Adams Memorial expands library

Major project to cost $1.5M

A $1.5 million expansion is now under way at Woodbury's J.F. Adams Memorial Library .

When completed, the project is expected to meet the growth of its 5,500 registered users. Library officials say the 3,000 square foot addition will also update the original building including the community meeting room.

"It is the goal of the association's board of directors to have raised the funds and open the building around the end of 2012 debt free," said Austin Jennings, board member.

"The building is provided to the county at no cost," Jennings said. "The county library board, named by the county commissioners, operates the library at a very nominal cost to the county and city, which funds only the salaries and utilities," he

The library has the highest per capita circulation of any similar facility in Middle Tennessee.

In addition to books, computers and other services, the library offers a community meeting room in the lower level that is available for other non-profit organizations and other public uses at a fee less than the cost of heating and cooling.

Ironically, the library had its beginnings at the burial of its namesake, Dr. J.F. Adams.

Jennings was approached at the cemetery by Sol Berger and Leonard Friedman, the top executives of the Colonial Corporation of America. Together, the men discussed a proper memorial for Dr. Adams.

"It is generally conceded that Dr. Adams was one of our

Ed Coates pleased by students' sense of accomplishment

TONY STINNETT

Courier Sports Editor

"Ed Coates is in his sixth year teaching carpentry at Cannon County High School and nothing pleases him more than the sense of accomplishment students realize when they achieve a task.

Students involved in the carpentry curriculum at CCHS have vast opportunities to fulfill numerous tasks through a hands-on approach that verifies they understand the program of study and the ability to apply it.

In the past two years carpentry students have completed the current shop building, several structural buildings, a new ticket booth for football and picnic tables amongst other items. Applying the knowledge learned from books seems to spark a keen interest in students who aspire to make carpentry their trade.

"You can talk all day about different skills you need that is required but when you are out there and can actually watch them perform those tasks and learn stuff with the saw, drill, screw gun, whatever, and make assessments while you are out there, that's when you can tell they are learning how to do things," Coates said. "They are not only gaining knowledge from a book, but they are also doing

Equipment malfunction cuts electric power off More than 7,000 MTEMC members lost power Wednesday for as much as three hours and 15 minutes following an equipment failure at the substation feeding most of Cannon County.

The outage started at about 6 p.m., affecting the majority of the county. MTEMC crews and technicians were able to restore power to some members over the course of the outage, which ended at approximately 9:17 p.m.

Todd Palmer of MTEMC explained it was a mechanical failure that caused the outage.

"It was just one of those unforeseen circumstances where some equipment malfunctioned and caused the problem. Mechanical failures are an unfortunate reality of technology," Palmer said.

Cates Farm is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and the Association for the Preservation of Tennessee Antiquities and now on the Land Trust.

Readyville's Cates Farm joins Land Trust

Steve Cates tells the story of his family's farm during a celebration naming it to the Land Trust. At right is Emily Parrish, land protection manager of the Land Trust.

By MIKE WEST

Courier Editor
Cates Farm, located on Cripple Creek Road near Readyville, has become one of the first area farms to join the Land Trust.

Brothers Steve and Ben Cates reached the agreement to put their 117acre farm into a permanent conservation agreement.

"My brother and I support the mission of the Land Trust and we are happy to see the original part of this farm where we grew up, and where our ancestors have lived for so many generations, preserved in its current state." said State Cates.

state," said Steve Cates.

"We take special joy in seeing my brother's grandsons, Bryan and Joseph Jakes, the eighth generation of our family to occupy this farm, and their parents Shannon C. and Andy Jakes, enjoying it today," Steve said.

Land Trust for Tennessee is a private, not-for-profit 501(c)(3) charitable organization, founded in 1999. Goal of the group is to preserve the unique character of Tennessee's and natural historic future landscapes for generations.

The Cates brothers donated a conservation easement in perpetuity to the Land Trust. This means the landowners still owns the property and can use it, sell it or leave it to heirs, but the scenic, wildlife and conservation purposes of the land will be maintained permanently.

Land Trust has protected more than 84,000 acres of land in Tennessee and is working with numerous other landowners in the Volunteer State.

Cates Farm has been in continuous agricultural use for more than 150 years.

Isaac and Elizabeth McGill were the original owner, purchasing 118 acres for $400 on July 4, 1846.

The farm, located along Cripple Creek, features rich bottom lands and nearly 50 acres of forest. The original farm house, built on or before 1846 as a double-pen log cabin is still in use today.

Mary McGill inherited the farm in 1863. She married Benjamin Becton, a former Confederate soldier, in 1866.Benjamin sold the farm to his grand daughter, Bessie Carnahan Cates and her husband, J.V. Cates Sr. The property then went to J.V. Cates Jr and his wife Mary Dee Ready, the parents of Steve and Ben. "One of the most momentous turning points in the modern history of this farm included two decisions made by Joe Cates. In 1935, he brought Mary Dee Ready, from the Porterfield Community of Cannon County, whom he had met at Kittrell, here to live as his bride. In the early 1940s, he decided to leave his job as a cheesemaker at a creamery in Murfreesboro to be a fulltime dairy farmer," Steve

They also raised broiler chickens, walking horses and hogs in addition to row crops.

In the 1960s, they raised beef cattle instead of continuing the dairy. Mary Ready Cates continued ownership and operation following the death of her husband in 1987 until her own death in 2011. The Cates brothers now own and operate the farm.

"For Ben and me and our recent family history, the most important birth here occurred on Dec. 16, 1914, in this log room, of our father, Joseph Vinson Cates, Jr. He came into a houseful of people, for not only were his parents here and the doctor and his two sisters, but also his grandmother Cates and two maiden aunts, and his uncle Ernest Cates and his wife and six children and they were not just visiting; they all lived here," he said.

"Our father died in the log room where he was born in May 1987, and our mother died there in November 2011. She had the longest, continuous residence in the home, an unbroken period of 76

The Cates home will be available for use by both current and future family members and, through the agreement with the Land Trust, another home can be constructed on the property. The land can be used for most any type of agricultural operation and certain, necessary farm structures can be built.

"I can only hope that it brings them the joy and fulfillment that the farm and home have brought to the many generations who came before," Steve said.

Maybe "celebrate" is the wrong word? Let's see ... Perhaps "experience" is better? After all, Halloween isn't a holiday like Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July.

My interpretation of Halloween puts the emphasis on the oldfashioned idea of trick-ortreating with kids in costumes going door-todoor collecting candy.

Back in my day, most of the costumes were homemade. Oh, there were a few scary masks but most of the time we would dress up like a cowboy or cowgirl or maybe even Davy Crockett.

That didn't stop us from walking across half the town collecting candy, apples and popcorn. And we were too chicken to pull many tricks other than a little soap on a window or tipping over a jack-olantern. Heck, collecting candy was our thing.

Now my father's generation was different when it came to Halloween.

First of all, there were no costumes ... period except

The West family was lucky cause they lived on the paved highway running from Woodbury to McMinnville. When the weather was hot, you could pull up a chunk of melted asphalt and chew it like gum. But not on Halloween. All the nearby children would gather together and walk up and down the roads velling and screaming and trying to be

Oh yes, there would be some mischief like turning over the outhouses at Leoni School which was surrounded by towering white and red oak trees. Yep the little two-room school was the heart of the community especially after the WPA improved things.

The basketball court was outside and made of hard, hard dirt. The gym at Woodbury was a marvel almost too sophisticated for country folk.

But back to Halloween. It was a time for merriment. Older boys would pull some real stunts like disassembling a farm wagon or buggy and putting it back together on the roof of a shed or even

Some houses they would hurry by like the man who would watch for them and shoot his shotgun up straight in the air to scare them off.

But mostly it was all innocent fun just like my daughter's form of Halloween.

Her version was more high-toned. She had to have a costume. Uh, make that a nice costume usually ordered from some online store like Disney. Most years she was a princess She might be Pocahontas or a maiden from the queen's court. Her favorite costume was a lion, complete with a furry mane and a long, furtipped tail. She grinned from ear-to-ear as we went from door-to-door in our subdivision.

But that was a few years

Now days, Halloween parties or trunk-in-treating are more in vogue. Trunkor-treating involves cars loaded with candy in the parking lot of usually a church. It's nice, safe fun just like the Halloweens of

'Doc' Reuhland: Ultimate Tennessee Volunteer

They came from all walks of life as family, lawmen, physicians, patients, and friends, to say farewell to a man who left a vast foot print on his community...to wit...the Volunteer State. Dr. Leon Reuhland was the ultimate Tennessee "volunteer," with imprints of his life left in the highest mountains in East Tennessee to the lowest flatlands of West

Thankfully, his most profound legacy live on in his beloved Middle Tennessee that he called "home" with residences in Cannon and Rutherford counties. More about him being the "ultimate volunteer" with a heart to serve the peoples he befriended while residing the last 50 years of his life in the geographic heart of Tennessee:

For nearly 30 years, without compensation, the good medical doctor served as "coroner" of Cannon County, where he first hung his shingle in the basement of Woodbury's old Good Samaritan Hospital.

In this venue, the doctor built associations throughout Tennessee law enforcement circles, as evidenced by retired TBI Director Arzo Carson who gave a very touching eulogy at Dr. Reuhland's recent memorial service. That meant, Dr. Reuhland was "on call" not only to this patients 24/7, he was on call round-the-clock anytime law enforcement personnel needed him on murders, car crashes, suicides...virtually any tragedy that occurred in his home communities. This was the unsalaried "private side" of Dr. Reuhland's "public service"

"Cannon County's modern jail's construction started in the early 1990s with Sheriff Robert Simpson, after an inmate had filed a lawsuit against the community, charging inhumane conditions in the previous jail that served more than a century on Woodbury Public Square," noted retired Cannon Courier publisher Andy Bryson. "Doc" Reuhland met with the late Sheriff Simpson and other members of the Law Enforcement Committee, including (the late) County Commissioner James B. Jernigan," Bryson traced back in time. "We toured multiple modern jails, including Rutherford and Coffee counties. "Doc took the lead on the project, over-seeing early construction, making many recommendations to the contractor and architect," Bryson concluded.

Perhaps Dr. Reuhland's most impactful "volunteerism effort" came in the mid-1990s, when it was rumored Nashville's Hospital Corporation of America was to close Woodbury's Stone's River Hospital. Retired HCA attorney Greg Tucker recently appeared on WGNS Radio's hour-long "Truman Jones' Show with Bryson and this writer to pay tribute to the multi-talented Good Samaritan physician.

"I met with a group of doctors initially, to consider a game plan to explore the purchase of Stone's River Hospital when as HCA was already moving services to their HCA-owned facility in McMinnville," Tucker noted. "There was one doctor there, who sat and listened quietly...and after the meeting, Dr. Reuhland approached me, saying he didn't know how to go about purchasing and running a hospital, but that he would listen and learn. "I thought about my meeting this Dr. Reuhland, approached HCA, and told them they were to get credit for helping save the Stone's River Hospital in

Of Wisdom DAN WHITTLE

Woodbury, by selling it to a group, headed by Dr. Reuhland and his good name," Tucker added. "It probably saved us a million dollars or more, when I advised HCA Dr. Reuhland would be the front person, with his reputation and good name, and within two years of taking out the loan with (now retired) Mr. Bill Smith's (former) bank in Woodbury, we'd paid off our indebtedness...

"At that time, Stone's River was the only debtfree hospital operating in Tennessee," Tucker accounted. I first met Dr. Reuhland when he called my newspaper in 1990, asking if I would accompany him to York VA Medical Center where a military veteran patient had been refused treatment. After his impassioned plea, York VA officials never again refused medical treatment to one of his veteran patients.

A very touching final tribute came at Doc Reuhland's final resting place, Woodbury's beautiful Riverside Garden cemetery, where Cannon Sheriff's Deputy Steve McMillan stood at the end of the casket, holding a portable radio, when a call for Unit 330 (Reuhland's call number) from 911 Dispatcher Kim Hall was broadcast...after brief radio silence, the dispatcher confirmed: "Unit 330 is now 10-7"...the universal code that "Unit 330" is "out of service.'

That was the perfect "end" to Dr. Leon Reuhland's "volunteer servant" life that spanned 77 years, until his death on Oct. 4, 2012.

Amen!!

To the Editor

Reader urges NO vote on sales tax increase

I am speaking directly to all voters who will go to the polls on Tuesday November 6th, 2012. No matter whom you vote for or what your political affiliation may be, we all are affected by the decision we will make on the referendum for a Sales Tax Increase placed on the ballot by our County Commissioners.

I urge all of you to take the time and consider for a moment exactly what they have asked you to do. Simply put, they want you to vote to increase your own taxes. If they had the power to levy the tax they would. However, an increase in sales tax has to go before the public on a referendum vote.

I hold no grudge toward any of them for voting to place the referendum on the ballot, but I do question the logic they gave in doing so. It does not seem logical to me that the same group who a couple of meetings ago stated the reason they were lowering their pay from $50.00 per meeting to $25.00 per meeting was to save the taxpayer money and not put the additional expense on the citizens now want you to vote to increase your taxes in November, Russell Reed and Jim Bush were the only two members of the Commission who voted NO on the Sales Tax referendum During these very tough economic times with high unemployment rates, high gas prices and high food prices raising the sales tax on the items that we need the most just do not make any sense. The sales tax affects and hurts the poorest citizens of our community. The sales tax affects items like food. clothing and the everyday necessities of life. Things like shirts, socks, diapers, baby food, milk, eggs, cereal and bread are all items that will increase if we vote YES to increase the sales tax.

Imagine for a moment that you are one of the many who live on a fixed income. For those who have that burden due to disabilities, retirement or whatever reason many times struggle to make ends meet and stretch their money from week to week or in many cases month to month. Any additional burden like higher sales tax will cause an even bigger strain on them.

GOD has blessed me and given me the ability to pay the increase and hopefully he has you as well, but there are many who cannot and those will be the ones who suffer the most. I urge everyone who plans to vote in the upcoming election to vote NO against the Sales Tax

County commission no longer has confidence in EMA Director Morse

By MIKE WEST Courier Editor

Cannon County C o m m i s s i o n e r sunanimously voted Saturday, October 13 they have "no confidence" in Faye Morse, director of the Office of Emergency Management.

This vote was one of three actions taken by the against commissioners Morse. She was also dismissed from Cannon County's Homeland Security Committee and County Executive Mike Gannon was told to remove her from her EMA post.

"We are telling him (Gannon) _ not asking him that she should be removed.' said

Commissioner Jim Bush. Morse was not present for the meeting, but she did send a letter of resignation to the commission from her post as Cannon County fire chief. Gannon was also absent and was attending a funeral.

The action on Morse followed lengthy presentation by Roy Sullivan, director of the 911 Cannon County Emergency Communications District.

"I have major concerns with the current Cannon County Office Emergency Management directed by Faye Morse. Being responsible for dispatching all emergency agencies in Cannon County, I personally witness the inadequate response by Cannon County Emergency Management when they are needed most," Sullivan said.

the Under current agreement, EMA responsible for coordination of disaster mitigation, preparedness, response and recovery activities.

"I do not feel that Cannon Emergency County Management is currently prepared for any sort of major incident or mass casualty incident and past incidences verify this point," Sullivan said. "Time and time again it has been a problem trying to contact EMA when they are requested."

Sullivan said he believes the tensions between the 911 district and EMA date back to 2007 and a major auto accident near the current site of Save A-Lot the wreckage in addition to leaking diesel fuel.

"After 20 minutes of trying to contact local EMA, I instructed dispatch to request mutual aid from Rutherford County Special operations to stop the diesel leak and keep it from going into a small creek nearby, he said.

Rutherford County arrived about 25 minutes later and started the containment. Shortly thereafter EMA Allen Morse arrived "and wanted to know in a very agitated voice who requested Rutherford County and told him I did. He became irate and said that I needed to call the locals. I told him dispatch tried to for 20 minutes.'

Sullivan also questioned federal Homeland Security grants and equipment that been awarded to EMA.

"There has been hundreds of thousands of dollars awarded to Cannon County from Homeland Security to coordinate disaster mitigation. There has been very little structure other than documentation from the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency as to where all this money has all went," Sullivan said.

The 911 director cited examples including a mobile command unit and digital ID system for emergency responders.

"Cannon County EMA had a budget of over $13,000 for the past three years and received well over a half a million dollars in grant money. The Cannon County Rescue Squad, which is totally volunteer, has until this fiscal year, only received a little over $3,000 in county funding but you can see where every dollar has gone in that department and currently has a very impressive rescue unit. Can Cannon County EMA show where so much funding has gone?" Sullivan asked.

Of particular interest to the County Commissioners was the case of a 2006 Ford F250 pickup truck which was reported as inoperable for nearly two years with a blown engine.

"The status of this vehicle is not known for sure, but documentation shows that it was listed as a trade in on another vehicle on May 16, 2011 to a dealership in Murfreesboro. The trade in value is listed as $2,000," Sullivan said.

When County Commissioner Bush went to the dealership to inquire about the deal for the County-owned truck, he was denied any information and told if he came back he should bring an attorney.

County Commission Chairman Bob Stoetzel told his fellow commissioners that it was responsibility to forward this Sullivan's report and other information to the Tennessee State Comptroller's Office for a possible investigation.

After some discussion, the commission agreed and an initial report has been turned over to the state.

The panel also voted to abolish the current Cannon County EMA Committee. Plans are to restructure it at the next commission meeting.

Roy Parker was selected by the Cannon County Saturday Commission (October 20) to fill the unexpired term of the late Coach Mike Mayfield on the school board.

"Traditionally we would look at the person who finished second in the election," said Commission Chairman Bob Stoetzel.

Shelly Walkup placed second to Mayfield but was unable to accept the position due to other commitments, Stoetzel said. She suggested her husband, Phillip Walkup, for the post.

Also nominated for the school board seat was retired teacher Cary Lee Caputo and former board member Parker, who said he would be glad to serve in the post until the election. Parker also said he would not seek re-election clearing the way for candidates who wanted to serve on the Year by year we find that many of the simplest tasks in life become something of a burden delivered upon us by aging or disability. One of these tasks can be as routine as taking a bath. ### UT Extension Service

BY BRUCE STEELMAN

Renovate your lawn in early fall

Early fall is an excellent time to renovate a weak of cool-season turfgrass species, says University of Tennessee Extension Turfgrass Specialist Tom Samples. He advised that seed of many improved varieties of fescues and Kentucky bluegrass have arrived in lawn and gardening stores just in time for planting.

For best results, the lawn expert says seeds need to be in direct contact with soil and the soil needs to be fertile and loose. "The germination process begins when seeds take in water," Samples said. "Seeds lodged in aerial shoots or suspended in thatch above the soil surface are capable of germinating, seedlings developing seldom survive unless the primary root breaking through the seed coat quickly moves into soil." Samples says Kentucky bluegrass seed usually require two to three weeks to germinate compared to tall fescue seeds, which most often germinate in six to 12 days.

Seed size influences the recommended interseeding rate. For example, one pound of tall fescue seed usually contains more than 230,000 seeds per pound, while one pound of Kentucky bluegrass seed contains 1.5 million or more seeds per pound. If, at present, turfgrass plants cover about one-half of the surface, the recommended interseeding rate is calculated by multiplying the recommended "bare ground" planting rate by 0.5.

For example, the recommended interseeding rate for a tall fescue lawn with 50 percent ground coverage would be at least three pounds per 1,000 ft. The sq. recommended interseeding rate of a Kentucky bluegrass lawn with an existing ground coverage of 50 percent would be at least one pound of seed per 1,000 sq. ft.

outdoor power Many equipment rental centers lease walk-behind, mechanized seeders engineered to plant seeds in rows or channels without severely damaging the lawn. Other options to improve seed contact with soil include aerifying or dethatching the lawn before broadcasting seed, and applying a thin (e.g., 1/8- to 1/4-inch) layer of mature compost or pulling a drag mat in several directions the across lawn immediately after interseeding.

Ideally, a newly interseeded lawn should be lightly irrigated as needed throughout the day to insure that water is available to support seed germination and seedling growth. As seedlings increase in size and roots reach a greater soil depth, more water can be applied less often (e.g., one-half inch, or about 300 gallons per 1,000 sq. ft., twice each week). Although light, daily irrigation is often necessary promote germination, an established lawn should be irrigated in the early morning (3 to 6 a.m.). The goal is to reduce evaporation, and to limit the amount of time turfgrass leaves remain moist and prone to attack by fungal pathogens.

Routine mowing at an appropriate cutting height after inter-seeding will seedlings.

Oh Deer! Tis the season for deer and autos to collide

If you are like me, and bless your heart if you are, there is never a day that goes by when I drive on Tennessee roads that I don't see a deer crossing the roadway wherever I travel. They used to be only seen in rural areas of the state. but now they are even found on streets in our major cities.

Deer continue to be a major cost and time lost factor for drivers in the state due to automobile accidents. In a recent news release from the Tennessee Highway Patrol, it reports in Tennessee, between 2007 and 2011, 9.2 percent of deer-related crashes occurred on interstate highways. In 2011, there were 5,644 deer-related crashes, including 285 that involved injuries and two that were fatal. That was up by 4.2 percent from 5,418 the previous year. They also say that since 2007, deerrelated crashes Tennessee have increased 5.9 percent. Tennessee Farm Bureau Insurance, one of the state's leading auto insurers, saw an average of 6,493 deerrelated crashes per year over a five year period from 2005 to 2010, with November being the month with the most crashes, averaging 1,202, and December coming in second with 856, followed by October with 696.

The fall season is the time of the year when deer are more on the move. Due to their mating season occurring this time of the vear, as well as it also being hunting season, causing deer to be flushed out of their normal surroundings, they are crossing the roads in all areas in large numbers. It is very important to be aware of the increase of deer activity at this time of year and keep a close eye out for deer on the side of the road. Be sure to remember also that if you see one, more than likely there will be others to follow.

In the release from the highway patrol they give some good suggestions from the Department of and Homeland Security and the Tennessee Resources Agency to h e l p prevent deerrelated crashes during this peak mating and hunting  $s\ e\ a\ s\ o\ n$ time of the vear.

Their suggestions are:

Whenever you see deer cross the road, expect more to follow. Many times, the second or third deer crossing becomes the one that motorists hit.

attentive; defensively, constantly scanning the roadside, especially at daybreak and dusk.

Do not swerve to avoid contact with deer. This could cause the vehicle to flip or veer into oncoming traffic, causing a more serious crash. Swerving also can confuse the deer as to where to run.

When you spot a deer, slow down immediately. Proceed slowly until you pass that point.

If you do collide with a deer, never approach the iniured animal. They are powerful and can cause bodily harm to a human. Report any deer collision, even if the damage is

If you have ever been involved in a collision with a deer, you know the out come is not very good for either one of you. Many times people do not know just what to do when this does occur and the THP suggests that if you do have a deer crash, move the vehicle as far off the road as possible, and dial *THP (*847) from an available cell phone for assistance. The call will be connected to the THP nearest Communications Center and a state trooper will be dispatched to the location.

The deer population continues to grow with damage occurring not only to automobiles, but to farm crops, fences, gardens and lawns as well. The concern over the state's herd growth continues to be an ongoing study to see what the future may hold for controlling the deer population in our state. The most productive way to control deer numbers is by hunting managed by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency. They estimate the state's herd at over 900,000 deer with that population continuing to increase at the rate of 1-2 percent per year for the near future. The number of hunters averages around 217,400, which is a decline from the 1990s when more hunters were involved in the sport. It is a difficult task for the agency to keep the numbers balanced with hunter decline and deer increase, but they do so with hunting limits and regulated season dates.

The important thing is to not use your brand new Chevrolet to bag your limit this year. Slow down and watch for deer on the side of the road as they move about this time of the year.

Ed available for WIC clients

Good nutrition for pregnant women, infants and children ages five and under just got easier for residents Cannon County. The Cannon County Health Department is now offering online education for clients of the Women, Infants

Children, or WIC, program. "Nutrition education for some WIC participants can now be done at home or wherever you can use a computer," said Barbara Prater, nursing supervisor for Cannon County Health Department. "If WIC clients do not have a computer, a WIC kiosk is available at the Cannon County Health Department."

Eligible WIC clients can use health department computer on the kiosk and follow the easy instructions to complete a 10 minute module on nutrition. When the module is complete, clients receive a certificate and the office assistant will print their WIC vouchers.

Online WIC education can also be done outside the health department. Eligible clients who are currently enrolled in the WIC program and are not considered high risk or receiving therapeutic formulas can go to http://health.state.tn.us/wice du/ to access online education. If a printer is not available, the client can write down the name of the completed session, their certificate number, the date and the time the session was finished and bring that information to the health department on their next WIC visit.

"Our goal is to make it easy for pregnant women, infants and young children to receive nutritious food and reliable nutrition information," Prater said. "Good nutrition during pregnancy helps reduce infant mortality and good nutrition from infancy through the preschool years helps children get started on healthy habits for life.'

He was the only officer in the Air Force service to receive this award in the State of Tennessee.

A letter from his commanding officer, Arno H. Luehman, Frigadier General, USAF, Robbins Air Force Base, Georgia, is as follows:

"I should like to extend my congratulations to you upon your appointment membership in the "Million Dollar Club." It was not easy to qualify for this distinction. It demanded from you hard work and thorough planning, and I know that you are proud genuinely membership in this honorary association has conferred upon you.

You have been instrumental in saving the Air Force a million dollars, which is a fitting testimonial to the super caliber of your performance of duty in behalf of recruiting. It is also an indication of the increased emphasis and additional effort you have given the prior service phase of our

Your success is worthy of our highest praise and regard, and we consider ourselves indeed fortunate to have you as a member of the Force Recruiting Service."

our community's most ardent supporters and had made the quality of life for our people much better by his influence," Jennings said.

The three men decided that a statue was inadequate and something that would help the people of Cannon County was preferable.

It was Jennings who suggested the library project.

A few days later, a group of Woodbury businessmen, most being members of the Woodbury Lions Club, met at Hoyt Bryson's law office and organized The Dr. and Mrs. J.F. Adams Memorial Association. Plans were discussed for a fund-raising campaign to fund the project.

Among those in attendance were Sol Berger, Leonard Friedman, Hoyt Bryson, Ed Lehning, W.I. Womack, W.L. Richardson, Walden Wat-son, R.W.

Hawkins, and R.H. Burke. Jennings, the only surviving member of the group, named chairman.

Current board members include Wilma Adams, Steve Smith, Barbara Parker, Gerald Molitor, Iackie Francis, Regina Merriman, Donnie Odom, Charlie Harrell, Angie Ott, Herb Alsup and Rita Allen, who serves as library director.

The association is incorporated as a non-profit corporation and was designated by the IRS as a 501 (c) (3) charitable organization, providing the best opportunity to give donors full tax advantage of their gifts.

Before construction of the orginal library building began, Berger engaged the services of the same architect used in construction of his factory buildings and plans were drawn for the structure.

Mrs. Adams donated the lot next door to their home on College Street for the structure.

"A fund-raising campaign was launched and the people of the county were very generous to give a total of $85,000," Jennings said.

After construction began it became obvious that the library could not be built for that amount of money, so the board went to the Bank of Commerce and borrowed $55,000.

"The bank discounted the note and it was paid off later. Mr. Berger provided approximately $80,000 of the entire $160,000 cost of the building. The building was dedicated in July 1966," Jennings said.

Mrs. Adams and members of the family were very generous in providing additional pieces property to the memorial organization.

Rental income from those properties provided funds to properly maintain the buildings and grounds. The Adams home was also deeded to the association following Mrs. Adams' death.

By the fall of 1995 the estate of Mrs. Maedell Banks Rogers was settled and the association received a bequest of $135,000 which was added to the trust fund which now total well over

These funds are invested to provide income for maintenance and upkeep as well as additions to the facility and equipment.

One major contribution to library was the computerization of its catalog and connection to the internet.

Quandrants do little to ease playoff travel

By the time you read this column, we'll be just a few days short of the announcement of bracket pairings for the playoffs. Many fans feel as though it's the most important time of the year.

These fans have two burning questions on their minds. First – "Who has qualified for the playoffs?" Second - "Who's paired against each other in opening round play?'

With the need for wild card selections, there's

Upset at Upperman?

B.J. Daniel, 24, and the Cannon County's football team will go to Baxter seeking to end a 19-game losing streak in the season finale Friday. The Lions' last win was an overtime triumph at Upperman to conclude the 2010 football season.

The creation of quadrants by T.S.S.A.A. came about to help reduce travel in the playoffs, especially in early round action. It was hoped that schools would not have the big expense of transporting teams, cheerleaders and sometimes bands in the first couple of weeks of the post-

actually a third important question. "What quadrant are we playing in?" Here in middle Tennessee, teams have the potential to travel east or west in the post season, depending on the makeup of the brackets.

When you look at playoff possibilities, it's obvious that administrators are already having to consider a three or four hour bus ride in early November.

Keep in mind that such considerations are based on playoff possibilities that were posted last week, prior to the completion of Week 9 games.

Class 1A – Cloudland High School, located in Roan Mountain, may very well wind up in the same quad with either Copper Basin and/or Lookout Valley. Either way, it's more than a four-hour bus ride from Roan Mountain to both Copper Basin and Lookout Valley.

Class 2A - Hampton and Boyd Buchanan will both likely wind up in the same quad.

If they do, one will experience a 230-mile trip to the other's campus. According to mapquest, that's more than

Class 3A - At least three different possibilities of a three-hour bus ride exist for various teams here. It's 173 miles from Westmoreland to Tyner Academy in Chattanooga, 171 miles from Ashland City (Cheatham County) to Tyner and 161 miles from Lewis County to Memphis Manassas. All three trips are estimated to take Class 4A – The longest potential early round trip is 200 miles. That's how far it is from Greeneville to DeKalb County High School in Smithville.

Class 5A - Two possibilities of more than a three-hour bus ride exist in 5A. Those trips include journeys from Columbia to Lenoir City (204 miles) and Columbia to Walker Valley (190 miles).

Class 6A - The longest possibility here involves Memphis Whitehaven and Dickson County. That's a threehour trip of 183 miles

Second-half collapse buries Blue Raiders

MTSU Sports Report

STARKVILLE, Miss. Middle Tennessee held its own for a half, but the No. 15/16 Mississippi State Bulldogs used 35 unanswered points to take a 45-3 victory over the Blue Raiders at Davis Wade Stadium Saturday.

The Blue Raiders (4-3) limited MSU (7-0) to just 10 points in the first half. However, a pair of MT miscues in the second half catapulted Mississippi State to a 21 point third quarter. The Bulldogs amassed 446 offensive yards, holding MT to 306.

Quarterback Logan Kilgore threw 16 completions out of 25 attempts for 159 yards. The redshirt junior moved to seventh all-time at MT, passing Marvin Collier's (1985-88) mark of 4,234 yards.

Senior wide receiver Anthony Amos grabbed six catches for 93 yards to lead the Blue Raider receiving corps. Freshman Jordan Parker totaled 66 yards on 13 carries, while Reggie Whatley added six rushes for 48 yards.

Jajuan Harley led the MT defense with eight tackles. Kenneth Gilstrap and Chris Sharpe added four solo stops on Saturday. To open the game, Mississippi State used a long and methodical possession to take a 7-0 lead. The Maroon and White capped a 7:08 drive with a Tyler Russell four yard touchdown pass to Chris Smith. MSU added a 32-yard field goal to take a 10-0 lead into the second quarter.

MT continued to hold the MSU offense at bay and finally broke the shutout with five minutes left in the first half. Carlos Lopez connected on a 32-yard field goal to make it a 10-3 contest.

A MSU drive with two minutes left in the half was stalled when Shubert Bastien forced a fumble and Kendall Dangerfield recovered the ball. Bastien earned his fourth force in his career, while Dangerfield grabbed his second fumble recovery. Bastien registered three tacklesfor-loss against the Bulldogs.

The Blue Raiders had 24 plays for 159 yards, while Mi ssissippi State gained 211 offensive yards on 39 plays. At the half, Kilgore was 7-of-12 for 96 yards. Parker led MT with 43 yards on seven carries.

Middle Tennessee ended up empty handed on their opening second half drive. On MSU's first third quarter drive, LaDarius Perkins broke through for 64 yards to give the Bulldogs a 17-3 edge with 7:30 left.

The third quarter proved to be daunting for MT. A Kilgore interception set up a prime offensive opportunity for MSU. Russell threw an 11 touchdown to Smith, giving the Bulldogs a 24-3 lead. Another Blue Raider miscue late in the third allowed the Bulldogs to streak to a 31-3 lead.

Several of the class went to school together for twelve years. This year the class Valedictorian, Cathy Cook Bennett, died of lung cancer. ### EATURES FROM THE BIBLE

Jehoshaphat King of Judah

I Kings 22; II Chronicles 17, 19, 20, 21

Jehoshaphat was Asa's son and became king of Judah at age thirty five succeeding Asa. He reigned in Jerusalem twenty-five years. In the early years of his reign the Lord was with Jehoshaphat because he walked in the ways his father David had followed. The LORD established the kingdom under his leadership and all of Judah brought gifts to Jehoshaphat. His heart was dedicated to the ways of the LORD and he removed the Asherah poles from Judah. Early in his reign He sent his officials along with priest and Levites to teach the book of the law of the Lord in the towns of Judah. The fear of the LORD fell on the kingdoms of the lands surrounding Judah and they did not make war with Jehoshaphat. Philistines brought Jehoshaphat gifts and silver as tribute, and the Arabs brought As he became more and more powerful he built forts and store cities in Judah and had large supplies in the towns of Judah. He also kept experienced fighting men in Jerusalem.

Last week puzzle answers

Oscar, Tony nominee Anna Kendrick turned pro at 10 CLUES ACROSS

Dear Ken: What can you say about Anna Kendrick, who does the voice of Courtney Babcock in "ParaNorman"? Kendrick, 27, a native of Portland, Maine, and the daughter of an accountant and a history teacher, began acting at 10. By the time she was 12, she had been nominated for a Tony Award for her performance on Broadway in "High Society." Her movie credits include four "Twilight" films as Jessica Stanley, "Rocket Science," "Scott Pilgrim vs. the World," "Camp," "The Company You Keep," "Pitch Perfect" and "In the Air," for which she received an Oscar nomination. She currently can be seen in theaters in "End of Watch" and has three more films coming down the pike. So, what can I say but that Kendrick is working up a storm.

Dear Ken: Whatever happened to Jack Lord of "Hawaii CLUES DOWN Five-O" fame? What else did he do besides that police series?

Bronx-born Lord, best known as Steve McGarrett on "Five-O" from 1968 to 1980, died in 1998 at 77 of congestive heart failure. He made 16 films between 1949 and 1968 including "God's Little Acre," "Man of the West," "Dr. No" and "Ride to Hangman's Tree." He was a guest on numerous TV series such as "Gunsmoke," "Rawhide," "The Untouchables," "Bonanza," "Combat," "The Fugitive" and "Ironside." And he starred as a rodeo cowboy in the 1962-1963 TV series "Stoney Burke." The actor's ashes were scattered in the ocean near his Kahala, Hawaii, condominium, and after his wife's death in 2005, Lord's estate, valued at $40 million, was bestowed upon a variety of Hawaiian charities.

Dear Ken: I remember watching "The Ed Sullivan Show" on Sunday nights back in the 1960s. When did Sullivan die? Where was he from?

Edward Vincent Sullivan was born in New York City and began covering theater for "The New York Daily News" in 1932, which brought him into contact with the stars of Broadway. He also served as host of a popular radio show. These gigs eventually led him to become one of the Big Apple's top entertainment/celebrity news columnists and a starmaker in his own right. His TV variety show ran from 1948 to 1971. The man with the "really big shew" died in 1974 of esophageal cancer at 73 years of age.

Dear Ken: Who invented Oreo cookies?

The best-selling cookie in the U.S. was created by National Biscuit Company (Nabisco) in New York City and trademarked March 14, 1912, thus this is the Oreo's centennial year. (I'll drink to that with cold milk and Oreos.) Originally dubbed the Oreo Biscuit, it was renamed the Sandwich in 1921. That was changed to the Or Creme Sandwich in 1948, and then to the Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookie in 1974. Nobody really knows where the name originated but 362 billion of those chocolate discs with crème filling have been sold over the past 100 years.

If you have a trivia question about actors, singers, movies, TV shows or pop culture, e-mail your query to Ken Beck at kbtag2@gmail.com
