A series of shattered windows and car robberies kept the Woodbury Police Department busy one night last week.

The incidents prompted Woodbury Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham to issue a public reminder to residents that they should remove all forms of currency from their vehicles and to lock them when they are leaving them parked overnight.

During the late evening hours of Monday, June 11 and the early morning hours of Tuesday, June 12, the WPD investigated three incidents of windows being smashed with large objects at area businesses, and five reported robberies from cars on Lee Ave.

and Kimela Dr.

One incident of vandalism took place at Jennings Jewelers on W. Main St. WPD Patrolman Brent Brock reported he was dispatched there at 2:50 a.m. for an alarm, with glass breakage.

Upon arrival Officer Brock observed the right front of the store had been broken, and a broken brick was lying on the sidewalk, broken into several pieces.

Cannon County Sheriff's Deputies Seth Perry and Brandon Gullett also responded to the scene, and searched the area in an attempt to locate a suspect of suspects and additional evidence.

A process spanning six years and the cooperation of local, state and federal governments, culminated in historic fashion atop Short Mountain Wednesday (June 13).

The U.S. Department of Justice transferred to the state of Tennessee approximately 1,000 acres of undeveloped land as a result of a federal criminal conviction of two individuals for distribution of marijuana.

The land will be managed by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency and will be known as Headwaters Wildlife Management Area. It is the 124th Wildlife Management Area with the TWRA.

It is the largest transfer for conservation purposes in the past 15 years by the federal government to a governmental entity, according to William C. Killian, U.S. Attorney for the eastern district of Tennessee.

"It is a great day for all of us," Killian told the crowd of more than 100 at the dedication for Headwaters Wildlife Management Area. "This historic conveyance of forfeited property will leave a Randall Reid was beaming with enthusiasm one morning last week as he breakfasted at Joe's Place.

Reid, the new chairman of the Cannon County Industrial Development Board, is as excited as he's ever been about the direction of the organization and its goal of bringing new business and industry to Cannon County, and helping those which are already here expand and prosper.

Reid was selected as Chairman of the reorganized IDB after the Cannon County Commission named seven persons to serve on the body Tuesday night. They held their first meeting immediately following their appointments.

Sales tax hike on Aug. ballot

KEITH READY

Courier Contributor

Cannon County's government and school system are having a difficult time making ends meet these days, and are looking to voters to give them a financial helping hand.

To that end, a referendum will be placed on the August 2 election ballot regarding the local option sales and use tax. The Cannon County Commissioners voted during their monthly meeting Tuesday (June 12) to pass the issue on to the voters of Cannon County.

Commissioners voted a few months ago to increase the sales tax a penny, from 1.75 to 2.75 percent. However, they had to rescind that action due to the fact that an increase in the sales tax must be approved by voters via a referendum. The referendum must take place no less than 45 days and no more than 60 days from when the commission votes to place it on a ballot.

Cannon County's local sales tax rate has been 1.75 percent since Jan. 1, 1976 and is among the lowest in the state.

In other business, the County Commissioners unanimously voted to override a veto made by Cannon County Executive Mike Gannon to increase the local Litigation Tax from $12.00 to $15.00 to cover the cost of the state-mandated raise in salary for the General Sessions Court Judge.

The Commissioners also let a veto made by Gannon stand that overrode the enactment of an Archive Fee of $5.00 in regards to preservation and storage of records.

Can we do something about drugs this summer?

Even if schools are closed, there are many ways to reach kids at any age. There are many groups such as summer camps and clubs that allow seminars on the truth about drugs in order to give kids some real data on drugs.

Anne and Marc Vallieres of Woodbury have been to the Boys and Girls Club in Murfreesboro and it was a great success. Here is the thank you note they received from the Program Director: "Thank you for coming to speak with our members about avoiding drugs. Our members enjoyed your presentation and were very interested in this topic. We'll be better prepared to talk to them about drugs because of the materials that you provided us. We're already planning on using them in our summer program. Thank you for your support."

Whatever age your kids are, they have the right to know how to defend themselves when they are out there in a jungle. You never know who will offer some drugs to him as a nice "package" making it hard for him to say no because it looks so "helpful" to him. Many kids and adults have ruined their lives with drugs just because they didn't know the truth. They were not given enough information about drugs. It's not enough to tell your child "Say no to drugs." You need to tell him why he needs to do so. Anne and Marc Vallieres can help you with that part and it is all free. Visit their website: www.drugfreesouth.org and if you want your children to have a better understanding about drugs so that he can make the right decision in life, call Anne directly so schedule an appointment at 615-563-4292.

An ode to our fowl-feathered friends

Chickens get no respect....!!

History annals verify that, dating as far back as the Greeks and Romans.

Despite giving us mostly-healthy poultry food products, chickens are still "slurred" today.

It never changes. Back during boyhood farm days, I had some smart-mouthed boyhood buddies who used the foulest of fowl-language to describe my social standing.

"Whittle, you're chicken squat, put it on a biscuit, and eat it hot," was a popular, if childish chicken-house-chant.

I didn't take it personally, but that "chicken-house-chant" rant not only reflected bad on the birds, but insulted a number of my chicken-livered (not brave) friends dating back to country school yard days.

I ain't proud of this, but I ran like a "scalded chicken" in second grade to keep from getting my nose bloodied by Larry Dee Taul, who strutted like a proud rooster as the burliest biggo bully of fourth grade.

"Whittle, you piece of chicken-nardy, I'll kick your scrawny butt the next time you come into town," bully threatened.

I've never fully understood why "foul" language has to include our fine fowl-feathered friends.

My late great friend, Max Northern, also held chickens in high esteem. So high, in fact, he wore his job title - "Chattanooga Chicken Checker" - like a badge of honor. Say it real fast, and it has a special rhythm.

When he died of a heart attack, I was honored to be asked to do the eulogy at his funeral. I made certain his work title, "Chattanooga Chicken Checker," was in the tribute.

Farm folks seemed to have more respect for chickens since they not only helped feed us, but helped keep us snug while sleeping on thick "feather-bed mattresses" on cold winter nights long after our coal-fired Warm Morning pot-bellied stove had lost its heat.

And on tundra-like work days out in the fields, there was nothing better than a piping-hot pot of farm neighbor Mommie Gowen's locally-famous chicken and dumplings she cooked atop her wood-burning Sears-Roebuck cook stove.

Mommie Gowen had the best chicken and dumplings up and down our farm road," recalls Alvie Jones, who grew up a farm neighbor boy back in Missouri.

Certain bragging rights went to farm families blessed to have mothers and grandmothers who knew how to prepare a tasty high-piled platter of fried chicken topped off with larruping good thickening gravy and biscuits.

"My late mother fixed the best fried chicken and gravy back when we lived out in Greenvale," testifies Lascassas resident Hooper Penuel.

Chickens were "a survival staple" that got many Great Depression-era farm families through hard times, confirmed retired Cannon/Rutherford County educator Jerry Gaither, a native of Auburntown.

"We'd have starved to death if not for the chickens, cows and hogs we raised on the farm," Gaither confirmed.

"Road-kills" were "bonus days" up and down our farm lane when a chicken would get run over by

Whittle's Words
Of Wisdom
DAN WHITTLE

neighbor boy Bruce Gene Bryant's souped-up black 1948 Ford coupe.

When we saw feathers fly, we'd bolt out of the cotton fields to see how mangled that "road-kill chicken" had been damaged after being hit by Bruce Gene's speeding automobile.

Saturday was our normal chicken-killing day. If mother killed two chickens, it generally meant the Reverend Allie Sullivan, and his wife, Alice, were coming for Sunday dinner.

"Don't you dare reach for the last piece of chicken when the preacher comes," Momma instructed firmly to her young'ens.

There's an art to killing a chicken.

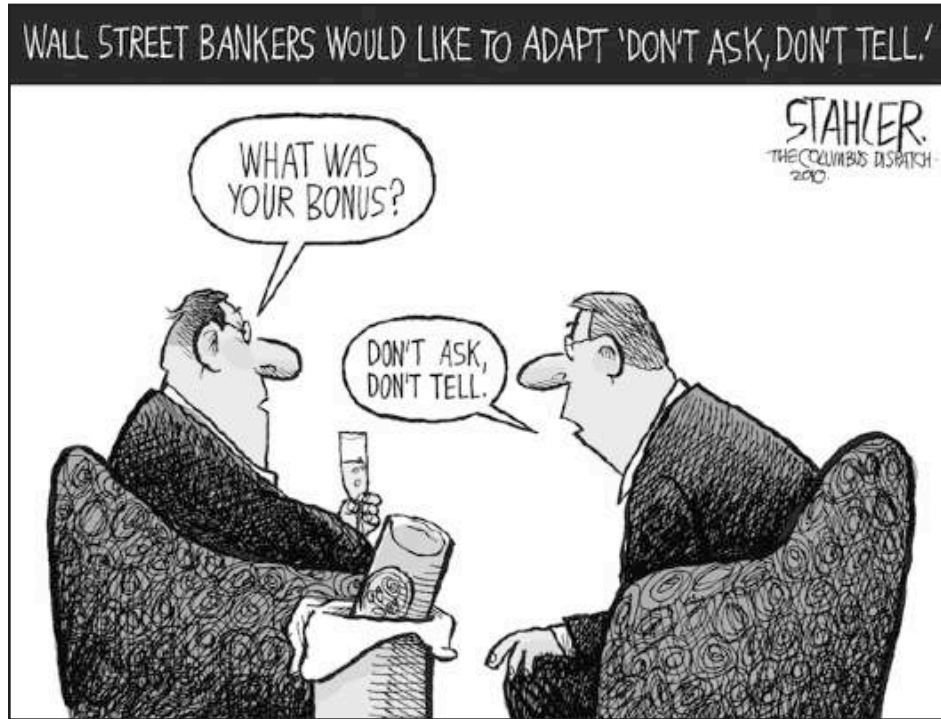

Aunt Durette Reed had "wringing a chicken's neck" down to an art form. Unless the chicken's head popped off when its neck was wrung, it wasn't considered a good clean chicken-neck wringing.

Chicken-killing days made for some high-drama for me and cousins Robert Terry and Sandra Kay Reed. After the chickens' heads were popped off, the headless birds would flop around for a minute or two out across the pasture.

We called those flopping chickens doing the "barn-yard boogy!!"

Cousin Robert Terry remembers those chicken-killing days: "Wringing those chickens' heads off, was the one job I hated most back on the farm."

Chickens didn't seem to benefit from it either.

Local Commentary

Darrell Young right fit for Cannon County Sheriff's responsibilities

Most of the time Cannon County Sheriff Darrell Young comes across as a fun and friendly person.

Every now and then, though, he can be an ornery cuss.

The job calls for being both.

The ability to be engaging comes in handy when dealing with constituents, complaints and a certain Cannon Courier writer.

The ability to be stern when needed comes in handy when dealing with crooks, crackheads and, well, a certain Cannon Courier writer.

When Young ran for, and was eventually elected as, sheriff in 2010, there was little doubt he could handle the law enforcement aspects of the position.

After all, he had been with the Woodbury Police Department for many years and had worked his way up to the position of assistant chief.

However, the Cannon County sheriff has many more responsibilities than those of an assistant chief.

- The sheriff is responsible for the operation of a detention facility.

- The sheriff has a larger territory to protect and serve.

- The sheriff oversees deputies, investigators and corrections officers.

- The sheriff has a larger budget to manage and many more expenses.

That's not to imply an assistant chief doesn't have responsibilities. However, unlike the sheriff, the buck doesn't stop at the assistant chief's desk.

Just being sheriff bring with it a certain amount of pressure every day. When something unexpected happens, which can occur at any moment, without warning, the burden increases tremendously.

Recently, Kevin Mooneyham was officially promoted from assistant police chief for the Town of Woodbury to police chief. All indications were, and are, Mooneyham has all of the qualifications which make him the right fit for that job.

The last person to hold the assistant chief's position was Young. If he had not been elected sheriff, there might have been the possibility he would have succeeded Tony Burnett.

While things didn't work out that way, time has shown that they worked out for the best, because Young has demonstrated he is the right fit for the job of sheriff.

To the Editor

Resident disappointed in actions of some local election officials

What is going on with our Cannon County Election Commission? It seems like every time I pick up the paper there is another feud going on there.

I am an independent voter without ties to any political party. The picture I'm getting is that the Republicans are bound and determined to rule the entire process with an iron hand and force Tea Party politics on everyone. If you don't agree with them completely ... you're out! No other opinions are welcome nor accepted.

Our election protocols are based on different opinions and are to be determined by a majority of voters who will make the final decision on each issue. The issue of a fair and unbiased elections are being jeopardized by this process of constant turmoil and conflict.

If the existing officials can't get their act together and have a non-partisan approach to operating the commission, they need to be replaced with people who have an overall objectivity and can act civilly and with decorum appropriate to those positions.

Frankly, I'm disappointed and even embarrassed by the actions of some of our officials in the Election Commission.

Another view

Do politically motivated rulings really solve anything?

It's amazing sometimes how what we think of as obscure laws can have such unforeseen consequences. For example, all of a sudden the Tennessee Open Meeting law is in the news, with some unexpected results.

The Tennessee Open Meeting Law specifies that almost all government meetings have to have a public announcement.

More importantly, for our purposes, the law also specifies that any actions taken at an unannounced meeting are invalid. We usually think that applies to meetings involving things like tax increases and major construction proposals such as shopping malls.

But according to critics, the Rutherford County

Regional Planning Commission violated the law when it approved construction of a mosque at the May 2010 meeting. The question recently facing Chancellor Robert Corlew was whether or not announcements about the meeting appeared as a public notice. He recently ruled it did not.

So now mosque construction may or may not be on hold. But at the same meeting the commission also approved construction of a storage unit, a fire hydrant waiver and proposed changes in sign regulations. And now those actions are also called into question.

So here's where the law of unintended consequences come into play. The legality of the storage unit now comes into question, as do all of the other actions the commission took. And since all of the actions involve property, the side-effects could rapidly escalate.

Media Matters

All of those people who said they were only concerned about the open meeting apparently didn't seem to have any problem with the Planning Commission approving a storage unit at the supposedly unannounced meeting. I wonder if they want the storage unit shut down? You don't think they really had something else in mind do you? Like being single-mindedly opposed to the mosque?

adults because it is relatively inexpensive. There is an economic downside to term life coverage: if you outlive the term of the policy, you and/or your loved ones get nothing back. Term life policies can be renewed (though many are not) and some can be converted to permanent coverage.<sup>2</sup>

The key question is: how long do you plan to keep the policy? If you don't want to pay premiums on an insurance policy for more than 10 years, then term life stands out as the most attractive option. If you are just looking for a short-term hedge against calamity, that's the whole reason behind term life insurance. If you're getting into estate planning, then permanent life insurance may prove a better choice.

It may be cheaper than you think. Premiums on 10-year level guaranteed term policies are startlingly affordable. Just to give you a ballpark example, a 40-year-old woman could potentially line up $250,000 in coverage through one major insurer for a premium of $16 a month in August 2011.<sup>3</sup>

Confer, compare and contrast. Talk with a financial or insurance professional you trust before plunking down money for a policy. That professional can perform a term-versus-permanent analysis for you and help you weigh per-policy variables.

Just as many people between the ages of 30 and 50 lack a will, many also lack life insurance. A March 2011 survey from Genworth Financial and the University of Virginia's Darden School of Business found that almost 70% of single parents and 45% of married parents were living without any coverage.<sup>1</sup>

Why don't more young adults buy life insurance? Shopping for life insurance may seem confusing, boring, or unnecessary. Yet when you have kids, get married, buy a house or live a lifestyle funded by significant salaries, the need arises.

Finding the right policy may be simpler than you think. There are two basic types of life insurance: term and cash value. Cash value (or "permanent") life insurance policies offer death benefits and some of the characteristics of an investment - a percentage of the money you spend to fund the policy goes into a savings program. Cash value policies have correspondingly higher premiums than term policies, which give you death benefits only and have terms of 10 years or longer. Term is a great choice for many young

Wife's pocketbook often becomes husband's millstone

READ ALL ABOUT IT

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

Three years ago this month, my wife and I got the word of her impending cancer. At that time the early reports were not all that bad, but the final outcome was not that good. She had been our healthy one, eating everything right, walking regularly and if a drug store had depended on her for a living, they were out of luck. But when the "c" word enters your world, only one knows the future, and He doesn't reveal how you should plan for the next trip. In our case the time together was short and fast, but a time of closeness in hospital rooms and looks into each other's eyes that went deep into the other's inner-thoughts that made the final trip soul-calming.

It is strange how now the slightest thing can return my thoughts to those final weeks together in a hospital room. There I also wrote my weekly column on a laptop and shared them with my sweetheart of 35 years. The other night I saw a gentleman carrying his wife's purse and it sparked one of those thoughts back to three years ago. That thought also made me want to share one of those columns again with you.

I grew up during the days, just like many of you, when we would go into town on Saturday afternoons and park on the local courthouse square to watch folks as they shopped with local merchants. It was much more interesting than chopping out corn and hauling hay as we had done all week, plus it also gave you a chance to look at the latest items in the window at Woolworths.

Courthouse squares have been replaced by shopping malls, which do not lend themselves as a real good place to watch people like a 1953 Ford Fairlane parked at a parking meter did in those early years. Watching folks from the front seat of the family sedan while your mother shopped, allowed you and your siblings the opportunity to make comments without being overheard. Mall benches do not give this same privacy and it is not as much fun without a brother or sister's comments about the latest fashions being worn by those passing our car's windshield.

My people watching today has just become an opportunity of observation rather than a fun activity like back when I was a child. For example, I'm amazed at the number of cell phones in use or just hanging from people's ears. Everywhere I looked, people have those little boxes punching them with their thumbs or devices that resembled tiny piccolos attached to their ears. And, what gives with all the loud songs these phones play in public places? In fact, a phone playing a crazy tune and everyone within hearing range grabbing their belts wondering if it was their phone that was ringing, often interrupted the calm of the day. At least on the square all you had was a car horn honking from an impatient driver.

The thing that catches my attention the most these days is the number of husbands looking after their wife's pocketbook over at the surgery center waiting room. It is a known fact that if there is anything that a man dislikes to do, it is having to carry their wife's pocketbook where other men or women see them do so. It is just not natural for a man to do this and you can tell by the way they carry the item that they would like to become invisible if at all possible.

By my observation, I found there are definite ways that a man will carry his wife's purse to avoid being detected as a male with a purse. First, there is the tucked under the arm method that gives the most available amount of coverage from allowing the item to be seen. Tucked in close under the arm, and carried like a running back carries a football, seems to be the most used method, and avoiding eye contact with others also improves the husband's feelings of manhood. However, when stopped by another man who does recognize the subject and what he is carrying, the well-known line used most often by men for centuries is usually spoken. That line is, "I know, my purse does not match my shoes." And once this is said, both parties laugh and guilt is removed.

The method of carrying the pocketbook by the handle is one that should be avoided. It does draw attention directly to the man and helps magnify the individual's embarrassment, causing the man to walk with his head down with drooped shoulders. The man will also hold the strap of the pocketbook as if it is nuclear waste. But it also puts the entire issue right out in the open and lets everyone know that yes, he is carrying a pocketbook, but it is not his.

I really feel for those men given this difficult responsibility. I have been there myself and understand that pocketbook holding is a husband's job, right up there with compacts, lipstick and other embarrassing lady items carried in your coat pocket. But at least you have other husbands who understand during the tough times, and wives who trust them enough to give them the responsibility.

Jehovah's Witnesses invite all to 'Safeguard Your Heart!' event

Jehovah's Witnesses feel that all, including non-Witnesses, will benefit from the positive message and practical suggestions that will be highlighted at the 2012 "Safeguard Your Heart!" District Convention to be held for the first time at the Hooper Eblen Center on the campus of Tennessee Tech.

The Woodbury Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be attending the convention the weekend of July 6-8.

The Witnesses' convention program promises a fresh examination of Biblical references to the figurative heart. Through lively discourses, dramatic Bible readings and presentations, and even a live play, program parts will emphasize how protecting the figurative heart will enhance one's spiritual well-being, family life, and happiness.

Starting this weekend, and continuing for the next two weeks, Jehovah's Witnesses from Middle Tennessee will put forth extra effort to extend a personal invitation to everyone from Manchester to Bellevue to attend the convention with them. The first of two three-day events to be held in Cookeville will begin Friday, July 6, 2012, at 9:20 a.m. The convention theme "Safeguard Your Heart!" is based on Proverbs 4:23. Strengthening one's spirituality will be the focus of the program. The daily themes and titles of program parts are based on passages of Scripture, including 1 Samuel 16:7, 1 Chronicles 28:9, and Matthew 12:34.

There is no admission fee. Conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses are supported entirely by voluntary donations.

CANNON CRIME

ANTHONY D. LEFEVERS

Traffic stop catches McMinnville man after 4 years on run

A McMinnville man who has had three outstanding warrants against him along with a grand jury indictment for four years was arrested on June 11 by Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillen.

Deputy McMillen was traveling east on John Bragg Hwy. on that date when he observed a silver Nissan Altima traveling westbound at a high rate of speed. His radar indicted the vehicle was traveling at 78 mph, in a 55 mph zone.

The deputy activated his emergency lights and stopped the vehicle in the 3000 block of John Bragg Hwy. He advised the driver, Charles Henshaw, of why he was stopped. A check of Henshaw's drivers license returned valid and clear.

However, a check of the ID of a passenger, Anthony Darrell Lefevers, of McMinnville, showed that he had four outstanding warrants in Cannon County.

Three of those warrants stemmed from an arrest Woodbury Patrolman John House made of Lefevers on Oct. 8, 2009. On that date Officer House made a traffic stop of a vehicle Lefevers was driving on W. Water St. Lefevers was charged with Initiating the Process to Manufacture Methamphetamine after he allegedly assisted in the purchase of Pseudoephedrine and removed the tablets from the bubble wrap, which were found in a cellophane cigarette wrapper inside a Pepsi can.

Lefevers was also charged with Possession of Drug Paraphernalia after two syringes were found inside the Pepsi can. Lefevers stated he used the syringes to inject methamphetamine. He was also charged with littering after allegedly throwing three foil blisters packs out of the window of his car on W. Water St.

A Capias on a seal indictment was issued for Lefevers by the Cannon Court Circuit Court on May 14, 2010. It was also served on June 11.

Flying trash leads to charges

Brock Elton Walker, 3019 Jim Cummings Hwy., Woodbury, was charged with Driving Without A License and was issued a warning citation for littering on June 9 by Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Jordan McGee.

Deputy McGee was on patrol when he noticed a black El Camino pulling out of the parking lot of Cannon Tire heading inbound toward Woodbury on Highway 52. When the vehicle got up to speed trash and papers started flying out of the bed of the truck and a cardboard box struck the front end of the deputy's vehicle.

After stopping the vehicle, Deputy McGee learned through Cannon County Dispatch that Walker did not have a valid driver's license. He was issued release citations. Initial court date is Aug. 7.

Cannon County Sheriff's Deputy Matthew Parsley responded recently to three accidents involving animals.

Deputy Parsley responded to U.S. Route 70S (State Route 1) in reference to a motor vehicle crash on June 10. Upon arrival he spoke with Lacey Griffith, operator of a Hummer H3, who stated a deer jumped into her lane of travel causing her to strike the deer. She was able to drive the vehicle from the scene.

On June 6, Deputy Parsley was traveling on U.S. Route 70S when he saw a stranded motorist on the east bound lane of travel. The vehicle was left at the scene for later removal.

Deputy Parsley responded to State Route 281 (Centerhill Road) on June 8 in regard to a motor vehicle crash involving a horse.

Upon arrival he spoke with the driver of a red Chevrolet pickup, Bobby Fagan, who stated a black horse was in his lane of travel, causing him to strike the animal. # Chamber seeks money to lure tourists

KEITH READY
Courier Contributor

The largest marketing tool Cannon County has to attract tourism is asking for a $10,000 contribution from the County's budget during the 2012-2013 fiscal year.

Neal Appelbaum, President of the Cannon County Chamber of Commerce, handed out a comparison sheet to Budget Committee members during a meeting Thursday which showed neighboring counties and how each helps to fund their local Chamber.

The Cannon County Chamber has been getting just a $50 yearly contribution. Appelbaum said if the County utilizes the Chamber to its full potential, the Chamber can increase tax revenue by bringing in tourism and recruiting industry.

Other area counties, by comparison, fund the Chamber anywhere from $15,000 to $75,000. Counties included in the comparison were DeKalb, Smith, Fentress and Clay.

The contribution of $10,000 would be to help pay staff, fuel, a good starting advertising budget and communications. If funded correctly the Chamber will help in the Marketing, Strategic Planning, Business Development, Tourism, Grant and Industrial Board coordination.

Also Thursday, the Cannon County Rescue Squad presented its budget request. They were budgeted $3,085 in the current fiscal year which ends June 30. They have requested an increase of $7,500, to pay off a note on a rescue squad vehicle, making their total budget request $10,585.

The Cannon County Parks and Fair Board asked for a 5 percent raise in salary for the director and assistants. That took care of most of the $2,000 increase the parks are requesting from the county.

The Solid Waste Budget was reviewed. The total estimated revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30 is $503,757, with the estimated expenditures being $514,423.00. The estimated revenue for the 2012-2013 fiscal year is $497,436 while the estimated expenditures are $509,596.

The Budget line item of "Other Contracted Services" is estimated at only $300 for next fiscal year as the estimation is already at $4,020 for the 2011-2012 fiscal year.

The final budget reviewed Thursday was that of the Cannon County Election Office. The Election Commission had passed the budget moments before it was presented to the County Budget Committee.

In it the Assistant Administrator line item has been budgeted at $20,000, based on a rate of 30 hours a week. It was also noted a line item of Overtime was $1,000 but that was questioned since both Administrator of Elections and the Assistant are paid based on a salary basis.

The total request of the Election Office is $165,379, which is an increase of a little over $3,000 from the 2011-2012 budgeted amount.

The budget committee will take this week off before beginning the second round of reviews, which is making the decisions on what to cut and what to keep in the budget requests of the county departments for FY2012-2013.

VANDALS ...

W. Water St., came across the courthouse lawn and advised Officer Brock he had heard three distinct strikes, then he heard the alarm go off. Jennings state it sounded like someone was hitting a car with a baseball bat. Jennings said he did not see anyone standing at or running from the location.

A clerk at the Quick Shop Market stated she heard some loud noises coming from the downtown area but was unsure what it was until the alarm sounded. She also did not observe anyone leaving from the scene.

Damage to the window at the jewelry store was estimated at over $500.

Shortly after that incident, Officer Brock was dispatched at 3:42 a.m. to 303 Murfreesboro Rd. in reference to vandalism at Smith Funeral Home. Deputies Petty and Gullett also responded.

Officer Brock observed the front door glass had been broken. At first glance he believed the glass may have been broken by a newspaper being thrown by a delivery person, but when he looked inside the building, he noticed that shards of glass were located throughout the front entrance and hallway, extending 20-30 feet inside the building. The front door was locked.

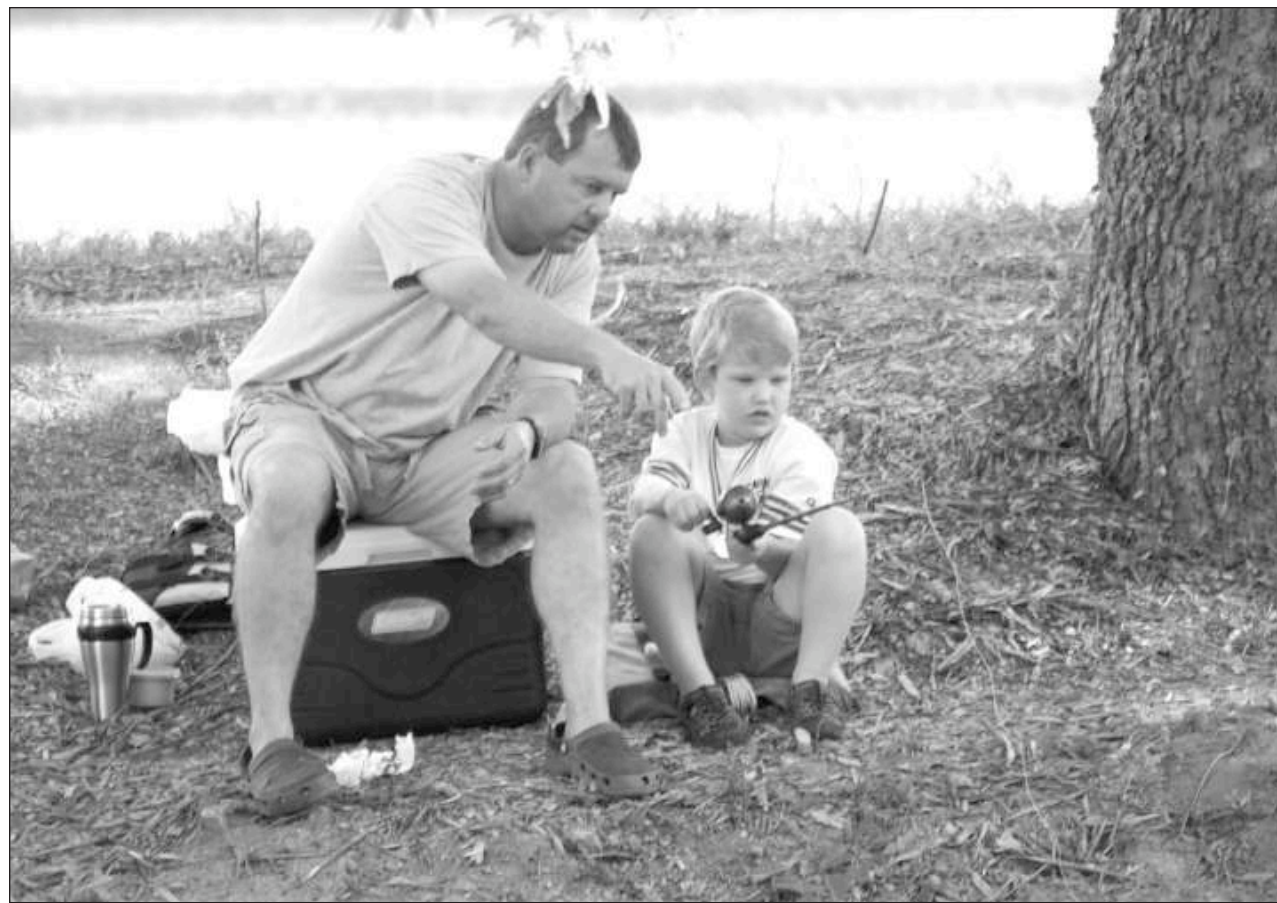

Bill Smith, owner of the funeral home, arrived and opened the door. A baseball-size piece of glass was found in the rear of the building, 35-40 feet from the front doorway.

Smith advised the glass was antique and had been in the door for around 112 years. It is valued at well over $500.

Later in the day, Chief Mooneyham was dispatched to the Cannon County Arts Center on John Bragg Hwy. in reference to vandalism. Upon arrival he noticed a broken window in the front of the building. A landscape rock was lying just a few feet from the damaged window. Investigation indicted a person or persons had thrown the rock three times, twice hitting the window and once hitting the window frame.

Items taken from the car burglaries included $5 in change from a truck; a purse with $10 case, a driver's license and credit card from a car; $5 in change from a number of cars at one residence (a gold necklace and a laptop computer was not taken); change from a cup holder at another location and a camera valued at $150 and $30 in change from another.

Chief Mooneyham said all the cars entered late Monday or early Tuesday morning were left unlocked. Money appears to have been all that was stolen from them, he said. Nine gold coins were taken from one vehicle.

BALLOT ...

No action was taken on a proposal to require the county attorney to reside within the county.

The Commissioners voted to approve the recommendation of Chairman Bob Stoetzel's candidates for the Industrial Development Board. Members of the board approved Tuesday night included Mindy Gunter, Neal Appelbaum, Corey Davenport, Dean Moore, Doug Bodary, David Vance and Randall Reid. The IDB members will serve in six year increments.

The Commissioners voted to allow the Cannon County Fire Board to work with Jerry Pelham Auto Salvage to take the two old fire trucks that are on the Pelham's property that belong to the county and transport them to Chattanooga for scrap. The Board will then be allowed to take the money to buy a cascade system for Bradyville.

The Commissioners approved the bid submitted by First National Bank on a loan to the county for $130,000 for the purchase of two fire trucks. The Bank came in with the lowest interest rate at 1.9 percent.

The fire trucks will be purchased for the Gassaway and Westside Volunteer Fire Departments. There is a company out of Friendship, Tennessee that offered the Fire Departments three fire trucks for $150,000.

The motion was made and approved for the negotiations to see if three fire trucks can be purchased for $130,000 and no more than $150,000. If the final asking price is $150,000 then the remaining $20,000 would come out of County General Fund Balance.

The Commissioners also approved amendments of the Cannon County Schools, General Budget and Cannon County Election Committees.

The meeting was recessed until Thursday, June 28 so the Commissioners can clean up any budget amendments and vote in a continuing budget until a new budget for the new

on its for eight years.

"I don't think you could have a finer group of people," Reid said, "The enthusiasm in that (meeting) room Tuesday was amazing. Ideas were flowing from every direction."

Also named to the IDB were Doug Bodary, who will serve as Vice Chairman; Mindy Gunter, Treasurer; Corey Davenport, secretary and Neal Appelbaum, Dean More and David Vance.

"The group has diverse backgrounds and experience and that will help in bringing a lot of different ideas to the table for consideration, Reid said.

The IDB will hold monthly meetings and make every effort to keep the public, the county commission and the county executive informed of its activities, Reid said. A regular date and time for meetings has not yet been determined.

Reid said one of the orders of business at its next meeting will be to develop a mission statement, to establish a clear outline of its goals, objectives and priorities.

The new chairman also said establishing a local office and a web site will likely also be considered at the next meeting. The new IDB members will serve in six-year increments. Two will serve for two years and then be rotated off; two will serve for four years and then be rotated off and three will be on for the six year rotation. After that anyone who is appointed will serve for six years.

The number of people named to the board, seven, is the minimum required under its charter. Four are needed for a quorum. The Cannon County IDB was chartered in 1966.

The primary mission of the Industrial Development Board is promoting, developing and assisting in the planned growth of Cannon County's business and industrial community. It is a not-for-profit, public corporation.

WMA ...

lasting legacy of this wildlife management area for the state of Tennessee and its citizens."

Neal Appelbaum, who worked on the grant as well as with state and federal officials through the process, said the dedication made reality of what started as a "small idea."

"When I asked (County Executive) Mike Gannon if I could pursue this outcome we never knew this could be possible," Appelbaum said. "It started as a really small idea. There were so many sticking points just trying to manage all the physical and legal pieces of it that we weren't sure if it was ever going to happen but we are there and we can celebrate."

Gannon said Appelbaum's resilience was paramount in the federal government's transfer of the approximately 1,000 acres on Short Mountain - the highest point in Middle Tennessee.

"This is a wonderful thing for Cannon County and the state of Tennessee," Gannon said. "It will benefit us now and for future generations. Give all the credit to Neal Appelbaum. It was his idea and he worked on it for nearly six years. He does not give up and due to his determination this is where we are today. I am just so thankful for his efforts and everything the state of Tennessee did."

Short Mountain is a critical habitat for plant and animal species, and contains the headwaters for three Tennessee watersheds - the Caney Fork River, the Collins River and the East Fork of the Stones River. The property will be open to the public for small game hunting, hiking and wildlife viewing.

"It is only right for us to protect these lands now and for the generations to come and utilize these lands for recreation and get back in touch with the outdoors," said Ed Carter, executive director of the Tennessee Wildlife Agency. "This was truly a partnership of local, state and federal governments and spans two governors of Tennessee. It's a great day for all of us."

The land was forfeited to the United States as part of the 2007 federal criminal convictions of Morris Roller and Jeffery Carl Young for distribution of marijuana. Roller and Young are currently serving federal sentences of 200 and 224 months, respectively. The transfer was made under a law that allows the Justice Department to convey forfeited property to states for public use for recreation or conservation purposes upon request by the governor or chief executive officer of the state.

Election Commission discusses workers, money

TONY STINNETT
Courier Co-Editor

There was an oddity of sorts during the Cannon County Election Commission regular meeting Thursday (June 14) - Democrats and Republicans were in unanimous agreement on all topics discussed.

Three of the five election commissioners were present - Chairman Jackie Gannon (D), Matt Studd (R) and Sue Patrick (D). Commissioners Lindberg Dennis (R) and Louise Mayo (R) were unable to attend. Dennis was ill and Mayo was dealing with the loss of her mother, Mary "Chilley" Davis Mooneyham, who passed away earlier in the day.

Deputy administrator Dorinda Mankin's salary generated the most discussion during the budget portion of the meeting. Mankin's salary was set at 30 hours and $20,000 annually, a slight increase from the $19,500 that was in the initial budget. It was also stated the position would not accrue overtime and that the employee would be budgeted for 30 hours with comp time.

Election administrator Stan Dobson indicated the salary had not been voted on or approved and suggested it need to be discussed; however, Patrick revealed the issue had been voted on and approved during the May meeting.

"This is what the Board voted for and this is the way it is going to be," Patrick said.

"We have not approved that," Dobson said.

"If you will refer to your minutes from last meeting you will see we took a vote for (Mankin) to be on 30 hours salary with no overtime," Patrick said, and then started reading the previous meetings for factual backing.

"The (County) Commissioners agreed to our budget amendment because they understood we were putting (Mankin) on salary and she would not be drawing overtime again," Patrick said.

According to the minutes, Gannon suggested Mankin be moved to salary based on a 30-hour work week with comp time if she worked over. Patrick said the minutes also indicated Dobson stated he had no problem with Mankin working 30 hours even though he believed she was needed for 34 hours.

Patrick made the motion and it carried 3-1 with Gannon, Mayo and Patrick voted in favor. Studd voted against and Dennis was not present.

During this discussion in the June meeting, Mankin told election commissioners she was willing to meet them halfway and work "32 hours."

The problem, according to Mankin, is time off.

"It is not fair to me when those people (at the Courthouse) get to work 32 hours or more and use their time and lose nothing," Mankin said. "If I take a personal day (sick or vacation) I have to use a full (eight-hour) day. They do not do it by hours. If I take a day (7 hours), I get 8 hours taken out of my pay because that is the way they do it."

Mankin said she has lost a full day of pay since May, 2009.

"You are offering comp time but if I leave this job and have not used that comp time then I lose it and you have worked me for free," Mankin said.

"I would suggest you make sure you use your comp time before you leave," Patrick said.

The commissioners agreed it is not fair for Mankin to have eight hours taken for a personal day when her work day is based on a seven-hour day. They were unanimous in addressing the issue.

After going through the remainder of the budget items the Commission unanimously agreed on the $165,439 budget to be presented to the County Commission, including a 30-hour salary with no overtime for the deputy administrator.

In other business, Helen Minton was added to early voting as a democratic representative.

"We need to add a democrat to early voting because we have to be represented by a democrat, and I want to add someone who voted democrat in the last election," Patrick said.

The commissioners also went through potential poll workers and declared them either as democrats or republicans.

"Are these people with no voting record young people who are now just old enough to vote?," Patrick questioned. "I don't think anyone should work an election if they are not interested enough to vote."

Most of the younger persons who wanted to work and did not have a voting record were young people who have just registered, according to Dobson.

The commissioners went through the list and approved workers for each of the precincts, including one for each party for each location, including Early Voting and Nursing Home. There was discussion regarding party alliance.

"We have to have a delegated democrat and republican at each poll," Patrick said. "I want to be sure we have one at each polling place."

Workers were picked based on their voting record but, specifically, how they voted in the previous election where democrats were concerned.

When Patrick did not want to approve a worker as a democrat because they voted republican in the previous election, Dobson pointed out most of these people are democrats.

Senior Center, SAVE receive funds from UW

The United Way of Rutherford and Cannon Counties announced today its plans for investing a record $2.367 million to the community for the 2012 - 2013 fiscal year.

This amount includes $171,746.98 designated to non-partner agencies per donor wishes, as well as an allocable pool amount of $1,789,000 - the highest to date for the local United Way and a 10% increase from 2011.

For the second year, the local United Way also offered an opportunity for a one-time grant of up to $5,000 to agencies that align with United Way's mission and values. Through the grant opportunity, $36,500 was funded to ten programs.

Organizations in Cannon County that received allocations included the Cannon County Senior Citizens Center, which received $25,000. Cannon County SAVE received a grant for $5,000.

Some of the other organizations receiving grants or partner agency money which partner with Cannon County included the Child Advocacy Center, $39,000.00; Alive Hospice, $39,134.46; American Red Cross Heart of Tennessee Chapter, $135,000 and Legal Aid Society of Middle Tennessee and the Cumberlands, $16,000.

United Way also accounted for $346,654.44 in internal program expenses in addition to $24,000 for 2-1-1 services, an information and referral services line.

"United Way strives to impact the community in the highest degree possible, and funding services is one component of that community impact model," said Brian Hercules, President and CEO of the local United Way. "Our system of identifying issues, developing partnerships, implementing solutions and measuring and reporting outcomes allows us to produce long-term, sustainable results."

The allocable pool funding was invested among United Way's partner agencies by panels involving more than 80 volunteer business and community leaders. Each spring, partner agencies present their funding request to the appropriate allocations panel, which are aligned according to United Way's impact areas of education, income, health and rebuilding lives.

The allocations panels review agency programs and funding requests, visit the agencies at their facilities, and works to ensure a high standard of agency accountability throughout the process. They consider how well the agency is managed, how justified its proposed budget is and the extent to which its services meet high priority community needs.

The allocation panels determine what amount each agency will receive from the proposed services. The panels forward their recommendations to United Way's volunteer Board of Directors. The United Way Board of Directors reviews the recommendations and then approves the final allocation amount to each agency.

United Way also announced a 14% overhead budgeted for the 2012-2013 fiscal year. The organization's financial information may be located at www.uwrutherford.org.

Many farmers having problems with fruit pests

repellent production. Aluminized plastic mulches can be used on new planting; for home gardeners, aluminum foil will serve the purpose. Insecticides with trips activity include dimethoate, Venom, Lannate, Monitor, Rimon, and Radiant. For home gardeners, the spinosad products such as Conserve (Southern Ag) and Ferti-lome Borer, Bagworm, Tent Caterpillar, and Leafminer Spray would be most effective.

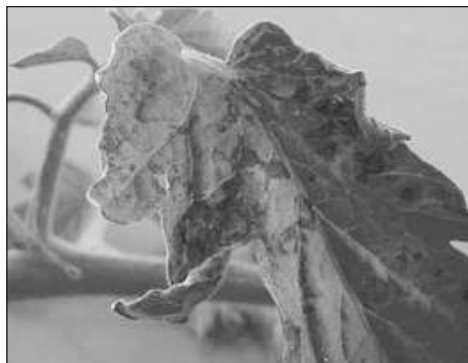

Just a few of the symptoms of tomato spotted wilt:

2. Tomato Pinworms Found in East Tennessee

The early instar caterpillars of tomato pinworms first feed on the tomato foliage as leafminers. As they mature, the caterpillars move to the fruit and chew into it making the pinhead size holes. Damage to fruit can be extensive. Pinworms do not overwinter outside in cold climates. They can overwinter in Tennessee in greenhouses growing tomatoes and then spread to the field if plants are not destroyed in the spring. They can also come in on infested transplants brought in from warm southern states such as Florida. Since it is not a pest that we see every year, look for the blotch-like leaf mines, tied or folded leaves, and holes in stems and fruit. Tomato pinworms can also attack eggplant, potato and several solanaceous weeds.

3. Caterpillars on Cole Crops

Cabbage loopers and imported cabbageworms have been found at damaging levels on cole crops such as broccoli. We started catching cabbage looper moths in pheromone traps May 11. Caterpillars were found in the field soon after. The most common caterpillar in many fields now is the imported cabbageworm. Imported cabbageworms do not have a reduced number of prolegs like cabbage loopers. Imported cabbageworms are a darker green color and have a velvety surface with a faint yellow stripe down the back. The white butterflies with black tips seen in cole crop fields now are adults of the imported cabbageworm. I have not seen any diamondback moth caterpillars yet. They are a much smaller green caterpillar and the tiny moth has a double diamond pattern on the wings.

Japanese Beetles

4. Japanese Beetles

The Japanese beetle adults are active now. They were not caught in the Nashville trap as of May 17 but there were over 80 in the trap by May 30. These pests skeletonize leaves of many types of plants and feed on flowers such as Rose of Sharon, butterfly bush, crepe myrtle and roses. They can also clip the silks of sweet corn preventing pollination of all the kernels.

5. Squash Bugs

Look for the copper color eggs being laid on the leaves of cucurbits. The adults overwinter in fence rows under weeds and plant debris. They move to the plants in the springs to mate and lay their eggs. Try to control the young nymphs that hatch from these eggs to keep population levels under control.

Auburntown News

BY ANNA PATRICK

It was a busy week around my house last week - working in hay during the day and taking part in a wonderful Vacation Bible School at night at Prosperity Baptist - hence the reason for no news in last week's "Courier". And really not much in quantity this week.

It was another baptismal service at Auburn Baptist Church, candidate was Kiley Hughes.

Glad to hear James Hancock went through his surgery great and is now home doing great!

Prosperity Baptist Church was truly blessed with a great Vacation Bible School. There was great Christian competition between the boys and girls as to who could raise the most money for the mission project. It was girls all the way. The looser, Jordan Blackburn representing the boys, had "motor oil" (a.k.a. chocolate syrup) poured over him at the end of Family Night.

Another great Vacation Bible School is coming up July 9th and continuing through July 13th beginning each night at 6:00 and ending at 8:30. There is a class for babies through adults and all are welcome to "come fly with" Auburn Baptist Church.

Friday night was a trip for Robbie Owen, P-pa and I to eat at Captain D's in Murfreesboro and do a "little" shopping.

P-pa and I were in McMinnville Saturday and since we were so close to Morrison we decided to "drop in" on grandson, Rylon Morrison and parents. We tried out the new Mexican restaurant in town, El Arado.

Terry Thomas was "baching" it last week while wife, Betty, was in Orlando, FL at Disneyworld with daughter, Stefanie Gaither, Samantha and Madison.

Here are belated birthday wishes: Lori Jakes celebrated the 13th, Martye Harris had hers the 14th, Ricky Bryson and Justin Whited had their party on the 15th. Roger Turney and Latasha Knox Campbell tacked on another year on the 16th. Jerry Gaither, Beverly Bryan Stanton Bryson and Caitlyn Crook eat cake and ice cream on the 18th with Mable Turney, James Hastings and Tim Heery finishing up our belated wishes.

Roger and Janet Tate celebrated their 33rd year together on the 16th. The following day Mike and Pat Bryson celebrated their 34th. On the 18th Colton and Abby Tuck celebrated their first. Belated wishes to all couples.

Now for the current list: Jana Gaither Wesniewski and Phillip Hayes celebrate their birthday. Joyce Leach has her celebration the 22nd. Judy Todd and Shannon Patrick get to add a year on the 23rd. Dylan Hollandsworth turns sweet 16 on the 24th and winding up our current list is Cason Shirley on the 26th. Happy birthday to all of you.

Happy 22nd wedding anniversary to my daughter, DeAnna and husband, Tim Reed on the 23rd. Brandon and Dwina Reed celebrate their 66h on the 24th. Phillip and Linda Hayes will have spent 41 years of wedded bliss togetherness on the 25th while Balk and Tammy O'Neal have their 24th on the same day. Happy anniversaries and many more years together.

Library News

by RITA ALLEN

Well, it isn't time for snow, but it is time for a visit from SNOWBIRD! Nashville Channel 4's own costume character, Snowbird will be joining the Cannon County Library System's Summer Reading Program festivities on Thursday, June 21st. He will be at the Auburntown Community Center at 10:30 a.m. and at the Woodbury Head Start gymnasium at 1:00 p.m. Please come for a fun time with a local celebrity!

Building progress continues at Adams Memorial Library. The addition's "footprint" is becoming clearer as workers begin to get ready to pour the foundation. We can't guarantee a quiet environment at the moment, but we hope that you are looking forward to the addition's completion as much as we are.

Work is going well on the addition to the Adams Memorial Library. A temporary wall has been constructed about 4 feet in from the old South Wall to keep construction dust down. All of the fixtures and cabinets in the lower level meeting room have been removed and it is undergoing renovation. Every day brings us a new surprise.

Many of you have asked if we will need to be closed during construction. The answer is "yes", but we will make every effort to keep providing service as much as possible and to close for as few days as possible. We do not anticipate any closures upcoming in June, July, or August, (except for 4th of July, of course), so please expect the both libraries to keep regular hours this summer.

Adams Memorial Library still needs help from volunteers who fill DVD cases after checkout and shelf returned DVD's. If you can donate a few hours to help, please stop in for a volunteer application.

Happy summer solstice everyone!

16-U Lions score big in victory

Courier Sports Report

The 16-under Lions continued to enjoy strong offensive performances during their only game in the Murfreesboro Baseball Association Premier League last week.

The Lions secured a 13-2 win against the Murfreesboro Rays with three players enjoying multi-hit performances.

Graden Strang, Jackson Mason and Austin Martin each had two hits as the Lions scored early and often on their way to the easy win. The team had 11 hits in all. Eight players reached base at least twice and ever spot in the lineup scored at least one run.

The Lions improved to 7-0 in league play and 9-0 overall.

The Rays went on top 2-0 in the top of the first but the Lions scored 13 unanswered to roar to the victory. They scored five in the bottom of the first and were never threatened the rest of the way.

Consecutive hits from Strang, Mason, Tucker Francis and Austin Martin opened the floodgates in the first.

Mason, Martin and Cole Barnes all hit run-producing hits in the third inning. Jared Judkins also had a hit, alked twice and scored two runs from his leadoff position.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Asa King of Judah
 I Kings 15 : II Chronicles 14

Asa became king of Judah following the death of his father, Abijah. Although King Abijah had God's help in battle against Jeroboam, king of Israel, his heart was not devoted to the Lord and he did evil as his father had done. Asa did what was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God, removing the foreign altars and the high places, smashed the sacred stones and cut down the Asherah poles. He commanded Judah to seek the LORD and to obey his laws and commands. Asa built up these towns of Judah, putting walls around them, with towers, gates and bars. He proclaimed that the land was theirs because they had sought the LORD.

Asa commanded a well equipped army of three hundred thousand men from Judah and two hundred and eighty thousand from Benjamin. All were brave fighting men. Zerah the Cushite marched out against Judah with a vast army and three hundred chariots, and came as far as Mareshah.

Asa called to the LORD asking for His help. The LORD struck down the Cushites. The Cushites fled and Asa and his army pursued them. Such a great number of Cushites fell that they could not recover; they were crushed before the LORD and his forces. The men of Judah carried off a large amount of plunder and destroyed all the villages around Gerar, for the terror of the LORD had fallen upon them. They plundered the villages, since there was much booty there and they attacked the camps of the herdsmen and carried off droves of sheep and goats and camels. Then they returned to Jerusalem.

The power of praise should match the task

Summer can be a time of new beginnings and new opportunities. Consider a person getting the praise, but it boosts the happiness of the praiser"; states bestnew habit...one of making positive statements about things that affect you every day. A few well-chosen words of praise can lift the spirits of friends, family, neighbors, acquaintances, and co-workers. Those spoken words of praise can also lift your spirits and have a positive influence on your day!

"Praise is gratifying to the selling author Gretchen Rubin. Rubin, author of "The Happiness Project," shares a few ways to give and thereby receive praise:

- Be specific. Vague praise doesn't make an impression; specific praise sounds heartfelt. Instead of "great job!" say, "You have completed the job in record time!"

- Never offer praise and ask for a favor in the same conversation. It makes the praise seem like a set-up for whatever you are asking for.

- Look for something less obvious to praise. Highlighting a quality that the person hasn't heard many times before shows that you are really paying attention, not just repeating what other people have said.

- Praise people behind their backs. Somehow, behind-the-back praise seems more sincere....repeat any b e h i n d - t h e - b a c k compliments that you may hear.

- Match the quality of the praise to the difficulty of the task. For a quick, easy job make a brief praising statement; for a more challenging task...a more lengthy and descriptive praise.

CARLA Y. BUSH, MVTE

UT Extension, Cannon County

- Remember the negativity bias. The "negativity bias" is a psychological phenomenon: People react to the bad more strongly and persistently than to the comparable good. For example, within a relationship, it may take at least five good acts to repair the damage of one bad act. When you praise someone, remember that one critical comment will be far more memorable than several positive ones.

- Praise the everyday as well as the exceptional. When people do something unusual, it is easy to remember to give praise.

What about the things that they do well all the time without recognition? Try to point out how much you appreciate the small services and tasks that someone unfailingly performs.

In her book, "The Happiness Project," Ms. Rubin reminds us that even as we give praise, we may not be getting the praise that we desire. Praise yourself! Give yourself a "Gold Star". If you do not receive outside recognition for a job well done...tell yourself that you are doing this for "Me"; this is what makes you happy, this is what you want to do. Find ways to reward yourself; perhaps chart the things that you accomplish. Express your appreciation for what others do; feel grateful for what others are doing for you. And lastly....this is a BIG one! Remember that being taken for granted is a form of praise! The more reliable that you are, the more likely you are to be taken for granted. If you always help with a specific project or in a specific way, people can overlook your efforts. Really, that is a compliment! Have you thought of a way to praise someone today?

Town of Woodbury Water Quality Report 2011

Is my drinking water safe?

Yes, our water meets all of EPA's health standards. We have conducted numerous tests for over 80 contaminants that may be in drinking water. As you'll see in the chart on the back, we only detected 11 of these contaminants. We found all of these contaminants at safe levels.

What is the source of my water?

Your water, which is surface water, comes from the East Fork of the Stones River and Dillion Spring. Our goal is to protect our water from contaminants and we are working with the State to determine the vulnerability of our water source to potential contamination. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) has prepared a Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP) Report for the untreated water sources serving this water system. The SWAP Report assesses the susceptibility of untreated water sources to potential contamination. To ensure safe drinking water, all public water systems treat and routinely test their water. Water sources have been rated as reasonably susceptible, moderately susceptible or slightly susceptible based on geologic factors and human activities in the vicinity of the water source. The Town of Woodbury sources rated as reasonably susceptible to potential contamination.

An explanation of Tennessee's Source Water Assessment Program, the Source Water Assessment summaries, susceptibility scorings and the overall TDEC report to EPA can be viewed online at www.state.tn.us/environment/dws/dwassess.shtml p or you may contact the Water System to obtain copies of specific assessments.

Why are there contaminants in my water?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Este informe contiene información muy importante. Tradúscalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

For more information about your drinking water, please call Andy Jacobs at 563-2388.

How can I get involved?

Our Water Board meets on the first Tuesday after the first Monday 7:00 p.m. at the Town Hall office. Please feel free to participate in these meetings.

Is our water system meeting other rules that govern our operations?

The State and EPA require us to test and report on our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety. We have met all of these requirements. Results of unregulated contaminant analysis are available upon request. We want you to know that we pay attention to all the rules.

Other Information

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation prescribe regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Town of Woodbury's water treatment processes are designed to reduce any such substances to levels well below any health concern. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Do I Need To Take Special Precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have under-gone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about not only their drinking water, but food preparation, personal hygiene, and precautions in handling infants and pets from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead in Drinking Water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. [NAME OF UTILITY] is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>

Water System Security

Following the events of September 2001, we realize that our customers are concerned about the security of their drinking water. We urge the public to report any suspicious activities at any utility facilities, including treatment plants, pumping stations, tanks, fire hydrants, etc. to 563-2388.

Water Quality Data

What does this chart mean?

- MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal, or the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level, or the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.
- MRDL: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.
- MRDLG: Maximum residual disinfectant level goal. The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- AL - Action Level, or the concentration of a contaminant which, when exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - explained as a relation to time and money as one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - explained as a relation to time and money as one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- TT - Treatment Technique, or a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Contaminant	Violation Yes/No	Level Detected	Range of Detections	Date of Sample	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Total Coliform Bacteria	NO	0		2011		0	<2 positive samples	Naturally present in the environment
Copper	NO	.086		2011	ppm	1.3	AL=1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits; leaching from wood preservatives
Fluoride	NO	1.1	1.0-1.2	2011	ppm	4	4	Erosion of natural deposits; water additive which promotes strong teeth; discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories
Lead <sup>4</sup>	NO	7.6		2011	ppb	0	AL=15	Corrosion of household plumbing systems, erosion of natural deposits
Nitrate (as Nitrogen)	NO	1.2		2011	ppm	1	1	Runoff from fertilizer use; leaching from septic tanks, sewage; erosion of natural deposits
Sodium	NO	4.0		2011	ppm	N/A	N/A	Erosion of natural deposits; used in water treatment
TTHM <sup>6</sup> [Total trihalomethanes]	NO	10	10	2011	ppb	n/a	80	By-product of drinking water chlorination
Haloacetic Acids (HAA5)	NO	10	10	2011	ppb	N/A	60	By-product of drinking water disinfection.
Total Organic Carbon	NO	.94	.73-1.2	2011	ppm	TT	TT	Naturally present in the environment.
Chlorine	No	1.34	.66-1.74	2011	ppm	4	4	Water additive used to control microbes.

During the most recent round of Lead and Copper testing, 0 out of 20 households sampled contained concentrations exceeding the action level.

98.8 % of our samples were below the turbidity limit.

6. While your drinking water meets EPA's standard for trihalomethanes, it does contain low levels. Some people who drink water containing trihalomethanes in excess of the MCL over many years may experience problems with their liver, kidneys, or central nervous systems, and may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

7. We have met all treatment technique requirements for Total Organic Carbon removal.

Microbiological Contaminants:

Turbidity. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can interfere with disinfection and provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity may indicate the presence of disease-causing organisms. These organisms include bacteria, viruses, and parasites that can cause symptoms such as nausea, cramps, diarrhea, and associated headaches. Fluoride. Some people who drink water containing fluoride in excess of the MCL over many years could get bone disease, including pain and tenderness of the bones. Children may get mottled teeth.

Lead. Infants and children who drink water containing lead in excess of the action level could experience delays in their physical or mental development. Children could show slight deficits in attention span and learning abilities. Adults who drink this water over many years could develop kidney problems or high blood pressure.

Notice of Violation:

As required by State rules and regulations, The Town of Woodbury Water Treatment Plant has monitors on each filter that continuously monitor and record the turbidity of the water going through each filter and a monitor that checks the water of all the filters combined before it exits the plant. In December of 2011 the monitor on Filter #1 stopped working and it was in operation longer than 4 hours before it was noticed that it was not reading. The filter was shut down and replacement parts were ordered to correct this problem. During the time of operation the combined monitor was fully operation and did not indicate violations of the turbidity rule.

With this monitor on Filter #1 not recording the turbidity levels, the Town of Woodbury Water Plant was in violation of the Failure to Monitor. We reported the failure to the Cookeville Regional Field Office and have made the necessary correction in training and spare parts are on hand for immediate repairs.

TEASERS & TRIVIA

Ask Ken Beck

Singer Jewel to portray June Carter Cash in TV movie

Dear Ken: Someone told me that there is a new movie in the works based on the life of June Carter Cash. Who will play her and when is it coming out?

The Lifetime network has announced that pop-country singer-songwriter Jewel, 37, will star in "The June Carter Cash Story," which is based on "Anchored by Love," the book by June and Johnny's son John Carter Cash. It will be filmed this summer in Atlanta, and Matt Ross of the TV series "American Horror Story" will portray Johnny Cash. It should hit TV late this year. Jewel and her husband Ty Murray, 42, a nine-time World Champion rodeo cowboy and co-founder of the Professional Bull Riders, live on 2,400-acre ranch in Stephenville, Texas, with their 11-month-old son Kase Townes Murray. Among Jewel's hit songs are "Who Will Save Your Soul," "You Were Meant for Me," "Foolish Games," "Hands," "Standing Still" and "Intuition."

Dear Ken: How old are the girls who starred on "The Brady Bunch" now?

Well, Florence Henderson, who play mother Carol Brady, is 78. Maureen McCormick, who played Marsha, Marsha, Marsha, is 55. Eve Plumb, who played Jan, is 54. Susan Olsen, who played Cindy, is 50. And while she wasn't a Brady girl, Ann B. Davis, who played housekeeper Alice, was like a member of the family and is 86.

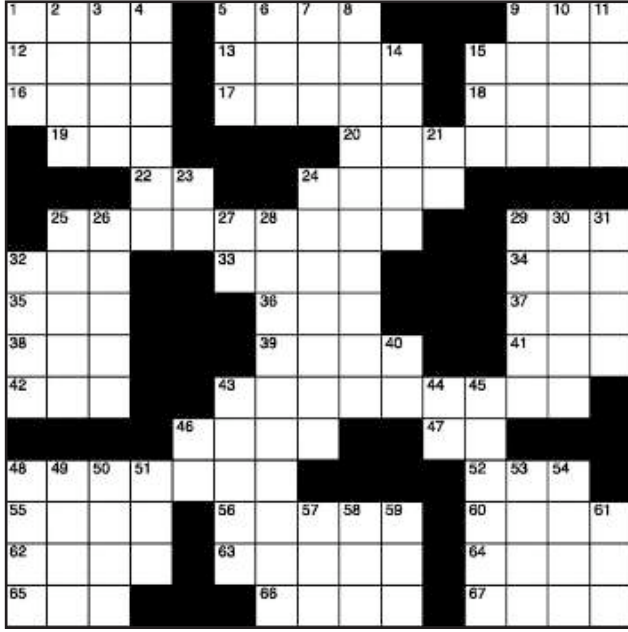

Dear Ken: Who played Redd Foxx's sister-in-law in "Sanford and Son" and what else did she appear in?

That was LaWanda Page as Aunt Esther. She died in 2002 of complications of diabetes at 81 years of age. The stand-up comedian also appeared in such TV series as "The Love Boat," "Diff'rent Strokes," "Starsky and Hutch," "Amen," "Family Matters," "Martin," "Dream On" and "The Sanford Arms." Her movie credits were "The Meteor Man," "My Blue Heaven," "Friday," "Mausoleum" and "Zapped!" Born Alberta Pearl, Page grew up in St. Louis, Mo., a close childhood friend of Foxx. She started her career in nightclubs where she was billed as "The Bronze Goddess of Fire," and her act included her lighting cigarettes with her fingertips and eating fire, probably an occupation of which Aunt Esther would not approve.

Dear Ken: When and how did country music star Johnny Horton die?

Horton died when a truck collided with his car on a bridge near Milano, Texas, at about 2 a.m. on Nov. 5, 1960. He was 35. Among his big hits were "The Battle of New Orleans," "North to Alaska," "When It's Springtime in Alaska (It's Forty Below)," "Sink the Bismarck," "Honky Tonk Man," "I'm a One-Woman Man" and "Sleepy-Eyed John."

Branden Schwartz went to see Jacob Raines play baseball recently and a team called Crossfire came up and huddled around him to say a prayer for him. This coach said that they pray for Branden before every one of their games. What an inspiration this was to everyone around. Branden is 10 years old and is battling cancer.
