasture and hay. It is illegal to use any herbicide on pastures and hayfields that has not been tested and approved for use. Just because it works does not mean it is safe. Read and follow all label instructions when using herbicides. Many weeds can be controlled adequately with

D. Buttercup and musk thistle can be almost totally controlled with a 2-pints-per-acre application. If buckhorn or broadleaf plantain is present, increase the rate to 4 pints per acre. This higher rate will take out both red and white clover. If the application is made in December, clovers can be replanted in February/March. For weeds that are more difficult to control, particularly summer weeds such as horsenettle and tall ironweed, some new herbicides are available. Grazon P+D.

Surmount and PastureGard are examples of those available to kill more difficult weeds. Specific recommendations will depend on where your farm is, which weed you have, and other factors.

Following these recommendations should help minimize weed growth and improve the yield and quality of pasture and hav.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Lately, misinformation about pay raises for certain city employees has been circulating around the community so I would like to take this opportunity to set the record

During the fiscal year 2008-2009, which ended June 30, 2009, some employees who work for the Town either transferred to other positions, were promoted, earned certifications, changed to a full time position, or graduated from the police academy. These employees were given "step grade" increases because their status changed and the increases reflect the pay grade for their new positions. It is important to note that any change in their pay status occurred prior to the end of the 2008-2009 budget year, and any pay increase they received for the 2009-2010 fiscal year was considered on the amount they were being paid as of June 30, 2009.

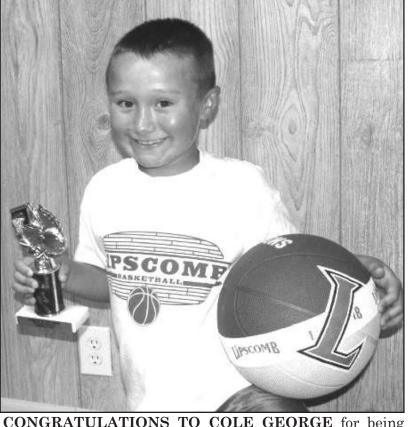

All of the pay increases were accomplished while staying within the budget amount for wages for city employees.

I hope this clears up any misconceptions that any employee was given a vast pay increase for the current fiscal

Don't Let Heat, Mosquitoes Spoil Your Summer

Summer has officially arrived in Tennessee, bringing scorching temperatures and the risk of West Nile Virus. Activities of daily life often mean exposing ourselves to extreme heat or going outdoors at times when mosquitoes carrying WNV may be active. The Department of Health is sharing simple tips that can help you reduce your risk of seasonal illness during the hot summer months.

Temperatures that soar into the 90s and beyond bring the risk for heat-related illness. Heat-related illnesses include heat stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat rash. Signs of heat-related illness include dizziness, heavy sweating, muscle cramps, rapid heart beat, nausea, headaches and cold/clammy

"Heat-related illnesses and deaths are common, yet preventable said Health problems," Commissioner Susan R. Cooper, MSN, RN. "When temperatures are extremely high, Tennesseans must make smart decisions about their exposure to heat. Avoid going outside during the hottest part of the day whenever possible, and be sure never to leave anyone unattended in

It's also important to take steps to protect and care for the very young and the elderly, who are at greater risk in extreme heat. People with chronic diseases such as heart disease, diabetes, obesity and lung disease are also at an increased risk of heat-related illnesses.

Heat stroke is the most lifethreatening heat-related illness. Each year, about 400 people nationwide die from heat stroke. Heat stroke occurs when the body is unable to regulate its temperature, which rises quickly without the ability to cool down. If emergency treatment is not provided, heat stroke can cause death or permanent disability. Symptoms include body temperature above 103 degrees Fahrenheit; red, hot and dry skin without sweating; rapid, strong pulse; throbbing headache; dizziness; nausea; confusion and loss of consciousness.

Call for immediate medical help if you believe you or another person is experiencing heat stroke. While waiting on emergency assistance, get the victim to a shady area, cool him or her rapidly using cool water and monitor body temperature until it reaches 101 to 102 degrees Fahrenheit, and do not give the victim any fluids to drink.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention offers a few simple steps to avoid these preventable heat-related illnesses.

- Drink plenty of fluids. Don't wait until you are thirsty to drink. Remember to consume nonalcoholic, low-sugar drinks in hot weather.

- Replace salt and minerals. Heavy sweating can deplete your body's salt and minerals. Non-alcoholic drinks, like sports drinks, can help you replenish these reserves.

- Wear appropriate clothing and sunscreen. Choose lightweight, light-colored, loose-fitting clothing, as well as a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses with UV protection. Wear SPF 15 or higher sunscreen every day.

Schedule outdoor activities carefully. Try to limit outdoor activity to morning and evening hours with rest breaks in shady areas, if available. UV rays are strongest and do the most damage during midday hours.

Pace yourself. If you are unaccustomed to working or exercising in a hot environment, start slowly and increase effort gradually. If your heart is pounding or you are gasping for breath, stop the activity and rest in a cool, shady

Stay cool indoors. If your home does not have air conditioning, go to the mall or library to cool off. Cool showers or baths, and keeping your stove and oven off, are other ways to cool down inside.

- Use the buddy system. Partner with a friend and watch each other for signs of heat-related illness. Senior citizens are more susceptible, so if you know someone over age 65, check on them over the phone twice a day.

For more information about heatillnesses, related including prevention and treatment tips, visit the CDC's Extreme Heat Safety site http://www.bt.cdc.gov/disasters/extr emeheat/heat_guide.asp.

As you schedule outdoor activities to avoid adverse affects from the heat, make sure you are protecting yourself and loved ones from West Nile Virus too. This illness is most commonly transmitted to humans through mosquito bites. Most mosquitoes likely to transmit WNV bite at dawn and dusk. The best way to prevent WNV infection is to avoid mosquito bites. These simple tips can help.

- If you must go outside during dawn and dusk, use insect repellent

JULY 14, 2009 Club Starts Another Year Hosting Red Cross Blood Drives

by CARL HIRLSTON The Woodbury Lions Club has been hosting American Red Cross Blood Drives since the late 40's.

Recently Sean Armstrong, Manager within the Donor Resources Development of the Red Cross spoke to the members of the Woodbury Lions Club and paid tribute to them for having the most well managed blood drives, and for having the most donors per capita making Woodbury the most successful in yearly drives.

According to the 2000 U. S. Census, Woodbury has a population of just less than 2,500 people (2,428), yet, despite the smaller population, the amount of blood donations have been much stronger per capita than cities with 10 times the population.

There is no doubt that the donors of Woodbury and Cannon County are more generous than their counterparts in cities like Hendersonville, Gallatin, McMinnville and Franklin just to name a few. Woodbury is a special place to live and it is even a more special place to the patients we serve at hospitals throughout the area. The 2008-2009 fiscal year, 690 units was collected on a goal of units.496 of those units were collected at the Woodbury Lions Club accounting for 70% of Cannon Counties Donations.

The Woodbury Lions Club will again host 6 blood drives for the fiscal year 2009-2010. Each drive will be held of the 3rd Thursday, every other month, starting in July. If you want to go ahead a mark your calendars, the dates will be: July 16, 2009, September 17, 2009, November 19, 2009, January 21, 2010, March 16, 2010, and Donor Appreciation Blood Drive on May 20, 2010. Each Blood Drive will be from the hours of Noon until 6 PM except for the Appreciation drive and it will be from 9:00 A.M. until 6:00 P.M.

Small Business Bill Passes, Will Spur Cutting-Edge Research

WASHINGTON – On Wednesday (July 8th), the U.S. House passed the Enhancing Small Business Research and Innovation Act, a bipartisan bill that will better assist small businesses in developing commercial cutting-edge technology. The bill modernizes the government's largest small business development research and programs, the Small Business (SBIR) Innovation Research program and the Small Business

Technology

Transfer

(STTR)

"Small businesses are the backbone of Tennessee's economy more than 95% of our state's private workforce is employed by small businesses," said Congressman Gordon who helped draft the bill as Chairman of the House Science and Technology Committee. "As we work to get our economy back on the innovative high-tech small businesses that will create jobs. Every year, the SBIR and STTR programs help 1,500 new firms get off the ground throughout our country. This legislation will enable these programs to double the amount of grants they can award to small businesses engaged in innovative research.'

Over the past eight years, 91 SBIR/STTR grants have been awarded to Tennessee small businesses, totaling more than $22 million. Many of these companies have been leading research efforts to cure diseases, strengthen national defense, and develop new energy technologies.

"The SBIR and STTR business programs foster technologic innovation and economic growth in Tennessee and across America," said Eric Cromwell, president and CEO of the Tennessee Technology track, it is important that we support Development Corporation, a nonprofit organization designed to support small businesses and innovation development Tennessee. "U.S. small businesses developing novel technologies have limited sources of financial capital to access at such an early stage of development. The SBIR and STTR programs are an important source of early stage capital for small businesses, bridging the gap to follow-on investments from the private sector"

The bill will modernize both programs, requiring each of them to reach out to rural entrepreneurs, veterans, and women. It also requires both programs to give special consideration to small businesses focused on research in the fields of rare-diseases, energy and nanotechnology.

The bill passed the House with overwhelming support and now moves to the Senate

Members Of Tennessee Delegation Announce Agriculture Disaster Designation For Counties

WASHINGTON - U.S. Senators Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) and Bob Corker (R-Tenn.) and U.S. Representatives Lincoln Davis (D-Tenn. 4), Bart Gordon (D-Tenn. 6), and Marsha Blackburn (R-Tenn. 7) today announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has designated Bedford, Hickman, Moore and Perry counties in Tennessee as "primary natural disaster areas," making farmers in these counties and contiguous areas eligible to apply for federal farm disaster programs through their local Farm Service Agency office.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack on June 4, the delegation members joined Governor Phil Bredesen in requesting a federal disaster declaration for these counties "to help farmers who have suffered crop losses and damage to farm equipment and structures as a result of excessive rain and extensive flooding that occurred in May."

USDA also named 13 counties as "contiguous disaster counties," including Benton, Coffee, Decatur, Dickson, Franklin, Humphreys, Lewis, Lincoln, Marshall, Maury, Rutherford, Wayne and Williamson.

"I'm glad to see that this declaration has come through for our farmers in Middle Tennessee, Senator Lamar Alexander said. "Farmers affected by the floods earlier this year will now be able to apply for assistance to help recover their losses." "At this time of economic hardship, I'm pleased the USDA has made federal assistance available for Tennessee farmers who have suffered losses caused by the May rains and flooding," Senator Bob "I hope this Corker said. subsequent designation and assistance will provide some help to these farmers so they can get back on their feet."

"Our farms are extremely vulnerable to any type of weather related occurrence and receiving federal assistance is often their only recourse in making uncontrollable situation better. applaud Secretary Vilsack's disaster designation for the farmers in these counties," said Congressman Lincoln Davis, a member of the House Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee.

"The extreme storms in May destroyed crop yields and damaged the equipment and farming structures of countless Tennessee farmers," said Congressman Bart Gordon. "With this declaration, the many affected farmers and their families can begin to rebuild and prepare for the next farming season.' "Farms in Tennessee are an important part of our economy and our culture. This USDA disaster funding is urgently needed and very welcome as farmers recover from May's violent weather," said Congressman Marsha Blackburn.

New Passport Rules For Americans

By: Sid Kirchheimer

Q. Are there new passport rules for Americans?

A. Yes, as of June 1, all Americans reentering the United States will need a single document that shows citizenship and identity.

A passport, which costs $100 for adults, is arguably the best choice, since it's valid for all types of travel. A $45 passport card is valid only for land or sea travel from Canada, Mexico, Bermuda and the Caribbean. Other documents are primarily for travelers who frequently cross the border.

Passport applications available at post offices and online at the State Department. To learn more, go to the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative website.

By: Barbramda Lumpkins Walls

Extra cash is heading your way if you receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income. The federal economic stimulus package provides for a one-time payment of $250 to individuals and $500 for couples (if both receive benefits). Also getting a payment will be older veterans and railroad retirees. You won't have to file any forms show up by early June as an extra check or automatic deposit, depending on how you receive your benefits.

But don't fall for e-mail scams in which someone offers to help you obtain the payments. For details, go to www.ssa.gov/payment.

Enter the Center Bucket Brigade Friday, July 17th

The Cannon County Senior Citizens Center is in need of a new entrance due to the way the air conditioner unit is vented. The seniors will be having a Bucket Fund Raiser to help raise funds for this project. They will be set up on Main Street at the intersections of College and Tatum Streets.

Connie Rigsby has begun getting bids for the renovation and it may have to be done in stages to get the new door and entrance needed installed. This will (we hope) will help to lower the electric bill and help to cool the office area of the center. The volunteer's will be collecting on Friday, July 17th from 8:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. If you would like to sign up for a one hour shift to help with this project, please see Jacque at the center.

For more info, please contact Connie or Jacque at the center or call Rita at 615-542-0396

Thank you in advance for all who will donate time and especially for EVERYONE that makes a monetary donation.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees. Our primary purpose is to stay sober and to help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups. People who once drank to excess, they finally acknowledged that they could not handle alcohol and now live a new way of life without it.
