WPD, CCSD Team Up To Make Drug Arrests

Teamwork between the Woodbury Police Department and the Cannon County Sheriff's Department led to the arrest of three individuals last week on drug-related charges.

The first joint operation between the WPD and CCSD took place on Monday, July 25, at 418 Murfreesboro Road, Woodbury.

Following a search of the residence, David Brad Young was arrested on charges of initiating the process to manufacture methamphetamine, manufacture of a Schedule VI drug (marijuana), maintaining a dwelling for the use, keep or resale of controlled substances and unlawful possession of drug paraphernalia.

Law enforcement officers confiscated 35 marijuana plants from the residence along with an assortment of items used in the manufacture of methamphetamine.

Participating in the investigation were Woodbury Police Chief Tony Burnett, Cannon County Sheriff Darrell Young, WPD Assistant Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham, CCSD Investigator Anthony Young, WPD patrolmen John Fesmire and Brent Brock and CCSD deputies Reed Bryson, Eric Moss and Steve McMillen.

"The meth making operation had obviously been going on for some time," Chief Burnett said.

Young's bond was set at $153,000. His initial court date is Sept. 27.

The second coordinated bust conducted by the CCSD and WPD took place on Tuesday, July 26 at 436 Williams Lane in Readyville.

A total of 124 marijuana plants were discovered at the home of Christopher L. Singer and Mary K. Singer.

CCSD Investigator Young said marijuana was allegedly being grown by the Singers both inside and outside of their residence.

Both Singers have been charged with manufacturing marijuana, maintaining a

Four Cases Bound Over To Grand Jury

Four of the scores of cases on the docket in Cannon County General Sessions Court Tuesday, July 26, were bound over to the next meeting of the grand jury.

Two of the four cases were bound over following preliminary hearings.

Judge Susan Melton ruled that there was sufficient probable cause to bind Timothy D. Richards over on charges of reckless endangerment, evading arrest and evading arrest by a motor vehicle.

However, following testimony by Tennessee Highway Patrol Trooper Bruce Pryor and Audrey Vanatta, whose vehicle Richards is alleged to have stolen, Judge Melton declined to bind over a charge of theft over $1,000.

The state still has the option of presenting the theft charge to the grand jury.

It is alleged that Richards stole Vanatta's vehicle from her home in Smithville. Trooper Pryor observed the stolen vehicle speeding on John Bragg Hwy. Following a pursuit, the vehicle was found wrecked. The driver, alleged to be Richards, had fled the scene.

Following the other preliminary hearing, Judge Melton found there was sufficient probable cause to bind over Mary Ellen Carmack on charges of burglary of a vehicle, theft under $500, vandalism under $500 and filing a false report.

The purported victims of the offenses, Nathan and Paula Davis, along with Woodbury Patrolman John Fesmire, who investigated the incident, testified during the hearing. Nathan Davis is Carmack's nephew.

It is alleged that Carmack vandalized and broke into the Davis' vehicle and stole personal property. The property was found approximately three hours later in the back of Carmack's car which was parked at her

• Terry Brian Tramel entered a conditional plea of guilty to simple possession of marijuana. He was placed on probation for 11 months, 29 days, fined $250 and assessed court costs. Tramel also entered a conditional plea of guilty to driving on a suspended license. He was placed on probation for six months, fined $50 and assessed court costs. His driver's license was also suspended for one year.

• Misty C. Pickett pled guilty to possession of a Schedule VI drug. She was given a suspended sentence of 11 months, 29 days and placed on probation for an equal amount of time. She was also fined $250 and assessed court costs.

Ryan Watson, owner of "W - A Ryan Watson Salon," begins the process of shaving Lindsey Sullivan's hair into a Mohawk prior to her beginning chemotherapy for Invasive Carcinoma, an aggressive form of breast cancer. Watson opened W, located on the Downtown Square, in July. He donated a free cut and style, as well as a shave, for Sullivan after hearing of her heart-warming story. He plans to hold a cut-a-thon to assist in raising additional funds to assist the family with medical costs.

Children Give Young Mom Courage To Battle Cancer

TONY STINNETT

Lindsey Sullivan vividly recalls the day she was diagnosed with Invasive Breast Cancer.

First, there was devastation. In the next moment Sullivan thought about her three children - Emily, Austin and Hannah - and she became a fighter.

Cancer, unfortunately, is not uncommon. Women in the United States have a one in eight chance of developing breast cancer, according to the American Cancer Society, which estimates that more than 1 million women in the U.S. have breast cancer and don't know it.

But Sullivan is a vibrant 28-year-old with three beautiful children from ages 6-to-11. She's too young to be diagnosed with cancer, right?

Breast cancer can happen to anyone. It is not bound by age, gender or ethnic group and, among women, it is the most common form of cancer.

Sullivan was diagnosed with Invasive Carcinoma, an aggressive form of breast cancer in May. She had a bilateral mastectomy in June.

"I was devastated when I was diagnosed with cancer," Sullivan said. "Mammograms usually aren't until 40-years-old and it was hard. I just remember the devastation but it didn't take long for that devastation to turn from my situation to my three kids."

"My children are a big part of my life. They keep me going every day. If not for them I probably would not fight as hard as I do each day."

Sullivan says she has been very open with her children about the cancer because there has been a lot of change in such a short period of time.

"I've been open with them about everything," Sullivan said. "They know everything that's going on and everything

Walk Across Tennessee Kicks Off At RAD

Being physically active is one of the best things you can do to improve and maintain your health, yet nearly two-thirds of Americans aren't getting the activity they need.

Consider taking up walking with friends or your family by participating in Walk Across Tennessee, which is a 5-week program that will spark some friendly competitions in Cannon County. Teams of five will compete to see who can log the most miles walking, jogging, or even biking in their community.

The kickoff for Cannon County is Saturday, August 6 at the Red Apple Day 5K in Auburntown.

"Teams will keep track of their miles, which will be posted in the Extension office and other places around the community," said Carla Bush, Cannon Extension Agent.

Many people are unaware of the positive benefits of exercise. According to the American Heart Association, heart disease is the No. 1 problem in the United States. The risk of heart disease could be significantly reduced by regular exercise.

To participate in Walk Across Tennessee, first get a team together. Choose a team captain and name your team. Fill out a registration form available at the UT Extension, Cannon County Office, 614 Lehman Street, Woodbury.

"Competition kicks off at the Red Apple Days 5K, Saturday, August 6," Carla Bush said. "Come out and plan to have lots of fun."

For more information, call the Extension office at 615-563-2554 or email Carla Bush at cybush@utk.edu or Erin Nichols at eanichol@utk.edu.

'Cowboy Princess' Reflects On Dad, Roy Rogers

Cheryl Rogers-Barnett To Host Salute To 'King Of The Cowboys'

KEN BECK
Special To The Courier

For Cheryl Rogers-Barnett, growing up the daughter of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans (the "King of the Cowboys" and the "Queen of the West") was filled with joy, wonder and lots of animals.

Not only did Cheryl have Trigger, Roy's golden palomino, as her pet horse, but there were dozens of other creatures around the ranch due to the singing cowboy star's uncanny affinity with animals.

Among other pets, Cheryl and her eight siblings had a raccoon, fawn, skunk and mountain lion, while Roy, a great hunter, had a pack of coon dogs.

"We had Angus cattle and sheep for a while. Dad was going to raise pheasants, and he raised rabbits until we had a walk-in freezer with 500 rabbits in it. Our house was crazy, but it was great," said the author of Cowboy Princess.

"At dinner time, Dad used to come into the backyard and say, 'If you're mine come on in, and if you're not, go on home.' We had 10 acres. It was a big spread, and we had a yard full, a lot of them the neighbors' kids," said Cheryl, who will appear at Saturday afternoon's celebration of the 100th anniversary of movie and TV cowboy star Roy Rogers. The event will be held 1-4 p.m. at The Theatre at the Patterson Park Community Center (521 Mercury Blvd.) in Murfreesboro and features the Roy Rogers film Under Western Stars.

Asked to describe her father's personality, she says, "It depended on where he was. He was an introvert, and yet, if you saw him at his museum, you would never have known it. With his museum and all his stuff around, he loved giving strangers a guided tour.

"He liked women, but he was much more comfortable around the guys. He loved being outdoors. He was a big hunter and fisherman, but bird hunting was his favorite of all.

"He loved skeet and trap and target shooting. He hunted for wild boar on horseback with a bow and arrow. One of his of the main things he liked to do was get on his motorcycle and see where a road went. Sometimes he would just take off across the desert," said Cheryl, who grew up in the San Fernando Valley of Southern California.

"Mom said Dad was born 100 years too late. He would have been a great mountain man or wagon train scout. He loved his dogs. He always had dogs. He enjoyed bowling and was proud of being a 33rd degree Mason."

As for her mother, Dale Evans, an actress, singer, author and devout Christian, Cheryl said,

"She was interested in everybody. If you were talking with her, it was like you were the only two people on the planet. The most important thing to Mom was her faith. With all of the tragedies in the family, her faith was just incredible. Before she died, she spoke as if it were her graduation. She lived her life for that moment."

Roy Rogers died in 1998 at age 86, and Dale Evans died in 2001 at 88. Six of their nine children survive.

A year ago the Rogers family was forced to close the Roy Rogers and Dale Evans Museum in Branson, Mo., and sell the hundreds and hundreds of items from their famous parents' careers. Roy's memorabilia was sold in auctions in Texas, Colorado, New York, Illinois, Missouri and Arizona.

Roy's onscreen horse and dog, Trigger and Bullet, had been mounted, and they were purchased by Patrick Gottsch, president of RFD-TV, which has its network operations in Nashville. Trigger, known as "the smartest horse in the movies," served as Cheryl's saddle pal when she was a child.

"He was a wonderful horse. To this day, I can't believe he was a stallion. He was so gentle with me on his back. Yet, you put dad or Richards Farnsworth (Roy's stunt double) on his back, and he became the incredible, wonderful speedy thoroughbred that he was. Trigger liked to eat my mayonnaise sandwiches and drank Dad's coffee and my Coca-Cola," remembered Cheryl, who made a brief appearance in one Roy Rogers film, The Trail of Robin Hood.

Roy Rogers fans may not know it, but the "king of the cowboys" actually had three Triggers. The original Trigger worked in all the Roy Rogers movies and TV shows, while Trigger Jr. performed with the cowboy at public appearances such as rodeos and state fairs.

And Trigger Jr. has strong ties to Cannon County as he was sired by Barker's Moonbeam, owned by the late Oscar Barker of Readyville, about 10 miles east of Murfreesboro.

Trigger Jr., a palomino and a full-blooded Tennessee Walking Horse, was born Allen's Gold Zephyr on May 11, 1941, to Paul K. Fisher, reportedly one of the world's largest breeders and dealers in yellow horses at the time. In 1948, Fisher sold the horse to Roy Rogers, who renamed it Trigger Jr.

"Trigger Jr. loved to dance. That was his specialty. He could do almost every stunt that those white stallions, the Lipizzans do, and he loved it. He did not make the movies, just the public appearances," said Cheryl, who lives in St. George, Utah, and rarely makes appearances

Under Western Stars (1938), which features Roy's first starring role, and a 1952 episode of This Is Your Life will be shown. Cheryl will sell and sign copies of her books, Cowboy Princess and The All-American Cowboy Grill Cookbook. Cowboy movie memorabilia and cowboy music CDs will also be available. Admission is $5. Producing the Saturday event is Murfreesboro native Fred Goodwin, a cowboy historian and expert on the Sons of the Pioneers.

"Under Western Stars was Roy Rogers' first starring movie role from 1938, and the film has been restored by the UCLA film laboratory in Los Angeles. This will be the first showing east of the Mississippi," said Goodwin, who owns and operates Concept Productions.

"This Saturday afternoon offers a chance to relive the past and have a wholesome family experience as you enjoy this classic Western movie. Bring your children and grandchildren. It will be a memorable afternoon," Goodwin promises.

'Smoking Hot' Pre-Race Prayer Has Soared Through The Heavens And Has Grabbed World News Media Attention

DAN WHITTLE
Courier Columnist

Move over Pentecostal fire-and-brimstone Jimmy Swaggart!!

For, here comes a smoking hot "boogety-boogety-boogety" Baptist preacher racing to prominence out through the holy-rolling Godly-beautiful and -sanctified hills of Middle Tennessee, the pulsating heart of Volunteer State frenzied-racing country.

Prior to a recent Saturday race at the Nashville Speedway, few folks outside of the Lebanon-based Family Baptist Church had heard of hill country preacher man Joe Nelms.

As this is written, Preacher Nelms' name is better known than veteran TV evangelistic pitchman sobbing "I have Sinned" Swaggart, at least in car racing circles.

Following his recent Saturday spirit-fueled pre-race praying, Preacher Nelms' name has raced across the planet and out through the heavenly airways and satellites that fuel news reports over the internet, ESPN, plus TV, radio and newspapers. Amen!

Late-night TV talk show hosts have felt led to embrace the power-packed praying preacher.

"I'd go to church more often if I knew he was going to be there," testified ABC Network late-night personality Jimmy Kimmel.

Larry Woody, Tennessee's most respected race industry newspaper writer, thinks the prayer is still spiraling skyward.

"Covering NASCAR for 40 years, I've heard a lot of 'thank God and Goodyear' pre-race prayers, but this one has to be the greatest in history of the NASCAR Hall of Fame," Woody wrote. "I'll nominate it."

He recalled another memorable pre-race prayer at the Daytona 500.

"A prayer given by the late NASCAR founder Billy France Sr. at Daytona years ago, came close," Woody recalled. "In his dotage, Mr. France rambled through sponsors and the weatherman, and asking the Lord to look after the drivers, he finally got to the end, and signed off: 'Sincerely, Bill France.'"

"I thought the 'smokin' hot' prayer was fine, maybe a tad sacrilegious, but I'll bet the Good Lord chuckled a little too when He heard it."

So, does it prove that God works in mysterious ways?

The Reverend Nelms' "revved up" praying certainly blew fast out across the media outlets of the world, especially after the righteous reverend looked to the heavens, with eyes closed, and ultimately prayed: "Thank you God for my smoking hot wife, Lisa..." and then the reverend reverently thanked the Lord for their youngens, Eli and Emma.

Brother Joe's smoking hot performance more than matched the 100-plus degrees temperature that prayer-packed race day on the parched hotter-than-hades concrete circular track.

"I was there," said Church of Christ member Howard "Woody" Woody. "Been in church all my life, and I've never heard any praying like that."

When asked if he thought the prayer was devout, or maybe unholy or disrespectful in the other direction regarding Godly praying, LaVergne's obviously-devout racing fan Woody Woody testified thusly: "I loved it, I know the preacher's praying reached pretty high for I was seated on the highest rung of seats, the nose-bleed bleachers in the stadium. I know the prayer got that high!"

"But, did the prayer get all the way up to God?" WoodyWoody was asked.

"I believe it did, for a Ford won the race," Woody Woody offered as evidence.

"Lord, we thank you for the Fords!" "Rev-it-Up" Reverend Nelms had shouted his spirited prayer toward the heavens over the Speedways' very loud public address system.

Woody said he believes it reached God.

"Why sure, that prayer worked, for the race was won by a Ford, driven by Carl Edwards, a smoking hot talented stock car driver," Woody Woody offered further testimony.

How devout to racing is Howard Woody Woody?

"I have the No. 3 tattooed on my shoulder, out of respect for the late great Dale Earnhardt," Woody proclaimed. "That No. 3 is right up there beside my two grandchildren's names I have tattooed, circled lovingly in a heart. I follow racing each and every weekend!"

The devil may have cut out that memorable day at the race track, for in Jesus name, Rev-it-Up Rev. Nelms proclaimed some holy "boogety, boogety, boogety" high-octane fueled praying for the safety of the drivers, pit crew members and the hundreds of by-now hot-perspiring souls standing in the grandstands.

"Lord, we thank you for the Dodges and Toyotas," added the minister, for this was no wimpy, weak-kneed, pasteurized, pastoral praying being offered to the heavens as powerful race car engines moaned and growled in the background, with drivers and pit crews on edge for the hot competition ahead of them.

Ultimate race winner Carl Edwards may have received a heaven-sent prophetic message as the pastor personally thanked God for Fords, for when the pastor ended the prayer thusly: "In Jesus name we pray, boogety-boogety-boogety" Edwards was shown on ESPN grinning broadly, while looking up toward the heavens BEFORE THE RACING BEGAN!

Two times I've witnessed this type of praying: One when I set up old-timey sawdust outdoor tent revivals for (the late) June Carter Cash and Robert Duval to study to make the "Apostle" movie that came out in the mid-1990s.

The actors main study character was Nashville-area based Paul "Happy Pastor" Baggett, a throwback Pentecostal evangelist whose arms and legs thrashed through the pews and prayers as if he was fighting a swarm of mad hornets.

But, my first memorable prayer service came at age 4, when Mama Whittle took her youngens to hear Missouri-Arkansas-Tennessee traveling evangelist, Brother E.L. Rhodes.

Brother Rhodes, a foot-washing Baptist, was a star of sorts in our family, since he'd recently married Grandmother Beatrice Maneurve Orr Stockton, the ones we children called Granny Grunt because she was not a very positive person.

Brother Rhodes started the service fine, but after a while he began speaking incoherently. As a little boy, I couldn't understand him, so when I asked older sister June what he was saying, she replied: "Shhh...he's speaking in tongues."

By this time, a few women in the flock had fallen out in the floor. Low and behold, as Brother Rhodes reached down to bless one of the fallen sisters, a bottle of Old Crow, a cheap bonded bourbon, came crashing out of his overalls' chest pocket.

To which, older brother Van responded: "Brother Rhodes ain't speaking in tongues, he's crooked...drunker than Cooter Brown."

I looked around, but I guess ol' Cooter Brown had already left the scene.

As did the Holy Spirit, for the building emptied when that bottle of whiskey went sliding slowly, but conspicuously loud across the floor.

Amen!!

Sputnik Catches Farm Boy's Interest

On a particularly cool, crisp fall late afternoon of 1957, my father, brother, grandfather and myself were walking from the dairy barn as we had done numerous times before on my grandfather's dairy farm after the evening milking. The day had been much like any other, except for this evening we noticed a bright ball of light moving across the western sky as the sun was making its final departure for the day. We all stopped watching its unusual movement and immediately noticed that it was not an airplane. Instead, it was the Russian satellite known as "Sputnik" and the ushering in of a new day of technology along with a multitude of scientific developments that would change all of our lives forever.

Just as that early evening I watched the beginning of our country's race into space as a young child, on the morning of July 21 this year at the age of 62, I watched the final landing of the space shuttle ending an era of take-offs and landings for the NASA program. I still remember the excitement of John Glenn blasting off into space, the splashdowns in the ocean and watching much of it on black and white TVs at school. When Neil Armstrong set foot on the moon on July 21, 1969 and uttered those words which are still the most famous words ever spoken, "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind," a generation of us knew there was no limit to what we could do if we just put our minds to it. Even though there were those who had doubt and said it was all produced in a movie studio, my generation knew it wasn't and saw a lot of hope for the future in the space program.

From the NASA program a lot of things have evolved for all of us. The hand-held vacuum cleaner was born from this program, along with more battery-powered gadgets that we no longer can do without. The firefighter's breathing apparatus used today is a product adapted from life-support systems used in spacesuits. The personal storm warning systems that detect lightning for boaters, golfers and those flying private airplanes came from the Space Shuttle. We have better sunglasses, improved car crash technology, plane wing-tip designs, freeze-dried meals, baby foods, heart surgery lasers, life support for patients, plant research, better brakes and much more all because of our space program. I for one would have never thought that October evening back in 1957, that because of a glow in the western sky, that someday its beginning could mean the difference in me having better health or not.

Because of our space program, those of us who monitor our blood pressure each day with home blood-pressure kits, have those little units. Independent Science reports that when Alan Shepard became the first American to fly in space some 37 years ago, NASA scientists had to invent an automatic measuring device to find out how blasting off affected the astronaut's blood pressure. The design of the unit that they used to monitor Shepard and future astronauts later became the design blood pressure kits were based on once they went mainstream.

Even the battery-powered socks and boots we enjoy out on the farm are the results of the space program. Those designs came from the Apollo program and we even got heat-absorbing sportswear from astronauts' spacesuits as well.

If you could look at the progress this country and world has made over the last 54 years and just compare it to progress made in the first 170 years of this country, you would have to give a lot of credit to the space program in how it has accelerated the many things created that has changed our lives. That alone has to give the space program a lot of credit for what it has done for mankind. Just like Neil Armstrong said that July evening in 1969, it has been a very large leap for mankind and hopefully we are not through leaping.

New American Legion Post #279 Is Off And Running In Woodbury

CHAPLAIN JIM STONE
The newly-chartered and formed American Legion Post #279 in Woodbury, Tennessee, under the leadership of Commander Bobby Ferrell, is off and running.

The new Post already has over 50 members and our Auxillary has over 25 members.

Our meetings, usually on the third Thursday of each month at the Senior Citizens Center start at 5:45PM with a sit down meal prepared by the ladies of our Auxillary. Our meeting follows at 6:30PM.

The meeting portion is focused on entertaining, informative, and fun agendas.

All of the intricate affairs of business are covered in a separate meeting of the Executive Board which is made up of the Commander and Post Officers, and meets each month prior to our regular meeting. This way all of the business items are taken care of prior to our regular meetings. This allows the members to enjoy their sit down meal, relax, and socialize with friends, and enjoy the scheduled guest speakers and special events.

At our last meeting we had Representative Diane Black's Field Representative, Beth Cope, who had a very informative session followed by a question and answer session. We also had Mrs. Campbell, Director, of the Volunteer Services Office at the Alvin C. York Medical Center in Murfreesboro who made a presentation on the various volunteer programs at the VA.

Our hard-charging

Commander is "Setting the Pace" for the future of the American Legion Post. His Post Officers are hard working, enthusiastic and ready to meet the challenge. All of our members are ready and willing to meet the challenge.

Certificates of Appreciation were presented by Commander Ferrell to the following officers: Bob Stoetzel, Finance Officer; Penny Daniels, Adjutant; Randy Gerdes, Vice Commander; Ralph Dunning, Vice Commander; Christine Barrett, Sergeant in Arms; Jim Stone, Chaplain and Public Relations Officer.

If you are a veteran and you qualify, and you want to be where the action is, then come and be part of a good thing for our veterans and our community.

that is about to happen to mommy, all the different changes. We are very open about the whole cancer situation."

Emily, the oldest of Sullivan's children, was fearful when mom first sat the children down to talk about cancer.

"It scared me when she told us," Emily said. "I heard so much about people dying because of cancer and that scared me."

Lindsey's motherly instincts would be accurate. Deciding to be open with her children paid off.

"The more mom talked to us about what cancer was and what was going to happen, and that everything would be OK, it made us feel better," Emily said. "Mom has just been a fighter and hopefully she will make it through and people will keep praying for her."

Lindsey started chemotherapy Monday (July 25). She knew it would be a matter of days before she would start losing her long, flowing hair. She preferred not to gradually lose her hair but to have it shaved prior to chemotherapy.

Lindsey Sullivan's recent strength was rewarded when her angel appeared in the form of Ryan Watson, who recently opened "W" - a Ryan Watson salon - on the downtown square. Watson had just opened the new business and was purchasing water at a nearby business when he heard of Sullivan's story.

Watson struck up a conversation with a family member. "At one point the lady asked me what I would charge to shave her daughter's hair before she went in for chemotherapy," Watson said. "There was no way I would charge, so I told her we could set it up for the weekend and do it before the therapy began on that Monday."

Watson went one better. He had Lindsey visit "W" and cut and styled her hair for family photos before granting 6-year-old Austin's wish.

"I have always had a Mohawk and I thought it would be neat if me and mom got one together," Austin said. "She said she would do it but I didn't think she would."

After a series a family photos with her beautiful hair styled, Lindsey returned to "W" to receive a Mohawk and beat the process of losing her hair through chemotherapy.

"My little boy, Austin, has always had a Mohawk and he said, 'Mom, before all of your hair comes out let's have a Mohawk together,' so that's what I chose to do," Lindsey said. "Ryan offered to do this and it was a blessing because getting all of your hair cut off is a tough decision. We have had fun with this and Ryan made it all so much easier."

As Lindsey was having her hair shaved, young Hannah clearly stated the family's love and bond during these difficult times.

"My mom is beautiful with or without hair," Hannah said. "It really doesn't matter."

Watson said he was ecstatic to be in position to reach out to someone and make them feel better, especially as a new business owner in town.

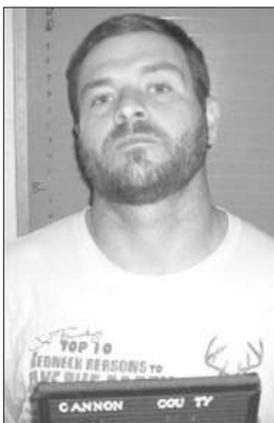

"I just wanted to do something special for (Lindsey)," Watson said. "I felt like it would be a good thing and to see the smiles on the faces of the children, and her, was really a great thing. I was glad to be part of it and be able to reach out."

Watson's generosity will not stop with a free cut. W is a Paul Mitchell salon and Watson has been in touch with corporate headquarters regarding a cut-a-thong where a portion of the proceeds would go to Sullivan.

"That's something we are working to get together," Watson said. "It's great to be able to do something so positive for someone you didn't know until a few days ago."

As Lindsey's treatment starts she too remains positive. "I've talked to several cancer survivors and there is so much more new medicine out there," Lindsey said. "You can't give up and you have to keep thinking positive. I have three beautiful children to help that process."

EDITOR'S NOTE: W - A Ryan Wilson salon is located on the Downtown Square. One of Cannon County's newest businesses, W opened for business July 20. It is open Monday through Saturday and walk-ins are welcome. W is a full-service salon.

Bond for each was set at $5,000. Their initial court date is Sept. 6.

Sheriff Young, Chief Burnett, Investigator Young, Asst. Chief Mooneyham, Sgt. Randy Neal and Deputy Travis Turney participated in the investigation and arrest of the Singers.

"Both departments worked together to get the job done," Chief Burnett said. "This is an excellent example of what teamwork can do to facilitate law enforcement in our community."

Law Enforcement Launches Crackdown On Impaired Driving

The Woodbury Police Department and the Cannon County Sheriff's Departments today announced that they will join nearly 10,000 other law enforcement agencies nationwide in support of an intensive crackdown on impaired driving August 19-September 5, known as "Booze It & Lose It."

The problem of impaired driving is a serious one. Data from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration shows the number of alcohol-impaired-driving fatalities in America fell from 2008 to 2009, but the numbers are still too high.

In 2009 alone, 10,839 people died in crashes in which a driver or motorcycle rider was at or above the legal limit, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The age group with the highest percentage of alcohol-impaired-driving fatalities in motor vehicle traffic crashes was the 21-to-24 age group.

"All too often, innocent, law-abiding people suffer tragic consequences and the loss of loved ones due to this careless disregard for human life. Because we're committed to ending the carnage, we're intensifying enforcement during the crackdown. Since twice as many alcohol-impaired accidents occur over the weekend and four times as many occur at night, we will be especially vigilant during these high-risk times when impaired drivers are most likely to be on our roads," said Chief Burnett and Sheriff Young.

Across the country, it is illegal to drive with a blood alcohol concentration of .08 grams per deciliter or higher. According to the latest data, nearly a third of fatalities in motor vehicle traffic crashes involved a driver or motorcycle rider with a BAC above the legal limit - an average of one fatality every 48 minutes.

The crackdown will include law enforcement officers in every state, Washington, D.C., and many U.S. cities and towns.

Chief Burnett and Sheriff Young said their officers and deputies will be aggressively looking for all impaired drivers during the crackdown and will arrest anyone they find driving while impaired - regardless of age, vehicle type or time of day.

"Not only is it illegal to drive under the influence of alcohol, it is also an offence to drive impaired on illegal and prescription drugs, said state law enforcement liaison Clint Shrum.

"Certain prescription drugs can impair a person's ability to operate just as bad as alcohol and sometimes even worse. Be sure to read your warning labels and check with your doctor before operating a vehicle while taking a prescription" commented Shrum.

Oh me! Is it THAT time of year again! Yes, school gets in session Thursday with registration Day and first full day is Friday.

PLEASE NOTE: When you see a school bus anywhere, look for the stop sign. If it is out, even on school grounds, you MUST not pass until it is back against the bus. So many times, cars will ease by on school grounds thinking it's okay, but it isn't. A child doesn't slow down to see if a car is "easing" by and will dark right by. That's our purpose as bus drivers, to protect your child(ren), grandchild(ren) as well as others. A school bus driver's main job is to safely transport students to and from school so help us out and keep them safe.

Massage Moments

BY NANCY COOMES, LMT

Summer, with the hot sun beating down on us, makes us more aware of the dangers of too much sun. Sunscreen is slathered on and we are advised to avoid being in the direct sun between the hours 11:00 and 3:00. So we try to take precautions.

But one danger that is clearly ignored is the tanning bed exposure. Research has shown that people who use tanning beds are 74% more likely to develop melanoma. Melanoma used to be thought of as an "old person's disease, but it is now striking teens. Many of these teens are frequent tanning bed users looking for that golden tan before prom or going to the beach.

The American Medical Association, American Academy of Pediatrics, American Academy of Dermatology and the World Health Organization all are calling on states to ban children under 18 from tanning. New York is the first state to consider the ban. Right now a teen can walk into a tanning salon and there is no ID or parental permission required. If they can afford it, they go to the tanning salon several times a week. About 35% of 17-year-olds use tanning machines. Some research is showing that ultraviolet radiation used in tanning beds can be addictive. Many critics feel that children should not be allowed to use tanning beds at all.

The risk of melanoma is directly related to how often people have tanned. Melanomas have increased 3% in Caucasian women ages 15 to 39. This may not sound like a big increase, but it is an age range that used to see very few melanomas.

Melanomas are not simple skin cancers. These are the kind that are invasive and often leaving ugly, permanent, large scars. Much worse is that they can be fatal. It is important to talk to your children about the dangers of ultraviolet rays and sun exposure. Many adults are not aware of the dangers of the tanning bed. There are far fewer children who know that it can be dangerous.

Tans look good and everybody wants to look good. But we need to reevaluate how healthy that tan is for us. We probably won't see much of a change until we change the image that tans are especially desirable and beautiful.

Cunningham Leaves CCHS

For Assistant Post At RHS

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Eddie Cunningham, who served as Cannon County's offensive coordinator and head baseball coach, has left the program to accept a position as assistant football coach at Riverdale High School.

Cunningham joined Head Coach Joel Schrenk's staff as an assistant coach in 2009 and was elevated to offensive coordinator for the 2011 season. He served as the school's head baseball coach for each of the previous two seasons.

Cunningham will coach outside linebackers at Riverdale. He will not coach baseball for the Warriors.

Though the timing is tough, one week into the start of preseason football practice, Cunningham said the opportunity was too good to pass up.

"It's one of those things where if I take advantage of (this opportunity) it could open a lot of doors for me," Cunningham said. "The tradition is awesome (at Riverdale). When you walk in the door you see four state championship trophies and multiple Mr. Football Award winners, just all the tradition

The loss leaves Cannon County searching for a social studies teacher, a football coach and a baseball coach with the start of school on the horizon.

"The timing is bad for us but the move is very good for (Cunningham)," Schrenk said. "(Cunningham) and I had talked several times about his Cannon County students do not start school until Friday but student-athletes at the school have been hard at work for the past week.

Preseason camp has started for football, girls soccer, volleyball, boys and girls cross country and golf.

Teams will start official games in late August.

This is the first season for the boys and girls cross-country teams, which are headed by Coach Marc Larson.

"We are excited about the prospects of the fall sports and the young people are already working hard and getting ready for their respective seasons," CCHS Athletics Director Michael Dodgen said. "This is our first time to offer cross-country and we are excited about the opportunities this creates for more students."

The Cannon County football Pride Pass is available and being sold during this preseason. The Pass can be purchased for $75 and includes two reserved seat tickets and a preferred parking pass for five home games.

Quarterback Battle Looms

Junior Brandon James is back from a shoulder injury that required surgery last season.

Jordan, James Compete For Starting Job; Both May Play

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

There is no quarterback controversy at Cannon County High School.

There is; however, an intense and unique battle brewing for the position that could end with the Lions utilizing a two-quarterback system for 2011.

Junior Brandon James and sophomore Ryan Jordan are the top two combatants and each bring strong qualities to the offense. Both also are chiefly inexperienced.

"I am not against going with two quarterbacks if that's what we need to do," Cannon County Head Football Coach Joel Schrenk said. "It will be an interesting battle and it may be that it is best that we play two quarterbacks. We will see how that progresses."

Schrenk said it could be that both players are on the field, offensively, at the same time for many sets.

"We have to look at what is the best combination of the best 11 on the field," Schrenk said. "They may be equal but one may be the next best Y or the next best F, or the next best H. We have to look at the best combination of 11, not just the best player at one position."

James saw action under center in junior varsity games as a freshman and was heir apparent to the position as a sophomore before a shoulder injury that eventually required surgery took him out of the mix. Jordan played three snaps under center as a freshman.

Regardless of which quarterback is under center, experience will not be a premium.

"I'm ready to do whatever this team needs me to do in order to be successful," James said. "I didn't get to work at quarterback last season but we haven't changed a lot, just a few routes here or there. I just have to get my concepts down. I feel comfortable playing the position in a game. I feel I can do it."

Jordan shares the same philosophy.

"I think I'm having my fair shot at (competing for the position)," Jordan said. "Coach Schrenk has been giving me good opportunities to show myself and prove I can do it. (Brandon and I) have to mature and lead the team. There's a lot to work on, but I believe I'm coming along."

Schrenk said each quarterback brings special qualities to the offense that could lend to utilizing both players.

"It's a lot like what we had two years ago in that (Jordan) is a lot like Lee Cooper, more of the basic offensive set, can throw it round pretty good," Schrenk said. "Brandon is a lot like Andrew Woodin, very mobile, can run the zone read, run the wildcat stuff and is still effective enough as a thrower to be a threat. They each have their own specialties and we can build our package around each one."

Former MTSU standout Jonathan Harris instructs players during a recent Cannon County practice. Harris joined the Lions as an assistant coach this fall.

Former MTSU Star, Harris, Joins Lions

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

Former MTSU standout Jonathan Harris has joined the Cannon County football staff as an assistant coach for the upcoming 2011 campaign.

Harris, who assisted with the JR Lions in 2010, played at MTSU from 2003-to-2006 and helped lead the Blue Raiders to the Motor City Bowl in 2006 - the program's first appearance in a bowl game as a Division I-A member.

"Coach Harris bring excitement, energy and tremendous knowledge in the weight room and on the field," Cannon County Head Football Coach Joel Schrenk said. "He has developed a great relationship with the kids. He is just a great guy and a very good football coach."

Though Harris is a first-year coach with the Lions at the high school level, he already has a working knowledge of the freshman class, which is 22 player strong, after working with the JR Lions in 2010.

Harris will coach defensive backs and X and Z receivers for the Lions in 2011.

"It's a great opportunity and I am excited to be here helping these guys," Harris said. "They are ready to get better and it's been great working with the players and seeing their progress."

MTSU Head Football Coach Rick Stockstill said Harris will be a great fit at Cannon County and has a lot to offer.

"I'm glad Jonathan is going into coaching," Stockstill said. "Sometimes you can see things in athletes that make you think they would make a heckuva good coach, and Jonathan was always one of those guys. He studied extra film, he did a lot of things on his own to develop himself as a player, and he was a very smart and a very good player. Jonathan did the things that gave you an idea he would be a coach one day."

"Jonathan has great passion, he's enthusiastic and he will be a great influence on those kids, not only as players, but as young men, too. I'm happy for him and Cannon County has itself a great man working with those players."

Harris, who played safety for the Blue Raiders, capped his MTSU career with 119 tackles, nine for loss, two interceptions and three sacks.

He started and played 12 games at safety in future. He has a new daughter and he wants to spend more time with his family and be closer to them. He is going to be part of the one of the premier programs in the state, and I am very happy for him."

Cunningham coached quarterbacks for the Lions. Schrenk has taken over that responsibility and T.J. Daniel has shifted to coaching running backs. Schrenk will also serve as the offensive and defensive coordinator in 2011.

"We need to have somebody hired for school next week, if possible," Schrenk said. "If this happens in May then I am able to find a System guy and get someone in here and it's a smooth transition. At this point, this late, we are really looking more for a position coach."

Cunningham said he looks forward to following the progress of the Cannon County players he coached, as well as the development of the program. He said the opportunity at Cannon County helped lay the groundwork for his move to Riverdale.

"I love those kids and learned so much from coach Schrenk," Cunningham said. "(Schrenk) gave me a chance and in the short amount of time I was there he entrusted me to do a lot more things than past coaches had. I was able to learn from coach Schrenk. I tried to do the best job I could, not only teaching the young men football, but also helping them in the classroom and giving them a friend as a coach and a teacher. I will never be able to replace those two years."

QUARTERBACKS...

James has two years of varsity experience. He led the team in kickoff returns and was among the leaders in receptions in 2010.

The rising junior does not lack for confidence.

"I feel comfortable with the ball in my hands, and I think coach (Schrenk) feels comfortable putting the ball in my hands," James said. "I just have to make smart decisions."

Jordan says he has spent extra time in the film room, learning the offense inside and out.

"I am still going to have to get use to the tempo of high school in the early games," Jordan said. "I have really worked hard, trying to fight for a job, and I have worked hard in the classroom to pick up the offense. I had to write down the plays on the sideline last year and that helped me a lot as far as learning where receivers should be and how to run the offense."

Schrenk said both quarterbacks have developed in terms of grasping the offense.

"Brandon has come along well and Ryan has a great grasp of the offense," Schrenk said. "Sometimes I think Ryan doubts himself but he has a grasp of what is going on. Brandon can do things a little more athletically but they are both in decent shape right now. We just have to continue to progress."

The Lions will resume preseason practice this week and they will play host to White County for the first fall scrimmage Thursday.

at safety in 2006 and was voted one of four permanent captains by his teammates.

A Montgomery, Ala., native, Harris helped lead Jefferson Davis to the 2002 state football championship game in 2002. He says his prep and college careers are similar to what Schrenk is building at Cannon County.

"During my high school career we went from a losing season when I was a sophomore, to making the playoffs and getting beat in the first round as a junior, to reaching the championship game as a senior," Harris said. "When I went to MTSU we were building a program as a I-A member and by my senior year we were in our first bowl game.

"We are working to make those strides at Cannon County. It takes a lot of hard work and everybody buying in and everybody believing in that. It's just like anything you do in life, you have to work hard at it and you have to do a little extra sometimes as a player, even when no one is looking."

Schrenk initially took notice of Harris as an assistant with the JR Lions.

"I watched the JR Lions play their first game and after that game I went and told coach Harris that I know he didn't know me but I was the head coach at Cannon County and that he needed to be on the high school level," Schrenk said.

"He's a great football coach and has a lot to offer."

After the completion of the JR Lions season, Schrenk met with Harris to discuss the possibility of joining the staff at Cannon County.

"It worked out where he could come help us and he's been a great addition," Schrenk said. "He's working hard and he has a mentality that it doesn't matter what grade you are in, but can you do what we are asking you to do? Whoever does it the right way and the best way needs to be playing and that's a plus."

Cannon County will continue preseason practices this week with a scrimmage scheduled against White County Thursday in Woodbury.

CCHS Cheerleaders Attend Cheer & Dance Camp

The Cannon County Cheerleaders for 2011-2012 attended UCA Cheer & Dance Camp July 19-22 at Tennessee Tech. While attending, they worked hard everyday from sun up to sun down. The hard work showed when it came time for daily evaluations and Camp Champs Competition. During evaluations, they received all high scores on their dance and even higher on their cheers. At Camp Champs, they received the trophy for Most Improved Squad of 2011. While at camp, the CCHS Cheerleaders received six superior ribbons, the most improved trophy, a spirit stick for almost everyday there, and "the banana". ("The banana" is the ultimate spirit stick and means a lot to any cheerleaders at camp.) Also, while at camp they were able to tryout for the All American Team 2011. Samantha Phillips received the last day of camp. We are all so proud of her. Reba Barnett and Samantha Lehev recieved Pin It Forward pins. These pins are given to girls who show motivation, ability, leadership, and all that a cheerleader represents. We are so proud of all our girls and wish them the very best this cheering season. om bottom to top: Mary Talbott, Elizabeth Rhea, Brette Motlow, Reba Barnett, Hayley Gannon, Samantha Phillips, Kaylee Smith, Terra Burgess, Samantha Lehev, Mikayla Schwartz, Tori Raines, Katlyn Arnold, Coach-Lacy Eckart. FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

David Wants to Fight Goliath
 I Samuel 17

Jesse's three oldest sons were in Saul's army. Jesse sent David with roasted grain, and bread for his sons and ten cheeses to the commander of their unit.

As David visited with his brothers Goliath came out and shouted his defiance and the Israelite soldiers were fearful and ran from him.

David learned that the reward to the one who killed Goliath was great wealth, Saul's daughter in marriage and his father's family being exempt from taxes.

Although his brother Eliab objected to David even talking about fighting Goliath, David kept on asking questions and word reached Saul. Saul sent for David to meet with him. Saul expressed his doubts that David could defeat Goliath.

David convinced Saul that his experiences of killing a lion and a bear that attacked his father's sheep prepared him for killing Goliath. He explained that killing Goliath would be no more difficult than killing the lion and the bear. David continued, "the lord who delivered me from the paw of the lion and the bear will deliver me from the hand of this Philistine."

Saul said to David, "Go, and the Lord be with you."

Fungicides on Late Corn

Corn fungicides have been going on a good number of acres in areas that have aerial application options. We have more May planted corn this season that is tasseling now and pretty good soil moisture. We typically have more disease pressure in May planted corn although reports of Gray Leaf Spot and other diseases have been sporadic in rotated ground. A better return on your money is most likely where some disease is evident, yield potential is decent and the hybrid has shown more of a response to a fungicide based on field testing. We have fungicide response data generated at Milan for early and medium hybrids included in the County Standardized Testing program for 2009 and 2010. (There was an issue with our link to the 2010 data but that is fixed and all information should be accessible). In addition to sometimes improving yield, fungicides can keep the field greener later and help with standability which may be beneficial for difficult to get to areas that have to wait on a combine.

Tassels emerge approximately 60 days after planting. Silks emerge soon after and fungicide should be applied as early into silking as practical. A higher water volume with aerial applications is preferred and Dr. Newman recommends including a spreader/sticker with his sprays. We do not get strong yield responses with all hybrids. Some hybrids do not yield enough extra corn to even pay for the cost of the treatment. Response varies with susceptibility to disease, disease pressure and other factors that are not well understood. Agventure R7938, Dairyland 7313, Dekalb DKC 62-97, DynaGro 57V40, Mycogen 2V732 and Wyffels W6871 were the early hybrids with close to 8+ bushels response to a Quilt Excel treatment in a dryland field with last year's heat and lower moisture environment. Medium hybrids responded less as a group compared to the early maturity hybrids. AgVenture RL8042, Dairyland 7214Q, DynaGro V5683, NK N77P-3000GT, and Wyffels W8681 were the better responders in that group in 2010.

Fungicide response data for other hybrids can be found at utcropl.com under corn disease information.

Teen Facebook Depression

Researchers have coined a new term. . . 'Facebook Depression.' The American Academy of Pediatrics issued a clinical report on the impact of social media use on children, adolescents and families. It urges parents to work on their teens so that they can understand this new technology and relate to teens' online challenges.

When teens were asked about their online world, their responses were very interesting. "It's real but it's not real life. And that's what people don't understand. The pictures are real, the messages are real, but it's not real life," says Ellen, 19.

"It's like a big popularity contest - who can get the most friend requests or get the most pictures tagged," says Gaby, age 18. If a teen really doesn't have that many friends and doesn't really do much with their life, and then they see other peoples' status updates and pictures and what they were doing with friends, you can see how they might get depressed. Also, teens say that it's common for some teens to post snotty or judgmental messages on the Facebook walls of people they don't like. This type of personal attack could certainly make them feel depressed.

It can be painful sitting alone in a crowded school cafeteria or other real-life encounters that can make kids feel down, but on Facebook there is a skewed view of what's really going on. Online, there's no way to see facial expressions or read body language that provide context. On Facebook, anybody can look happy and popular - an online world in which competition and adoration seems to reign supreme.

"It's an inflated view of yourself. You think you're better than you are, you think you're superior to other people, you feel special, you lack real empathetic relationships. You can have lots of shallow relationships, but you don't have the empathy or caring that makes positive long-term relationships," says Keith Campbell, Ph.D., professor at the University of Georgia.

The American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines on social media encourage families to talk about specific issues like cyberbullying, sexting and managing time online. They also suggested the families develop a family online use plan, with an emphasis on citizenship, healthy behavior and what constitutes real friendship.

Researchers disagree on whether it's simply an extension of depression some kids feel in other circumstances, or a distinct condition linked with using the online site. But there are unique aspects of Facebook that can make it a particularly tough social landscape to navigate for kids already dealing with poor self-esteem. With in-yourface friends' tallies, status updates and photos of happy-looking people having great times, Facebook pages can make some kids feel even worse if they think they don't measure up.

Facebook is where all the teens are hanging out now. It's their corner store. Parents shouldn't get the idea that using Facebook "is going to somehow infect their kids with depression." Researchers have noted that the benefits to kids using social media sites like Facebook shouldn't be overlooked, such as connecting with friends and family, sharing pictures and exchanging ideas. However, it is important that parents talk with their kids about online use and be aware of Facebook depression, cyberbullying, sexting and other online risks.

Cannon Jobless Rate Tops 10%

The unemployment rate in Cannon County rose above the 10 percent mark in June, according to the latest statistics from the Tennessee Department of Labor & Workforce Development.

Cannon's jobless rate in June was 10.2 percent, up from 9.7 percent in May. By comparison, the rate in June of 2010 was 9.4 percent, indicating the jobless picture has worsened over the last year.

Cannon County had a labor workforce of 6,840 in June, state statistics show, with 6,140 employed, leaving 700 jobless.

Statewide, county non-seasonally adjusted unemployment rates for June 2011, released today show that the rate increased in 91 counties. The four counties that decreased were DeKalb, Hawkins, Moore and Smith.

Tennessee's seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate for June was 9.8 percent, up slightly from the May revised rate of 9.7. The national unemployment rate for June 2011 was 9.2 percent, up from the May revised rate of 9.1 percent.

Lincoln County registered the state's lowest county unemployment rate at 6.8 percent, up from the May rate of 6.1 percent, followed by Williamson County at 7.2 percent, up from 6.6 percent. Scott County had the state's highest unemployment rate at 20.9 percent, up from 20.7 percent in the previous month, followed by Lauderdale County at 15.7 percent, up from 14.9 percent in May.

Three Cannon Boys Attend Boys State

The American Legion Post #279 in Woodbury, Tennessee for the first time sent three boys to Boys State at Tennessee Tech in Cookeville.

The three boys who attended are Tyler Stone, son of Butch and Greta Stone; Brock Francis, son of Bryan Francis and Francine Mullins; and Matthew Turney, son of Darrell and Susan Turney.

The boys were sponsored by the Woodbury Lions Club, the Veterans and Concerned Citizens for the Veterans of Cannon County, and the Hilton Stone American Legion Post #279.

Charlie Harrell, the Boys State Project Director for the American Legion Post #279, said that he hopes to be able to send more boys next year.

If you as an individual or as a business owner would like to sponsor a boy to go to Boys State 2012 contact Charlie Harrell or Jim Stone to get the details. The cost for 2012 will be $300.00 for each boy for the entire week at TTU.

This is a great opportunity for a boy to attend, and is a great way to get some good advertisement for you or your business. The more good things we do for our kids, the better we make our community and this wonderful country.

The program gives the boys an in depth knowledge and hands on experience about our Tennessee State Government.

Charlie Harrell attended Boys State in 1950 when it was held at Castle Heights Academy in Lebanon. It has been conducted at TTU for the past 42 years.

Tennessee's Boys State Program is rated as one of the best in the United States. Charley Stone attended in 1962. Boys State acts as spring board for our men to go on to bigger and better things.

"Cannon County has sent many boys to Boys State over the years," Post #279 Chaplain Jim Stone said. "For those I have spoken with that attended Boys State, they all give the program high marks and say that the program had a positive affect on their lives."

Reed Attends Girls State

Lindsey Jordan Reed, an upcoming senior at Cannon County High School, recently attended the Volunteer Girls State leadership program at David Lipscomb University in Nashville.

Volunteer Girls State (VGS) is a leadership and citizenship-training program offered to young women in Tennessee by the American Legion Auxiliary (ALA). It is a one-week program offered to rising seniors in high school.

The mission of Volunteer Girls State is to provide a practical application of Americanism and good citizenship. The program, as sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, is a nonpartisan, non-political attempt to teach and to instill in the young women of Tennessee a love of God and country.

Lindsey was sponsored by American Legion Post 279 in Woodbury, and the faculty at CCHS selected Lindsey to represent Cannon County.

Nationally recognized as one of the top Girls State programs in the nation, Volunteer Girls State provides young women the opportunity to form and run a mock government by meeting, living, and working with other young female leaders from across the state.

All events and activities that citizens experience or participate in are designed to provide opportunities to practice good citizenship and leadership and instill a sense of pride in our state and country.

Lindsey had a memorable and exciting experience at Girls

State. She learned much about leadership and made many new friends from all over the state.

There were also a few memorable highlights from the week: During one of the sessions, Governor Bill Haslam, along with First Lady Crissy Haslam, spoke to the Girls State citizens and later answered questions from some of the students in the audience.

Also, the Tennessee Supreme Court heard arguments during one of the sessions on an on-going case that could change the way alimony is awarded in the Volunteer State. The case involves a bitter divorce in which the wife was awarded lifetime alimony in the divorce settlement.

Bringing the court proceedings to the Lipscomb campus during Girls State was part of a Tennessee Supreme Court educational program that teaches students how the court system works. The knowledge Lindsey received during the sessions and activities at Girls State provided invaluable leadership tools that will be used for a lifetime.

Lindsey truly appreciates the support of the American Legion Post 279 and the faculty at CCHS for making this opportunity available to her.

Lindsey resides in the Short Mountain community. She is the daughter of Ricky and Greta Reed and the granddaughter of David and Linda Parton of Short Mountain and Jerry and Betty Reed of Iconium.

It is not unusual to find a woman on a tractor in the South and especially here in Cannon County by no-means. You can see them on their green John Deere's or the red Massey Ferguson and maroon Farm-all; you also might see them on a red belly Ford or a gray Ford 8N, but I bet it would be far and between to see a PINK tractor.

This Pink 'Floyd' Rocks Too

BOB STOETZEL
Courier Contributor

Meet Carole Johanson of the Braxton Community where her farm house is on land that used to be a part of Tamarack Acres between the horse barn and Braxton Farms. Carole has lived all over the United States and says that Cannon County is a place she wants to stay. Carole maintains her mini farm for hay.

I first met this woman when I joined the American Legion Post #279 here in Woodbury. She was a member of the Legion from another state and had come to have her membership joined with that of the Post here. I found her to be a straightforward person who had served her country in the Army Nurse Corps from 1967 to 1970 during the Vietnam War. I found her to be very approachable. In short, I liked her.

Her husband, Joe Foy, and she were married 21 years ago; Joe died last year here in Cannon County. Carole has a sister who lives in Spokane, Washington. Her dad was a County Agricultural Agent and Carole says, "I think he would have liked my pink tractor! My mother, also a nurse, would have just thought I was crazy, as usual."

Carole has friends up in Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia at the Office of Planned Giving who had heard from her about this pink tractor and wanted her to send them pictures of her tractor. "They all think it is a hoot," said Carole.

When I heard about the pink tractor I thought I would like to see it for myself. It is a neat tractor, and it is a genuine Ford tractor made in Spain. On the front of this pink tractor is the name "Floyd." The name is written with the same kind of script that the Ford Motor Company uses on all their products.

Before I knew about her husband passing I asked her if her husband's name was Floyd and she said no. Why the name Floyd I asked her? She then asked me how old I was and I told her I was 61 and she said, "Surely you are old enough to have heard of Pink Floyd." We had a good laugh about that. (Pink Floyd was a 1970 and '80's hard rock music group.)

I asked her why she would have painted her tractor pink and she told me there were two reasons for this color. First, her favorite color is pink, and secondly she wanted to protect it from being stolen. What? Stolen I asked and she informed me she had a very nice trailer that had a hydraulic lift and dump system on it and someone actually backed up to her storage area and stole it. She told me that she replaced her trailer and it will now be painted hot pink like the tractor.

"If anyone is seen pulling that trailer behind their truck everyone will know it's been stolen from me," she said. She has let two friends borrow her dump trailer in the past, but she says "when I paint it pink they probably won't want to borrow it anymore."

As you can see in the picture Carole is also wearing pink overalls which she made herself. She actually makes almost all of her clothes, and she is also a woodworker with her shop being located in her basement; something, she says, is a great hobby. She has made several pieces of furniture and cabinets for her own house.

Carole belongs to two donor societies in Williamsburg, Virginia. "Joe and I always attended those annual meetings in period correct costumes that I hand-made," Carole adds.

The tractor is now nestled between a front end loader and a 6' finish lawn mower, both of which get used a lot. "Pink Floyd is not just Pretty Boy Floyd; he works," says Carole.

If you are out on the road and you see a pink dump trailer being pulled, pay attention and see if she is driving it; if not call the Sheriff, I know she would appreciate you.

14 Roads Rezoned From WGS To WSS

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

The Cannon County Board of Education voted to rezone 14 roads currently in the Woodbury Grammar zone into the West Side School district during the completion of a recessed meeting Thursday.

The vote followed a public hearing where citizens were given an opportunity to voice their concerns, ask questions and be educated on reasons for the rezoning. There was no opposition to the changes.

Board member Cathy Hyatt made the motion for the rezoning and waiver, which would allow students currently attending the out-of-zone school to remain there if they desire. Mike Mayfield seconded and the vote passed 3-0. Board member Shannon Davenport excused herself from the vote and Chris Blackburn was on vacation.

"I did not vote because it involved my children and the road (where I live)," Davenport said. "For that reason I felt like I should not vote on this issue."

Re-zoning will take roads currently zoned to Woodbury Grammar and move them into the West Side district. Students currently enrolled in Woodbury Grammar will have the option of remaining at the school.

Roads or lanes to be re-zoned into the West Side School district include: Old Hwy. 70 to the cemetery (west side); Lonesome Dove, Genia's Circle, Riverview, Jill Lane, Mockingbird Lane, Hoover Mill, Ralexi Lane, Bush Haven, Hollis Creek North, Dickens Hill to Frank Holt Road from Bradyville, Frank Holt Road and Riverbend.

Prior to 1990 most of these roads were zoned for West Side; but due to overcrowding issues at West Side, the zone was changed to incorporate these roads into the Woodbury Grammar School zone. In an effort to equalize school zones, the Board rezoned these roads to the West Side School zone.

The families of these seven students received hand-delivered letters Monday to inform them of the hearing and the potential re-zoning, Parker said. The re-zoning will also make bus transportation safer for children on Dickens Hill Road.

Students on Dickens Hill Road currently walk down the street to catch the bus; however, the new zoning would have the bus come in front of their homes and pick students up at their driveway instead of having them walk.

The West Side district was the first to be rezoned because it was the easiest to re-route and involved the fewest number of students entering the current school year.
