Rally to save Readyville PO

Residents will rally on plans to cut hours at the Readyville Post Office during a 2 p.m. meeting Thursday, Jan. 10 at the post office

"Help keep our post office open 8 hours a day instead of a proposed 6 hour day. Make your voice count. Please attend if possible."

TnCare fraud arrests

Two mid-state residents are charged with TennCare "doctor shopping," in separate cases out of Rutherford County.

The Office of Inspector General (OIG), with assistance from the Cannon County Sheriff's Office and the Woodbury Police Department, announced the arrests of Kimberly Besner, 38, of Murfreesboro and William K. Bryant, 46, of Woodbury. Besner is charged with three counts of fraudulently using TennCare to obtain controlled substances by "doctor shopping."

Bryant is charged with two counts of "doctor shopping" for controlled substances. Both Besner and Bryant used TennCare to pay for the doctor's visit or the drugs.

"We're very grateful for the assistance we receive from local police as well as pharmacies and providers who all want to bring an end to the abuse of TennCare, especially in the area of prescription drugs," said Inspector General Deborah Faulkner. "We continue to pursue people who commit these crimes to get the message out that we do not tolerate this type of abuse of the TennCare program."

TennCare fraud is a Class E felony carrying a sentence of up to two years in prison per charge. District Attorney General William Whitesell, Jr. is prosecuting.

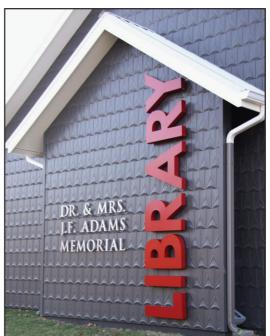

Library project nears completion

The interior of the J.F. Adams Library expansion is nearing completion as workers finish wall fittings. Library officials are recruiting volunteers to help return the books and other equipment. To help, call 563-5861.

MIKE WEST photos The library will be closed Jan. 7-13. Partial services will return Jan. 14 upstairs in the facility.

'Wooden panels from the original facility were used in construction of the new check-out desk.

ID law now in effect

A new law designed to eventually iron out some of the problems with Tennessee's current voting procedures went into effect Tuesday, Jan. 1.

Before a person can vote in Tennessee, they must have a form of identification that includes a photo. Several types of ID cards are permissible, but typically a driver's license is the most common.

The law, sponsored by Sen. Jim Tracy of Shelbyville, requires Tennessee residents 60 years of age or older to have a photo on their driver's license. The law replaces one that exempted senior citizens from the photo requirement in the past.

"We went back and researched the law and could not find a reason why they were exempted, so we decided to close the gap and make it the same for everyone," Tracy said.

But seniors who don't have a photo on their license before Jan. 1 will not be required to get one.

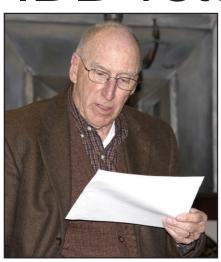

A second new law is designed to help displaced workers find jobs.

This law will allow jobless workers to receive on the job training at private companies, while still receiving their unemployment benefits for eight weeks. Companies providing the training can hire the retrained worker for a full-time job, all while being eligible for state grants.

This measure is similar to a law already in effect in Georgia and benefits both workers and employers.

Another important new law requires all newborn babies in Tennessee to be screened for serious heart defects. Congenital heart defects are blamed for more infant deaths in the first year of life than any other birth defect.

IDB votes to sell vacant building

IDB chairman Randall Reid reads from an offer on Bryant Lane.

MIKE WEST Courier Editor

Members of the Cannon County Industrial Development Board voted Thursday night (Jan. 3) to proceed with plans to sell a building at 475 Bryant Lane.

Board members Randall Reid, Dean More and Neal Appelbaum were named to a committee to get the building on the market immediately for sale on a cash only basis.

Cumberland Plastics Corporation had approached the board with an offer to either buy or rent the structure to handle a contract with Nissan Motor Manufacturing USA.

"We will either rent or buy it or rent to buy," said David Stanford, a CPC representative. "We need a building to get approach the county about the Bryant Lane structure. The first firm, a tool and die company, turned the offer down.

CPC is the second firm to recently

In mid December, the county was contacted by CPC president Sekhar Reddy about the building.

"We estimate very conservatively that this project will create seven jobs in the short term and more in the long term," said Reddy in a letter.

CPC already owns two buildings in Woodbury and pays property taxes on them

CPC's offer to purchase the building put the IDB in a dilemma.

"If we can sell the building, we are better off," said IDB member Corey Davenport following a suggestion by Doug Bodary, IDB vice chairman.

Bodary suggested that the Cannon board should follow Rutherford County's model and get out of the rental business by selling its property.

"I don't want any citizen to come forward and say you have five companies interested in this building," Davenport

Chairman Reid suggested that the IDB form a committee to quickly get the building on the market. That suggestion was put into the form of a motion and passed by the board.

In other action, the IDB discussed plans to sell 47 acres of industrial park property.

"Dean (More) and I talked to the mayor about the possibility of selling the property behind the dump," said Reid. "I think we need to sell it to the highest bidder"

A committee was then appointed to meet and determine a proper asking price for the land.

Auburntown City Council news

The Auburntown City Council met at 6:00 p.m. January 1, 2013 for their regular monthly meeting. Mayor Turney and all the elected councilpersons were present. Two out of the three people who were approved in December for a seat on the council were present and enthusiastically welcomed. It was understandable why the third person failed to show as a cold, wind-swept rain had fallen all day. The two new members who made it out for the council meeting were Denise Farless and Frank Patrick.

The precious month's meeting was presented by the city recorded for review and approval. One typographical error was found in the abbreviation of Middle Tennessee Electric Membership Corporation. The correction was made and the minutes were then approved.

The financial report was present in written form for review and approval. Following a short discussion the report was approved without correction. Balance of funds on deposit as of December 31, 2012 was $35,341.67

The position of fire chief, since the resignation of CHris Blackburn, has been on the mind of all city officials. This is a very responsible position and is not to be taken lightly. The Mayor said that he had talked to several people in and out of the county and each expressed their concern that we would get the right person for the job - one who had the time, desire, and fortitude to stand up under the pressure and do what was right. It can be a thankless position with long hours and no monetary remuneration. It is strictly a "Service-tothe-community" position and it takes a special person to fill it. The meeting adjourned at 6:45 p.m. and out into the cold rain we went. Winfred Gaither,

City Recorder

Meat 'n' Potatoes MIKE VINSON

Many years ago, at Vanderbilt University's Sarratt Center in Nashville, there was held a symposium that featured renowned Hollywood director/producer/film editor Robert Wise as the guest speaker. For those unaware, Wise (deceased in 2005) was a driving force behind timelessly iconic films such as Citizen Kane, The Day the Earth Stood Still, West Side Story, The Sound of Music, Sand Pebbles, Star Trek: the Motion Picture, and many others

I was fortunate enough to attend that symposium. During the course of the symposium, Robert Wise shared with listeners several rounds of wellaged wisdom regarding what it takes to write a good movie script/screenplay. Toward the end of his presentation, Wise held a O&A session with the audience. I distinctly recall one gentleman asking Wise the question: Where do you get the ideas for stories on which to base these scripts?

Smiling rather wryly, but in a respectful tone, Wise

astutely answered something along the lines of: Just go out, walk up and down the streets, and open your ears and eyes.

That said, I am going to implement some of Wise's Wisdom in bringing about this week's column.

In all honesty, I was having difficulty coming up with something for my first column of 2013. It was as though the past year was gone, and the new year had not had the time to reveal enough of itself about which to comment.

So, I was sitting inside this local restaurant having some coffee. It was early in the morning, and, there were only a few customers. In walked a white-haired fellow, and the hostess proceeded to seat him in a booth directly across from me.

He looked over at me glad to get out of the bad weather outside and sit down in nice, warm booth. I agreed with him and added that I had been battling a cold/flu bug for the past couple days.

We both agreed that we should be thankful to be inside in clean, warm environment and, too, be thankful that we could freely converse minus fear of censorship or bodily

My newfound friendstill don't know his name-went on to tell me that he was 71-years-old, and had worked for 30plus years in Indiana before retiring and moving to Tennessee.

A "whole lot had changed" since he was a younger man, he informed me, because when he was making his way from the rank of adolescence to adulthood it was "mostly beer, cigarettes, trying to kiss a pretty girl, and an occasional fistfight."

With a genuinely serious expression and tone, and shaking his head, he went on to say that he just couldn't understand why "all these kids are shooting all these other kids." He placed a great deal of the blame on "all this dope s. . t. that's infected us way worse than the flu bug going around."

And that bunch up Washington, with their fancy suits and forked tongues, want to primp up and go to TV and talk about "going over the fiscal cliff!" he stormed, his face turning red. "What don't they try to get along and tell us something we don't already know?! Hell, we went over the fiscal cliff a long time ago, and I'm sick-and-tired of 'em lying to us like we're a bunch of dumb-asses and don't know the difference."

I admit my conversation with this stranger produced nothing I hadn't already heard. However, the environment in which I heard it caused me to pause and ponder, rendering a different effect than ever before.

Wise's Wisdom worked for me: If you're looking for worthy subject matter about which to write, just hit the streets and open your ears and eyes.

Will black-eye peas bring weight-loss luck?

Fellow fast food fan Fant Smith has resolved to not eat food dispersed out a window during 2013. As of Jan. 1, the day this epic piece of fat-free journalism was penned, Fant had kept his resolution.

Losing weight in 2013 is also a Whittle resolution.

I decided to lose blubber recently, when a little angel, bless her heart, referenced me in the hall between Sunday school and church preaching: "You're not fat, Brother Dan, you're just fluffy.'

So in addition to committing to swim two and three days a week at the YMCA the rest of this new exciting year, I'm researching methods of weight loss and control.

One physician on the internet wanted pay for suggesting I could lose weight by consuming green coffee beans. This prescription for green coffee beans might work, if it's anything like throwing your lips around a batch of green apples.

So, I'm sharing this weight-loss prescription I learned back in our apple orchard while growing up on the farm. If you eat several green apples in one sitting, you'll lose weight, and do it with rapid repeat trips back and forth to the outdoor two-holer.

No charge, for the green apple prescription.

Being in the South, I expect to have good luck with my 2013 dump the pounds resolution, starting with black-eyed peas.

I don't know the reasons that Whittles, as long as I've been around, have always consumed blackeye peas on New Year's Day.

But I knew enough to be thankful for some of the best black-eye peas and hog jowl I had this past New Year's Day when asked to put my feet under the kitchen table at neighbors John and Hilda Stuarts' home in Smyrna.

"My cornbread today is a little crusty on one side," Hilda shared. "But it goes with our tradition of having black-eye peas on New Year's Day.

Adding spice to the pile of peas was a jar of relish prepared by former Philadelphia, Miss., country boy Rick Hodgen, who now resides in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

"Rick's relish lights up those peas," testified John Stuart, also a native of Southern Mississippi. "My friendship with the Hodgen family goes back generations in Neshoba County, Mississippi."

Neither Hilda or John could answer my question of why we leave one lone solitary pea on the side of the plate on New Year's Day. Maybe one of our university-educated peaeating readers can shed light on this part of the Southern black-eye pea tradition.

Southern historian/author Shirley Ann Ferris Jones provided some research about blackeyed pea consumption in the South.

"It goes back to the Civil War era," historian Jones

Whittle's Words Of Wisdom DAN WHITTLE

According to research, black-eye pea roots goes back to the boots of Yankee Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, who reportedly ordered his troops to strip the Southern countryside of all stored food, crops and livestock, to destroy whatever they could not carry away. In that era, Northerners considered field peas and field corn suitable only for animal fodder.

So, in post-Civil War hard times in the South, our forefathers probably considered themselves lucky to consume the black-eye peas Northern soldiers had failed to destroy. That's one theory.

Aunt Durette Reed, may the good Lord rest her good Southern-cooking soul, prepared the most tasty pot of black-eye peas laced with hog jowl to ever cross quivering and hungry Whittle lips.

Add green onions and a chunk of good crusty black-skillet fried cornbread made with buttermilk, you have a meal fit for kings.

So I agree I'm lucky any day I can consume a pot of black-eye peas, cooked Southern-style.

So, pass Rick's jar of spiced-up relish back to this end of the table, please. Burp!!

Overall, newspapers are still in high demand

It seems almost an article of business faith that as revenues shrink you make the product smaller in an effort to save money. And for years it seems that newspapers have followed that model: as advertising revenue has gone down, newspapers have gotten smaller and smaller, with fewer stories, fewer reporters and, as a result, fewer reasons to buy the paper in the first place.

But for years, some of us have been saying, "Wait a minute. You're cutting the very reason people buy the paper in the first place. The public isn't buying newsprint, it's buying content. And if content shrinks, readership and circulation will shrink as

Now, the Orange County Register, based in Santa Ana, California, has taken a bold new step that is apparently paying off. The paper recently hired dozens of reporters, added substantial new sections, and got rid of an on-line edition. And guess what: circulation has increased, even with an increase in subscription prices

To be sure, the Register hasn't abandoned its electronic versions, and there is still an effort to get the latest news to the public as soon as possible. But on-line readership has leveled or actually declined, while print newspapers all over the country are showing smaller declines, or in some cases actual increases in circulation.

In many ways, good reporting is a moneylosing proposition: it takes money, lots of money, to hire reporters and photographers to staff bureaus and cover all of the news that needs to be reported. Unfortunately, the folks in "accounting," the people I not-so-fondly refer to as "bean counters." only look at the bottom line, and tend to ask, "Why do we need reporters based across the state, when they only give us a few stories a year?" The answer is, because reporters need to be there, understanding what is going on, before the big story breaks.

For years people have been saying that newspapers are dead. But if the Orange County Register succeeds, then maybe more and more papers will go back to what they used to do best: giving us the news we need, without fear or favorer, and without regard to cost.

To the Editor

Cannon County must make critical decision concerning Route 70S through Woodbury

A couple of weeks ago, 12/12/12 to be exact, the Courier's front page headlined two articles on the new highway 70S route. When read together they clearly spelled out the issues at stake and the time-frame we Cannon County residents have as a community to make our decision.

When we came here twenty-five years ago a large part of the attraction was the very special quality of life Cannon County offered. Over the years the quality of life here has changed. I'm sure the John Bragg Highway has played a major roll in the county's population growth and industry changes. Now we must confront a critical decision concerning the route of 70S through Woodbury. Any decision that will impact all of our lives needs to be made with the whole county involved in that process. Our elected officials lead by State Representative Mark Pody clearly outlined the issues, the choices, the budgeting process and our decision's time-frame.

We, the residents of Cannon County, have a God-given right and responsibility to be involved in determining the quality of our future. Alternatively, we can just sit back, maybe grumble, complain and let the short-sighted with their excessive sense of self make choices affecting us all. If we fail to become involved in this decision we fail our community and we fail our children's children. I believe none of us want that.

I suggest that the task of exploring the projected impact of our choices be assigned to the Industrial Development Board. It is clear that whichever route through Woodbury is selected, the county's industrial development and tax revenues will be impacted. The Industrial Development Board could be an organizing, informing and coordinating force to guide our decision-making effort.

Ring in the New Year with blood donation

Resolve to Give Blood with the American Red Cross

For many people, a new year signifies a fresh start. You resolve to get healthy and accomplish things you didn't do the

So when you are making your list of New Year's resolutions, why not add blood donation to the list? A blood drive is set for Jan. 17 from noon to 6 p.m. at the Woodbury Lions Club Building, 540 W. Adams St.

January and February are tough months for blood collection. Blood drives may be canceled due to inclement weather; donors cancel blood donation appointments when the roads are bad and many people have cold and flu symptoms, making them ineligible to give blood.

Blood donation is so important because each donation has the potential to save up to three lives. So, this new year, consider a resolution that makes a lifesaving difference - give blood.

During the month of January, all presenting donors will be entered to win a $1,000 gift card to a home improvement store. In addition, from now until January 13, all presenting donors will also be entered to win a tablet computer valued at $500. Make your appointment online at www.redcrossblood.org or by calling 1-800-RED CROSS.

Elrod awarded title of Registered Tax Return Preparer by IRS

Recently Dorothy Elrod, tax practitioner at Cannon County Farm Bureau, was awarded the designation of Registered Tax Return Preparer by the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS has instituted new regulations for all persons in the tax preparation business. As part of the new regulations all persons wishing to sign tax returns must be recognized as an attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent, or registered tax return preparer. All of these designations require extensive knowledge of specialized subjects -such as federal income tax law - and the passing of standardized tests. The deadline for all paid tax preparers to meet the new requirement is December of 2013.

According to the IRS, the Registered Tax Return Preparer Test is designed to promote focus on the ethical responsibilities of federal tax return preparers and accurate completion of the Form 1040 and the basic related schedules and forms. The intent is to insure that persons paying for tax preparation are receiving a quality service from a qualified individual.

As part of the Farm Bureau Income Tax Service, the decision was made to accelerate the process and Dorothy was notified of her passing score in August of this year. This testing covered such areas as available tax credits, deductions, personal treatment of income and assets, collection of data, proper completion of the filing process, best practices and procedures, and ethics.

Farm Bill still in disrepair

The past few weeks, I have received numerous calls from news reporters asking about the rumor that if we fall off the fiscal cliff a gallon of milk will start costing over $6.00 for you to feed your family. After reassuring each one of them that it wasn't going to happen, I found myself answering questions about farm bill legislation, farmers' costs, and what would happen if milk did go that high in your supermarket. The fact that us agricultural types have been talking about the farm bill for a year without very little interest from most media, until someone decides that their next bowl of cereal is going to cost them more like what it costs to fill up their SUV, is what really got my goat in all of this "cliff" falling debate.

Farmers throughout this country started making plans for this year's crops last year. But those plans have been somewhat on the back burner due to having to wait for Congress to give them a new farm bill. And, they still don't have a new farm bill, just an extension of the 2008 bill with changes. Why wait you may ask? It's simple. They would like to know the rules and regulations under which they must operate for the coming season.

Regardless of a farmers best efforts to manage natural and financial risks, they often see their bottom lines destroyed by weather disasters, the crash-and-recover uncertainty of international economics, unfair foreign competition and the confusion of government regulations. Each can take a painful bite off the top of an already slim profit margin. But, a reasonable farm bill helps ease the unknowns and also gives our farmers hope, which hasn't been all that plentiful lately.

It is important to remember that our federal farm program is based on production. It is a fair program for all parties involved. It is true that those farm families who produce more receive larger payments, but they also take larger financial risks and have significantly higher investments in their farms. When crop prices are depressed, no farm is immune to difficulty.

Money directed to producers through farm programs represents a public investment in the nation's food, environment and economic security. The farm bill is a solid investment in family farms and the rural communities where they reside.

All consumers reap many benefits from a farm bill, including a high quality, stable and economical food supply that takes less of the consumer's dollar than any place else in the world. Only ten percent of our disposable income goes to paying our food bills annually in this country.

The farm bill approved by both houses of Congress in the late hours the other night still needs a lot of work, American Farm Bureau Federation President Bob Stallman said in a statement following the 2008 extension vote. "While much work remains on addressing the spending side of the ledger, the fiscal cliff package that was just approved injected a good dose of certainty into our nation's tax policy. That is a major achievement. The measure restored the $5 million exemption level for the estate tax, which was in danger of falling to just $1 million. On the minus side, the top estate tax rate increased from 35 percent to 40 percent. Permanent capital gains tax provisions that retain lower rates was a positive point, as was the inclusion of enhanced expensing provisions for businesses," Stallman said.

He went on to express his dissatisfaction with the efforts of congress over the last months by saying, "Extension of the 2008 farm bill, however, is little more than a stop-gap measure. We are glad that a measure is in place for most of this year, but we are disappointed that Congress was unable or unwilling to roll a comprehensive five-year farm bill proposal into the fiscal cliff package. Now, it will be up to the new 113th Congress to put a new farm bill in place, and we will continue to insist on the kind of reforms that were included in the proposals approved by the Senate and the House Agriculture during the Committee Congress.

"As the new Congress punches in, members already face a huge work order. While the fiscal cliff package addressed the revenue side of the equation, it did not do enough to cut federal spending in a meaningful way. Without progress on the spending side, we are on a one-way road to fiscal disaster. It is our hope that the new Congress will exercise the leadership needed to put our nation on a path toward fiscal responsibility and agricultural innovation and prosperity."

Sure, the legislation may not be perfect. However, when have we ever had legislation that really is? It is important to have some type of a farm bill, and with your mouth full and your belt too snug due to over indulgence, we need to be careful how we criticize its purpose. Let's keep those farmers in the fields and our country, with a strong agriculture, from being dependent on anyone else.

During the week of November 12-16, Woodland Elementary K-2 celebrated National Young Readers Week. Several volunteers took time out of their busy schedule to come read to the young students. On Monday, high school basketball player Jackson Mason read "Long Shot." On Tuesday, Tim Spry of First National Bank read "Wonder Horse." Jeffrey "The Lion" Northcutt read "Dandelion" on Wednesday. County Executive Mike Gannon read "My Teacher For President" on Thursday and Cannon County Martial Arts instructor Jimmy Hayes read "There Are Monsters Everywhere" on Friday to close out the week. Principal Ms. Kim Parsley also read to classes throughout the day on Tuesday, November 13 for the Principal's Challenge to earn free books for the school library. Woodland Elementary would like to thank our volunteers for taking the time to come and "Read Their Hearts Out" to our students.

Understanding and helping children and their fears

Almost all children can be frightened by the sound of thunder or become scared in a dark room. With a little patience and understanding, you can usually help your children overcome these and other common childhood fears. However, as a parent, you are keenly aware that there are real dangers that threaten your children. While you are working to help your children get rid of certain fears, you are also teaching certain other kinds of fear for their own protection.

Often children's fears grow out of experiences which they cannot understand and which seems to threaten them. Some of the things likely to cause fear are:

- Other people's reactions to things or events. An adult's reaction to traumatic event (even people they see react on TV, another child's intense fear of snakes or an adult's horror at seeing a large spider can cause your child to fear the same things.

- Seeing a traumatic, frightening event. Your child may witness a bad traffic accident, a shooting or see a cat run over by a car. Scenes like these can leave lasting, fearful memories.

Low self-esteem and lack of confidence. Fears can develop from low self-esteem and lack of confidence. It is important to encourage and praise your child's efforts and to develop his/her self-

- Ongoing family tensions and hostility. All families have fights once in a while, but if the fighting goes on all the time, children will absorb the tension, and fear and uncertainty will become part of their lives.

Overcoming Your Children's Fears

No matter what your child fears, he/she needs the comfort of loving reassurance more than anything. You should never make fun of your child's fears, and you should let him/her know that grown-ups, too, are sometimes afraid. Other things vou can do are:

- Give loving support and reliable limits. Your child needs to know he/she is loved and also that you set definite limits on what he/she is allowed to do. Your love and those limits provide the sense of security your child needs to try new experiences without fear.

- Try to find practical solutions. If your child is afraid of the dark, plug in a nightlight in the bedroom and hall. Keep the furniture arranged in a way your child is used to, and make sure he/she goes to sleep with a cuddly toy to hug.

- Spend time practicing skills with your child. If your child is afraid of catching a ball or playing a game such as soccer, spend time playing games at home in a safe environment.

- Help build a sense of being in control. Some children become afraid of flushing the toilet or emptying the bathtub. Encourage your child to pull the plug or turn the toilet handle with you, and reassure him/her that "there is no way you can go down the drain."

- Reassure, reassure, and then reassure again. This is especially important if your child begins to worry about dying. He/she needs to hear many times that it is very unusual for children to die. Try a hug and a reminder, "Don't worry; we'll be together for a long, long time."

Praise accomplishments, avoid criticizing. Praising even small successes will encourage your child to try again. Too much criticizing is likely to make your child insecure and afraid to try new things.

Real Dangers Your Children Face

Your children must be taught about the very real dangers that do exist. These dangers can be divided into two kinds:

- Basic safety problems - You must teach your children safety rules about hazards in the home, such as hot stove tops, electrical outlets and various household poisons. Outside the home, children must learn how to ride a bicycle and cross the street safely, and many other safety habits.

- Dangerous people - Unfortunately, your children face the danger of abduction and sexual abuse by dangerous people. Some may be strangers, but more commonly, they can be relatives or acquaintances.

The challenge for you as the parent is to teach your children to be self-confident and ready to cope with new situations, but also to be cautious of potentially dangerous situations.

Report on hardwood analysis and Acetylated wood

Hardwood analysis and trends (HAT)

David Mercker, Extension Specialist, Forestry

The past seven years have been a difficult (and transitional) period for the hardwood industry. Prices for hardwood lumber began dropping in 2005, three years before the onset of the recession. According to the USFS (Luppold 2102), in nominal prices, a composite of mixed Appalachian hardwood lumber indicates that the 2012 price is now equal to the 1992 price. In other words, we are back to where we were 20 years ago. The real price (inflation adjusted) is grimmer, showing that since 1967 (when such first records were collected), prices have never been lower. Lumber value has just not kept up with inflation.

forest industry, The including loggers and mills, have been able to survive such a colossal decline through efficiencies: bigger and more efficient equipment, better utilization of woody material, smaller work force, etc. Of course to this is added a very sharp attention to operational costs, such as fuel, insurance and supplies. Adjustments like these are not possible with forest landowners. Aside from well-timed thinnings and growing appropriate species for their site, there is very little that hardwood forest landowners can do make their tree growing enterprise more efficient. Clearly there is a limit to the speed that trees can grow, at least in a short planning horizon.

This is leading many small to mid-sized landowners to hold onto their timber rather than sell it. In turn, that puts additional supply pressure on loggers and mills. The availability of standing timber for sale is lean. Area mills routinely build log inventories in late summer and early fall to account for shortages when the winter weather turns awry. This year that goal is unmet for many mills.

By way of positive news, housing sales and starts had have modest improvement. Although progress is well off the pace of traditional numbers, it is in the right direction. This should continue as long as interest rates are low and inflation is in check. But both of those indicators eventually jump, and if too much, could add additional pressure to the entire chain. Since the last issue of HAT, next to nothing has happened to hardwood lumber prices.

options has available including ACQ, CA, micro-ACQ, micro-CA and EL. These various chemical formulations are expected to provide similar protection and treated pine is a relatively low-cost option. Unfortunately, treated pine is susceptible

Red and white oak, cherry, and maple lumber have flat-lined. Poplar is up slightly. Black walnut dropped 9 percent (which is not surprising as it is utilized for luxury items).

Bottom line: we need greater demand for lumber. And until that comes, prices will not increase significantly. Of course in today's economic environment, some would say that "sideways is the

Acetylated wood: Another new decking option

Adam Taylor, Associate Professor, Forest Products

In the past, options for decking lumber were limited to naturally durable wood species such as cedar and chemicallyprotected pine. Recently, new chemical formulations and new technologies such as wood-plastic composite and thermally modified wood have become available. Now there is a new product to add to the growing list of options: acetylated wood.

Lumber that is exposed outside needs to be protected from rot and insects. Some wood species such as cedar, cypress and white oak naturally are resistant to rot fungi, termites and other pests. The use of naturallywoods durable applications such decking lumber is the oldest option and remains a good choice. The most popular choice for decking lumber is southern pine that is protected with a chemical treatment (i.e. "pressure treated"). For many years there was only one chemical treatment used (CCA) but more recently a wide range of to warping and checking over time. Wood plastic composite, or WPC, is a commonly available but higher-priced option to wood decking. It is a mixture of thermoplastics and wood fiber that is extruded into decking and other shapes. It is not wood and thus does not warp and check like wood can.

Thermally-modified wood is more common in Europe but is beginning to be manufactured in the US. IN this process, dry lumber is heated in the absence of oxygen. The process darkens the wood and changes the chemical structure making the lumber less susceptible to warping and rot. It is relatively expensive but is promoted as an alternative to some premium tropical hardwoods. Another recently commercialized decking alternative in the US is acetylated wood. One example manufactured by Eastman Chemical, a Tennessee-based company, is sold under the Perennial (http://www.perennialwoo d.com/Pages/Home.aspx). The acetylation process involves pressure-treating dry lumber with a chemical and then heating the lumber, which causes the chemical to react with the wood. Acetylated wood remains its original color but has very low attraction to water, which greatly reduces its tendency to warp, check or Acetylated lumber will be a premium product, roughly equivalent to WPC in price. However, it adds option another for homeowners using wood for exposed structures.

Arts Center awarded grant for webisodes

NASHVILLE - The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee, a charitable organization dedicated to enriching the quality of life in the 40 Middle Tennessee counties it serves, announces a $2,000 grant to Arts Center of Cannon County.

"The Community Foundation is honored to connect generosity with need through these annual grants and others throughout the year, but we couldn't have an impact without the accomplished nonprofits offering solutions to our community's needs and vital services to our neighbors," said Ellen Lehman, president of The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee. "Thanks to the generous support of our donors, we are able to invest in the solutions to Middle Tennessee's emerging needs opportunities."

Arts Center of Cannon County received a grant to create and distribute documentary "webisodes" about Southern music traditions.

These contributions are part of The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee's annual discretionary grantmaking process which, this year alone, has distributed more than $1.3 million to 273 nonprofit organizations throughout 29 Middle Tennessee counties.

The Community Foundation awards discretionary grants annually from its unrestricted and field-of-interest funds, through an open application process, to Middle Tennessee nonprofits organizations addressing community needs and benefiting the well-being of through valuable citizens innovative programs and

TBI opens applications for academy

The Tennessee Bureau of Investigation is now accepting applications for the 2013 TBI Citizens' Academy open Tennessee residents interested in learning more about the state's lead investigative enforcement agency.

The academy is scheduled for May 7 through May 28, 2012 at TBI Headquarters in Nashville, Tenn. Classes will be held every Tuesday evening during the month of May for three hours as well as one Saturday.

It will offer citizens a look at TBI's work including investigating crime scenes and cyber crime, tracking terrorism information, forensics examinations and other aspects of the bureau's mission.

The academy is designed to develop a better understanding and awareness in the community of TBI through an up close look at bureau and its responsibilities across the state. Due to limited classroom size, the academy will be limited to 15 citizens.

Requirements include: 1) Must be 21 or older

- 2) No criminal history other than minor traffic
- 3) Physically able to meet training requirements
- 4) Must attend one night per week for a three hour session and one Saturday for firearms training with a minimum attendance
- 5) Must sign all required waivers and agreements
- 6) Applicants are accepted background investigations and TBI approval by Director

To apply, residents should fill out the application located on the TBI website at www.tbi.tn.gov and submit it by February 28, 2013 to Assistant Director Richard Moore at the address listed on the application.

The Cannon County Outdoor Club took a holiday hike into the Virgin Falls Wilderness Area near Sparta. The Virgin Falls trail is a rugged 9 mile roundtrip hike down the watershed of Big Laurel Creek. Hikers enjoyed Big Laurel Falls, Sheep Cave Falls, Virgin Falls and climbed up to the Virgin Falls cave where the creek emerges and tumbles 80 feet and disappears below ground. Hikers included Emory Larson, Hannah Faulkner, Umer Rasul, Dalton Pitts, Doug King and Marc Larson. For more information on the Cannon County Outdoor club email marcus.larson@ccstn.net.

State observes radon action month

January is "Radon Action Month" and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation has joined forces with the Department of Health to help educate Tennesseans about the dangers of radon exposure, encouraging actions to identify and to address radon problems in the home.

The American Lung Association, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and various local county health departments also serve as partners in this outreach effort, designed to raise awareness about the health risk and the importance of said TDEC Commissioner Bob Martineau. "These test kits are readily available and inexpensive to buy and encourage household to take this important step to safeguard homes from the dangers of exposure to radon."

"Tennesseans can check for the presence of radon with a very simple test,"

Radon is a naturally occurring gas that can seep into homes through cracks and openings in the foundation. It cannot be seen, tasted or smelled, but in concentrated levels radon can pose a threat to human health. The EPA estimates approximately 70 percent oulation lives in high risk or moderate risk radon areas. According to the EPA, radon is the number one cause of lung cancer among non-smokers and is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States.

"Testing for radon is an important and relatively simple step to protect your family from a colorless, odorless and naturally occurring radioactive gas that can increase the risk of lung cancer in smokers and nonsmokers," Health Tennessee Commissioner John Dreyzehner, MD, MPH.

The best time to test is during consistently cold weather, usually from October to March. This is and windows are shut, so the test results are more representative of in-home exposure. Radon problems can be fixed by qualified contractors for a cost comparable to that of many common household repairs, such as painting or installing a new water

"It is essential to test your home because radon acts unpredictably," added Martineau. "Nationally, about six percent of homes surveyed had elevated levels of radon. In contrast, 16 percent of Tennessee surveyed had elevated levels and in some counties, 33 to 75 percent of homes being tested have elevated levels of radon."

While radon poses a our cor nmunity's health, radon test kits are the first step toward a straightforward solution and are easy to use. In Tennessee, radon test kits can be purchased at most local hardware and home improvement stores.

To learn more about the dangers of radon exposure, please visit the Tennessee Department of Health's Healthy Homes website at http://health.state.tn.us/He althyHomes/radon.shtml. In addition to radon tips for the home, the Healthy Homes website offers a comprehensive approach to preventing diseases and injuries that result from housing-related hazards and deficiencies.

For additional information about radon, please visit TDEC's website at www.tn.gov/environment/ ea/radon or contact the department's Tennessee Radon Program at 1-800-232-1139.

New Year's good time to evaluate your insurance

NASHVILLE - As you ring in the New Year, it is a good idea to evaluate your insurance coverage. The National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) - of which Commerce and Insurance is a member - offers these tips and reminders to help with

Homeowners/Renter's Insurance

This is a great time to update your home inventory and make sure your homeowners or renter's policy is up-todate. While the decorations are out of storage, take some photos or video of your baubles. Do not forget to make note of any antique items and their value so you can talk with your insurance agent to ensure that they are properly

If you are starting a home inventory from scratch, the NAIC's free smartphone myHOME app, Scr.APP.book, takes some of the headache out of the process. Download the app from iTunes or Google Play. You can also download a print version here.

Now that you have opened all your gifts, remember to add them to your home inventory, too. Include as many details as you can and take a photo of each item. Most basic home insurance policies have standard limits for bigticket items like electronics, art, jewelry or sporting equipment. You may need special coverage, so be sure to call your agent as soon as possible to discuss changes for your policy.

If you want to review your insurance policy or declarations page before talking with your agent, take a look at this consumer alert to help understand the terminology.

II Kings 9

Jehu Anointed King of Israel The prophet Elisha sent one of the prophets to take a flask of oil and find Jehu, and pour the oil on Jehu's head in private and declare, 'This is what the LORD says: I anoint you king over Israel.' Jehu was told that he was to destroy the house of Ahab and by doing so God would avenge the blood of His servants the prophets and the blood of all His servants shed by Jezebel.

After the prophet departed, his fellow officers insisted on knowing what the prophet had told him. Jehu told them that the Lord had anointed him king over Israel.

They took their cloaks and spread them under him, blew the trumpet and shouted, 'Jehu is king!"

Readyville fce 2012 Christmas luncheon and Christmas party held

The luncheon was held at Melanie O'Neal's home with hostesses Melanie O'Neal and Gail Norton. Sixteen Christmas food baskets were filled for families of Cannon County. Members participated in a Secret Santa exchange with lots of homemade gifts shared. Plans for 2013 are being organized and will be shared during the January meeting at the home of Eloise Rains and co-hosted with Geneva McKnight on January 15th.

Thanksgiving dinners take eighteen hours to prepare. They are consumed in twelve minutes. Half-times take twelve minutes. This is not coincidence.

When your mother asks, "Do you want a piece of advice?" it is a mere formality. It doesn't matter if you answer yes or no. You're going to get it anyway.

Never have more children than you have car windows.

For years my wedding ring has done its job. It has led me not into temptation. It has reminded my husband numerous times at parties that it's time to go home. It has been a source of relief to a dinner companion. It has been a status symbol in the maternity ward.

Don't confuse fame with success. Madonna is one; Heler Keller is the other.

Do you know what you call those who use towels and never wash them, eat meals and never do the dishes, sit ir rooms they never clean, and are entertained till they drop? If you have just answered, "A house guest," you're wrong because I have just described my kids.

Book Review

BY ELRENA PARTON

Fish Facts by Geoff Swinney and Illustrated by Janeen Mason, (Pelican Publishing Company) $17.99, Juvenile nonfiction/Marine Life, age

5-8, hard cover, 48 pages. You want facts about fish? The book Fish Facts by Geoff Swinney is packed with them from cover to cover. The illustrations on the cover, outside and inside enhance the facts. The illustrations helps the reader be able to visualize what the author is talking about. Some of the facts include: there are 21,000 species of fish; all living vertebrates have jaws but two; and cartilaginous fish drink less than bony fish. Read the book to find the following answers about fish: Flying fish live in what kind of water? Rice fish have an upturned mouth. What does it eat? Do fish drink?

Pelican Publishing Company and Elrena Parton have donated a copy of Fish Facts to the Cannon County Library System.

Methamphetmine production, theft and domestic assault

Kenneth Franklin

Two Bradyville residents were arrested by Murfreesboro Police on meth charges. Kenneth Franklin Anderson Jr., 40, and Jacqueline Lynn Barrett, 35, face charges of initiating the process to produce methamphetmine, possession of drug paraphernalia and marijuana possession. Acting on a tip, Murfreesboro Police knocked on the door of a Ewing Boulevard home. Anderson reportedly invited the Anderson, Jr. officers in, then fled.

Officer caught the suspect after he had thrown down a bottle containing methmaking materials. A search of the home also discovered ingredients used in meth production.

Anderson was also charged with fleeing and resisting arrest along with tampering

Police said Anderson is also facing two Lynn Barrett felony warrants in Cannon County.

A suspect is in custody following a two-hour standoff with Rutherford County Sheriff's Department Thursday

According to Rutherford County sheriff's deputies, the standoff occurred at an apartment on High Meadow Drive

The man also tried to remove a tattoo on his arm with the knife, according to WGNS Radio.

The suspect has been identified as 42-year-old Christopher Coelho. Officers found a 22-caliber semiautomatic rifle and two large survival knives in his apartment.

Authorities said Coelho was wanted in Cannon County for violating his probation.

He was extremely intoxicated at the time of his arrest and taken to Middle Tennessee Medical Center for treatment. When he is released he will be booked into Rutherford County jail where he will be held on the Cannon County charges.

A Warren County brother and sister were arrested by the Cannon County Sheriff's Department and charged with the theft of a truck transmission.

Charged with theft over $500 were Steven Dale Koontz and Crystal Lee Dillon.

The original warrant was taken out on Steven Dale Samuel Rennison for a theft that occurred at Jerry Pelham's Auto Salvage on 9 August, 2012. It was later learned that Mr. Rennison could not have taken the transmission because he was in prison at Limestone Correctional facility," reported Investigator

"During the investigation, it was learned that Mr. Koontz and his sister, Crystal Dillon, had access to Mr. Rennison's personal information and they were developed as suspects in this theft," Young

The story of the garden snake, shower, ambulance and gunshot

Garden Snakes also known as Garter Snakes (Thamnophissirtalis) can be dangerous. Yes, grass snakes, not rattlesnakes. Here's why.

A couple in Sweetwater, Texas, had a lot of potted plants. During a recent cold spell, the wife was bringing a lot of them indoors to protect them from a possible freeze.

It turned out that a little green garden grass snake was hidden in one of the plants. When it had warmed up, it slithered out and the wife saw it go under the sofa.

She let out a very loud scream.

The husband (who was taking a shower) ran out into the living room naked to see what the problem was. She told him there was a snake under the sofa.

He got down on the floor on his hands and knees to look for it. About that time the family dog came and coldnosed him on the behind. He thought the snake had bitten him, so he screamed and fell over on the floor.

His wife thought he had had a heart attack, so she covered him up, told him to lie still and called an

The attendants rushed in, would not listen to his protests, loaded him on the stretcher, and started carrying

About that time, the snake came out from under the sofa and the Emergency Medical Technician saw it and dropped his end of the stretcher. That's when the man broke his leg and why he is still in the hospital.

The wife still had the problem of the snake in the house, so she called on a neighbor who volunteered to capture the snake. He armed himself with a rolled-up newspaper and began poking under the couch.. Soon he decided it was gone and told the woman, who sat down on the sofa in

But while relaxing, her hand dangled in between the cushions, where she felt the snake wriggling around. She screamed and fainted, the snake rushed back under the

The neighbor man, seeing her lying there passed out, tried to use CPR to revive her.

The neighbor's wife, who had just returned from shopping at the grocery store, saw her husband's mouth on the woman's mouth and slammed her husband in the back of the head with a bag of canned goods, knocking him out and cutting his scalp to a point where it needed

The noise woke the woman from her dead faint and she saw her neighbor lying on the floor with his wife bending over him, so she assumed that the snake had bitten him. She went to the kitchen and got a small bottle of whiskey, and began pouring it down the man's throat.

By now, the police had arrived.

Breathe here...

They saw the unconscious man, smelled the whiskey, and assumed that a drunken fight had occurred. They were about to arrest them all, when the women tried to explain how it all happened over a little garden snake!

The police called an ambulance, which took away the neighbor and his sobbing wife.

Now, the little snake again crawled out from under the sofa and one of the policemen drew his gun and fired at it. He missed the snake and hit the leg of the end table. The table fell over, the lamp on it shattered and, as the bulb broke, it started a fire in the drapes.

The other policeman tried to beat out the flames, and fell through the window into the yard on top of the family dog who, startled, jumped out and raced into the street, where an oncoming car swerved to avoid it and smashed into the Meanwhile, neighbors saw the burning drapes and called in the fire department. The firemen had started raising the fire ladder when they were halfway down the street. The rising ladder tore out the overhead wires, put out the power, and disconnected the telephones in a tensquare city block area (but they did get the house fire out).

Time passed! Both men were discharged from the hospital, the house was repaired, the dog came home, the police acquired a new car and all was right with their

A while later they were watching TV and the weatherman announced a cold snap for that night. The wife asked her husband if he thought they should bring in their plants for the night.

And that's when he shot her.

P.S. It's been a long time since I laughed that hard!

TEASERS & TRIVIA

Ask Ken Beck

Farmer's daughter rakes in healthy income

Dear Ken: Who is the highest-paid actress on television? Would you believe a farmer's daughter from Barranquilla, Colombia? According to "Forbes," Sofia Vergara, star of ABC's hit series "Modern Family," is the top-earning actress on American TV. The financial magazine estimates she made CLUES DOWN $19 million between May 2011 and May 2012.

Dear Ken: I remember a western miniseries titled "The Chisholms," which starred Robert Preston. What can you tell me about it, who else was in the cast and is it available on DVD?

Set in the 1840s, "The Chisholms" was a CBS miniseries that aired in the spring of 1979 and evolved into a 1980 TV series. Preston starred as the patriarch of a family moving from Virginia to Wyoming in the miniseries. In the TV series they were traveling from Wyoming to California. The story was based on novels by Evan Hunter. Some of the roles were recast when the miniseries went into a regular series, but other stars of the miniseries included Rosemary Harris, Ben Murphy, Brian Kerwin, Glynnis O'Connor, Mitchell Ryan, Anthony Zerbe and Brian Keith. The miniseries does not appear to have ever been released on DVD but was put out on VHS. Occasionally, VHS copies appear for sale on Amazon and eBay but beware that some of these are the first episode of the TV series, which are priced around $15. The five-hour miniseries is sold in the $50 to $60 range.

Dear Ken: I was sorry to read of the recent death of Larry Hagman, famed for his TV series "I Dream of Jeannie" and "Dallas." Did he make many movies?

Hagman, who died in November of complications of throat cancer at the age of 81, was born in Fort Worth, Texas, the son of Broadway legend Mary Martin. While remembered best for his role as the notorious J.R. Ewing of "Dallas" on TV, he was in such films as "Fail-Safe," "In Harm's Way," "The Group," "Mother, Jugs and Speed," "Superman," "Nixon," "Primary Colors" and "The Flight of the Swan." Survived by his wife of nearly 58 years, a son, daughter and five granddaughters, among those at his bedside when he died were "Dallas" cast members Linda Gray and Patrick Duffy.

Dear Ken: What has happened to the actress who play Ma on "Little House on the Prairie"?

That was Karen Grassle, 70, who played Caroline Ingalls opposite Michael Landon. The native of Berkeley, Calif., has returned to her first love, the theater and worked in such cities as Santa Fe, Boston, New York City and Louisville, Kv. From her official Web site she writes, "While in Santa Fe, I wrote a screenplay, started a theatre company, acting and directing; and at Actor's Theatre of Louisville, I was lucky to perform in classics and original American plays with an excellent company of actors and directors from all over the world. During the spells when I am not acting, I give my creative energy to writing. I have written ten minute plays, a film script called 'Playing with Fire' and a full-length play." Grassle lives in the San Francisco area and recently

Insell becomes MTSU wins leader

MOBILE, Ala. - A pair of strong runs in the first half carried Middle Tennessee to a 60-39 win over South Alabama as Coach Rick Insell, a Cannon County native, became basketball program's all-time wins leader at the Mitchell Center (Jan. 5)

MT (9-5, 4-1 Sun Belt) started off the game on a 9-2 run and used a six minute Lady Jag (9-6, 2-4 SBC) scoring drought to add 11 more points and earn their third consecutive win.

The victory gave Rick Insell his 183rd win, surpassing the previous record of 182 set by Lewis Bivens in 1997. Insell, who holds a 183-59 overall mark in eight years, joined current MT men's basketball Coach Kermit leader. Middle Tennessee is just one of four schools (Gonzaga, Sacred Heart and UALR) to have both their current men's and basketball women's coaches as all-time wins leaders.

"It humbles you as a coach," said Insell. "When Dr. Sidney McPhee and Chris Massaro hired me, that record was the last thing on my mind. I didn't even think about that. Lewis Bivens, Larry Joe Inman and Stephany Smith all did great jobs of building the foundation of this program to be able to come in and have some success early. You have to look back at the players and the coaching staffs over the years. This record goes to me, but it really belongs to them.'

her 41st career doubledouble with 26 points and 13 rebounds. Rowe grabbed nine offensive boards and picked up a pair of blocks and steals in 40 minutes. The Lexington, Ky., native moved into a tie for 14th in scoring at MT with Heather Prater

Also reaching double figures was guard Kortni Jones with three triples and a free throw. Jones and Shanice Cason each had four assists. Senior forward Icelyn Elie narrowly missed double digits with nine points and six rebounds.

MT was 42 percent from the field, knocking down 23-of-55 attempts, while making 10-of-16 from the charity stripe. The Raiders forced 19 South Alabama turnovers, converting 22 11 Raider turnovers were the lowest for Middle Tennessee this season.

Rowe started the game scoring seven of MT's first nine points as the Raiders jumped out to a 9-2 lead. Midway through the half, the Raiders used a Rowe basket underneath combined with an Elie triple to give MT a 16-7 edge. USA was held scoreless for six minutes in the half as the Raiders stretched their lead to 22-7.

Jones hit a three-pointer at the end of the period to put MT up 32-16.

MT shot 40 percent (13of-32) in the first half, while out-rebounding USA 20-to-14. USA was held to 6-of-20 from the field for 30 percent with 11 turnovers. Rowe led MT with 13 while Veronica Cherizol had six points for the Lady Jags. Cherizol finished the game with a team-high 12

In the second half, USA opened the half on a 5-0 run, but it was soon squashed.

MT used buckets from all five players on the court to stretch its advantage to 42-

The Raiders continued to battle until the end with strong play finishing the game with 32 points in the paint as MT won its 18th consecutive game over South Alabama Saturday.

NOTES

Lauren March earned her first starting nod since playing at Troy on Jan. 5, 2012 ... Ebony Rowe moved her 26 points. She passed Tia Stovall (1,335) who played for the Raiders from 2003 to 2006 and is tied with Heather Prater (1,360) for No. 14 ... Rowe earned her 41st career doubledouble with 20 points and 12 rebounds ... Middle Tennessee is 23-3 when Rowe reaches 20-plus points ... With a win tonight, Coach Rick Insell became the all-time wins leader at MT with 183, passing Lewis Bivens previous standard of 182. Insell and Kermit Davis are now the all-time win leaders at MT, joining Gonzaga, Sacred Heart and UALR as the only other programs in the country to have both men's and women's basketball coaches active as all-time

Second-half surge lifts MTSU Lions suffer two

MOBILE, Ala. - A second-half surge and a pair of late free throws from Bruce Massey sealed Middle Tennessee's 60-56 victory over South Alabama on Saturday night at Mitchell Center.

Nine Blue Raiders (12-4, 4-1 Sun Belt) scored in the contest, led by Massey's 12 points. Shawn Jones also cracked double-figure scoring with 11 points. Neiko Hunter chipped in nine points, while Marcos Knight and James Gallman each added six. Knight and Kerry Hammonds led the Blue Raiders on the boards with seven rebounds each.

MT shot 42.6 percent from the field and held South Alabama (7-7, 4-2 SBC) to 37 percent shooting. The two teams matched each other with 37 rebounds, but the Blue Raiders held the advantage in bench points (25-19), points in the paint (32-20), and had just nine turnovers while

The Blue Raiders held a one-point advantage at halftime thanks to JT Sulton's steal with 22 seconds left and layup at the opposite end to make it 29-28. MT carried that momentum into the second stanza, opening the frame on an 11-2 run.

The onslaught continued, as MT built up a 15-point lead with 10:14 to play. The Blue Raiders widened the gap on an 8-0 run, led by Massey and Hunter with four points

The Jaguars responded with a 12-3 run to cut MT's lead to six with 5:38 remaining, but another Massey layup sparked a 5-0 spurt that put the lead back in double figures at 58-47. South Alabama trimmed the lead to two with 1:41 to play on a 9-0 run, but Massey came up with a crucial offensive rebound with 22 seconds remaining forcing the Jaguars to foul. Massey hit both of the ensuing free throws and the Jaguars missed their final two shots as MT earned the four-point victory.

Mychal Ammons led South Alabama with 15 points and Freddie Goldstein had 12. Augustine Rubit posted a double-double with 10 points and 14 rebounds, while Javier Carter also added 10 points.

Opening statement... "That stretch in the second half, we played extremely well on both ends to get up 50-35. We had a few guys get tired and subbed, then all of the sudden we had some bad turnovers and got on our heels. We played not to foul, but give South Alabama credit. They were in first place going into tonight and they played extremely hard. "I like what we did tonight. We've got a lot of room for improvement but that's a really good road win against a team who competed their tail off.'

On Bruce Massey's performance...

"I was proud of our players. I was proud of Bruce Massey and the way he competed. Bruce and I talked today. Sometimes family have disagreements. I love Bruce Massey and love coaching him. He's a lot like me, he's pretty dang competitive and we understand all that. I think we learned a valuable lesson and it's good to have him back."

SENIOR GUARD BRUCE MASSEY

On the win...

"After losing at Arkansas State, you could tell it was devastating. It was just quiet. They out toughed us on their own court, so we knew this was a big game tonight."

On bouncing back after Arkansas State

"I knew tonight was a bounce back game. The good thing about basketball is that you don't have to wait a week to play the next game."

losses at Beach Blowout Tourney

Courier Sports Report

SANDESTIN, Fla. Cannon County got a tough draw when it had to face Spanish Fort (Ala.) in the opening game of the Hilton Sandestin Beach Blowout Tournament.

Spanish Fort was one of the top-ranked teams in Alabama, but Cannon County put together a competitive effort before falling 63-50.

Tanner Larson had one of his best games of the season with 13 points on 5-of-8 shooting and added five rebounds.

Tommy Mitchell and Cory Henley added eight points each and Garrett McReynolds finished with six points. Jarrett Melton tallied six assists for the Lions.

"We played better and we put together a good enough defensive effort to win the game, but we just continued to struggle to do anything with any consistency on offense," Cannon County Head Coach Matt Rigsby said. "We had our chances against a good team but you have to be able to knock down shots. We got good looks but we just didn't finish them.'

The Lions trailed 12-11 after the first quarter but Spanish Fort pulled ahead 29-21 at the half and maintained the seven-to-10 point lead throughout the second half.

Coming off of the tough loss in the opener, Cannon County dropped a 59-34 decision against Paxton in the second game and was eliminated.

Henley and Melton led the Lions with nine each. Jacob Nave and Tanner Larson finished with five MURFREESBORO - Middle Tennessee Head Football Coach Rick Stockstill announced the signing of wide receivers Devin Clarke and Chris Perkins to scholarship agreements. Both student-athletes are junior college transfers.

Clarke, 5-11, 173, makes his way to Murfreesboro after playing the past two seasons at Butler Community College. Sebring, Fla., native helped Butler to an 11-1 record this past season with 19 receptions for 238 yards and a touchdown. Butler also went 11-1 his freshman year as he posted 18 catches for 271 yards and a score.

Clarke, who has been on teams the past three years with a combined record of 31-4, was a three-star recruit coming out of Sebring High School by Rivals.com and Scout.com.

"We are excited to have Devin in our program," said Justin Watts, recruiting coordinator and wide receivers coach. "He adds a lot of speed and will be an instant downfield threat. Devin can play inside or outside with his combination of size and speed." Perkins, 6-3, 215, played last season at Pearl River Community College where he hauled in 19 passes for 232 yards and four touchdowns. The Hazelhurst, Miss., product originally signed with Alcorn State coming out of high school and had seven receptions for 127 yards and a touchdown for the Braves as a true freshman.

Perkins, who redshirted in 2011, was rated one of the Top 125 players in the state of Mississippi by the Clarion-Ledger coming out of Hazelhurst High School.

"Chris is a big, strong, physical receiver who should have an immediate impact on our offense," said Watts. "We look forward to having him here in January so he can go through our offseason workouts and spring practice.'

* Amos has been invited to play in the 88th Annual East-West Shrine Game on January 19. Kickoff is set for 3 PM Central at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg, Fla., and the game will be shown live on the NFL Network. Amos, a First Team All-Sun Belt selection, enjoyed a career year in 2012 with 72 catches for 992 vards and nine touchdowns, falling just shy of becoming only the second 1,000-yard receiver in school history.

The senior from Fayetteville, NC, had the highlight play of the year with his one-handed touchdown grab in the win over Georgia Tech.

Amos, a walk-on who was put on scholarship at the beginning of his senior year, transferred to Middle Tennessee in 2010 and played in 2011 and 2012.

He ended his career with 99 receptions for 1,371 yards and 12 touchdowns.

LIVINGSTON - Cannon County took control of the District 8-AA girls basketball race by securing a pivotal 64-62 road win at Livingston Academy in a showdown of league unbeatens here Friday (Jan. 4).

Abbey Sissom scored a game-high 23 points on the strength of 5-of-8 shooting from 3-point range, and Madison Walkup provided the key spark off of the bench with 14 points and four rebounds to pace

Cannon County improved to 17-1 overall and 5-0 in District 8-AA. The Lionettes are the only remaining team with no district

"This is a huge win for our team," Sissom said. "It's not easy to win on the road in our district and it's really difficult to get a win at Livingston Academy so this one is big."

Abby Jakes added 13 points and Rebekah Faulkner finished with seven points, six rebounds and two blocks for the Lionettes.

It was a game of runs.

Cannon County was on the verge of running Livingston Academy (18-4, 3-1) out of its home gym when the Lionettes built a 44-30 lead midway through the third quarter and led 50-37 after Sissom and Jakes knocked down back-to-back 3pointers to end the third quarter.

"We had the momentum but you knew Livingston was not going to lay down," said Cannon County Head Coach Michael

Lionettes cruise to championship in Sunshine State; Sissom named MVP

Courier Sports Report

SANDESTIN, Fla. - It didn't take long for Cannon County to make a statement during the 18th Hilton Sandestin Beach Blowout Tournament.

The Lionettes won three games in convincing fashion, including a 68-33 troucning of Ponce de Leon, ending its 38-game winning streak, in the championship game.

Cannon County secured a 70-28 win against Paxton (Fla.) in the semifinals and knocked out Walton (Fla.), 83-51, in an opening-round game.

Junior standout Abbey Sissom was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player after 23 points in the three games played. Sissom scored 27 in the opener, 22 in the semifinals and 21 in the championship game.

Senior sharpshooter Abby Jakes earned Tournament honors. Jakes poured in 21 in the championship game.

"The girls were really focused throughout the trip," Cannon County Head Coach Michael Dodgen said. "We played very well defensively throughout the tournament and that created a lot of transition scoring for us."

The Lionettes jumped out to a 22-10 lead on Ponce de Leon in the championship and built the lead to 44-17 by halftime. In addition to Sissom and Jakes with 21, Rebekah Faulkner finished with nine points and nine rebounds; Madison Walkup had seven points and eight rebounds; and Emily Pemberton and Ashley Basham combined for 11 rebounds.

The Lionettes jumped on top of Paxton 18-0 and never looked back on the way to a 70-28 triumph.

Sissom was the only player in double figures with 22, but Walkup and Faulkner added nine each and Basham finished with six points, seven rebounds and five blocks.

Sissom's 27 led the Lionettes to an 83-51 win against Walton. Walkup finished with 12: Jakes added 11, Faulkner added nine and Jordan Hollis finished with seven.

Livingston Academy too much for Lions

TONY STINNETT Courier Sports Editor

LIVINGSTON - Cannon County started strong but couldn't maintain the early surge in a 65-45 setback against streaking Livingston Academy here Friday (Jan. 4). The Lions, who failed to have a player reach double figures, battled evenly through the first eight minutes. The teams were tied 13-13 after one quarter, but Livingston Academy took full control with a 23-5 run in the second quarter to take a 36-18 halftime lead.

"We just couldn't get any stops and we couldn't hit shots during that second quarter," Cannon County Head Coach Matt Rigsby said. "Once Livingston Academy got going it was difficult to stop their run.

Sophomore Jacob Nave, who has continued to improve as the season unfolds and is playing his best basketball of late, led the Lions with seven points. Cory Henley finished with six, Tommy Mitchell and Zach Higgins added five and Jarrett Melton and Justin Tobin added four each.

The Lions have struggled to score with consistency after a strong start to the season. Cannon County (8-10) is 3-10 after a 5-0 start to the season. "It's been hard because we have not been consistent," Henley said. "We have to keep working because we have shown we are good enough to compete."
