Spirits were high as the clouds cleared for Cannon County High School's annual Homecoming Parade. Coach T.J. Daniel was looking his best as he led the CCHS Lions down Main Street and into action vs. Macon County whose squad is 2-3 thus far this season.

70S nearly finished

Trouble with a gas line is among the issues that pushed back completion of the new four-lane version of U.S. 70S between Woodbury and McMinnville.

"The project was supposed to be completed by the end of September, but we are currently looking at a time extension for the contractor. It may be completed sometime in November," said Jennifer A. Flynn, Regional Community Relations Officer, Tennessee Department of Transportation

"There is still a lot of work remaining on the project and there was an unexpected issue with a gas line that recently came

Early voting to begin Oct. 15

MIKE WEST

Early voting begins Wednesday, Oct. 15 for the State General Election.

Registered voters can cast their ballots early until Oct. 30 at the Cannon County Election Office. Voting will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 1 to 6 p.m., on Thursdays and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

In addition to the statewide election, several local issues will be of interest to voters in Cannon County.

* First is the Cannon County Board of Education election. Two candidates have qualified for the District Two seat, Frank Walkup and Tim Powers. The district includes Auburntown, Gassaway, Pleasant Ridge and Short Mountain 2.

* Cannon County voters will also vote on an alcohol-related question. Citizens can vote either for or against the legal sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises. If approved, this would allow customers to legally imbibe at local restaurants that meet Tennessee licensing procedures.

* The most controversial of the measures is a resolution dealing with the route of state Route 70S,

TVA sets rate hike on Oct. 1

Beginning Oct. 1, the Tennessee Valley Authority will raise their rates for electricity. That increase is an increase of approximately 1.5 percent, or $2, to the average residential member of Middle Tennessee Electric.

In an effort to help keep rates affordable, MTEMC will pass this adjustment through beginning Oct. 1. The change in rates is not beyond what TVA is charging, but is designed to keep costs affordable for members. The adjustment will come in an increased customer charge, taking it from $13.75 to $15.75,

The Hickory Nuts in the Graveyard

By ROBERT L. MASON

I have heard several people tell this tale, among them again my grandmother.

Once there was an old man who grew queer in his old days, and when he came to die, he asked that a peck of hickory nuts be buried over his head so he could crack them and eat his favorite delicacy when he became hungry.

Two thieves lived in the community, and one night they decided to steal a sheep. One of them was to wait in the graveyard while the other went up on the hillside and picked out a choice sheep and brought it down.

While the rogue waited in the graveyard, he happened to think of the hickory nuts over the dead man's head, and, being hungry, he dug them up and began to crack them.

Two farm boys happened to pass near the graveyard just then and heard the cracking. They went home in a hurry.

"Grandpap," they said, "old man Capshaw is risen out'n his grave and crackin' hickory nuts."

"Nonsense," said the old man, "I don't believe it."

The boys swore that it was so.

"Don't believe it," said the old man, "and if I didn't have this rheumatism that's had me down for the last 10 years, I'd go and see for myself."

The boys considered a moment then said.

"Grandpap, we'll carry you on our shoulders if you want to see it."

"I'll go on your shoulders to show you there's nothing there," he said. And he got ready to be carried on the backs to the graveyard.

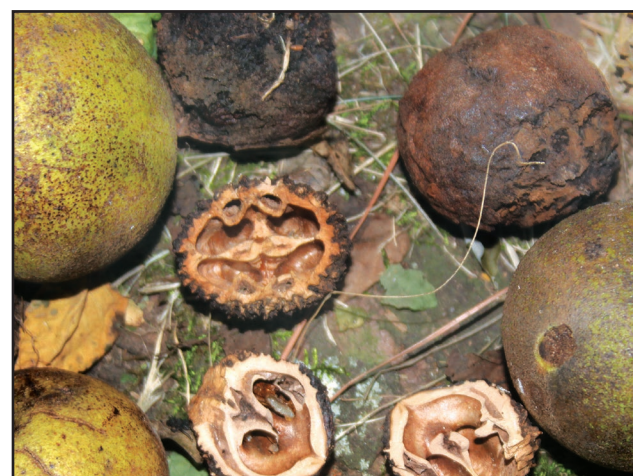

When they came near enough to hear the cracking, they walked stealthily and crept very close to the fence and might have seen the grave of old man Capshaw if the bushes hadn't been hiding it.

There was silence for a time and then where was rustling down the hillside, and the thief with the sheep appeared from behind a clump of bushes. The white sheep, from that distance, loomed up as a ghost and seemed to rise and swell to great proportions before the startled eyes of the two boys and their grandfather.

The rogue who was cracking hickory nuts was unaware that they visitors were near. He stopped cracking when he saw the sheep.

"Is he fat or lean?" asked the scary voice from the Graveyard. The white 'ghost' loomed up from the background as the boys screamed and ran.

MTEMC customers being hit by scammers

Middle Tennessee Electric Membership Corporation officials are continuing to warn members about a number of scam phone calls where fraudulent callers are posing as employees of Middle Tennessee Electric, contacting members, and claiming their account is past due and subject to cutoff.

"We have started to receive a number of calls again from members who are concerned about scam calls that are affecting them," said MTEMC Communications Coordinator Josh Clendenen. "The callers have been posing as co-op employees and are instructing members to get a prepaid credit or debit card to pay their bill over the phone."

MTEMC would like members to know if they are unsure if a caller is from the cooperative, they should hang up and call our member services line at 1-877-777-9020 to speak to an employee in our contact center. In the event a member's account is past due, they would receive an automated phone call notifying them of the past due nature of their account. MTEMC employees will never ask for their personal account or payment information unless the member initiates the call. In addition, MTEMC will never show up at a member's home or business and ask to collect payment. If someone claiming to be an MTEMC employee asks for payment at your home or business, please contact the authorities immediately.

Bill payment methods at MTEMC include bank draft, online bill pay, pay by phone at 1-877-777-9020, pay by mail and pay in person.

"If a member is subject to one of these calls, we encourage them to not give out any information, hang up and notify the authorities," said Clendenen. "If you would like to know the status of your account, you can log onto your account through our website or call our member services line where they will give you the most up to date account information."

It's time to stand up for a great cause, 'Whittlemania'

What is Whittlemania?
Why is it important?
How can you get involved?
"Whittlemania" dates back to 1994 when then Daily News Journalist columnist Dan Whittle became involved with Habitat for Humanity.
He was approached by a fellow employee Ben Weber, who had been diagnosed with brain cancer in his early 20s. Whittle recalled it was on a "blustery cold, sleet- rain-filled wintry night" when Weber approached him at a gas station and asked him to say a prayer for him. He told Dan of his plight and the two prayed together, and both left the gas station with tears in their eyes.
The prayer and the disease that struck Weber really touched Whittle, who is now a regular contributor for The Post and Cannon Courier.

So, the next day he called Jack Goodrich, who was a founder of the lost Habitat for Community chapter and shared the night's previous story.
The rest is local history.

Goodrich, with some serious help from our wonderful community, helped see that Weber's Habitat for Humanity house was built for the family he left behind. Weber lived within two weeks of seeing it completed.

The next year the cause of building housing became known as "Whittlemania." It came about when restaurant owners Jim Demos and Wade Hays agreed to launch the annual event to fund new Habitat houses. Along with Whittle, Demos and Hays then enlisted the support of DNJ President Ron Fryar and for 14 more years, homes were built in La Vergne, Smyrna and Murfreesboro.

"Whittlemania" was discontinued in 2009 upon the death of Doris Demos, who was the wife of Jim.

Fast forward five years and "Whittlemania" is back!

With the blessing of Murfreesboro's Peter D's Restaurant, "Whittlemania" is being resurrected to benefit the Tennessee Fisher House.

Why is it important today?
As now Post and Courier Publisher Fryar says, "It was ever so much the right thing to do and be involved with in 1994 just as it is today in 2014. We are once again humbled to be asked to participate as primary media sponsors."

Well, the Tennessee Fisher House serves spouses and children of veterans being treated at the York VA and Nashville VA hospitals. And if there is a cause out there to aid our veterans, it's imperative that we as a community participate.

And "Whittlemania" is a great way for the communities of Rutherford and Cannon counties to get involved for such an awesome cause.

So how can you get involved? Easy. Peter D's has agreed to sponsor $10 tickets that are redeemable for a $20 meal at the restaurant. Proceeds will go to the Tennessee Fisher House.

"Whittlemania" meal tickets are available now at The Post newspaper office and WGNS Radio in Murfreesboro, Cannon Courier offices in Woodbury, plus Gil's Ace Hardware and Southern Bank of Tennessee in Smyrna.

Or you can call Phil Barnett, president of the Tennessee Fisher House Foundation, at (615) 785-0799 for tickets and more information.

The meal tickets purchased in October are redeemable for a $20 meal value in November through Nov. 26 at the Peter D's

Now is the time to stand up for a great cause!

Guest Columnist What well-run newspapers do

Guest Columnist
ROBERT WILLIAMS

What do you care most about in life? Most of us would put family at, or near, the top of such a list. Friends would be there. So would our jobs or businesses, our livelihoods. Our homes. Maybe our pets. Our hobbies and pastimes. Add in those around us: Neighbors, the community, etc.

That's our world, our "sphere of influence." Whatever happens to those who inhabit that place in our hearts and lives means something to us.

We monitor.
We respond.
We pay attention. We laugh. We cry. We hurt. We rejoice.
We care.
And that is what well-run newspapers do, too. (The italics on well-run are mine.)

As I have traveled the nation this past year, it's been reassuring to see so many dedicated men and women who see newspapering as so much more than a "job." Newspapering is a job in the same sense that being a father or mother is a "job."

Parents are responsible for the well-being of their family. Good newspapers take on that role with the communities we serve. Newspapers are vigilant in protecting our communities from destructive influences, both from without and within. Newspapers sound the alarm with swift, accurate and thorough coverage when sensitive issues arise. We provide not just facts, but clearly labeled editorials and analysis stories that offer in-depth points — and counterpoints — to help everyone weigh matters with sufficient information.

Newspapers also serve as "points of pride" where communities celebrate individual and collective achievement, offering congratulations and joining in mass celebration.

Newspapers serve communities in sad times as well, providing clear, concise facts about tragic events, their causes and how they might be prevented from re-occurring. When communities are sick or injured, newspapers bleed. We share the pain and shed tears along with our readers.

If the newspaper I've described sounds like a living, breathing thing ... that's because they are. Despite what a few might have you believe, newspapers are far from dead.

As long as parents take pride in the birth of a baby, a home run by their Little Leaguer, or graduation, marriage, promotion or any number of life's milestones, people will enjoy reading about them in their community newspaper.

As long as people care about who died in their community this week, how high their taxes may rise or who scored the winning touchdown at the high school football game — community newspapers will be alive.

As long as bulletin boards and refrigerator doors display cherished family memories, community newspapers will be alive.

John Donne said: "No man is an island." Because we don't live isolated lives, apart from everyone around, newspapers are going to be here to help us celebrate, mourn and record life's history as it happens. Newspapers are the "tie that binds" people together.

And in the words of that old hymn: "Blest be the tie that binds."

Thanks for reading your newspaper during National Newspaper Week.

Letter to the Editor

Thanks to everyone who made White Oak Fair a great success

To the Editor:

This year's 25th Annual White Oak Craft Fair was a huge success — with a record turnout of both quality artists and visitors.

I wish to thank the City, County, and Sherriff's Department for helping with set up. Also, I want to thank the Lions Club and Arts Center Board members for lending hours to assist with parking for the more than 4,000 visitors.

To Mr. Bill Smith and Mr. Charles Preston, thanks for lending us your land that made parking possible. Additionally we would like to thank The Tennessee Arts Commission for their continued support of the White Oak Craft Fair and The Arts Center.

The Craft Fair showcases so much made-in-Tennessee talent. We appreciate that artists from throughout Middle-Tennessee spent 2 days here. Many return each year because they love our venue and the care we provide in making them feel welcome.

To Betty Tanner, Sue Williams, Bobby and Mik Edwards — thanks for continuing the tradition of white oak basket making for which the Fair is named. To Thomas Chair Shop and Patrick Cecil who make rocking chairs, thanks for being here keeping our local history alive and part of our economy.

The White Oak Craft Fair is just one of the many events that happen in Cannon County each year bringing tourists and tourism dollars to our community. Once they get a taste of Cannon, they come back for more.

Courier columnist Oh baby, some weird names

A Shot of Wry
LARRY WOODY

According to breathless wire reports, actress Christiana Aguilera and fiancée Matt Rutler named their new baby Summer Rain.

If they have another kid, maybe they'll name him Scattered Showers.

How about Cold Snap or Heat Wave? If its twins, they could name them Hot and Humid.

Christiana and Matt clearly have spent too much time watching the Weather Channel.

Oddball baby names seem to be the trend, ever since Kim Kardashian and Kanye West named their bouncing bundle of joy North. He's destined to go through life as a compass direction.

Let's hope little North West stays on course, overcomes some obvious parental challenges, and his life doesn't go South.

There is a list of fairly unusual names posted on the internet. A sampling: Blip, Chow, Hurricane and Miggy.

Whatever happened to Tom and Joe and Mary and Sue?

Indians used to name their papooses after special events, occasions, or spiritual signs. Sitting Bull, as I understand it, got his name after a bull sat down on his mom shortly before he was born.

Sitting Bull's cousin, Fulla Bull, was a loud-mouthed know-it-all.

Drunken Buffalo was the tribe's Otis. His wife, Screeching Buzzard, wasn't much better.

Indian maidens often had romantic names that reflected the serenity and grandeur of nature, such as Shining Star and Dancing Fawn. Or Golden Dawn and Singing Bird.

Nowadays if a maiden is named Misty Delight she's apt to be found hanging upside down on a stripper pole.

In that same Native American spirit, a modern trial lawyer might name his kid Neck Brace. Or Swerving Semi. Good names for a court attorney's twins would be Null and Void.

It's safe to assume that twins named Repeat and Felon, or Bail and Denied, might have some issues to overcome.

I once knew a race driver named Chevy. He said he got his name because of his dad's fondness for Chevrolets. Thank goodness Chevy's dad didn't go g-a-ga over Studebakers.

In an opposite turn of events, instead of naming his kid after a car, Henry Ford named a car after his kid. The kid's name was Edsel, and his automotive namesake would become synonymous with "dud."

Parents, of course, have a right to name their offspring whatever they please. Once the kid becomes an adult he or she can legally change their name if they wish. That's what my boyhood buddy Stinky Hogbreath did.

The day he turned 21, Stinky marched into court and told the judge he had chosen a new name.

Today he goes by Fresher Hogbreath.

Don't miss the wagon for History Hayride on October 11

Elizabeth Dale, also known as "The Black Widow of Hazel Green", played by Woodbury's Patti Chapell. Elizabeth was the daughter of the founder of Liberty, TN and an early settler to DeKalb Co., TN.

One day each year Edgar Evins State Park at Silver Point becomes an outdoor theater showcasing characters from the history of the park and surrounding area. Saturday, October 11th will be the 9th year of the popular History Hayride, presented by Friends of Edgar Evins State Park and park employees. The cost is $15 per person with proceeds benefiting the park. Advance reservations are required.

The easiest way to reserve seats is on-line through the website for Tennessee Vacation. The URL is www.tnvacation.com/events/9216 Click on the big yellow "button" that says "Purchase Tickets." If you are computer challenged you may call the park office toll free at 1-800-250-8619 for instructions on making reservations by phone. Both Visa and Master Card will be accepted.

Eleven wagons will leave at approximately 30 minute intervals from the Visitors Center from mid-afternoon until 7 p.m. The wagons will make 10 stops in the park. At each stop costumed re-enactors will tell a story from the pages of history. A circuit will take approximately 1 1/2 to 2 hours during which the audience will remain seated. A narrator on each wagon will give more history between scenes. Reservations will be for specific times. Some choose afternoon rides although there are many who prefer the ambience after dark when the performers are illuminated by lantern and firelight. One of the latter fans is Fount Bertram, President of Edgar Evins State Park. Mr. Bertram says, "It adds a mystique that enhances the feeling of peering into the past."

The Friends of Edgar Evins State Park is a non-profit organization with the sole purpose of helping the park. This organization will have homemade cookies for sale in the Visitors Center along with complimentary coffee, hot cocoa and hot cider for those who wish a snack before or after the ride. The Friends website is on-line at www.foesp.alturl.com or visit Friends of Edgar Evins State Park on Facebook.

This is not a Halloween themed event and is not suitable for small children or anyone who cannot sit quietly for 2 hours. As it gets colder along the lake it is recommended people dress warmly in layers and bring a jacket and blanket.

Lions Club White Cane Days set for October 10 and 11

One time each year contributions from the members of the Woodbury public to assist the blind Lions Club solicit and to prevent blindness.

This annual drive is designated as White Cane Days. This year the event will be on Friday and Saturday October 10 and 11 according to Lois Larimer, chairperson of the drive. Funds collected during this drive will assist the club in making it possible for patients to be treated at Vanderbilt University Medical Center without cost to that patient. Other programs and projects assisted with White Cane Day funds are to provide recorded books, magazines, text books and any other material to blind and dyslexic person upon request: to provide a guide dog to any qualifying blind person at no cost; to provide low vision assistance and equipment to any person qualifying to provide assistance to students at the Tennessee School for the Blind in Nashville and to provide hearing aids to qualified persons in the county.

Lions Club members will be manning road blocks in Woodbury Friday and Saturday October 10th and 11th from 10 in the morning until 5 in the evening. Other members will be soliciting donations from business and professional people. Anyone wishing to make a tax deductible donation may do so by sending a check payable to Woodbury Lions Charities Inc to Lois Larimer 110 College Street Woodbury or giving it to any Lions Club member.

PETTUS READ, Guest Columnist

Get you a Sundrop bottle

The other day as I waited in line at a traffic light, I noticed the car in front of me and the two beside me all contained drivers working rapidly on smartphones. It seemed the only drivers in that line of traffic not using smartphones was myself and another old driver who was too busy trying to spit into a Sundrop bottle. When the light changed, it seemed like it was forever before everyone was ready to move because they had to get their thoughts together about driving and look back up from staring at all those little screens. At that moment, I sort of wished I had a Sundrop bottle to spit in and I wasn't chewing anything except my words.

The era of social media has gained complete control of our lives to the point where many of us no longer have awareness of what occurs around us. Just recently, former State Representative and now Tennessee County Commissioners Association Executive Director Charles Curtiss told one of his country humor stories during a meeting I attended the other evening in the role of my new job as a county commissioner, that pretty well fit my experience at the traffic light. Thought I would share it with you and ask Mr. Curtiss for his forgiveness because it sure nailed me on the spot. The way I explain it does not do it justice in the manner that he can tell the story.

It seems this young fellow had stopped behind this lady at a traffic light one afternoon in somewhat of the same manner that I had become involved in recently. As they sat there waiting for the light to change, the lady was working with her smartphone and had become very involved in the messages she was reading. When the light changed, she continued to punch the keypad of her phone and lost complete understanding to where she was, along with what she was suppose to be doing.

The young man behind her became increasingly furious and began screaming out the window, as well as beating on the side of his car. The language used was also not necessary to the operation of an automobile and it had become a very ugly scene that the young man was performing behind the lady who had just looked up.

Stopped also directly behind the young man was a policeman who had been watching the entire process of events, and after seeing all that he wanted too, he turned on his blue lights. The lady saw the lights in her mirror and took off, going out of sight. However, the policeman pulled up beside the young man and told him to pull over into a nearby parking lot.

The young man didn't know why he was being pulled over, and when the policeman approached him after they had parked, he said, "Why are you stopping me? That lady who was holding up traffic is the one you want, not me! I haven't done a thing wrong."

The policeman told the young man to lock his car and come along with him. All the way to the station the young man continued to say he was not guilty of anything and it should be the lady. But once at the police station, he was held for 3 or 4 hours in a small room.

Finally, the policeman who had arrested him came into the room and told him he could go. The young man exploded again and demanded to know why he had been brought down to the station. The policeman looked at him and said, "As I sat there and watched you behind that lady, I couldn't help but notice the cross on the chain hanging from your rearview mirror. Then I saw the bumper sticker on your bumper that said 'Jesus Is Lord.' I also noticed you had a window decal that had the words, 'Follow me to Sunday School.' After seeing all of those items and then your actions, I came to the conclusion that "this young fellow has stolen this car."

Since hearing Charles Curtiss tell that, I've often thought about how many times someone could wonder if I'm driving the wrong vehicle. Just today as I write this column, a lady followed me so close on a rural road that I couldn't see her headlights. I was doing the 40 mph speed limit, but that was not fast enough I guess. When she got the chance she took a side road to attempt to beat me to her destination, which was her child's elementary school I found out later. Strange enough, we arrived at the same time, but she was in front of me due to having to speed through some real dangerous roads. The irony was that her license plate was all about early detection to save lives in health, when her driving could have taken out many innocent lives as well by the unnecessary speeds she was traveling.

For some reason when we get in a vehicle we assume we can't be seen or our actions mean nothing, when in fact we become the proverbial people who live in glass houses. Maybe we all need a Sundrop bottle instead of a smartphone. At least you have to look ahead to hit it.

Trading Post Chat

BY SAVANNAH CUNNICK

Uh Oh....I see a few leaves falling now and again....cooler weather, but now the leaf raking begins! Like Rosanna Anna Danna always said It's Always Somethin'!

Speaking of that, I had quite a shocker this morning when I opened my kitchen back door and was greeted by a large furry green monster type object. Turns out to be my big dog, Max, who met up with a fuzzy green sticker bush in the woods and wore it home. Now, that was a mess, plus, he had jumped into his dog bed and covered that with a blanket of sticky. That dog brush will never be the same!

Hey, it's not too late to sign up for a free vendor booth at our Halloween Spooktacular/ Flea Market Day on Saturday, October 11 from 10 to 5. Call me at 615-464-7824 if you are interested in a space. Otherwise, we are all looking forward to seeing you on this fun day with all kinds of things going on. Mule wagon rides, crafts, catered food, baked goods, plants, barn tours, flea market full of great items, raffle and tons of decorations to enjoy. Bring your little ones dressed in costumes and bring your camera for sure! Free treats in our trunk or treat offered by the vendors. Free admission. See you there!

We really had some super visitors this past week at the Trading Post! So many folks are moving from Florida to our state. They love the seasons that they had missed so much and they love all the friendly people that live here. That is good to hear. A special country songwriter made an appearance at the barn and really enjoyed the Barn. He will return in November and be contributing an old country piano to our décor. How special is that! Remember that we Buy, Sell or Trade at the Post so c'mon in and wheel and deal.

Another big event on the schedule is our Christmas Extravaganza on November 8 from 10 to 5. Santa will be here for a pre Christmas appearance to take orders in time for the elves to process for delivery on Christmas Eve. He said in case you haven't had a chance to mail him your gift requests yet, he will be happy to jot them down at the Extravaganza. Mrs. Claus may also take a break from her cocoa and cookies to accompany him! Holiday décor and crafts will be for sale along with tons of merchandise for gift buying. Unique and one of a kind items at great sale prices especially in Savannah's Loft! Free coffee and cocoa will be served. Elves will be handing out candy and cookies. Plus, indoor flea market day in barn. So, put that on your calendar as well.

I was just notified a few days ago that one of my very special visitors had passed away. I remember when she first started to visit me a few years ago and so loved Victorian décor.

One day, she was out on the porch and I noticed she was very upset and had tears in her eyes. I put my arm around her and asked her what was wrong. She said that she had just been to her doctor and was told that she had an illness that they could not fix. She said that she had nowhere to go but to see me and to be surrounded with things that comforted her.

That really made me realize that folks do appreciate what we have here. It's not so much a place to buy things, but a haven of comfort and fellowship. I will miss her very much, but I know that she is watching what is still going on down here and seeing how many people continue to visit us and gather a little peace and welfare as she once did.

For now, we are all looking forward to your visits and are working hard to keep our Short Mountain Trading Post a special place just for you and your family and friends. Have a great week. Take care of each other. Stay healthy. And smile.

Hugs, Savannah

Watch for fescue toxicosis

Fescue toxicosis is still a problem for cattle producers in Tennessee and beyond during the summer months. Photo courtesy UTIA.

Fescue is the primary forage for cow-calf production in Tennessee and the upper Mid-South. It is the source of both pasture and hay, yet in spite of the contribution fescue makes to the cow-calf industry, the problem of fescue toxicosis still results in reduced cattle performance.

The greatest problem with fescue occurs during the summer months and extends into the fall. University of Tennessee Extension beef specialist Jim Neel refers to this period as the "summer slump."

"Here in Tennessee, when the grass goes to seed, the endophyte concentration is the greatest," Neel says.

"Early grazing pressure in the spring and harvesting fescue for hay before it goes to seed will aid in reducing the concentration of the endophyte," he recommends. Neel adds that producers should try to get fescue cut in the "boot stage" - that is while the grass flower is still in the sheath. Grazing pressure can also contribute to the reduced formation of seed heads.

Neel also reminds producers that throughout the summer they need to provide shade and water for the cattle. "The environmental temperature will be probably the hottest during the summer slump," he says. "In addition, digestion of the forage also adds to the body temperature of the cattle."

Another big source of the cattle's elevated temperature is the toxic effect of the endophyte, Neel said. "Consider weaning and conditioning the calf crop for marketing. Generally, the gain of the calves is very poor due to the reduced forage availability and quality as well as milk production of the dams. However, if weaned and fed a concentrate ration, the calves will efficiently convert the feed to gain. "On-the-farm" field trials conducted here in Tennessee several years ago support these recommendations, he adds.

The cattle specialist says mature cows get along well on summer's lower quality forage, and they gain both weight and body condition, which help with reproduction. Research done over five or more decades at Southeastern land-grant universities demonstrates that maintaining 30 percent clover in fescue stands improves the performance of the cattle.

Neel adds that there is no silver bullet that can replace management of fescue and cattle to reduce the effect of the endophyte. "There are times in the annual production cycle of fescue that the grass quality is better and this can be capitalized on by appropriate cattle and forage management," he said.

For more information about fescue toxicosis or beef cattle management, contact your Cannon County UT Extension agent or visit the UT Beef and Forage Center website

Watch out for phone scammers

"Grandma is that you?" - Fraud and Financial Abuse Awareness Month

A ringing phone breaks the silence in the calm dead of night. A sleepy voice answers "Hello?" "Grandma is that you? I'm in trouble and need your help." The beginning of a fascinating mystery novel? - not quite. But for many seniors it is the beginning of a true nightmare. This is just one of the many financial fraud schemes currently targeting our older population.

The scammer calls in the middle of night when grandma or grandpa is disoriented from sleep. It could be their grandchild's voice they hear on the other end of the phone; they're not quite sure so they ask questions. The scammer has all the right answers.

How do they do it? Scammers gather names and other details about family members from obituaries, Facebook, Instagram, and even ancestry websites. They call pretending to be beloved grandchildren who are in trouble in a faraway location - arrested, hospitalized - they need money wired to them now, and plead with grandma to not tell their parents! Grandparents naturally want to help and according to AARP.org, grandparents of college-aged young people are the most frequent targets, 'helping' to the tune of $110 million a year in losses.

October is Fraud and Financial Abuse Awareness Month in Tennessee - now's the time to get the word out about schemes that can financially cripple our older population. Here are some of the current schemes at work (as listed on aarp.org and fbi.gov):

Charity schemes: When help is needed, older people are often among the first to open their hearts and wallets. This helps make them the group most vulnerable to scams feigning aid for veterans, needy or sick children.

Internet fraud: As web use among senior citizens increases, so does their chances to fall victim to Internet fraud. Internet Fraud includes non-delivery of items ordered online and credit and debit card scams.

Telemarketing fraud: If you are age 60 or older-and especially if you are an older woman living alone-you may be a special target of people who sell bogus products and services by telephone.

Telemarketing scams often involve offers of free prizes, low-cost vitamins and health care products, and inexpensive vacations.

Deadline approaching for Tennessee schools to enter to win thousands

WHAT: The deadline for the Good Sports Always Recycle™ (GSAR) program is quickly approaching! Schools may enter their environmental programs in the 21st Annual school challenge, and the top 10 Tennessee school environmental programs will each be awarded $1,000 to recognize their efforts. In addition, one lucky school will win the Good Sports Always Recycle™ Sustainability Steward award and bring home $1,500.

The 11 winning schools will also receive a special tailgate celebration at the University of Tennessee vs. Kentucky football game on November 15, 2014, as well as be recognized during an on-field presentation and presented with a commemorative plaque during the game.

WHEN/HOW: The deadline for schools to enter the school challenge is October 10, 2014. K-12 schools in Tennessee can nominate their school to win at www.Eastman.com/GSAR or email jwiggins@akinsps.com for a nomination form.

CONTACT: For more information, please contact Jennifer Wiggins at jwiggins@akinsps.com. For more information about the Good Sports Always Recycle™ program, please visit www.Eastman.com/GSAR.

up on the project. They are working as hard as they can to complete the project as quickly as possible," Flynn said.

Work started on this project on in late September 2013. In addition to paving, the project includes placing base stone, underdrains, guardrail and signs on the entire 12.9 mile section of new roadway from McMinnville to Woodbury, she said.

The field entrances, driveways and intersections are complete at this time and he base stone for the driveways and field entrances and final layer of pavement installed.

Work is progressing and near completion for topping mix on the east bound lanes except for the transition ends, Flynn explained.

Work is still progressing on completing the guardrail and will be complete possibly by Monday (Oct. 6) at the latest. Contractor is planning on preparing the shoulders for final layer of base stone and placing final layer of base stone on shoulders eastbound.

"We are not sure at this time exactly when we will shift traffic to the westbound lanes, but it should be soon," she said.

Highways Inc. is contractor for the U.S. 70S (State Route 1) project at a cost of $21 million.

The project was divided into two sections focusing on the paving of the new U.S. 70S beginning near S.R. 281 in Cannon County and extending to Centertown near S.R. 287 in Warren County with a project length of 7.003 miles. The other phase began near S.R. 287 in Centertown and extended to Spring Valley Road in McMinnville for a project length of 5.991 miles. The total project length is 12.994 miles.

Work continues on the new four-lane extension of U.S. 70S between Woodbury and McMinnville, Due to recent problems completion has been rescheduled until November. MIKE WEST photo while at the same time, MTEMCO will lower the energy cost members are charged per kilowatt hour. The adjustment, for the average residential electricity consumer, will balance out in most cases.

"This change does not mean more money for MTEMCO," said Chris Jones, President. "Our rates are still more than 20 percent lower than the national average, and this change will help keep it that way."

The change, as passed through by MTEMCO, will help in the summer and winter months when consumption is higher and TVA's rates are slightly higher. The lower energy charge to members will keep bills affordable.

"Even though there is a rate change, electricity remains a great value," said Jones. MTEMCO offers numerous services to assist members in energy efficiency and conservation efforts. As a not-for-profit utility our goal is to assist members in using electricity wisely, now more than ever, we're here to assist."

Middle Tennessee Electric Membership Corporation is a member-owned, not-for-profit cooperative providing electricity to more than 200,000 residential and business members in Williamson, Wilson, Rutherford and Cannon counties.

of a Northern Route, Southern Route, a Center Route through Woodbury ... or for leaving the road incomplete.

"The following question is for advisory purposes only. No legal effect shall result from the adoption or rejection of any route," states the resolution.

Three alternatives have been suggested. The Center Route follows the current road through downtown Woodbury. The northern path goes north of town and near Stones River Hospital. The third path travels south near Houston Hills subdivision connecting into state Route 53 near Cannon Market.

Voters will also cast ballots in the gubernatorial, U.S. Senate and Congress and state Senate and Legislature races.

In the governor's race, Republican incumbent Bill Haslam faces Democratic nominee Charlie Brown and five other challengers including independent candidate John Jay Hooker.

In the Senate race, incumbent Lamar Alexander is challenged by Democrat Gordon Ball and 10 other candidates.

Congressman Diane Black, R-6th District, is squared off against Democrat Amos Scott Powers and Independent Mike Winton.

State Sen. Mae Beavers is unopposed in the 17th Tennessee Senatorial District.

State Rep. Mark Pody is being challenged by Democrat Candace Reed for the 46th District seat.

Four Constitutional Amendments are also on the ballot.

Constitutional Amendment #1 would insert constitutional language empowering the Tennessee Legislature to enact, amend or repeal state statutes regarding abortion, including for pregnancies resulting from rape or incest or when necessary to protect the mother's life.

This amendment began as Senate Joint Resolution

127 sponsored by state Sens. Mae Beavers and Diane Black, who was serving as a state senator at the time of the bill's passage.

Constitutional Amendment #2 asks voters to officially accept the judicial selection system for 29 state appellate court judges that is already in place -- by statute, but not in the state Constitution -- with one modification. That modification is that if the Legislature does not act to confirm one way or the other within 60 days, the governor's appointment is automatically confirmed.

Constitutional Amendment #3 would permanently ban any new state or local personal income or payroll tax in Tennessee.

Constitutional Amendment #4 would let many veterans organizations like the VFW and American Legion join the list of nonprofit groups allowed to hold annual charitable gaming fundraisers.

early morning hours on Oct. 14. The giant tent will be erected beginning at 10 a.m.

Students, as well as the public, are invited to attend an educational session starting at 9:30 a.m.

The public is also invited to attend at 3 p.m. when Woodbury and Cannon County Fire Departments arrive to give the big pachyderms a bath. Circus grounds open formally at 3:30 p.m. with a petting zoo and elephant rides planned.

The big show begins at 4:30 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m.

Discounted tickets are available at the Cannon County Chamber of Commerce, Sue Patrick CPA, 200 Main Family Salon, First Bank, the Blue Porch, Antiques and More and First National Bank. Admission is $12 for adults and $6 for children

2 to 11 years old.

The circus is in fact the oldest form of entertainment. In North America, the circus has traditionally been a favorite of both young and old for many generations. Before the advent of television, circuses provided a unique form of entertainment that made its coming to town a grand celebration.

Cooking with Barb

By Barb Ford

Memphis is no longer just about barbecue. I know many of us drive there to see Beale Street or eat at iconic places like Vergo's Rendezvous and Gus's Famous Fried Chicken, but there is much more to the Memphis food scene these days. If you want great barbecue, you know you can find it in Memphis-from pulled pork to Memphis' famous barbecue spaghetti. Of course, there has always been the Peabody with their ducks and special dining opportunities. But did you know there are some serious chefs creating farm to table experiences, giving back to the community in unique ways and making the Memphis food scene richer, brighter and fresher? I have several suggestions for any foodie trip to Memphis, in addition to the aforementioned icons. Take a quick weekend trip to Memphis with me and enjoy a few of my beloved stops.

First, never ignore the icons. Make a reservation at the Rendezvous and you can't go wrong. They were originally a ham and cheese sandwich place, so if you start with one of their appetizer plates, you will be enjoying a bit of their original history. Everybody knows they are most famous for their barbecue ribs. Charcoal grilled with a dry rub, they are one of the Memphis favorites. However, if you venture out of the norm a bit, you can find some other gems, like their charcoal grilled lamb ribs or their giant skillet of barbecue shrimp. You have to call ahead ((901)523-2746) for the shrimp, and I suggest doing so early in the week. Also, I would head there early on a Friday night if you can't take reservations and fill up fast!

Next, there is no better place for Saturday lunch than Karen Carrier's Beauty Shop Restaurant. It is literally set in an old Beauty Shop, complete with those beehive hair dryers-and was the spot where Priscilla Presley got her hair done back in the day. The menu is the real treat here, featuring flavors from all over the world. If salads are your thing, you can't go wrong with a Thai Cobb Salad-all the usual Cobb ingredients blended with crispy duck, mangoes and a mint Green Goddess dressing reminiscent of that 1950's favorite. Or perhaps try the Grilled Romaine, paired with Ripley tomato, crisp bacon and spicy pecans. If you just after a really good sandwich, this place is a paradise. They have an amazing sandwich they call The Beastie Boy and I call roast beef heaven-with sharp horseradish, roasted red peppers, lemony aioli and a warm au jus dipping sauce. There are also traditional New York lunch options like a real pastrami sandwich and a luscious Rueben. But for the lighter diner, perhaps a succulent smoked salmon club sandwich or a mouthwatering bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich with avocado are more appealing. Desserts are 1950's standards-homemade shakes, scrumptious cakes and ice cream floats dominate. You get the idea-lunch at the Beauty Shop is a wonderful adventure, not to be missed!

After your lunch, you may want to pick up some culinary prizes for foodie friends back home. I would head to Phillip Ashley Chocolates or to Muddy's Bake Shop. Phillip Ashley Rix, one of the world's great chocolatiers, offers up some uniquely Memphis takes on chocolate. He offers the Memphis Truffle Collection-that features a truffle for every flavor you would find dining in a Memphis barbecue joint, including Memphis BBQ, Mama Jean Sweet Potato, CocoLoco and Arnie (half sweet tea caramel and half lemonade Ganache.) His chocolate bacon has been much copied, but never equaled. At Muddy's Bake Shoppe, Kat Gordon and her team bake things we can only wish our grandmothers had made. They have some ridiculously rich toffee bars and an amazing array of other cookies. If you are visiting folks in Memphis, a pie or a dozen cupcakes from Muddy's is the perfect hostess gift, and yummier than any bottle of wine!

Dinner on Saturday will take some advance planning, as I don't want you to miss a chance to enjoy the amazing atmosphere and outstanding hospitality at Felicia Suzanne. It is popular enough that reservations are important. Here, Felicia Willett has created the perfect blend of farm fresh foods with beautiful décor which defines modern Southern dining. While she may have worked with Emeril in New Orleans, her restaurant is truly her own. Her appetizers are inventive and delightfully Southern, like Felicia's famous deviled eggs with smoked salmon topped with Arkansas's Kelly Catch Caviar or her Gulf Oysters of Love (crispy oysters with Delta Grind Grits and New Orleans Barbecue sauce.) The menu is peppered with references to the source of ingredients, such as the tomato salad made with Robert Tims's Heirloom tomatoes and Woodson Ridge Farm's baby tomatoes, the Georgia Bobwhite Quail with dirty rice dressing, caramelized sweet potatoes and bourbon syrup or their creamy macaroni and cheese made with Sweetwater Farms cheddar from right here in Middle Tennessee. All of this attention to detail and care shows in the beautiful plates and the fabulous flavors. It is one of the truly great places for a memorable meal in the South.

Finally, there is the Majestic Grille, known as the spot for dramatic dining. Here, in the heart of a grand old movie theatre, owners Patrick and Deni Reilly have brought a bit of old Hollywood glamour to the Memphis dining scene. They are locally known as supporters of the arts, and pride themselves on helping art organizations grow. They even pioneered a special program for music students at the University of Memphis to help students gain exposure to working in a professional performance environment. So Sunday Brunch could also mean enjoying a live performance of jazz or blues along with the best brunch in town. While they do serve the standard Southern fare of biscuits and gravy, shrimp and grits and eggs and bacon, brunch also includes six signature flatbreads (think wild mushrooms or grilled artichoke) and sandwiches (try their grilled aged cheddar cheese sandwich with local tomatoes, bacon and creole mustard on artisan bread.) French toast, pancakes and steak and eggs are offered up alongside distinctive items like smoked salmon hash and vegetable frittatas with goat cheese and Parmesan. This is really the best way to end a lovely Memphis weekend!

Now I know we can't all get away for a trip to Memphis, so I am leaving you with Felicia Suzanne's deviled egg recipe to try soon.

House Smoked Salmon Deviled Eggs with Arkansas White River Caviar

1 dozen large eggs
salt
freshly ground black pepper
1/4 to 1/2 cup mayonnaise
4 ounces Smoked Salmon, flaked
Hot Sauce
1 ounce, Arkansas White River Caviar
In a saucepan, add the eggs and cover with water. Add a pinch of salt. Bring the water to a boil and cook for 2 minutes. Remove from the heat and cover for 11 minutes. Remove the eggs from water and place in a bowl of ice water. Allow eggs to sit for 8 minutes. Remove and peel the eggs. Slice each egg in half and add the yolks to a bowl. With a fork, smash all of the egg yolks. Add the mayonnaise, one spoonful at a time and mix until smooth. Season with salt and hot sauce. Fold in the smoked salmon and mix well. If you like your eggs creamy add a little more of the mayonnaise. Place on a serving tray and garnish with the caviar.

by American Chiropractic Association

While some fitness enthusiasts relentlessly seek out the latest, trendiest exercise crazes, many others are returning to good, old-fashioned walking to help them feel great and get into shape. Whether enjoying the wonder of nature, or simply the company of a friend, walking can be a healthy, invigorating experience. And thanks to its convenience and simplicity, walking just might be right for you too, according to the American Chiropractic Association (ACA).

BENEFITS You don't need to become a member of an expensive gym to go walking. And except for a good pair of walking shoes, it requires virtually no equipment. "A sedentary lifestyle has debilitating influence on people's health as they age" says Dr. Jerome McAndrews, national spokesperson for the ACA. "Exercise is imperative." Walking accomplishes all of the following and more:

" Improves cardiovascular endurance
" Tones muscles of the lower body
" Burns calories: about 80 if walking 2 miles per hour, and about 107 if walking 4 1/2 miles per hour
" Reduces risk of heart disease

SHOES The first item of business when beginning your walking program is to select the right pair of shoes. Dr. McAndrews recommends the following tips: Make sure the shoes you purchase fit properly. The balls of your feet should rest exactly at the point where the toe end of the shoe bends during walking. Avoid high-top shoes, that, often cover the entire ankle, limiting your foot's ability to move freely and naturally. Opt instead for shoes that offer your ankle a fuller range of motion. Select shoes with plenty of cushioning in the soles to absorb the impact of your walking.

GETTING STARTED Walking just 12 minutes every other day can offer important health benefits. Walking 20 minutes every other day is even better. But in order to increase your longevity, try to eventually work up to 30 minutes, five days per week. The following tips should help you get started safely and smoothly:

" Move your arms freely, in coordination with the opposite leg.

" Don't stoop your head or look down as you walk. This will challenge the normal forward curve of your neck, which, in turn, will cause you to carry your weight improperly.

" Don't carry weights or dumbbells while walking. They're better used as a separate part of your exercise regimen. If you do carry weights while walking, be sure that they are light enough that they do not interfere with the "rhythm" of your arms and legs; in order to counterbalance the body, when your right arm moves forward, the left leg should be moving forward, etc.

" Expect a little soreness in the thighs and calves for the first week or two. If you experience more than soreness, check with your doctor of chiropractic.

" Walk briskly, with "purpose." Simply "sauntering," while relaxing and enjoyable, is not an effective form of cardiovascular exercise.

Keep in mind that, if you have not previously been physically active, you should consult your doctor before. Begin slowly with a walk of perhaps half of a mile at a pace that does not cause discomfort. Continue this for about two weeks, then start to increase the pace and length of time walking. Eventually - depending on your age - you can build your "target" heart rate/pulse to either 120 beats per minute or, if younger, as many as 140 beats per minute. For the average adult, a heart rate of 120 beats per minute would require walking at about 2 miles per hour, while a heart rate of 140 beats per minute would require a pace of 4 1/2 miles per hour.

HYDRATION Drink 10 eight-ounce glasses of water a day to help keep the kidneys active, dilute and remove toxins from the body, and replace lost fluids. (Coffee, tea, soft drinks and alcohol are diuretics/dehydrators. Don't substitute them for water.) If you perspire during walking, you may need to drink even more.

SURFACES Some walking surfaces are better than others on your musculoskeletal system. Walking on a cushioned or rubberized track is ideal, because the cushioning of this type of track absorbs most of the impact of your walking. Many recreation centers offer this type of track free of charge. Grass is another good surface, but watch out for hidden dips or holes in the ground. Walking on a surface with no give, such as concrete or a mall floor, is not your best choice, because this type of surface will not absorb much of the impact your body will experience. If you do choose to walk on such a surface, be extra careful to select highly cushioned shoes.

Soccer drops two matches

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County soccer closed its regular season with a pair of setbacks, falling to York, 3-0, and Marshall County, 3-0.

The Lionettes (3-12-1, 1-7-1) were playing with a limited roster due to a number of injuries and players missing for school-related activities.

Missing key players hampered the team's offensive attack but the defense played hard and tried to give the team a chance.

The Lionettes honored seniors Kendra Maynard, Kristen McReynolds and Molly Williams during the match against York.

McReynolds and Williams were three-year members of the squad and this was Maynard's first season playing.

Maynard made an immediate impact with three goals and one assist for the season.

"She is a really powerful athlete and would have been an absolute juggernaut had she begun playing at an earlier age," Cannon County Head Coach Zach McAllister said. "She is very receptive to instruction and will play any position asked without question or reservation. Athletes like Kendra are unique, and I consider it a privilege to have had the opportunity to work with her."

McReynolds played for three years and has been a force in the program.

"She plays in the midfield which requires a player to be both defender and attacker," McAllister said. "She is an exceptionally bright young lady and always seems to be in the right place at the right time on the pitch. She is also extremely tough as she has played every game this season with shin splints. Her attitude is another aspect worthy of praise."

Williams is the team leader in assists with five and she was second in goals with four. She also served as the team's captain for the 2014 soccer campaign.

"She is a fantastic young lady and it has been such a pleasure coaching her. She is an outstanding athlete with a tremendous amount of character. She has meant a great deal to the soccer program at CCHS."

Homecoming blues

Lions suffer 28-6 setback against Macon Co.

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County displayed a hard-hitting and physical style of defense in its Homecoming game against Macon County but the Lions couldn't muster enough offense in a 28-6 setback at Schwartz Field Friday (Oct. 3).

Cannon County (0-6, 0-2) suffered its 25th consecutive home loss dating back to 2009.

The Lions' defense has been representative for most of the six games played to date and Friday was no exception. The scrappy unit had three takeaways, forced two turnover on downs getting off of the field on fourth-down tries and came up with five sacks.

Austin Brock had one of his best all-around games with an interception and a fumble recovery. Ethan Smith forced a fumble, had a sack and six tackles. A.J. Daniel continued his outstanding defensive play with a game-high 12 tackles. Stellar sophomore linebacker Eldon Resco also had another strong outing with 10 tackles and a sack. Case Isenhart, Brock and Smith each had six tackles.

Cannon County's defensive efforts kept the team in the game but the Lions could never get into an offensive rhythm. Starting quarterback Jake Walkup was sidelined with an injury and Josh Walkup got the nod under center.

The only offensive highlight was two big pass plays from Walkup to Wilder Mankin.

Trailing 28-0, Walkup dropped back and fired a spiral to a streaking Mankin who caught the ball in stride 40 yards downfield and outran the Macon County defenders for a 71-yard scoring strike.

It was one of two big plays to Mankin who also had a 61-yard reception in the first half. In fact, the turning point in the game likely occurred following Mankin's first big play.

Trailing 7-0 midway through the second quarter, Walkup completed a short pass to Mankin who did the rest of the work as he jetted 61 yards before being chased down at the 6. The Lions moved the ball to the 4 but a holding penalty moved them back and Walkup fumbled on the next play to end the scoring threat.

Macon County converted the turnover into a touchdown as it marched 88 yards in six plays and scored on freshman quarterback Seth Carlisle's 30-yard run. Carlisle ran for four touchdowns and 107 yards in the Macon County win.

Macon County scored on its opening drive but the Lions kept them off of the board until the late score in the second quarter.

Daniel led Cannon County's ground attack with 64 yards on 13 carries. Walkup was 2-of-13 passing for 132 yards. Mankin was responsible for both receptions.

The Lions will be seeking their first win of the season when they travel to District 8-AA leader Livingston Academy Friday (Oct. 10).

Boosters plan turkey dinner

The Cannon County Basketball Boosters will provide a turkey and dressing dinner from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. at the CCHS Cafeteria Sunday (Oct. 12).

Cost of the meal is $7 and includes turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, cranberry sauce, dessert and drinks.

All proceeds go to the boys and girls basketball programs.

More than 60 youngsters participated in the second Cannon County Youth Skills Clinic at Cannon County High School in September. Youngsters worked on individual skill development throughout the clinic, which was hosted by the CCHS Booster Club. CCHS coaches and basketball players conducted the clinic.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Constitutional Amendments

Cannon County

November 4, 2014

TO THE VOTERS OF CANNON COUNTY, TENNESSEE: You are hereby notified that by call of Senate Joint Resolution No. 127, Senate Joint Resolution No. 2, Senate Joint Resolution No. 1, and Senate Joint Resolution No. 60, the proposed amendments must be submitted to a vote of the people on November 4, 2014. In the same order as the proposed constitutional amendments will be placed on the ballot, the following contains the text of Senate Joint Resolution No. 127, Senate Joint Resolution No. 2, Senate Joint Resolution No. 1, and Senate Joint Resolution No. 60:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 127

A RESOLUTION to propose an amendment to Article I, of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to abortion.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE ONE HUNDRED SEVENTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF TENNESSEE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONCURRING, that a two-thirds majority of all the members of each House concurring, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals, that it is proposed that Article I, of the Constitution of Tennessee be amended by adding the following language as a new, appropriately designated section:

Nothing in this Constitution secures or protects a right to abortion or requires the funding of an abortion. The people retain the right through their elected state representatives and state senators to enact, amend, or repeal statutes regarding abortion, including, but not limited to, circumstances of pregnancy resulting from rape or incest or when necessary to save the life of the mother.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in accordance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of Tennessee, the foregoing proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people at the next general election in which a Governor is to be chosen, the same being the 2014 November general election, and the Secretary of State is directed to place such proposed amendment on the ballot for that election.

ADOPTED: May 20, 2011

Senate Joint Resolution No. 2

A RESOLUTION proposing amendment of Article VI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to judges of the appellate courts.

WHEREAS, Senate Joint Resolution No. 710 of the One Hundred Seventh General Assembly, which proposed amendment of Article VI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to judges of the appellate courts, was considered and agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the two houses, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals; and

WHEREAS, on Sunday, May 6, 2012, such resolution proposing such amendment was published in compliance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee; now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE ONE HUNDRED EIGHTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF TENNESSEE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONCURRING, that a two-thirds majority of all the members elected to each house concurring, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals, that it is proposed that Article VI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee be amended by deleting the first and second sentences and by substituting instead the following:

Judges of the Supreme Court or any intermediate appellate court shall be appointed for a full term or to fill a vacancy by and at the discretion of the governor; shall be confirmed by the Legislature; and thereafter, shall be elected in a retention election by the qualified voters of the state. Confirmation by default occurs if the Legislature fails to reject an appointee within sixty calendar days of either the date of appointment, if made during the annual legislative session, or the convening date of the next annual legislative session, if made out of session. The Legislature is authorized to prescribe such provisions as may be necessary to carry out Sections two and three of this article.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in accordance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee, the foregoing proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people at the next general election in which a governor is to be chosen, the same being the 2014 November general election, and the secretary of state is directed to place such proposed amendment on the ballot for that election.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Clerk of the Senate is directed to deliver copies of this resolution to the secretary of state, with this final resolving clause being deleted from such copies.

ADOPTED: March 11, 2013

Senate Joint Resolution No. 1

A RESOLUTION to amend Article II, Section 28 of the Constitution of Tennessee, to prohibit taxation upon payroll or earned personal income.

WHEREAS, this resolution shall be known as the "No State Income Tax" Amendment; and

WHEREAS, not having a state income tax has brought jobs to Tennessee, and clarifying this prohibition will help Tennessee become the number one state in the southeast for high quality jobs; and

WHEREAS, Article II, Section 28 of the Constitution of Tennessee currently prohibits the levying of a tax on any class of income other than income derived from stocks and bonds; and

WHEREAS, in 1932, in the case of Evans v. McCabe, 52 S.W.2d 159; once again in 1960, in the case of Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d 453; and still again in 1964, in the case of Gallagher v. Butler, 378 S.W.2d 161; the Tennessee supreme court unanimously ruled that the General Assembly lacks constitutional authority to levy a state tax on any class of income other than income derived from stocks and bonds; and

WHEREAS, the aforementioned decisions of the Tennessee supreme court have never been overruled; and

WHEREAS, clearly, the General Assembly can neither exercise nor delegate authority it lacks; and

WHEREAS, any tax measured by an individual's earned income, an employee's salary, or an employer's payroll would be harmful to Tennesseans and is contrary to the longstanding public policy of this state and its political subdivisions; and

WHEREAS, by this proposed amendment, the General Assembly seeks to clarify the language by which the Constitution of Tennessee currently prohibits the levying of a tax on any class of income other than income derived from stocks and bonds; and

WHEREAS, Senate Joint Resolution No. 221 of the One Hundred Seventh General Assembly, which proposed amendment of Article II, Section 28 of the Constitution of Tennessee, to prohibit taxation upon payroll or earned personal income, was considered and agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the two houses, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals; and

WHEREAS, on Sunday, May 6, 2012, such resolution proposing such amendment was published in compliance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee; now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE ONE HUNDRED EIGHTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF TENNESSEE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONCURRING, that a two-thirds majority of all the members of each house concurring, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals, that it is proposed that Article II, Section 28 of the Constitution of Tennessee be amended by adding the following sentence at the end of the final substantive paragraph within the section:

Notwithstanding the authority to tax privileges or any other authority set forth in this Constitution, the Legislature shall not levy, authorize or otherwise permit any state or local tax upon payroll or earned personal income or any state or local tax measured by payroll or earned personal income; however, nothing contained herein shall be construed as prohibiting any tax in effect on January 1, 2011, or adjustment of the rate of such tax.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in accordance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee, the foregoing proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people at the next general election in which a governor is to be chosen, the same being the 2014 November general election, and the secretary of state is directed to place such proposed amendment on the ballot for that election.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the clerk of the senate is directed to deliver copies of this resolution to the secretary of state, with this final resolving clause being deleted from such copies.

ADOPTED: April 8, 2013

Senate Joint Resolution No. 60

A RESOLUTION proposing amendment of Article XI, Section 5 of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to lotteries.

WHEREAS, Senate Joint Resolution No. 222 of the One Hundred Seventh General Assembly, which proposed amendment of Article XI, Section 5 of the Constitution of Tennessee, relative to lotteries, was considered and agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the two houses, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals; and

WHEREAS, on Sunday, May 6, 2012, such resolution proposing such amendment was published in compliance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee; now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE ONE HUNDRED EIGHTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF TENNESSEE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONCURRING, that a two-thirds majority of all the members elected to each house concurring, as shown by the yeas and nays entered on their journals, that it is proposed that Article XI, Section 5 of the Constitution of Tennessee be amended by deleting the following language:

All other forms of lottery not authorized herein are expressly prohibited unless authorized by a two-thirds vote of all members elected to each house of the general assembly for an annual event operated for the benefit of a 501(c)(3) organization located in this state, as defined by the 2000 United States Tax Code or as may be amended from time to time.

and by substituting instead the following language:

All other forms of lottery not authorized herein are expressly prohibited unless authorized by a two-thirds vote of all members elected to each house of the general assembly for an annual event operated for the benefit of a 501(c)(3) or a 501(c)(19) organization, as defined by the 2000 United States Tax Code, located in this state.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in accordance with Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Tennessee, the foregoing proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people at the next general election in which a governor is to be chosen, the same being the 2014 November general election, and the secretary of state is directed to place such proposed amendment on the ballot for that election.
