Sunday beer sales fail

But issue remains alive pending state ABC action

County Commissioner Jim Bush, left, pushes for passage of Sunday beer sales during Thursday night's meeting. Glenn Steakley, right, was among the majority voting against the measure.

Discussion over beer sales on Sunday became sharply divided as County Commissioners delved into the ramifications of the August vote to allow liquor by the drink in Cannon County.

The citizens of Cannon County voted in favor of allowing liquor by the drink during August's General Election. While, no one has applied for a license yet, it is believed at least one restaurant will soon make that move to seek permission from the Tennessee Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC).

Rob Womack of Parsley's Market attended the Thursday night (Feb. 5) meeting with a request.

"We've been here several times to try to get Sunday beer sales," Womack told the Commission. "Things have changed. The people have voted for Sunday alcohol sales."

New businesses will be coming soon in that feature Sunday beer and alcohol sales, he continued. The county needs to act immediately to allow existing Cannon County businesses to sell beer on Sunday.

"Because of that referendum, its gonna take action from this board to allow sale of beer on Sunday," said Womack, who added that his information came from the ABC.

"Rob, are you sure that businesses outside the town of Woodbury will be allowed to sell liquor by the drink," asked Commissioner Mark Barker. "If someone decided to put a restaurant across that lot from you, would they be allowed to serve alcohol on any day of the week?"

Womack said, "from mine own knowledge" that will soon be possible. "That would put us at a distinct competitive disadvantage."

County Executive Mike Gannon said currently the issue is very unclear. "It's a complicated mess."

However, both CTAS and MTAS are both researching the situation for Cannon County and Woodbury, he said.

Nichols named Clerk & Master effective Feb. 13

To succeed Bill Bryson

Cannon County Clerk and Master Bill Bryson announced his retirement effective Feb. 13 with attorney Nathan Nichols selected to fill his spot.

Bryson was appointed to the position by retired Chancellor Robert E. Corlew III in 2010. Bryson has practiced law in Woodbury for many years, and served as the City's Attorney, among many other notable positions.

The appointment of a successor was made and announced by Chancellor Howard Wilson, after reviewing several qualified candidates. Fellow attorney and bar member, Nathan Nichols, was offered and has accepted the appointment.

Nichols currently serves as an assistant district attorney general for the 16th Judicial District, which includes Cannon and Ruth-ecutes major felonies and misdemeanors in Rutherford County Circuit Court. From 2001-2011, Nathan served Cannon County as a deputy circuit court clerk during the administrations of Robert H. "Hoppy" Davenport and Lynne Foster. As a deputy clerk, he assisted with the maintenance of court records, performed accounting duties, helped citizens utilizing the clerk's office and served as law clerk to Judge Susan Melton.

Nichols was elected to represent the First District on the Cannon County Commission from 2006-2010 and was the Republican Party's nominee for Circuit Court Judge in 2014. During his time as a commissioner, Nathan was a member of the law enforcement, recreation and ethics committees and participated in the crafting of Cannon County's yearly operating budget.

He received his J.D. from the Nashville School of Law and his Bachelor of Arts Degree from MTSU. Nathan is a member of the Church of Christ and resides in Cannon County.

Nichols will be sworn in by Chancellor Wilson on Friday, Feb. 13, 2015 at 4:30 p.m. at the Cannon County Courthouse.

"I want to thank Mr. Bryson for his many years of dedicated service to the citizens of Cannon County.

"I am also very pleased that Mr. Nichols has agreed to serve as Mr. Bryson's successor.

"Nathan brings a wealth of experience to the position of Clerk and Master having previously worked in the Cannon County Circuit Court Clerk's office and served as Assistant District Attorney General for the 16th Judicial district," Wilson said.

Ex-City Attorney seeks funds

MIKE WEST

Woodbury's Board of Mayor and Aldermen deferred action on a request by former City Attorney Dale Peterson to pay him $2,500 for coordinating the Fourth of July fireworks show.

Peterson, who was not in attendance at Tuesday's (Feb. 3) meeting, had contacted Mayor Harold Patrick about the possibility in January. Peterson had been disbarred for five years after pleading guilty to stealing more than $20,000 from Riverside Center.

The law firm of Mitchell and Mitchell was previously appointed by the board to replace Peterson.

The Board of Aldermen did approve two new town ordinances on first reading during the brief meeting.

The first, Ordinance No. 468, amends the zoning ordinance in Woodbury to include a definition of poultry production houses and to

The report showed that 122 out of 144 offenses were cleared by Woodbury Police during 2014. During that same period, the police department made 196 arrests with 175 of those committed by adult offenders and 21 by juveniles.

In Memory of Cocoa

February 14, 2001 - January 22, 2015

Cocoa Alexander was the love of his Daddy's life, Guy Alexander Jr. When Guy suffered a stroke on January 21, 2012, a neighbor was given custody of Cocoa. But Cocoa grieved for his Daddy, laying on the driveway watching his previous house and waiting for his Daddy to come back for him.

Cocoa's big brother, Bo Alexander, called me and asked if I would take Cocoa and for the next three years, Cocoa lived in the Stoetzel home. He was a source of constant fun and love and I was honored to provide him with a loving home. He enjoyed riding the motorcycle with Bob who loved him so much.

He was taken to the vet on Tuesday, January 21 for an xray of his leg. He had been previously treated a month earlier for gallbladder issues and pancreatitis. Sadly Dr. Jordan found a suspicious spot on his lung. He was referred to Murfreesboro on Wednesday where a doctor found five tumors in his liver, metastasized to his lungs and also his brain. Cancer...

Cocoa was greeted at Heaven's door Thursday morning by his Daddy Guy after a very long and physically painful night.

Cocoa was the door greeter for the Cannon Courier for the past three years where he slept in his "Dora Explorer" bed.

Sadly missed by so many loved ones.

Love,
Mama Teresa, Bo, Shelly,

Charlie Mitchell now pitching in a higher league

Words of Wisdom
DAN WHITTLE

Writer's Note: Brothers Charlie and John Mitchell achieved boyhood dreams of pitching in the Major Leagues. Both, now retired at ages 52 and 49 respectively, share Jesus Christ and their baseball experiences to youth locally and around the globe as part of their faith.

In America's professional ranks, Charlie Mitchell ascended to the game's highest level ... the Major Leagues.

However, the former Red Sox ball player says he now "pitches in a higher league," as he uses baseball to reach youth on behalf of Christianity.

"I volunteer as a coach for little guys on travel teams in the summers. We've taken young players from Rutherford County to play in Brooklyn, N.Y. and in some small Mayan villages in Mexico," Charlie pitched about his spirituality for youth. "I also serve as a paid coach for Stewart Creek High School's baseball team, and I formerly coached at La Vergne High School."

Inclement weather caused cancellation of an indoor workout for Stewart Creek pitchers this past weekend.

When the lanky (6 feet, three inch) red-head walks into Smyrna's Life Point Church, he serves as a magnet to youth and adults alike.

"I'm a sophomore in-fielder and pitcher at Stewart Creek High," testified 15-year-old Life Point member Gresham Mosley. "It's pretty cool having a former Major League pitcher helping coach our team."

"Everyone takes notice when big, long and tall Charlie walks into the building," confirmed church adult volunteer David Bass. "He and his wife Gina are devoted church members, especially on behalf of youth."

"I played an old timer's game back at Columbia State with Charlie," added Life Point member Ben Amick. "Charlie, a modest soft-spoken man, is amazing and funny when he opens up at the podium. Which makes him a great spokesman to youth."

As a child back in the Nashville Pee Wee Leagues, Charlie realized he had a love for the game that was coached by his late father, Robert Mitchell, who came from East Tennessee to live in Middle Tennessee when stationed at old Sewart Air Force Base in Smyrna.

The former Major League-playing brothers' mother, Reba Horner Mitchell Brown, also was supportive of their ball playing.

Pitching a baseball was a physical gift that took Charlie first to college, and ultimately, to the fabled Boston Red Sox professional Major League organization.

"I was a starting pitcher at Columbia State," Charlie shared.

But, he didn't have blazing speed on his pitches.

"I relied on a lot of ball movement," Charlie tossed back in time. "I had a sinker, slider and change-up."

Despite not have a blazing fastball, a famous scout for the Red Sox signed Charlie to a professional contract, after witnessing him get batters out at nearby Columbia State.

"It was before radar guns were invented, because scout George Digby told me he never used one in scouting me or any other prospects for the Red Sox," Smyrna resident Charlie recalls. "Apparently he did OK without modern equipment, for today, (the late) Mr. Digby is in baseball's Hall of Fame for scouting."

That same scout later signed younger brother John to a Red Sox contract.

Although the Red Sox signed him, that was not Charlie's "chosen team" as a child.

"I grew up playing baseball like it was a normal part of life," Charlie accounts. "That's just what you did. The Braves were my favorite team, and Hank Aaron was my favorite player. Phil (knuckle ball thrower) Niekro was my favorite pitcher.

"Every time I played baseball in my backyard against a brick wall, I acted like I was on the Braves," Charlie recalled. "I would be every Braves' player in the lineup."

His pitching at Nashville's Overton High School was good enough to earn a scholarship at Columbia State Junior College.

"That got me to the college level, which in turn, got the attention of professional scouts," Charlie noted.

After signing a pro contract in 1982, Charlie's "ball movement" helped him rise fast through the ranks of the minor leagues.

"Before I was called up in 1984, I had evolved into the 'stopper' in relief for the Sox at the AAA level," Charlie added.

The years' he pitched for the Nashville Sounds were among his most enjoyable in the pro ranks.

"(Wife) Gina and I had started our family ... being close to home with the Sounds, meant, when not traveling, I could help change diapers at home before going to Nashville's Greer Stadium to pitch a baseball," Charlie accounted. "Travel is tough for a pro baseball player, especially for married family men."

Since meeting on a "blind date," Gina and Charlie have three adult children, Ross, Reed and Emily. But, they didn't stop there ...

"They're our grown biological children," Charlie added. "We're blessed to have adopted little guys, Nate, 7, and Abe, 6, who are little brothers from Ethiopia."

Although the love for baseball was enjoyable as he reached maturity, there was "something missing," Charlie assessed.

"I was living my dream, and had always gone to church," Charlie accounted. "But when someone would ask me about relationship with God, I'd just say 'I'm a Methodist.' Mom and Dad always made certain we attended church."

After entering the pro ranks, Charlie began attending team chapel services.

He got "spiritual relief" in of all places possible ... the bullpen where relief pitchers sit and warm up before being called into the game.

"After going to chapel with teammates, that was the day I stood in the bullpen, and accepted Christ as my savior," Charlie confirmed.

And he's been "pitching for Christ" ever since, literally and figuratively.

"As part of giving back, I help coach young players, helping them understand that being an athlete, like any talent and blessing, is a gift from God," Charlie confirmed.

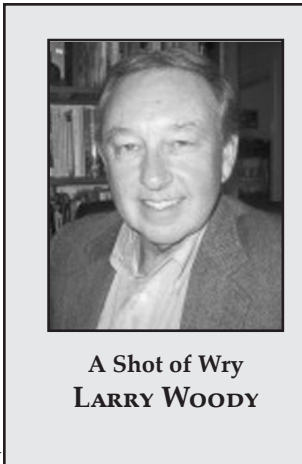

They attend New Vision Baptist Church in Murfreesboro as part of the family's faith walk.

Guest Columnist Recent blizzard results in Yeti, sighting

A Shot of Wry
LARRY WOODY

During the recent northeast blizzard, there was a reported sighting of a Yeti -- better known as Sasquatch or Bigfoot. The witness said the hulking creature was covered in scruffy hair, smelled to high heaven, and was "totally gross." Turned out he had spotted Michael Moore, not a Yeti.

I'm kidding. Michael Moore is not nearly that attractive.

As I read the Yeti-sighting account, I was reminded of a story I wrote several years ago for a national magazine about Bigfoot sightings in the Southeast.

The first challenge I faced was deciding what is the plural of "Bigfoot."

Did the witness encounter two "Bigfoots" or did she see two "Bigfeet?"

I finally got around the problem this way:

"Mrs. Inez Dooterwad said she looked out in her backyard one night and saw a Bigfoot standing in the moonlight. She looked again and shouted to her husband, 'Lordy, there's two of them!'

North America Bigfoot sightings go all the way back to the Native Americans, who had no motive to make it up just to get interviewed by Geraldo. More currently, there is a weekly program on the Animal Planet cable station called "Finding Bigfoot." It is devoted entirely to, well, finding Bigfoot.

It's been on for about a year, and so far they haven't found one.

The show consists of "researchers" going out into the woods at night and wandering around with spooky lighting, an idea stolen from The Blair Witch Project. They carry highly sensitive sound-detection equipment that can pick up a cricket sneezing in the next county. Every once in awhile they hear something.

BOB: "Did you hear that?"

JANET: "Yes! It sounded like a Bigfoot howling!"

DAN: "It was definitely a Bigfoot!"

RALPH: "Oops, sorry -- it was just me. I stepped in a hole."

While doing research for the magazine story I interviewed several alleged eye-witnesses, but I'm not convinced there is such a thing as a Bigfoot. It think it's probably a myth, spawned by shadowy sightings of bears, cows or Rush Limbaugh.

The lady who claimed to have seen two Bigfeet, for example, showed me exactly where they were standing in her backyard. They were right beside the flower bed where the flying saucer had landed earlier.

Other witnesses were more credible. A deer hunter said a Bigfoot walked under his tree stand one morning, "so close that I could have reached down and patted it on the head." If he had felt like it. Which he didn't.

Wildlife biologists insist there is no such creature as Bigfoot. No physical evidence has ever been found, such as hair, poo or cigar butts with Bigfoot DNA. Plaster imprints of giant footprints have been procured, most of which turned out to have been made by LeBron James.

Skeptics contend if a Bigfoot actually existed, he would have already been signed by the World Wrestling Federation.

However, if you see one (hypothetically speaking), don't mess with it. Mythical or not, Bigfoot is a protected species, like Queen Elizabeth. Remain calm, lock your doors, and -- keeping a close eye on the shaggy, malodorous brute -- call Geraldo.

Chances are it's only Michael Moore, but you never know ...

The witness said the hulking creature was covered in scruffy hair, smelled to high heaven, and was "totally gross."

Turned out he had spotted Michael Moore, not a Yeti.

Appalachian Center to open spring series

Tennessee Tech University's Appalachian Center for Craft will start its spring Second Saturday series on Valentine's Day.

Jewelry-making demonstrations, workshops for children and adults and discounts in the Goldenrod Gallery will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Feb. 14.

"We have a beautiful array of handmade gift items in the Goldenrod Gallery," said Jenn Cole, gallery manager. "Visitors will be able to find perfect gifts for their Valentines."

All jewelry will be 20 percent off from Feb. 8-14 and, in honor of National Heart Health Awareness Month, all items in the retail gallery featuring hearts will be 20 percent off all month.

Local artists Kip Knip, of Monterey, and Susan Thornton, of Watertown, will offer fine jewelry-making demonstrations during Valentine's Day in the retail gallery.

"We really appreciate local artists like Kip and Susan. We love showcasing their meticulously crafted jewelry," Cole said. "They are so talented and are always willing to demonstrate their creative process.

"We have a fantastic selection of jewelry for men and women, including necklaces, earrings, cuff links, tie tacks and more."

During Second Saturday, children ages five and older can try their hands at jewelry making from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. during free Craft Academy workshops. They will be able to learn about and use sgraffito techniques on metal, which are inspired by Jim Bove's exhibition of fine jewelry at the Craft Center.

Adults will be able to participate in a one-day 3-D printing and fiber basket making workshops. No experience is necessary and all materials and lunch at the Craft Cafe are included in the $75 fee. Pre-registration is required.

The café will serve baked goods, soups, salads, sandwiches and specials throughout the day.

Visit tntech.edu/craftcenter or call (931) 372-3051 for more information or to register.

The Center for Craft is located approximately six miles from Interstate 40 at exit 273, Smithville/McMinnville. Go south on state Route 56; turn left immediately after crossing Hurricane Bridge. This drive leads to the Center for Craft.

Mobile home fires among deadliest in TN

Manufactured houses are the scenes of relatively few fires every year in Tennessee, but those fires are among the deadliest, causing a disproportionate number of fire-related deaths.

Tennessee State Fire Marshal's Office officials are urging residents of manufactured homes – also known as mobile homes or trailers – to practice fire safety all year round. Currently, Tennessee has more than 250,000 manufactured homes.

According to the Tennessee Fire Incident Reporting System (TFIRS), fire departments responded to 1,969 fires in manufactured homes during 2009-2013. Those fires killed 64, injured 71 civilians and caused $32.9 million in direct property damage. While manufactured housing accounted for only 5.25 percent of all total structure fires during that period, fires in manufactured housing caused 14.58 percent of all structure fire deaths.

"Fires move quicker in smaller spaces, leaving occupants with less time to escape. This is why it is crucial to have working smoke alarms installed in all homes," said Tennessee Commerce and Insurance Commissioner Julie Mix McPeak. "Be prepared and have a plan of escape. And make sure you have working smoke alarms in your home."

If you're buying or renting a manufactured home, make sure you keep fire safety in mind. By following a few tips and knowing the facts and safety requirements for manufactured homes, you can help keep your family safe.

Safety Tips

· Choose a manufactured home built after June 15, 1976, that has the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

(HUD) label certifying that the home meets the minimum safety standards.

· Keep gasoline, charcoal lighter and other flammable liquids locked in an outdoor shed. Never store items under your manufactured home. Store firewood away from the home.

· Install skirting material to keep leaves and other debris and combustible items from blowing under your manufactured home where it could easily catch fire and spread into the home.

· Be sure your manufactured home has enough smoke alarms. If your home does not have smoke alarms in or near every sleeping room and in or near the family/living area(s), immediately install new alarms and fresh batteries to protect these rooms.

· For the best protection, interconnect all smoke alarms throughout the home. When one sounds, they all sound.

· Have a home fire escape plan that includes two ways out of every room and an outside meeting place. Make sure all ways out of the home are cleared of clutter and easy to use. Practice your fire escape plan with every member of the household at least twice a year.

· If smoke alarms sound often when cooking, consider moving the alarm further from the kitchen area or install a photoelectric type alarm which is less sensitive to cooking.

· If your smoke alarm is older than 10 years, replace it, as its lifespan has been exceeded.

· Stay in the kitchen while you are frying, grilling or broiling food. If you leave the kitchen for even a short period of time, turn off the stove.

· Consider having a licensed electrician inspect the electrical system in your manufactured home to be sure it is safe and meets applicable National Electrical Code® requirements.

· Never add too many plugs to outlets, extension cords or electrical circuits. If the circuit breaker trips or fuses blow, call a licensed electrician to check your system.

· Have smokers smoke outside the home. Provide large, non-tip ashtrays and empty them frequently. Douse butts with water before throwing them away.

· Do not smoke in bed or in a chair in which you are prone to fall asleep.

· Keep space heaters and candles at least three feet away from anything that can burn. Turn off portable space heaters and blow out candles before falling asleep or when leaving a room.

· When considering a new manufactured home, ask if residential sprinklers are available as an option.

For additional information on manufactured homes, contact the Tennessee Housing Association at 615-256-4733.

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

Remembering good advice from Mother

During a recent visit to the local grocery store, I heard a young mother give her toddler some advice that I had not heard since my children were small. It was the same advice that mothers have been using since Eve had to deal with Cain and Abel, and it is just as important today as it has been through the ages.

With all toddlers, anything that they may find that is not tied down will sooner or later end up in their mouths. This little guy I was watching was no different, and as he prepared to put a discarded grape in his mouth his mother immediately gave that age-old advice, "Don't put that in your mouth, you don't know where it has been."

Those words spoken by a true mother echoed in my ears and brought back the memories of my own mother telling me the same thing many years ago. Just like the rest of you who heard those words of advice as you grew up (as well as the threat that went along with it and all of you also know what I mean) they still are a part of our conscience as adults.

After seeing the child hand the grape to his mother and she discarded it, I proceeded to check out the meat counter and as I picked up a pound of lean ground beef I noticed the words "Product of the USA" printed on the label. Looking down at that imprint I wondered to myself if we really do question everything we put in our mouths as our mothers taught us. Do you ever wonder just exactly where the food you are eating was produced or where it came from? Did that T-bone steak you enjoyed so much last night come from Tennessee, California or even originate in the USA?

I know we spend a lot of time expressing our "true" feelings about those officials up in Washington D.C., but thanks to our U.S. Congress, back in October of 2008, the country-of-origin information started appearing on meat product labels or on signs in the meat department to indicate the country or countries where an animal may have been born, raised and processed. The Country of Origin Labeling program, known to many as COOL, got its early beginning in 2002 after consumer groups approached Congress demanding its implementation. They presented numerous surveys proving their point that most of us want to know where our food comes from, just as our mothers have always insisted upon after we had already put something disgusting in our mouths. Their surveys at that time said that 56 percent of consumers thought that produce grown in the United States is safer than imported produce. They also said if price and appearance were equal, 61 percent of consumers would select U.S.-grown meat. Over the years, their thoughts have been somewhat true and today more individuals are hanging around the counter reading labels looking to see where their cows have been spending their time.

When COOL was first implemented, I did spend a lot of time checking my meat purchases making those early surveys come true. If you did also and continue to do so, then you have also noticed something else about the COOL labeling. That is, that some labels list more than one country. I have noticed in some stores that you will see a label that says, "Product of the U.S., Canada and Mexico." With a label like that you have to wonder if maybe that ground chuck you are about to consume had been created by three cows at an international rally or something.

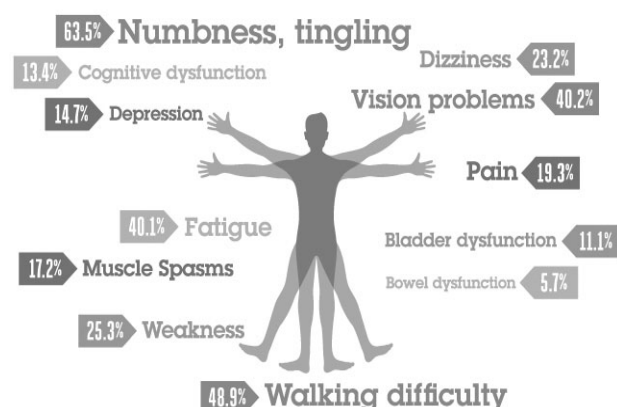

But, there is a simple answer. A label with multiple countries of origin listed is from an animal that was born and/or raised in a different country or countries and then slaughtered in the U.S. Covered commodities in this category would have to identify all the relevant countries. Not often, but there are times when young cattle are imported from Mexico or Canada and are subsequently raised and processed in the U.S. For a meat product to have the label "Product of the United States" it has to be derived "exclusively from an animal that is exclusively born, raised and slaughtered in the United States." Meaning that the animal had to be a homebody and never been anywhere else but here.

Today, after additional laws in 2013 under COOL, USDA reports that retailers must provide their customers with information about the origin of various food products, including fruits, vegetables, fish and shellfish and meats. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service is responsible for the implementation and enforcement of the COOL regulation.

Good advice like what your mama gave you is always important to remember and it looks like the American consumers are getting what they wanted from their policymakers. But, many mamas have also told their children there is no such thing as a free lunch. That is something to also remember, when you ask the U.S. government for something.

Improvement in quality of life with multiple sclerosis from chiropractic care rays. It was determined that spinal subluxations were present and chiropractic care was begun.

After the first visit, the woman reported immediate improvement in a number of her symptoms. At the one-month mark, she reported that she had a "... 60% improvement in neck pain, clearer thinking, more alertness, more energy, a feeling of being more relaxed, better ease with standing, lifting, bending and driving, improvements in balance, more confidence and strength during gait, more ease in falling asleep and improved quality of sleep, and more mobility and increased cervical ROM (range of motion)."

The researchers noted that one case study does not mean that all cases will respond with the same improvement. However, this case does add to the body of evidence provided by a prior larger study performed in 2004 showing the link between chiropractic and the improvement of MS. "A retrospective analysis of 44 patients with multiple sclerosis showed that 90% of these patients reported improvement of their symptoms while undergoing a five year course of IUCCA (a specific type of chiropractic adjustment), upper cervical care. Twenty-eight of these patients (70%) showed improvement with or absence of the majority of their symptoms. No further progression of the disease was reported by any of the 44 patients during the care period."

From the Annals of Vertebral Subluxation Research on December 11, 2014, comes a research case study documenting the improvement in the quality of life of a woman with Multiple Sclerosis (MS). The study reported on both the functional and symptomatic improvement noticed by this MS patient.

The study authors begin by explaining that, "Multiple sclerosis (MS) is a chronic inflammatory demyelinating disorder that affects the white matter of the brain, spinal cord, and optic nerves." They note that MS affects 250,000 to 350,000 people in the United States with a total of 2.5 million people worldwide.

Most cases of MS appear between the ages of 20 to 40, with those in their 30s being the most common decade for the problem to occur. Women are twice as likely to have MS, and many people relapse over time.

For the study rational the authors commented,

"Because MS is a neurologically-based disease and chiropractic deals with the function of the nervous system as it relates to the brain-body connection, investigation into the effects of chiropractic care on MS patients is appropriate."

In this case, a 36-year-old woman went to the chiropractor with a diagnosis of MS by her medical physician. She was suffering with a large variety of symptoms related to her MS including fatigue, difficulty sleeping, low back pain, mid back pain, neck pain, lack of mobility of the cervical spine, headaches, dizziness, loss of concentration, nervousness, tenseness, numbness in arms and feet, burning sensation in feet, irritability, and mood swings.

A chiropractic examination was conducted which included palpation, range of motion, thermal scans, surface EMG scans, and spinal x-making a significant impact on those that are the best fit for the Bonnaroo Works Fund." Established in 2009, BWF supports arts, education and environmental nonprofit organizations at the local, regional and national level with an emphasis on local reinvestment. Since the inception of Bonnaroo, more than $7 million has been awarded to worthy causes.

Two dollars from every Bonnaroo ticket supports BWF. The fund is also bolstered by 100 percent of the entry fees from the Bonnaroo 5K Run, the Soundwaves initiative, and proceeds from silent auctions held throughout the year. Bonnaroo supporters also contribute online and volunteer their time for special projects before and after the festival.

Bonnaroo Works Fund is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization and a component of The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee (www.cfmt.org), a Tennessee-based community foundation working to bring good people and good causes together by ensuring the excellent stewardship of lasting charitable funds and the wise investment of grants.

Flu Shots Available Cannon County Health Department

Flu season is here, with seasonal influenza cases now reported across Tennessee. The Cannon County Health Department is working to protect the entire community by providing free flu vaccinations to area residents until vaccine supplies are depleted. Appointments must be made to receive flu vaccine, and are now being scheduled at the clinic.

"Vaccination is the best protection against the flu, and the Cannon County Health Department, the Tennessee Department of Health and the CDC recommend that everyone six months of age and older get a flu vaccine every year," said Andrea Fox, Health Department County Director. "It takes about two weeks to be protected after you get the flu vaccine, so we want everyone who hasn't had their flu shot to get one right away." Flu shots will be provided at no charge to patients. Both adults and children may receive flu vaccine at the clinic. Please call the Cannon County Health Department at (615-563-4243) today to book your appointment. The clinic is located at 301 West Main Street, Woodbury and open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

News from the Mountain

BY CAROL GUNTER

February here and hopefully it won't be too bad a month. Getting closer to spring for sure now and I'm looking for the warmer days looming on the horizon and enjoying being out on our patio again.

Friend, Donna Lawson, called on Friday. Delightful chit-chat with her and I thoroughly enjoyed that. Keep Donna in prayer.

Rain coming in tomorrow and there might be an inch of it in some places. I feel like we have had enough rain already, but will just have to take whatever comes our way.

Turkeys of the feathered kind I haven't seen this week nor still no deer spotted up in the fields toward the mountain behind our house.

Peggy/ our diva from New Hampshire called on Thursday and happy to report she's doing really fine. She's the cousin with the flair for dressing up with such style and class. She said they had three feet of snow there and asked did I want some of it. I told her without any hesitation I would just pass on it for now. Ruth/the boss on the sick list so do keep her in prayer. The trooper/ Shirley needing your prayers too.

Other people to uplift in prayer: Jeff Brown, Edith Miller, Bernie Braswell, Carlon and Mai Nell Melton, and Denise Stanton.

February birthdays to let you know about: John Michael Pitts and Kelli Rowland 5th, our grandson, Chandler Johnson, and Alene Ferrell 7th, A.J. Neal 10th, our daughter, Kristie Johnson, 11th, Walter Ferrell 12th, Jared Fults 15th, Hunter Underwood 16th, and Betty Barnes 22nd.

Wish I had written down all the wild and funny stories Aubrey told me over the years. They were priceless and were told in a way that only Aubrey could tell them. Will have to adlib some of this story so hold on! I can remember probably happening in the 60's parts of a story about tomatoes and maybe apples being thrown at this man at his residence, when he came out on the front porch to confront some teenage boys who didn't like him and evidently didn't have anything constructive to do with their time other than to aggravate this man. The boys having a field day laughing, hollering, and throwing the tomatoes. Believe they were in the corn field when the tomatoes finally hit their target. The guy must have called the law when he went back into his house to get his shotgun, as in no time the law got there. The boys were scrambling to run for the hills when they saw the law coming with some getting into a barb wire fence. That might have been payback for them harassing the man. In the round a headlight shot out of the officer's car. Don't know who shot it out. It would be anyone's guess as to who done it. As you can see, mischievous happening were going on way back then too. That most likely called a halt for those boys to try that again as someone could have gotten hurt or killed. You know if the (so-called) little green men had showed up on the scene in that corn field that night with all of this going on, some of that bunch could have had a heart attack from the fright of seeing them. I only know of those little aliens being in a tobacco patch, but I don't imagine a corn field would be any different to them (if they really exist). Do you? They most likely have the run of any field they want and don't have to worry about me as this girl doesn't plan on disturbing them for any reason.

If you have any news for the column, just give me a call at (615) 563-4429. Have a great day!

Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time.

Trading Post Chat

BY SAVANNAH CUNNICK

Here we are, folks. Groundhog Day, and the day I am chatting with you. This year's groundhog is named Punxsutawney Phil. (Say that 3 times!) On one news broadcast they said he saw his shadow, so winter weather until May and the other newscast said he saw no shadow, so early spring. You know me, I say to heck with the predictions and take it as it comes! Blaming a groundhog for good or bad upcoming weather seems not only ludicrous but totally unfair to this little creature. I did come up with some interesting facts about our buddy Punxsutawney Phil that I want to share with you.

First of all, the groundhog is also known as the woodchuck, whistle-pig and land beaver. He is related to the squirrel and lives all over North America. Building burrows from eight to sixty-six feet. They construct numerous exits, levels and chambers within. Even separate rooms such as a bathroom, a hibernating burrow and then a summer home are dug out. That must be an amazing site, but not so amazing to the unfortunate farmers who can break their tractor's axle as they travel over these deep burrows. The love that the groundhogs share for the soybeans, corn and family garden threatens their likeability even more. All in all, the real purpose why the groundhog pops out of the ground when he does is to merely check if weather is warm enough to begin the mating season in March. In the cold air if he happens to see his own shadow, he fears it is a predator and pops back into his home and remains there for at least another month. And, that's the facts, folks!

Uncle Festus makes it a point to always give me a Happy Groundhog Day greeting card every year. I don't know where he finds such a card, but it makes me laugh and puts the dippidy-do in my doo-da! I am surprised that Festus springs for the cost of the card, because he is normally so tight he could squeeze a nickel till Jefferson's nose bleeds! Oh my gosh, we cannot forget the Super Bowl 49 results. What a game that was; terrific plays on both sides. I am a Sea Hawks fan; so am sad that they lost, but I am very proud how great they played and almost won that ring! Next year, boys. I mean to me football is as close to a Gladiator sport than anything. We have the arena, the warriors on both sides and helmets. The crowd is cheering for either side and watching Spartacus (quarterback) lead his team. The coaches rule over the slave gladiators and decide every play they make. The King is the owner of his team with thumb up or thumb down. Many are drinking the beloved "ale" and shouting their thoughts. Yep, sounds like the Roman arena to me.

If you were lucky enough to watch the Kitty Bowl before the game, you were lucky enough. Feline Football that featured their designated players: Fitzpatrick, Meeowingham, Purman and McPawson to name a few. What a purrformance! It was pawsome! Fitzpatrick's team won by a whisker! The Puppy Bowl was on next. Jimmy Kibble was the announcer. Field goal champs of the day were: Fiona, Fluff, Bowser, Freckles and Chicklets. Their Parrot cheerleaders said that it was really something to tweet about!

Hey, there is so much news out there I wanted to cover but will have to wait till next week.

The Short Mountain Trading Post is still gearing up for this spring. Keep watching my column for updates. If you have any questions or comments please contact me at 615-464-7824. Any craftspeople or those wishing to be flea market participants let me know now, so you can reserve your space. Also, to those how are interested in getting rid of old furniture and items that you cannot use., please contact us. We have people who can clear it out for you, pick it up and haul it away. So many artists refurbish things and at many times find it hard to gather what they need to continue their work. Call me at number above if you can help them out. Thanks so much.

I am hoping all of you are staying well. My flu is clearing up, but three weeks of that stuff proves to be the biggest nasty I have encountered in quite awhile! I was out of it from antibiotics and Clyde didn't understand just what was happening to me. He wondered if I fell on my head or if I was hearing voices in the cornfield. (Sigh...) He tried to cheer me up by making me a pair of shoes out of bread. He called them Loafers!

I'll leave you on this note: the cost of gasoline is going down, the cost of food is going up, but it doesn't cost us anything to love each other. Chat with you next week, take care..

Hugs, Savannah

Smithville suspect charged in murder

COOKEVILLE – A joint investigative effort by the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation, the DeKalb County Sheriff's Department and the 13th District Attorney General's Office has resulted in the arrest of a Smithville man charged with the murder of his girlfriend.

At the request of 13th District Attorney General Bryant Dunaway, TBI Special Agents began investigating the death of 28-year-old Ashley Bain that occurred at 3870 Cookeville Highway on February 5th.

On that same day, Anthony Tyrone Crews called DeKalb County 911 to report he arrived at the home he shared with Ms. Bain and found his girlfriend unresponsive. During the course of the investigation, TBI Special Agents, working alongside detectives from the DeKalb County Sheriff's Department and the 13th District Attorney General's Office, developed information that led them to Crews as the individual responsible for the murder.

Thursday, Anthony Crews, 42, was arrested and charged with Second Degree Murder in the death of Ashley Bain. Crews was booked into the DeKalb County jail, where he is being held on a $250,000 bond.

Arts Center to feature ceramics

Susan DeMay and Donna Rizzo present an exhibit and sale of their ceramics in The Berger Gallery at the Arts Center of Cannon County from March 9 through April 30.

Their works not only incorporate the usual idea of pottery as a functional art form, but also the notion that clay works are expressive art works.

Each of these two artists brings to this medium a personal creative approach and each has a number of distinctive styles, though their works could hardly be considered of a branded nature. In fact, the pieces they selected for this exhibit are unique, one-of-a-kind works, rather than selections from a production line.

In exploring different techniques in their various creative works, the two artists partially incorporate traditional potters wheel components as part of their repertoire. But mostly in this show one will see hand-building methods, particularly slab constructions and hand-modeling.

The two explore color, different patterns, abstract ideas, and stories through such forms as platters, covered jars, trays, and pure sculpture. Both artists present joyful and sometimes whimsical messages, hoping to share their love of their work and their appreciation of each other.

Friends for years, they often share their ideas about art with each other and through this show they hope to enrich viewers in Woodbury.

The Berger Gallery is located inside The Arts Center of Cannon County and is open 10am-4pm Tuesday through Saturday. Admission to the exhibit is free.

Online driver's license info goes offline

The Tennessee Department of Safety and Homeland Security announced that online services offered by its Driver Services Division will not be available over the upcoming President's Day weekend to allow time to make improvements to the statewide driver license computer system.

Online driver services will not be available to citizens starting at 5 p.m. CST on Friday, Feb. 13. Online services will resume at 7 a.m. CST on Tuesday, Feb. 17. All state offices are closed on Monday, Feb. 16 for President's Day.

Online driver services not available during this interruption include the renewal of driver licenses, requesting duplicate driver licenses, requesting to make change of address, making reinstatement payments, ordering driver histories, taking practice driver license tests, and scheduling road test appointments.

Two customer service phone numbers will also be unavailable during that time: the toll-free customer service number at which citizens may receive automated driver license reinstatement and status information (866-903-7347), and the number to call to schedule non-commercial road tests (866-849-3548).

"We want to give citizens plenty of notice about the interruption in services. The stoppage is critical to making necessary improvements to the driver license computer system which is antiquated and in serious need of updating. This temporary online inconvenience will ultimately improve our customer service, both online and inside our driver services centers statewide," Commissioner Bill Gibbons said.

In addition to online services, 40 self-service kiosks, at which citizens may renew or replace driver licenses, will be out of service starting at 5 p.m. CST on Friday, Feb. 13.

The kiosks will resume service at 7 a.m. CST on Tuesday, Feb. 17.

The department has 40 self-service kiosks at various locations across the state.

For a list of locations, www.tn.gov/safety/dlmain.shtml.

TN Mafia Jug Band schedules April 18 concert at Arts Center

Tennessee Mafia Jug Band will appear Saturday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Arts Center of Cannon County.

The announcement was the first of the 2015 concert series planned for the center.

From the pastoral hills, hollers, shopping malls and interstate highways of Goodlettsville Tennessee, home of Bill Monroe, Bashful Brother Oswald, Stringbean, Grandpa Jones, Keith Whitley and some living country music performers, comes the most entertaining "blast from the past" since Lester Moran and the Cadillac Cowboys. They're the Tennessee Mafia Jug Band - five guys and a scrubboard, with roots like wisdom teeth.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $13 for seniors and students. Tickets are available online at www.artscenterofcc.com and at the Arts Center box office.

ban their use within the town's corporate limits.

This ordinance defines a poultry production house as "any place or premises where chickens are kept for the production of eggs or broilers for resale to processors, wholesalers or retailers."

The second, Ordinance No. 469, amends the zoning ordinance of Woodbury to be consistent with Tennessee Code Annotated in regards to nonconforming industrial and commercial land uses.

This ordinance redefines when nonconforming land uses are to be discontinued.

Both measures will require two more affirmative votes from the Board of Aldermen before the ordinances will be changed.

165,000 deer harvested during 14-15 season

NASHVILLE --- Close to 165,000 deer were harvested in Tennessee during the recently completed 2014-15 seasons according to data gathered by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency.

The statewide gun season concluded Jan. 4 and the youth hunt followed on Jan. 10-11. The harvest numbers range from the start of archery season on Sept. 27, 2014 through the final youth hunt.

This year's statewide total of 164,869 again reflects the stability of the state's deer population. Last year's total was just slightly above 168,000.

Giles County again leads the way with the top county with 5,241 harvested. Fayette County was second for the second straight year with a harvest of 4,760.

Rounding out the top counties, which all had harvest of at least 3,000, were Henry 4,473, Lincoln 4,318, Hardeman 4,212, Maury 3,968, Montgomery 3,534, Franklin 3,327, Carroll 3,262, Weakley 3,188, Hardin 3,151, Madison 3,126, Hickman 3,067, and Wayne 3,014.

The harvest totals can be viewed on the TWRA website (www.tnwildlife.org) and is located in the "For Hunters" section.

The Tennessee Fish and Wildlife Commission will hold a one-day meeting when it returns to Nashville and the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency's Region II Ray Bell Building on Thursday, Feb. 12. The meeting will begin at 9 a.m.

POLICE...

BRS offenses, which also included two bad checks, one disorderly conduct, eight drunkenness and 12 trespassing cases.

In crimes against property, police investigated seven burglary cases, of which only one was resolved. Two counterfeit/forgery cases were reported along with two embezzlements. Frauds totaled five and two motor vehicle thefts were reported. Officers dealt with four reports of shoplifting.

BEER...

CTAS is the County Technical Advisory Service and MTAS is a comparable organization for city governments in Tennessee.

"CTAS seems to have the opinion that whether or not you sell it on Sunday will be up to the ABC, but I don't know yet. I will have to get back with them," Gannon said.

However, earlier during the meeting, the Commission came down against Sunday beer sales.

That 5 to 3 vote was preceded by a short statement from Ralph Harvey, owner of Short Mountain Market.

Harvey was there to request a revision of the county's 900-foot policy. Henry's market is 700 feet away from Short Mountain Church of God at 6621 Short Mountain Road.

Harvey said his December and January sales were the worst in 31/2 years. Gasoline sales were down $30,000 in January. "Our revenues are going to two other counties," he said.

Commissioner (and beer board chairman) Jim Bush said he didn't favor the change. "It's a slippery slope once you start going up it."

Two pastors and other individuals who live in the Short Mountain area spoke against Harvey's request, which failed to even get a motion before the Commission.

During the Old Business section of the agenda, Bush brought up a previous topic: The sale of beer on Sunday with the proceeds going to ball parks for Cannon County's youngsters.

"Sunday beer sales are allowed all around us. This will help them get their ball parks in order," Bush said.

"It's not wise to move on it now," said County Executive Gannon.

Bush moved to allow Sunday beer sales. James Holloway seconded.

Voting "Yes" were Jim Bush, James Holloway and Brent Bush.

Voting "No" were Mark Barker, Karen Ashford, Glenn Steakley, Richie Hunter and Adam Melton. The measure failed.

In other action, the Commissioners:

Selected Woodbury Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham for the 911 Board.

Authorized $15,000 for furnishings for the new ambulance center.

Announced budget hearings will begin April 7, a month earlier.

So many hearts are hurting each and every day thinking of a lost loved one... I pray God will help each and everyone to find a way to keep the sweet memories alive, to heal their broken hearts and keep them open to face another day because life will move on and the sun will shine again.

The lives of people she knew were helped along by her prayers. She had a revealing love for God and dependence on him. She made many sacrifices for her husband and children; never stopped caring or being concerned for others. She truly loved her home and her family and greatly enjoyed keeping a spotless home, cooking, sewing, quilting, sending and receiving cards, but most of all, being a Mother. Grandmother and Great Grandmother. With strong faith, character and personality all her own, our mother's life here on earth was truly a success. We thank God for this special one who was kind, gentle and loving. We cherish forever the memory of the one who gave us life.

We have always held to the hope, the belief, the conviction that there is a better life, a better world, beyond the horizon.
Franklin D. Roosevelt

Reunited in love, WC and Sara West traveled the world during retirement. Visiting most of the 50 states including Hawaii, they also traveled to Europe. In Rome, they tossed their two coins in the fabled Trevi Fountain and visited the Vatican.

One special trip took them to Japan where they visited Sara's friends from her days as director of Rutherford County's ESL program. That visit had special meaning for WC as well. He fought the Japanese during World War II and as a young soldier marched through the rubble of Hiroshima.

Both treasured their home of Cannon County, a place they picked for their final resting spot.

We can't help everyone, but everyone can help someone.
Ronald Reagan

Helen West Alexander, the oldest of six children, was the devoted wife of the late Milton Alexander. A native and lifelong resident of Cannon County, Helen was born May 24, 1923, the eldest daughter of the late Cling and Lena Todd West.

In her younger years she was a star on the Woodbury High School's Lionettes basketball team and was homecoming queen.

During World War II she worked as a payroll clerk for Tennessee Eastman in Oak Ridge where she remained active in sports. After leaving Oak Ridge, she spent eleven years teaching and coaching elementary and high school basketball at Sanders Fork and Auburntown. She left the teaching profession in 1959 to accept a recreation therapist position with the Physical and Medical Rehabilitation Service at the Alvin C. York Veterans Administration Medical Center in Murfreesboro where she retired after 30 years.

Beloved by family, caring friends and neighbors, Helen will be long remembered.

Dear Sir,

It has been brought to my attention that Charles Stone has been nominated for the prestigious FAA Wright Brother's Master Pilot Award. It is my pleasure to enthusiastically recommend him for this award based on my knowledge of his aeronautical skills and leadership as a pilot.

I have had the pleasure of knowing him as an aviator since November, 1968. We served together as airline Captains, Check Airmen, and Flight Engineers at TWA. We shared airspace, experiences, and many ours discussing common flying related interests. We also share a common bond as U. S. Marines. He is the ultimate professional with a solid reputation within the aviation industry. His safety record and ability to provide instruction and excitement to others is outstanding. There is no one more deserving of this award.

Cooking with Barb

Valentines Chicken and Chocolate

This is the big week. You see the signs everywhere. There are red hearts, flowers and candy floating around. The card companies, florists, jewelers and gift makers live for this week to chase away the winter blues. The rest of us plot, plan and scheme how to share the love. We all want love, but we don't all show it in the same way.

For some, a big bunch of flowers does the trick. Other folks want a more lasting reminder of love--like a locket or a ring. For many, however, "stuff" just doesn't make it. These folks desire more personal indications of love--some special homemade gift, a lovely meal or even both--which then includes that most elusive gift, personal time shared with the one you love. I know it sounds nearly impossible. First, you have to schedule a time to share. Then you have to come up with a special meal that won't break the bank or use up all your time to prepare. I have a great idea--let's simplify to make this your best Valentine ever.

All of us love sharing a good meal with someone we love. We just don't always have time to make that meal from scratch at home. So here's a way to make it all easier. Let's call it an evening in Sonoma, using some tricks I picked up there from my friend Genevieve at the Olive Press.

Start with easy but lovely roasted chicken and decadent brownies accented with a rich orange flavor. While those are baking, make a simple salad of heirloom tomatoes, cracked pepper and crumbled Feta cheese drizzled with bright green olive oil. Remember, it is not about being fancy or getting frantic--it is about quality time with someone you love! Finish the meal with those just cooled brownies which can be garnished with whipped cream, ice cream or a kiss to make the evening special but not overwhelming for the cook!

Easy Roasted Chicken and Root Vegetables

One 2-3 pound roasting chicken
2 teaspoons minced thyme leaves
1 lemon, halved
2-3 large carrots, peeled and cut into two inch pieces
4 small red potatoes, halved one large onion cut into quarters
Salt and pepper
Olive oil

Rinse and thoroughly dry the chicken. Preheat the oven to 375F. Salt and pepper the inside of the chicken, then place the lemon halves into the body cavity. Lay the carrot pieces on the bottom of a shallow roasting pan. Place the chicken on top of the carrots.

Add the potatoes and onion pieces around the chicken. Drizzle it all with olive oil, then generously sprinkle salt pepper and thyme over it all. Place into the hot oven and roast for 60 to 90 minutes, until the chicken skin is crisp and brown and the legs are loose when you move them (or check the temperature and make sure you are above 170F.) Remove the chicken to a platter, carve it and garnish with the carrots, potatoes and roasted onion.

Decadent Orange Brownies

(This recipe calls for Blood Orange Oil, which you can get at specialty food stores, Trader Joe's, Whole Foods or online. If you don't have it, you can substitute olive oil and a few drops of orange essential oil from DoTerra.)

1 package Brownie Mix to make an 8x8 pan of brownies
2 eggs
Blood Orange infused olive oil to replace the vegetable oil called for on the box

Prepare the brownies just as indicated on the package, but substitute the cooking oil with orange infused olive oil and use two eggs instead of one.

CCHS boys end with key wins

Transition basketball kept Cannon County Lions winning streak intact over a surprisingly tough Dekalb County team.

The victory kept Cannon's 11 game winning streak alive allowing them to finish the regular season 24-5 overall 13-1 in district play.

The Lions will move to the semifinal round of the district tournament at Cookeville High School.

Dekalb who finished in 7th place this season stayed in a 2-3 zone most of the night with CCHS having trouble getting inside into the lane.

Transition basketball gave the Lions the opportunity to move ahead in the second quarter as they took a 7 point lead into halftime.

The Lions were able to maintain the lead the rest of the night but it was a tough victory.

Cannon came out on top 50-41. Josh Ruehlan led with 13 points. Dekalb County's Justin Bone hit a 3 pointer at the final buzzer giving him over 1,000 points for his high school career.

Cannon County Lionettes got a much needed District 8-AA win at the close of the regular season by beating rival Dekalb County 52-42.

Cannon did get off to a slow start in Smithville but three long-range 3 pointers from Kristen Hale pushed the Lionettes ahead.

While Dekalb was able to stay in the game, Cannon used a stretch in the fourth quarter to provide the final cushion they needed to get the victory.

Kelli Davis led the Lionettes with 17 points.

Josh Ruehland goes over the Livingston Academy defense to score two of his game-leading 28 points during the game at Cannon County High School.

Cannon ends the season 19-9 overall and placed 5th in the final district standings with a 6-8 district record. They will meet the Smith County Lady Owls Friday in the first round of the district tournament at Cookeville High School.

Cannon splits with Livingston Academy

Cannon County and Livingston Academy split a pair of District 8 games.

Livingston's Lady Wildcats held off a scrappy Lionette team to take a 60-55 decision, while Cannon County Lions wrapped up the regular-season boys title with a 72-51 victory.

In the girls game, the two teams went back and forth early with Livingston taking a 16-14 lead in the first period. The Lionettes then moved out to a 25-17 lead before a 6-0 run cut it to two (25-23).

Livingston scored the final four points of the to lead 29-23 at the half.

Keelie Lamb scored the first six points of the second half to give Livingston its biggest lead of the game at 12 (35-23). From there, the Lionettes started cutting into the lead and had it to 48-41 going into the final quarter. CCHS then got the lead to within two on three different occasions in the final eight minutes; however, the Lionettes could not tie the game.

Cannon County had one more chance late, as Kelli Davis was fouled with 17 seconds to play and the Lionettes trailing 58-54. She hit the first and missed the second, and the Lionettes got the offensive board and got two good looks at 3-pointers that would have tied the game. The second went in and out, and LA cleared that rebound to Lamb, who hit a layup as time expired for the final score.

CCHS (18-9, 5-8) was paced by Erin McReynolds with 17 points.

In the boys game, the Lions used a hot-shooting second quarter to beat Livingston.

After a 16-13 Cannon County lead in the opening quarter, Josh Ruehlan scored 15 of his game-high 28 points in the second quarter as the Lions outscored the Wildcats 26-10 to take a 42-23 lead at halftime.

CCHS then moved out by as many as 26 points (53-27). Livingston got no closer than 15 in the final eight minutes as the Lions claimed the district title and the top seed in the district tournament to be held at Cookeville High School.

Cannon was led by Ruehlan's 28 points, while Jacob Nave added 17.

Hebrews 11:1-39
Now faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see. This is what the ancients were commended for. By faith we understand that the universe was formed at God's command, so that what is seen was not made out of what was visible. By faith Abel offered God a better sacrifice than Cain did. By faith he was commended as a righteous man, when God spoke well of his offerings. And by faith he still speaks, even though he is dead. By faith Enoch was taken from this life, so that he did not experience death; he could not be found, because God had taken him away. For before he was taken, he was commended as one who pleased God.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

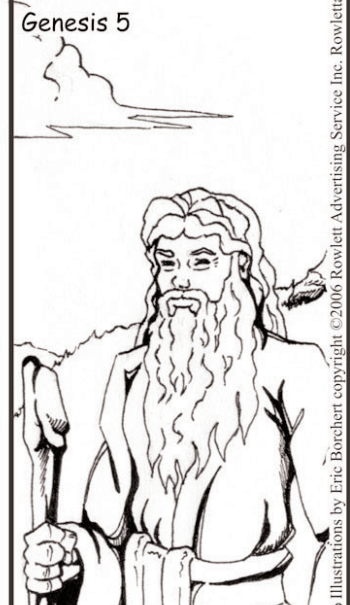

Three Characters
Seth, Third Son of Adam and Eve:
Adam and Eve were privileged to bring other children into the world. The only one whose name is given was Seth. There is very little information in the bible about Seth. It is recorded that he was the father of Enosh.

Enoch:
The next character of note was Enoch. The unique thing about Enoch is that while it is recorded of the others of his day that they died, the bible record of Enoch says that he, "walked with God, and was not, for God took him."

Methuselah:
Enoch was the Father of Methuselah. We remember Methuselah because of his old age. He lived to be 969 years old. And he died.

Alcoholics Anonymous invites you to come join us

If you want to drink that's your business. If you want to stop - that's ours. Call us at 464-2664.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees.

Our primary purpose is to stay sober and to help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

A.A. was founded in 1935 and today it has more than two million members in over 90,000 groups.

People who once drank to excess, they finally acknowledged that they could not handle alcohol and now live a new way of life without it.

There is a solution.

Meetings are held at the Cannon County Senior Center, 5609 Lehman Street. Days and times are Wednesday from 8:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. and Sunday from 7:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.
