DAN WHITTLE Courier Correspondent

Call out the name "Robert" on Woodbury Courthouse Square, and the man with that first name probably wouldn't answer you.

However, yell out the name "Hoppy," and nearly everyone in Woodbury knows you are speaking of Robert H. "Hoppy" Davenport, one of the most well-known and respected former public officials in Cannon County history.

Woodbury residents lost this legendary local public figure on Jan. 22, when "Hoppy" died of reported heart failure at age 68, having been born the son of Ben and Lola Davenport on April 1,

His stature was early 2010," confirmed Woodbury Mayor evident by the huge Harold Patrick. "That's long-term trust for with an elected man or woman to have with the visitation Thursday at public."

Patrick should know, for he served shoulder-to-shoulder with Hoppy in the Courthouse for 25 years as Cannon County's executive and Chancery Court Clerk.

But, Patrick goes back in life much farther with "Hoppy," back to Pleasant Ridge (elementary) School where teachers Sammie Fite and Golda Richards taught 1-4 grades and 5-8 grades, respectively.

"By first grade, Hoppy had already been given his 'Hoppy' nickname by his father, Ben, because as a small tyke, Hoppy loved watching cowboy movies, particularly movies by Hopalong Cassidy and his white steed, named Topper," the mayor traced back six decades to their little tworoom school. "He loved to pull mischievous pranks, even as a little boy...but always, Hoppy loved sports.

"As young adults, we played softball together for several years in his dad, Ben's, softball league," Patrick added.

Andy Bryson is another lifelong friend to Hoppy and the Davenport family.

"My first recollection of Hoppy was the first day he stepped on the school bus, transporting us to grammar school," Bryson began. "Their family lived about a arrests on Valley Ridge

Seven suspects face multiple charges in connection with a methrelated bust on Valley Ridge Lane by the Cannon County Sheriff's Department.

Arrested were Thomas Clayton Coleman, Chad Fox, Joshua Elkins, Joshua Gilliam, Richard Hindley, Terry Brower and Rebecca Lvnn Hood.

"I would like to commend my deputies for an excellent job and hope the general public doesn' forget the dangers that the officers faced when dealing with meth labs," Sheriff Darrell Young said. Initially, the Sheriff's Department was responding to a 911 phone call in which a neighbor said they heard a woman screaming at a house that was deserted. supposedly Valley Ridge Lane is located north of Pleasant Ridge near Gassaway Road.

they "saw a white car with the glass window broken out of it and the trunk was up. There was a man dressed in camouflage standing next to the vehicle holding a tiki torch," Officer Mike "Doc" Smith reported.

Smith responded to the initial call along with Melanie Deputy McCormick.

"We got out of our patrol vehicles and observed that people were running all over the vard and into house and were running behind the residence, Smith said.

TONY STINNETT Courier Sports Editor

Whether it's sports teams, club competitions or marbles, Cannon County students love beating DeKalb County.

The two rivals will meet on the basketball court Feb. 5 and while Cannon County hopes to taste success in the athletic arena, members of the CCHS FCCLA Club are hoping for a winning effort as well.

The CCHS FCCLA has challenged DeKalb County's FCCLA in its Souls4Souls shoe drive.

"We challenged DeKalb County's FCCLA to see which club could have the most shoes donated," said CCHS senior Mary Talbott, who serves as the Tennessee Vice-President of FCCLA. "This is very worthwhile charity and we hope to have a lot of shoes donated in order to help those in need of them. We thought it would be fun to have a challenge with DeKalb County and tie it in to the basketball game. We hope the competition will generate even greater donations."

Souls4Shoes is a non-profit organization that procures shoes and gets them to those in need. The World Headquarters is in Old Hickory, Tenn. To date, more than 19 million pairs of shoes have been distributed in 127 countries. Soles4Shoes' mission is to collect new and like new itself or as complicit for not checking for obvious flaws in the story. But you know what, there's something to be said for a good media hoax.

Today all you need to do to perpetuate a hoax is to put something out on the Internet, and innumerable gullible people will do the work for you. But back in the early '70s, when Clifford Irving created, and sold, a fake biography of Howard Hughes, he actually worked at creating his hoax; he didn't just create something for everyone to send out via e-mail. Irving had flair, panache, elegance.

But Irving hasn't been the only one to fool the media just for the sake of doing it.

A few years ago the nation was enraptured by the story of little Kodee Kennings, whose father was serving with the Army in Iraq. Newspapers across the country ran letters from Kodee to her father. Reporters talked with her on the phone and in person. When her father,

Media loves a good hoax

Sergeant Dan Kennings, came home on leave, he was interviewed, in person, by reporters.

The story touched a chord, and groups around the country raised money for the little girl. When stories circulated that Sergeant Kennings was killed in Iraq there were memorial services.

But guess what: it was all a hoax. And the woman who fabricated the story, Jaimie Reynolds, didn't pull this prank off by herself. She recruited numerous helpers. She gave extensive written scripts to the "actors" in the charade, coached them about their demeanor and their fictional personal histories and even provided them with wardrobes and fake military tattoos.

Later a police investigation determined no laws were broken. The report concluded Reynolds spent her own money, and at one point returned more than $200 dollars to a Detroit church, after its members tried to donate the money to Kodee

Of course, not all media hoaxes end on such happy notes. Some of them have tied up police and firefighters on nonexistent emergencies. Hoaxes can destroy reputations and they can steal resources and attention from real victims.

To be sure, we have seen numerous

It started as a grey, gloomy and cold wintry day, complete with sore throat, coughs, and accompanying headache.

While en route to North Rutherford YMCA to swim, stretch and hopefully soak away some bodily miseries, I stopped for a breakfast wrap at Arby's.

Truth is, I grew impatient as the car in front of me at the pay window took a moment longer than my sicklybody and lowly-attitude was willing to endure.

Finally, finally, it was time for me to pay and retrieve my sausage, egg and cheese wrap!!

"Oh, Mr. Whittle, there's no charge today," Arby's cheerful window server advised cheerfully. "The person in the car ahead of you, said to pay for yours, you know, as in 'pay it forward."

I immediately slinked emotionally lower in my car seat, glad that misty rain covered the windshield so no one could see my red face.

I'll never know the driver's identification, but he or she drove a new Nissan Murano convertible with a Cannon County license plate: To you, nice person, I say "Thank You!"

Guest Columnist A "little white lie." Have you ever told one?

I imagine most have heard the term "little white lie." Based on my experience, the term refers to an untruth that, most part, is benign and not intended to actually hurt anyone, versus an "outright lie" purposely told with malice, with the potential to hurt the innocent. Have you ever told a little white lie? That's what I thought. The following is a story that was revealed to me, and, no, I can't authenticate it as being the gospel truth. However, it does serve as a good illustration regarding how one should conduct him/herself in life. Mrs. Helen Johnson (fictitious name) was to bake a cake for her women's church group, which went by the title Ladies of Faith. The reason for Helen baking the cake was that it, along with other cakes, pies, and pastries, was to be part of a church-sponsored, bake-sale fundraiser Married to a prominent banker, and a bit of a socialite in this small southern town. Helen, however, had totally forgotten about baking the cake until the very morning of the fundraiser. Frantic, Helen rummaged through her cabinets and, luckily, found a box of Angel Food Cake mix. Hurrying around, she mixed the contents and stuck it inside the oven to bake. Removing the cake from the oven, she discovered that the center of the cake had dropped flat. The cake looked horrible! Realizing there wasn't enough time to bake another cake, Helen, fueled by a mixture of anxiety and ingenuity, commenced looking around the house for something to build up the flattened cake-she had a plan! So. Helen went into her bathroom and grabbed a roll of toilet paper. She inserted the roll inside the cake, then proceeded to cover it with layers of decorative icing. When she'd finished, the cake looked perfect, good enough to win a contest! Helen raced over to the church and placed her cake amongst the others to be sold at the fundraiser, which was to begin at 8 a.m.

window. From there I went on toward the "Y" in search of a soak in the delicious hot soothing and swirling hot tub, when a gentleman in work-out clothes approached me outside the dressing room.

"Mr. Whittle, I heard about your great grandson (Beckett Nelson, age 3) needing medical treatment that is not covered by health insurance, so I want to make a little personal donation to help with medical costs.

When I opened the gift, it was no "little personal donation.'

Being speechless at this second act of "pay it forward" in less than 15 minutes, I don't think I even muttered a heart-felt "thank you" to the kind compassionate soul.

By this time, positive vibes had replaced my torso's aches and pains as I sank soothingly in the healing waters of the Y's hot tub.

As I swam and did my stretching exercises, I savored the uplifting random acts of kindness.

Sherry Lee, had made a donation for construction of a Fisher House for use by ailing veterans and families (at no charge) at nearby York VA Medical Center.

Whittle's Words

Of Wisdom DAN WHITTLE

As a result of three back-to-back "pay it forward" acts of kindness, I suddenly realized my aches and pains of the day had melted away.

That same day, Smyrna insurance professional Baker Raborn offered to check with his cast of other volunteers about the possibility of a future "Cruise In" of vintage, rare collectible vehicles as a fund-raiser for our ailing grandson, Beckett, and his parents, Patrick and Amanda Amick Nelson, the most devoted parents I've witnessed in my lengthy walk across our planet.

My family and I are especially thankful for the miracles worked for Beckett by care-givers at Special Kids and Project Help.

Thankful I am to reside in a community of such good and caring neighbors. Amen!

To the Editor

What part of "shall not be infringed" do you not understand?

America's Constitution is under attack. Our Second Amendment has been affirmed as an individual right.

In a victory for gun rights advocates, a federal appeals court on or about, Dec. 11, 2012 struck down Illinois' ban on carrying concealed weapons -- the only total concealed-carry ban in the country.

Despite these affirmations, the Liberal Gun Ban Crowd, being led by President Obama, Vice President Joe Biden and California Senator Barbara Boxer, are out to "infringe" the Right to Keep and Bear Arms, strip Americans of their firearms using deceptive terminologies and foolish rhetoric. These very same Liberals are very well protected by "armed" security guards and Americans pay the tab. Many Governors, Legislators and Sheriffs across the Country and standing up.....speaking up and letting the Federal Government know that their illegal gun ban efforts will NOT be enforced.

Linn County Sheriff Tim Mueller went public Tuesday with a letter addressed to Vice President Joe Biden. In it, he said he would not deprive citizens of their right to bear arms when they have broken no laws. He also said he wouldn't let federal authorities enforce gun regulations in his territory either. I have posed the following letter to Cannon County Sheriff Darrel Young. I received a response that was not signed, so as of this date, I cannot attest to his Official position on this very important matter.

Dear Sheriff Darrell Young,

As the Chief Law Enforcement Officer in Cannon County you were required to take an oath to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution against all enemies both foreign and domestic. Having taken that oath I would like to know if you will honor your oath by refusing to enforce Federal rules, regulations and directives that violate the Constitution and/or the Bill of Rights.

The Second Amendment clearly proclaims that the people have a right to own guns and the government is prohibited from infringing on the right of the people to own guns if they choose to do so. Your primary job is to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution and the rights of the people that live in your County.

The Supreme Court has ruled that the Federal government has no lawful jurisdiction in the counties and that when the Sheriff chooses to enforce an unconstitutional directive, he is violating his Constitutional Oath.

The people of Cannon County are The People and you are their Chief Law Enforcement Representative. We The People of Cannon County expect you to represent us and not the Federal Government.

I would like to know if you are given an order by the president of The USA that violates the Constitution, will you honor your oath?

to work, the daughter was to swing by the church, buy the cake that Helen had delivered, and bring the cake straight back to Helen. The daughter agreed.

About 8:30, the daughter called and informed Helen that someone else had bought the cake before the daughter could make it to the church and purchase it.

Helen was petrified: She would be the subject of much gossip. She would be socially ostracized. Her banker husband would ridicule her. However, she had no choice other than to let it play out.

It was about a week later, and Helen and her husband had RSVP reservations to attend a dinner hosted by the governor and his wife, Charlene, at their antebellum Governor's Mansion, an "Upper Crust" southern event, to say the least. Charlene was a snooty, self-serving type, always talking about herself. Actually, Helen despised Charlene, but always put on a smiley-face front.

After an elegant dinner, Charlene disappeared into the kitchen, returning to the dining table with a beautiful cake for dessert ... the very cake Helen had baked for the fundraiser!

Her face now flushed red, Helen was about to stand up and come clean about the cake; she had no other choice.

Before she could stand, though, the senator's wife, sitting next to Helen, commented, "Why, Charlene, what a beautiful cake! I must know where you bought it so I can get one."

"Oh, I baked it, myself," Charlene said, smiling and making eye contact with all those sitting at the table.

Immediately, Helen's blood pressure returned to normal, and she, with tongue in cheek, eyes twinkling, said, "I agree, Charlene, what a gorgeous cake. Your baking skills speak volumes of you. I certainly hope there's enough for seconds."

Take extra steps to avoid the flu

Senior citizens should take extra steps to avoid the flu outbreak currently raging in Cannon and surrounding counties.

The flu and the common cold are both respiratory illnesses but they are caused by different viruses.

Because these two types of illnesses have similar flu-like symptoms, it can be difficult to tell the difference between them based on symptoms alone. In general, the flu is worse than the common cold, and symptoms such as fever, body aches, extreme tiredness, and dry cough are more common and intense.

Colds are usually milder than the flu. People with colds are more likely to have a runny or stuffy nose. Colds generally do not result in serious health problems, such as pneumonia, bacterial infections or hospitalizations.

There are a number of common-sense steps persons, particularly the elderly, should take to avoid the flu.

Paper towels - Use paper towels to dry your hands instead of cloth towels, which can harbor germs.

A temple-touch style thermometer - If the patient has a fever higher than 102 degrees that could indicate they have the flu

Vitamin C or little boxes of orange juice - Helps build immune system particularly for seniors.

Pocket-size hand sanitizer, with aloe -

Helps keep the skin germ-free without drying it out.

Pens - Seniors should always have their own ballpoint pen handy - pens shared in public areas carry a ton of germs.

Disinfectant spray - Spray doorknobs, handles, and light switches, etc. for least once a week - viruses can live up to 48 hours on plastic and stainless steel surfaces.

Hand soap - Recent studies show plain soap and water works just as well, if not better, than antibacterial soaps.

Hand sanitizer wipes - These are handy to have on-the-go, whether to clean hands or public surfaces. Don't rely on just baby wipes because they do not contain the proper ingredients to kill viruses and germs.

Get the flu shot because it's free and covered by Medicare for senior citizens. People 65 and older have two flu shots available to choose from - a regular dose vaccine and a newer higher dose flu vaccine that results in a stronger immune response. Seniors should talk to their doctors to see if they're a good fit for this vaccine.

Shorten the duration of symptoms by getting an anti viral medication within 48 hours.

Smartphones take the fun out of life

Recently, while attending a college basketball game, I made a nonscientific observation of what people do during the game that seems to be the norm these days. No, the action I saw is not something you would normally expect, such as cheering wildly, calling the ref unrepeatable words or keeping even the concession guy busy providing food. However, food has gone way beyond the usual hot dog, popcorn and cold drinks, to more exotic things like cotton unrecognizable candv. nachos, and gourmet sandwiches. Ballgame fare has gone way beyond the usual gym food to an experience in fine dining. I'm expecting someone to come up with white tablecloths for your nacho boxes some day.

But, the new norm I witnessed was the number of people on smartphones checking out their emails, texts, Facebook gossip or other social media that may have been coming across the airways during that evening's really exciting ballgame. In fact, I saw an entire row of men all looking down at their palms containing today's modern marvel, during a 20 point run by our team to

I guess that is a difference in the generations these days. The thing that makes us Americans so different is our ability to operate at numerous generation levels and still get the job completed. I saw old guys, just like me, cheering while young fellows kept informed on what ALL the other teams were doing with their phones. My generation enjoys the simple things, as a couple generations under me, take things a little more seriously. The differences in our generations also help us to pull through tough times. Do you remember when kids could use candy cigarettes with red tips for fire and not be a political outcast? Candy cigs never caused me to want to smoke. Instead they pushed me more over to the dessert way of thinking. What about getting a cold drink from a machine that dispensed glass bottles that only contained eight ounces? In fact, you could get glass bottle drinks at basketball games in the early days. They could also quench your thirst just as well as today's super jumbos and only cost a nickel. Resolve to improve your financial fitness

Next to getting fit or necessary and discipline is dropping a bad habit doing a better job of handling money is a common and worthwhile New Year's resolution. Experts with University of Tennessee Extension offer some tips to help you meet that goal in 2013. And no surprise, a good start is to stop spending so much.

"Unless you have unlimited income, then curbing spending is necessary, including a little bit of self-denial. Living large is really out. It's all about cutting back, simplifying your life," says Dr. Dena Wise, a financial management specialist with UT Extension.

Wise says we should prepare for expensive things to happen. Her first recommendation is set aside money in an emergency fund, at least a few hundred dollars for car or home repairs or other unexpected expenses. If pay cash for you emergencies, you avoid additional debt on credit cards.

"For somebody who is really struggling to save, this might be just $500, but it makes the difference in being in control financially, being proactive about your finances or being reactive to whatever emergency comes up," Wise says.

Here are a few troubling statistics. Two-thirds of Tennesseans have no emergency savings, and 20 percent of our population spent more than they earned last year. In some areas, the numbers are improving for Tennessee, but we still rank in the five bottom states nationally for personal bankruptcies.

So if you're sick of being broke, take action. That brings us to the second of Wise's Dr. recommendations: eliminate high interest debt such as credit card interest. "Eliminating debt is always a good goal, particularly if it's debt that you carry on a credit card from month to month," she says.

The third recommendation from UT Extension is to track and curb your spending. "We would suggest you do a budget," says Chris Sneed, UT Extension agent in Blount County. Sneed says to start by estimating how much you're spending, and then for a week or even a month, track every expenditure. "It could be as easy as carrying around a little spiral notebook and just jotting down whenever you spend money," he said. "You will be amazed. It's a very humbling experience."

Sneed says we need to set realistic goals for getting rid of debt and saving in 2013. The key to any resolution is to change your behavior and establish some good habits. It takes simple math and discipline, but it's doable with our money.

Dr. Wise has published a free fact sheet called Tools for Money Management:

all Tennesseans killed in motor vehicle traffic crashes were involved in a speed-related crash.

"While you may think this nightmare could never happen to you, the fact remains that failure to wear a seat belt, drunk driving, speeding and distracted driving are killing Tennesseans ever single day," said Woodbury

Police Chief Kevin Mooneyham. "So we're going to be out in force cracking down on those who break our laws with a special More Cops. More Stopes. enforcement blitz to send the public a strong reminder to drive safely and to save more lives on Tennessee roadways."

Teens and young adults continue to be among the high risk group because of behaviors. their risky

Research and fatal crash statistics show that young adult males, ages 18 to 34, are the most likely to practice high-risk behaviors while driving, such as drinking and driving and not wearing seat belts. Nighttime passenger vehicle occupants of all ages are also among those least likely to buckle up and most likely to die in crashes when unrestrained.

In 2011, 10,135 passenger vehicle occupants in the U.S. were killed in car crashes at night. Of those killed, 62 percent were not wearing seat belts, compared to 43 percent killed during daytime hours.

"Not wearing your seat belt, driving drunk, texting while driving and speeding claim far too many lives in Tennessee, so all violators we catch will be stopped, " Mooneyham said.

Bodary claimed Gannon had spread he (Bodary) was seeking the county executive job. "I am not interested in running for office in this county. Not only am I not interested, I am not running for county executive," Bodary said.

Gannon said Bodary had been meddling in local issues to the point "I felt we

After clearing the dwelling, room-by-room, Smith noticed a cabin behind it with the lights on. The door was open.

"I then shouted I was with the Cannon County Sheriff's Department. I then went inside and observed that there were two dogs laying on the couch. I then observed a ladder what went into the upstairs bedroom," Smith said.

In the upstairs bedroom, Smith discovered a meth lab, which he reported to the Sheriff's Department and additional officers were dispatched including Inspector Brandon Gullett and Sgt. Seth Perry.

Gullett had obtained a search warrant and was executing it when the officers made contact with a white female who was attempting to flee the scene.

"The female was taken into custody and detained," he said. Gullett said the woman was identified as Rebecca Lynn Hood.

HOPPY---

mile up Doolittle from our farm. A very special, honorable family.

"Even then, with his unique sense of humor, he'd always get the last laugh," Bryson added. "He was a very quick-witted boy and a man of his word who would give you the shirt off his back."

Later in life, when Bryson became editor, and ultimately, the owning publisher of the Cannon Courier, a 20-plus-year early-morning "men's coffee club' tradition began.

"If I could have a dime for all the cups of coffee I served, especially to Hoppy, who would have one, two or on somedays, three cups before he'd report to work across the street at the Courthouse,' Bryson shared. "I'd get to the office generally around 5:30 a.m ... along with Hoppy and other neighbors such as Harold Patrick, Reed, Wilev Buddy Davenport, Charlie Lawson, and others.

"For 27 years, five days a week, we could set our clock at the Courier office each morning by Hoppy's arrival." Bryson noted. "He'll be greatly missed by all of Cannon County."

Cannon County's Courthouse was closed at noon last Friday, in honor of the longtime Circuit Court official

"Closing the Courthouse was the least we could do, so everyone could honor Hoppy and his family at his funeral," accounted Cannon County Executive Mike Gannon. "He was always full of life, a longtime dedicated public servant, and he helped thousands of people, whether it was donating food or cloths during some family's crisis.'

Hoppy was a charitable man.

"At the Courthouse, folks regularly came through for special causes, and when I'd put my name down for maybe a $10 donation, I'd look over and see by Hoppy's name maybe $25 to $30 ... and he helped legions of people that none of us knew about," noted Mayor Patrick.

Two of Hoppy's favorite adult sports interests included fishing and construction of motors for go-carts.

A source close to the family shared this at Smith Funeral Home: "Hoppy was getting ready for spring fishing, for a shipment of new fishing lures was delivered to his home by UPS two days after his unexpected death."

"Hoppy loved to fish in tournaments at Center Hill and Percy Priest Lakes," confirmed Patrick. "Someone estimated he had a collection of 300 or rods and reels ... that's how much he loved fishing."

David Bragg remembers Hoppy's assistance before Bragg and his brother, Murfreesboro current Mayor Tommy Bragg, became owners of the Cannon Courier, prior to the historic paper being owned by Bryson and now current owner/publisher

Ron Fryar.

"Hoppy was very helpful, would freely offer his opinion, and a treat to sit and visit with a marvelous sense of humor," noted David, now a Circuit Court Judge serving Rutherford and Cannon counties. "He was easy for anyone to talk with. Hoppy helped us learn the ways of how to deal in affairs between the newspaper and Courthouse and the public ... he will be greatly missed by many people."

A Rutherford Farmers Cooperative merchandiser recently was named one of five Tennessee Farmers Cooperative 2012 Master Merchants of the Year for efforts to improve the quality of merchandising and increase of sales within her store.

Jessica Parker was honored for her accomplishments Jan. 7 during the 2013 Co-op Winter Managers Meeting in Murfreesboro. Other winners of the statewide award were Marissa Shamblin of Valley Farmers Co-op, Keith Earhart of Montgomery Farmers Coop, and Sam White of Gibson Farmers Co-op.

In addition, Celeste Scott of First Farmers Co-op in Lexington was recognized with a new award, Advanced Master Merchant of the Year, for her "continued commitment in and excellence merchandising practices."

The winners were chosen based on their initiative, creativity, enthusiasm, and accountability, according to Erin Boulware of TEC's throughout Tennessee who have been certified as Master Merchants and are continuing their education in merchandising principles and customer service. To maintain their certification, Master Merchants must regularly attend continuing education sessions offered by TFC each year. Parker, who has been with Rutherford Farmers Cooperative for 10 years, attended her first Master Merchant training two years ago and immediately put her knowledge to work giving her store a new look, said Boulware.

"My favorite project thus far has been the complete facelift on the [Woodbury] store," said Parker. "We reset the merchandise and shelving, painted the walls, installed new lights and ceiling tiles. Master Merchant training is where I gained some of these new ideas."

Among award criteria used in judging nominees are enhancement of the Coop's image, increased sales in improved areas, effective merchandising practices designing building displays that reflect customers' current needs, signage, lighting, promotion planning, and outside Tennessee displays. Farmers Cooperative is the regional farm supply and service organization owned by 56 member Co-ops across the state. These locally owned Co-ops, with some 150 retail outlets, are the premier source for farm supply products and services for the state's

These wonderful guys really came through for us in a big way. These are polite, hardworking and outstanding young men. They were a pleasure to work with and they accomplished this entire move in a little more than 2 hours.

the work of Now unpacking begins. We will open sections for the public as soon as items are safely shelved and areas are cleared of obstructions. We are still awaiting some furniture orders to come in so that we can get everything completely placed in its permanent

The local history and genealogy room has been safely returned to the main library and is open for business during regular library hours.

We have some tax forms, but many of the different forms have not yet been printed and shipped. We do not have any clear estimates from the IRS about a delivery date. TEASERS & TRIVIA

Richard Thomas of 'Waltons' fame recently to Broadway

Dear Ken: What has Richard Thomas, famous as John-Boy of "The Waltons," been doing lately?

Native New Yorker Thomas, 61, the son of dancers who owned the New York School of Ballet, recently appeared with Annie Potts in the Hallmark Channel movie "The Music Teacher." In the past two years he starred in the TV movie "Time After Time" and the TV series "BloodHounds, Inc" and was a guest on "Rizzoli & Isles." Married twice, he is the father of two sons and triplet daughters. Thomas, who made his Broadway debut at 7 in 1958, returned to Broadway last fall to star in "An Enemy of the People." The actor confesses that when fans of the TV series spot him on the streets, "They still shout John-Boy at me!"

Dear Ken: Share some background on Anna Torv, who plays Olivia Dunham in the TV series "Fringe."

Torv, 34, was born in Melbourne, Australia, and is of Estonian and Scottish descent. She grew up in Matrabar on Australia's Gold Coast and during her teen years enjoyed horseback riding, surfing and camping. In her homeland, she starred in the TV series "Young Lions," "McLeod's Daughters" and "The Secret Life of Us." The star of the 2010 miniseries "The Pacific" was married for a year to her "Fringe" co-star Mark Valley.

Dear Ken: Wasn't Robert Blake a child actor who played an Indian boy in the Red Ryder westerns? If so, how many of the series did he make and who played Red Ryder?

Then billed as Bobby Blake, the actor played Little Beaver in 23 Red Ryder shoot-em-ups between 1944 and 1947. Playing the lead of Red Ryder in these movies were Wild Bill Elliott and Allan "Rocky Lane." Others who played Ryder were Don "Red" Barry and Jim Bannon. Blake, 79, who was born Michael Gubitosi in Nutley, N.J., released his autobiography, "Tales of a Rascal," last summer. The star of the 1970s' detective series "Baretta" starred as one of the Little Rascals before he claimed the role of Little Beaver.

Dear Ken: Whose voice are we hearing in those Dodge Ram truck commercials on TV?

That's actor Sam Elliott, 68, who has made a mighty fine cowboy in "The Sacketts," "The Shadow Riders," "You Know My Name" and "Conagher." Married to actress Katharine Ross, he has also been the voice in commercials for the American Beef Council, IBM and Union Pacific and done some speaking as Smokey the Bear with whom he shares

Cannon County leads tight District 8-AA race

TONY STINNETT Courier Sports Editor

Two of the top-ranked teams in the state met with the district lead on the line when No. 3 Livingston Academy visited No. 6 Cannon County Friday (Jan. 25).

The Lionettes (21-3, 7-2) reclaimed the top spot in District 8-AA with a resounding 59-47 win against the Lady Wildcats (20-5, 6-2).

Cannon County moved one-half game in front of the defending champions and gained the head-tohead tiebreaker by vitue of completing the season sweep.

The Lionettes control their destiny to win the regular-season title and automatic berth into the Region 4-AA Tournament with three District 8-AA games remaining. Cannon County has league road games at Upperman and Smith County and a home against DeKalb game County.

"The girls really played well from start to finish," Cannon County Head Coach Michael Dodgen said. "We shot the ball well but the defensive effort was really good. We did a better job against some of their key players in this meeting. There is still a lot of basketball to be played but it was important to get this home win and have the tiebreaker."

District 8-AA Player of the Year candidate Abbey Sissom turned in a stellar performance in the pivotal league game and with a host of college coaches in attendance.

MTSU coach Rick Insell, David Lipscomb Head Coach John Wild and Samford's Mike Morris were amongst those in attendance and Sissom delivered.

Sissom scored a gamehigh 25 points on a nearperfect night. She connected on all seven of her field goal attempts, including three 3-pointers, and was 8-of-9 from the free-throw line. Sissom also collected five rebounds, dished out four assists and had two steals.

"This was a big game for us," Sissom said. "We really needed this win. It would have been tough to catch Livingston if they had won this game. We still have some tough games ahead of us but it was real important to get this win."

Sissom was seemingly in a zone. She knocked down one big shot after another and helped distance the Lionettes in the second half.

"I was getting good looks and I really didn't force any shots," Sissom said. "We did a good job shooting the ball as a team."

Abby Jakes continued her strong season with 13 points on 4-of-9 shooting and collected a team-high three steals. Emily Pemberton had six points and four rebounds and sophomore post Arianna Kailiponi came up big with five points on 2-of-2 shooting and three rebounds

"Our post players really played well," Dodgen said. "It is not so much the points they get but the rebounding and defense. They were a presence in there. They combined for 13 points and 13 rebounds so that's pretty good production."

The Lionettes shot 60 percent (18-of-30) from the field, including 5-of-11 from the field. They held Livingston Academy to 39 percent shooting (12-of-31) from the field.

Cannon County led 17-16 after a riveting back-andforth first quarter but the Lionettes stretched the lead to 31-25 by halftime.

The Lionettes outscored Livingston Academy 28-22 in the second half but really put distance between the teams when it allowed just nine third-quarter points and built a 48-34 lead going into the final quarter.

Livingston Academy never got closer than eight in the fourth quarter.

Downtown Abbey(s) too much for Central

TONY STINNETT Courier Sports Editor

Abbey Sissom and Abby Jakes combined for 33 points and shot down visiting Murfreesboro Central Magnet, 58-53, in a critical District 8-AA game at Robert A. Harris Gymnasium Tuesday (Jan. 22).

"Central is an outstanding team and very well coached," Cannon County Head Coach Michael Dodgen said. "That's a big win against a quality team. Our kids really battled and competed and they had to in order to get this win.'

In addition to Sissom and Jakes' Sissom poured in 18 points and offensive contributions, Madison Walkup added seven points, and Emily Pemberton and Jordan Hollis scored six each. The Lionettes set a scorching tone early when they knocked down nine of their first 11 shots to take a 21-14 first-quarter lead. That torrid pace did not continue against a strong Lady team that stiffened Tiger defensively and controlled the boards as it clawed to within 28-26 at halftime.

Sophomore post Ola Obi, who finished with 19 points, was a difference maker in the second quarter as she cominated inside and helped get Central back into the game.

"(Olbi) is a great player," Dodgen said. "Central has three really strong players in Olbi, (Ashley) Brewer and (Cladia) Smith. The teams battled back and forth during the third quarter with Cannon County taking a 42-39 advantage into the fourth quarter.

another one of those games that would go down to the final few minutes," Dodgen said. "There are no nights off in District 8-AA. It is the toughest Class AA district in the state. This district is always good but this year it is the deepest of any year I have coached in 8-AA. We really had to work to get this win."

Central poulled to within 50-48 on Olbi's offensive rebound and putback with 3:01 remaining.

52-49 with 2:18 remaining.

Cannon County sealed the game at the free-throw line. The Lionettes were 6-of-8 down the stretch with Sissom hitting three, Walkup two and Jakes one.

The Lionettes picked up their defense with the game on the line and didn't allow Central to connect for a field goal in the final three minutes. "We had to step up our defense down the stretch and we were able to do that," Jakes said. "The big thing is that we got the rebounds off of their misses and they were forced to foul. We did a better job of getting rebounds down the stretch and then hitting the free throws."

Jakes contributed 15, on the strength of four 3 -pointers, as the No. 6 Lionettes (20-3, 6-2) notched their 20th win of the season and kept alive their hopes of a regular-season district title.

Murfreesboro Central Magnet (19-4, 5-3) needed the road upset to gain ground and put itself in position to contend for the title.

Sissom answered with a driving layup to stretch the lead to four, 52-48, with 2:41 remaining in regulation.

Lions power back to .500

TONY STINNETT

Courier Sports Editor

It has been a long road back for Cannon County after a slump around the Christmas holidays.

The Lions finally saw the results of their hard work when they pounded Murfreesboro Central Magnet, 66-30, to get back to the .500 mark for the first time since early December.

Cannon County won its third straight District 8-AA game and improved to 11-11 overall and 5-3 in league play. The Lions maintain the No. 4 seed with the win.

"We have worked hard and continued to improve. I'm proud of the guys for that," Cannon County Head Coach Matt Rigsby said. "We have not just won games during this stretch but we have played well in winning those games. We still have room for improvement but we are playing consistently better as a team. That's a positive at this time of the season."

Tanner Larson dominated the paint for Cannon County. The junior forward poured in 16 points and grabbed six rebounds. Cory Henley added 10 points and Jared Melton had another strong all-around game with nine points and six assists Cannon County left no doubt as to the outcome with a stunning 22-2 start. The Lions led 37-8 by halftime and 50-16 after three quarters.

"What pleased me most is even when we built the big lead early and had different combinations out on the court we never really got sloppy," Rigsby said. "We just have to playing our best basketball down the stretch. We are pretty much playing for a higher seed right now."

Livingston muscles way past Lions

TONY STINNETT

Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County couldn't secure its fourth straight District 8-AA win against Livingston Academy; however, the Lions continued to show improved play during a 64-50 setback.

The Lions (11-12, 5-4) maintained their fourth-place spot in the league standings despite the setback. They also were far more competitive against the Wildcats in the second meeting of the two teams.

Cory Henley led the Lions with 23 points and Jarrett Melton poured in 15 more. Tanner Larson finished with eight points.

In the end, Livingston was too much inside.

Mason Ramsey powered in 32 points to lead the Wildcats. Brock McCoin scored 10 and Wade Eldridge added nine.

Cannon County was on top 13-7 early and trailed 29-21 at halftime.

"I really thought we had a good approach to this game," Cannon County Head Coach Matt Rigsby said. "We competed and we gave ourselves a chance to win. Even though we didn't the result we wanted, I thought we continued to play well overall."

Cannon County trailed 36-32 in the third quarter but went six minutes without a field goal. The scoring lapse continue to come to practice and work to improve and be Cannon County sophomore A.J.
