Get ready for change in voting

TONY STINNETT

Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County absentee voters will notice a change in their voting process for the state and federal general election, Nov. 4, according to Administrator of Elections Dorinda Mankin. Absentee voters will receive a printed paper ballot with the names of each candidate and a corresponding number. They also will receive a "bubble" ballot, which is an optical scan-style ballot that requires participants to fill in the bubble that corresponds with the number of the candidates for which they want to vote.

The bubble ballot is much like standardized test forms used in schools, according to Mankin.

"Only absentee voters will use this process," Mankin said. "It should make the process of counting the ballots much quicker on election night."

The Tennessee Election Commission sent bubble ballots and scanners to every county in the state this year and it was optional for them to use, Mankin said.

Cannon County did not utilize the bubble ballot for absentee voting in the May primary or the August General Election. As a result, 176 absentee ballots were counted by hand in August and created a lengthy process after a power outage throughout the county.

Traditional crafts attracts thousands to White Oak

MIKE WEST

Cannon Courier Editor

Traditional craft skills were highlighted at the annual White Oak Craft Festival along Stones River in Woodbury.

"White Oak is a community event, a 25 year tradition. It speaks of our history and gives us a glimpse of our future. I believe we are heading in the right direction," said Neal Appelbaum, executive director of the Arts Center of Cannon County, which sponsors the event.

A key part of the community's history are traditional white oak baskets, an art that seems to be slipping away.

chairs were also on hand with chairs and tables of all sizes and styles.

Sisters Betty Tanner and Dorothy Hobbs were on hand demonstrating white oak basket weaving. Both are fifth generation weavers hailing from Short Mountain area. Their mother and father were Grover and Viella Estes.

"We just are trying to keep the art alive and don't let it die," Betty said. Part of the problem is due to a scarcity of white oak trees and many of them are rotten in the middle, she said.

"We mostly find them in the great deep of the hollers," Dorothy explained.

But the main factor is so few people make the baskets anymore. They were once a necessity for survival.

Many local families turned to making white oak baskets and chairs as

Cannon Co. gets three highway safety grants

State Senator Mae Beavers (R-Mt. Juliet) said she has been informed that three Highway Safety Grants have been awarded to law enforcement agencies in Cannon County. The grants support efforts to reduce the number of people killed and injured in traffic crashes in Tennessee.

"These awards are very important to our local law enforcement agencies," said Sen. Beavers. "They will be put to good use in keeping our roads safer."

The grants include: $10,270.50 to the Cannon County Rescue Squad for the First Responder Initiative; $20,000 to the Cannon County Sheriff's Department for their Alcohol Enforcement Project; and $24,998.93 to the Woodland Alcohol Countermeasures

Liles family takes epic 6,000 mile sea journey

Two adults, one dog undertake major trip

DAN WHITTLE
Courier Correspondent

Put an ocean, river or lake in front of former Tennessee State Rep. Mike Liles, and he'll find a boat.

But not any old boat, so step aboard Lifestyle II, a refitted 40-foot trawler that was renamed from "SueMe."

"We changed the name from 'SueMe,' which was like sticking a finger up to everyone you pass on the water," sailor Liles sailed back in time to when he purchased the boat in Key Largo, Fla., leading up to his impending sea-faring journey from Florida, in the South, up to Canada to the North.

There's no luggage required for this boating adventure of a lifetime by sail-or/turned author Liles and shipmate wife, Denniese, who have published a book about the journey.

Lifestyle II's crew was rounded out by "Wonder Dog" Maggie Mae, a mixed mutt with a loud Beagle bark that woke up entire docks of fellow boaters.

Follow the water, and you can follow the developments of mankind ...

"Water ways are the arteries of human development dating back to the beginning of time," Liles accounted, while explaining there'd likely be no Murfreesboro, Woodbury and Readyville as known today, if not for Stones River. "Nearby Nashville sprang up beside the Cumberland River. As a boy growing up in Florida, I dreamt of exploring all the waterways I could."

But it you can't physically make the 6,000-mile journey with the adventuresome skipper, you can consider reading the book - "Hero's Loop."

"Most boys had heroes like Gene Autry and Roy Rogers," Liles shared. "My first hero, while growing up as a boy, was a boat. But we didn't own a boat, because we had rent to pay and upkeep of a well-worn automobile."

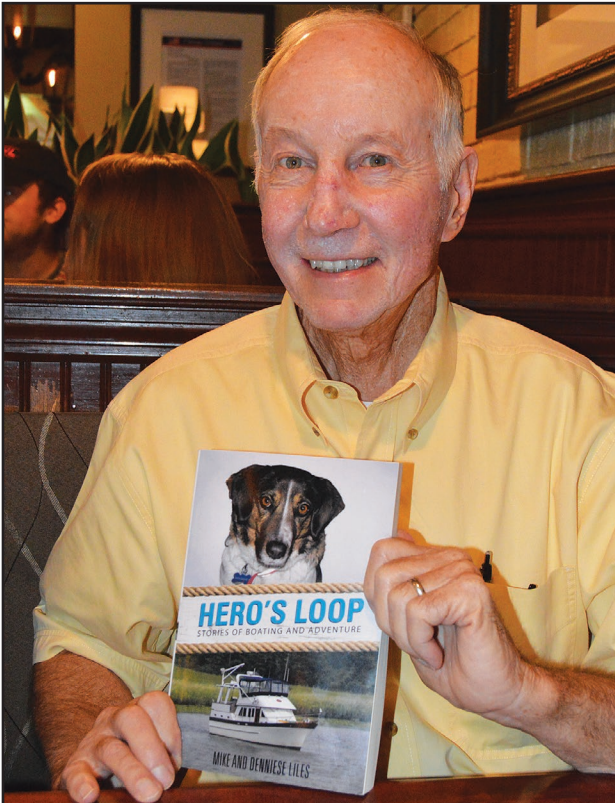

Their book is a compilation of boating stories and adventures, as Mr. and Mrs. Liles sailed the "Loop" around the eastern seaboard of North America, on waterways from down around the horn of Florida, sailing north up the East Coast through New York, Chicago and then, across the Great Lakes into Can-

His unique skills were brought to many of Murfreesboro's finest residences, and he was beloved by their owners, not only for his expertise, but also his scintillating conversation. He describes to his incredulous family about having looked down to see the doctor operating, his mother calling people to pray in the waiting room, and his father in another room yelling at God and knowledge gleaned from his time in heaven that he could not otherwise have obtained about his great-grandfather and his second sister who died before being born. He goes on to describe Jesus, his physical appearance, and his horse.

Will Nashville Banner actually be reborn?

Words of Wisdom
DAN WHITTLE

Is 'Nashville Banner' Rebirth Possible? Can the Nashville Banner be born-again?

As a former feature writer for the old afternoon newspaper published from 1876-1998, I could get spirit-filled about such a re-birth.

Since I worked at the Banner briefly in the 1970s, I've been accused with helping put the Banner out of business.

Admittedly biased, I hold fast to one Dan's opinion, the 1970s were among the best and last "glory years" of the Banner's colorful and impactful history.

By colorful, I mean the gifted, dedicated souls who literally shed blood, sweat and tears to make the Banner into one of the most respected major daily newspapers in America's robust journalistic history.

I mean "colorful" with gifted personalities, such as editorial cartoonist/author Jack Knox, the late father to Woodbury resident Brett Knox, who is wed to Woodbury city councilwoman Faye Northcutt Knox.

Some young whippersnapper media people probably don't know the meaning of an "editorial cartoonist." Jack Knox' work was well-known to the point U.S. Presidents regularly called him for advice about the mood of everyday hard-working Americans.

Colorfully-named Pinkney Keel, was known as a gifted editor. But his biggest claim to fame was when he coined "Elvis the Pelvis" in describing a then unknown singer with gyrating hips down in Mississippi.

Editorial Page Editor Tom Flake was a truly gifted wordsmith, to the point he largely wrote the skits and barbs for Nashville's former popular annual "Gridiron" production that roasted and poked fun at political personalities such as Bill Boner, John J. Hooker and Ray (of sunshine) Blanton.

Democrat John J. Hooker, when he ran for governor of Tennessee in the 1960s, was often "roasted" in the pages of the Republican-slanted Banner, to the point many blamed the Banner with largely causing Mr. Hooker to lose the election. Some of us younger reporters felt the Banner did a hatchet job on Mr. Hooker, but were afraid to voice that opinion.

How conservative was the Banner's editorial board of that era? We were told we'd be fired if we grew facial hair, or caught holding up two fingers for a "V" for peace sign as popularized by protesting American hippies against the Vietnam War of the period. The Banner board was of the opinion anyone against that war, was un-American.

Mr. Hooker may have got some personal revenge satisfaction, however, when he got temporary control of Nashville's afternoon newspaper in the 1980s. When that deal was consummated, the reporter who had led the smear tactics against Hooker, without saying a word, cleared his desk and walked out the Banner's front door never to return.

The late Robert Churchwell not only wrote history, he made history as the Banner's first black reporter ... a man so highly respected that he should be in every journalism hall of fame in the state.

When Mr. Churchwell, the encourager, complimented a feature story I, a rookie reporter, did on Bell Buckle's hog-killing-day legendary laborer Lack Buckingham in 1971, I was pumped to go another 12-hour shift.

Fellow State Desk reporter Harold "Cowboy" Lynch was one of the few reporters I could not out work. Since Harold loved horses and rodeos, it was I who gave him the nickname of "Cowboy."

State Desk Editor Weldon Grimsley, a gifted page layout designer, had two claims of newspapering distinction: One, he discovered country/rock singer Narvel Felts at a Southeast Missouri high school talent contest back in the 1960s. Two was a much-lesser known deed when he hired me to come to the Banner from a small daily newspaper in Missouri.

Weldon and his wife, Thelma Lou, opened their home in helping me make the move from Missouri until I could afford an apartment of my own.

Tom Normand was one of the most gifted obituary writers in Banner history. I always smiled when Tom tried to spell his name to someone on the phone: "It's Normand ... with a 'D.'"

Not many reporters excelled at writing obituaries, but Tom Normand did.

One of the largest personalities to ever grace the hallowed halls of the Banner at 1100 Broad was former publisher James G. (Jimmy) Stahlman.

Mr. Stahlman is credited with making the deal that extended the Banner's success for a few more decades when he talked the morning Tennessean's publishing Evans family into sharing receipts from a third company, Newspaper Printing Corp., within the building at 1100 Broad.

That third company produced the afternoon and morning newspapers, and then shared an advertising revenue formula between the Banner and Tennessean. That deal is credited with extending the life of the Banner for several more decades when most afternoon metropolitan papers had already failed.

And when Mr. Stahlman consummated his deal with Gannett, he left 1100 Broad with a bang.

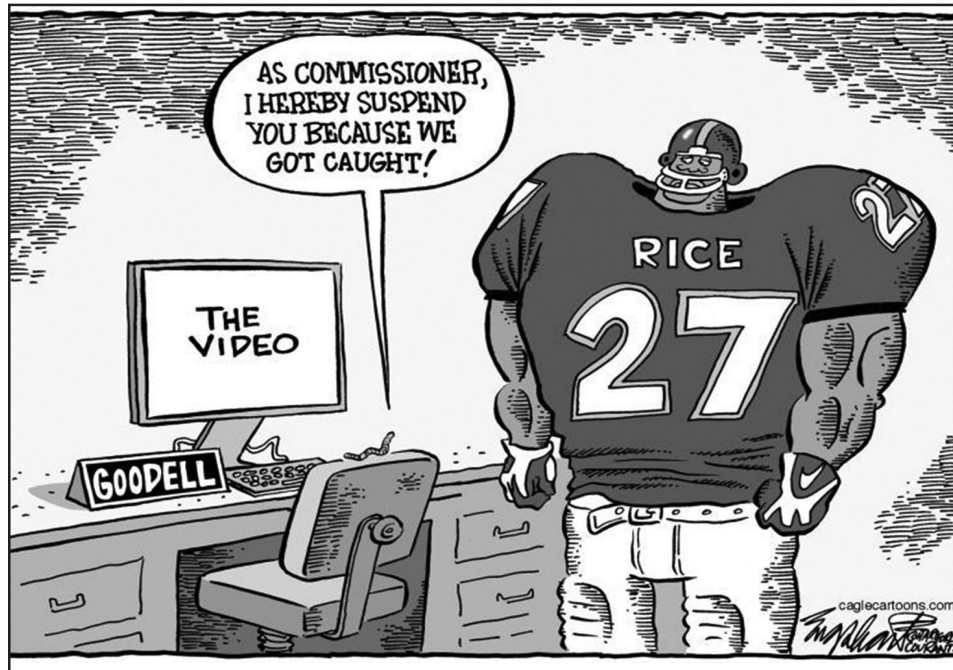

Before he stepped out the door for the last time, Mr. Stahlman threw a package of lit firecrackers into the newsroom, resulting in government reporter Grady Gallant, a veteran of war, seeking refuge under a newsroom desk.

"I wanted to light a fire under the newsroom one more time," Mr. Stahlman was credited with saying.

Again, stating one Dan's opinion here, the Banner played a vital role in Tennessee society and political theater, by offering a conservative counter-balance to the then liberal Tennessean.

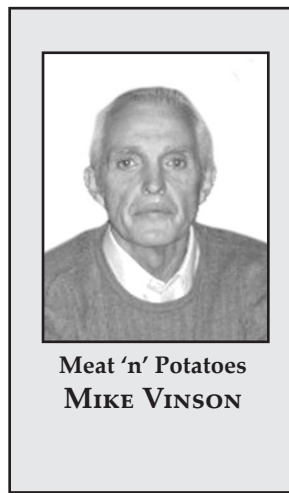

But, can a modern-day Banner survive with the avalanche of instant worldwide digital news distribution at our finger tips or on our wrists? I think so, for successful newspapering has never been rocket science.

Give the readers what they want and need with in-depth reporting, like they can't get with live media sound bites, and the readers will come.

Gangster caught in boob job 'boo-boo'

Meat 'n' Potatoes
MIKE VINSON

The FBI's manhunt for 9/11 terrorist Osama bin Laden was the most expensive, exhaustive, and wide-scale in the Bureau's history. When a U.S. Navy SEAL team killed bin Laden in a fortress-like compound in Abbottabad, Pakistan, May 2, 2011, the Number One slot on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list was immediately filled by James "Whitey" Bulger, the notorious mobster from Boston, Mass., who'd been on the run for 16 years.

James Joseph "Whitey" Bulger Jr. was born Sept. 3, 1929, in Dorchester, Mass. Certain Boston folklore portrays Bulger as a Robin Hood-style bandit whose Winter Hill gang was dedicated to protecting the neighborhood and its residents. During his rise to kingpin status, Bulger gained control of a majority of the criminal activity in South Boston: narcotics, extortion, money laundering, murder, etc.

In the early '70s, the FBI was searching for reliable information in their battle against Boston's Patriarca crime family. The FBI approached Bulger and asked him to become an informant. By all accounts, Bulger did become an FBI informant, and his FBI "handler," coincidentally, was a childhood friend named John Connolly.

However, it was Agent Connolly who ended up being the real "informant": Connolly kept Bulger apprised of the FBI's case against Bulger and his gang!

Spring 1994, a joint task force launched a serious probe into Bulger's criminal network. Reportedly, sometime in December 1994, FBI agent Connolly informed Bulger he was about to be arrested. Bulger and his girlfriend, Catherine Greig, took flight.

Bulger, 81, and Greig, 60, were arrested at the inexpensive Princess Eugenia apartment complex in Santa Monica, Calif., June 22, 2011. More than $800,000 cash and a number of weapons were confiscated from Bulger's apartment. Under the husband-and-wife alias of "Charlie and Carol Gasko," a "childless couple from Chicago," Bulger and Greig had been living in the same Princess Eugenia apartment, # 303, for approximately fourteen years.

Though I'd kept abreast of the Whitey Bulger case—before and after his arrest—it wasn't until I watched on television the Sept.14/Sunday edition of 60 Minutes that I learned what very well might have been responsible for Whitey Bulger's capture . . . and I just shook my head in amazement!

First, it is necessary to note that Whitey Bulger had embarrassed the FBI—particularly the Boston office! "We really had to catch this guy to establish credibility after all the other issues," retired FBI Agent Phil Torsney stated on 60 Minutes.

A major hurdle was the FBI didn't have any good, close-up photos of either Bulger or Greig, especially Greig. The feds received a tip that before going on the run in 1994, Greig had undergone breast-implant surgery in Boston. Expectedly, the feds began reaching out to surgeons in the Boston area. A Boston physician who'd performed the breast-implant surgery on Greig contacted the feds: Not only did the physician have Greig's medical file, he had "high-resolution" photos of her.

The FBI immediately began running photos of both Bulger and Greig on television, virtually non-stop, with major emphasis on Greig, along with a 1-800 FBI tip line and the promise of a two-million-dollar reward. It was merely a matter of hours before the FBI received a tip that Whitey Bulger and Catherine Greig could be found at the Princess Eugenia apartment complex in Santa Monica, California. As mentioned, they were arrested there, minus incident, on June 22, 2011.

I find it ironic something as obvious as breast implants led to the arrest of a cagey criminal such as Whitey Bulger, who managed to evade authorities for sixteen years. One would think Whitey and Catherine would've had a conversation along the lines of: Hey, gal, remember those pics the doc took of you for your breast implants? Well, it just makes sense that the feds, one day, will get those pics, and they'll be flashing your mug all over TV. We need to get you down to Mexico for some facial plastic surgery before that happens.

Therefore, I am officially titling the takedown of big-time gangster Whitey Bulger and his moll, Catherine Greig, as the "boob job boo-boo."

Do we want to go back to TV's good 'ol days?

Media Matters
LARRY BURRIS

I was talking with a couple of friends the other night, and they were lamenting the sad state of American television, and said they wished we could go back to what they termed the "good-ol'-days" of television.

Maybe you remember those days of wholesome programming the entire family could watch. Programs that stressed family and American values!

Programs like, for example, "Gun-smoke." Maybe you remember Matt Dillon. He was the U.S marshal whose only means of solving problems seemed to be to shoot someone. And we won't talk about what kind of relationship he seemed to have with Miss Kitty, but I'm not sure they were really promoting so-called "family values."

Or considering that paragon of family programming, "The Andy Griffith Show." Nice and safe, right? Wrong.

Andy Taylor is a widower, so there's no mother to raise little Opie. Andy dates a series of nice-looking women during the run of the show, but his closest relationship is with his deputy, Barney Fife. And consider this: of all the major male characters in the show -- Andy, Barney, Floyd, Howard, Goober and Gomer -- the only married one is Otis Campbell, the town drunk.

What sort of message and family value is this supposed to represent?

Then there were the "Beverly Hillbilies." Again, the major character, Jed, is a widower. This time the lead female character, and we assume role model, is the grandmother, who keeps a still in the backyard, and apparently has a serious substance abuse problem. And try to figure this relationship out: Jed is Jethro's uncle, but Jethro's mother is Jed's cousin Pearl.

How's that for family values?

The list could go on and on, but I'm not so sure the "good ol' days" of television and family values ever really existed. So when people talk about a decline in family values, I wonder just what values they're talking about.

MTSU to supplement Hope scholarships

Middle Tennessee State University will supplement by $1,000 the Hope Lottery Scholarships of incoming students who stay on track to graduate in four years – and pay a Finish Line Scholarship to graduating seniors that will return any tuition increases over that span.

Both initiatives, which apply to students entering the university this fall, are part of the MTSU Student Success Advantage, which President Sidney A. McPhee announced in Chattanooga on Wednesday on the first leg of the six-city True Blue Tour.

This effort is part of MTSU's overall "Quest for Student Success" initiative, a series of reforms launched last year to boost graduation and retention rates through changes such as course redesigns, enhanced advising and new student data tracking software.

"The Student Success Advantage is an agreement between the university and our students: If you maintain a steady pace to graduation in four years, we'll help you along the way," McPhee said.

Under the plan, MTSU will pay $500 to students receiving the Hope scholarship after each of their first two years. Students must remain eligible for the Hope in order to get the award from MTSU.

The state recently reduced the Hope scholarship from $4,000 a year to $3,500 a year for freshmen and sophomores to help finance the Tennessee Promise, the plan announced by Gov. Bill Haslam to offer free community college to high school graduates starting in 2015.

"Our Student Success Advantage restores the $500 that freshmen and sophomores will lose with the changes in the Hope scholarship," McPhee said. "We made this a top priority, given that almost 80 percent of our students receive the Hope scholarship."

University officials point out that many students who don't stay on track to graduate in four years face financial challenges when their Hope scholarship funds are exhausted. The university is hiring more academic advisers, which will help students maximize the Student Success Advantage funds by keeping them on track to graduate on time.

Also under the plan, MTSU is creating a Finish Line Scholarship, which will be awarded at the beginning of the student's final semester. The scholarship will be equal to the amount paid by the student in tuition increases as calculated from the rate they paid in their first semester on campus.

"We don't want tuition to increase," McPhee said. "However, if it does, the net effect of our Finish Line Scholarship will hold students harmless from any increases – provided they stay on track to graduate in four years."

The Student Success Advantage also includes an adjustment, effective immediately, that scales back the minimum ACT scores required to qualify for five major scholarships guaranteed to eligible students.

And the university's Transfer Academic Scholarships also will switch from being competitively based to guaranteed for students from Tennessee's 14 community colleges.

Students must apply by Feb. 15, 2015, and meet the minimum requirements of having 45 to 105 earned hours, a 3.0 GPA for community college transfers and 3.5 GPA for all others. Students applying after Dec. 1 risk missing out on the scholarship awards.

Financial Aid Director Stephen White said guaranteed scholarships for transfer students who meet eligibility requirements "will allow us to process scholarships for this group in a more timely manner and assist a greater number of students."

Said White, "We anticipate that the outcome of the Tennessee Promise for students attending community colleges will generate a greater number of students transferring to MTSU with an associate degree beginning in fall 2017."

Major scholarships and their ACT adjustment include:

Chancellor Scholarship (from 32 to 30 ACT);

Presidential (from 29 to 28 ACT);

Academic Service (from 27 to 26 ACT);

Provost (from 26 to 25 ACT);

And valedictorian and salutatorian (from 23 to 22 ACT).

The required high school GPA remains 3.5. The guaranteed scholarship amounts range from $2,000 to $6,000 per year. For more, visit www.mtsu.edu/apply or www.mtsu.edu/financial-aid/scholarships.

Each of the scholarships requires students work 75 hours during the semester or five hours per week in a department that connects them with staff who can serve as resources and mentors.

is proud to announce our Caregiver of the Year for 2014 CARMELA SPANO

Carmela started out as a dietary aid eight years ago. After taking classes she became the Dietary Manager where she now works so hard to provide nutritious meals for our residents! Most days she is in the kitchen with her staff working hand in hand to get everything done.

When there is a health or personal issue with one of her staff members, she is the one who fills their position to make sure the work gets done. One of her dietary staff members was diagnosed with breast cancer. Carmela worked all of her shifts to make sure that she had a job to come back to. This kept her fighting for something and Carmela never once thought about replacing her.

She never complains about having to fill in or work longer hours. She often works weeks without a day off. When it comes to the events here at the home, they just wouldn't be possible without her and her dietary staff!! They are always here and willing to cook what it is the residents request for that particular event!

Several times a year, Carmela and her staff cook for up to 400 people that attend our Summer Supper and Holiday Meals. She never fails her residents!! We even have a family member of a resident who has passed away that comes in frequently. She never leaves here without eating. Carmela feeds her whatever she wants to make sure she doesn't go hungry.

There are many reasons why Carmela deserves this honor and these are just a few! According to one of her co-workers, "She takes great pride in her job, the residents, their families, and her co-workers to provide them with the best meal possible!"

Carmela Spano was voted Caregiver of the Year by her Co-Workers.

If you would like to take a tour of our building, please call 563-5939. We are located at 119 West High Street (next door to the Post Office).

BY SAVANNAH CUNNICK

Hey Hey Folks...how is your week so far? I ask because I care...so keep on trucking to Hump Day and before you know it, it's TGIF and the week end is here! Monotonous but oh, so true! It almost puts me in the mood when I remember that I begged my Mom to take karate lessons. She wouldn't let me....she was afraid I would break my nose. Ironically, I broke my nose in a fight protecting my best friend and because I didn't know how to defend myself. (Thanks Mom.) Aren't I awful with such memories! I'm sure we all can reflect on crazy past events when we were young. Amazing how those crazy events never stop and keep on going. I don't know how many of you keep a diary, but there's not enough paper to capture the crazy in my past, present and probably future. So, hang tight and be reassured that you are certainly NOT ALONE!

Joan Rivers is a great example regarding this subject. What a ride she had with her life! Joan was put on earth to make people laugh, a pioneer comedian. And, she did a great job at it. The things she would come up with and right on the spot with comebacks. She stated that: My body is so out of shape, I can have a mammogram and a pedicure at the same time! And: I was so ugly that they sent my picture to Ripley's Believe it or Not and he sent it back and said: I DON'T believe it! Looking 50 is great, if you're 60. I told my mother in law that my house was her house and she said: Get off my Property! That's a small sample of the multitude of entertaining statements she never ran out of. We will miss you Joan. You were one of the best!

You know, we are all mature, until someone pulls out the bubble wrap. Think about it.... Well, onto the Short Mountain Trading Post business: Remember the Saturday, October 11th Spooktacular event and Flea Market Day! This will be so much fun and some great food and flea market buys. Inside the barn, all the craftspeople offer their terrific artwork and up in the famous loft, so much to enjoy as far as gifts and antiques. If you wish to be part of the flea market, and the space is FREE, call me, Savannah, at 615-464-7824 to reserve your spot! We will have terrific food, mule wagon rides to the Distillery and back and trunk or treat for all the little ones. Don't miss out!

The Short Mountain Distillery is working diligently on their new restaurant to soon be opened by the end of October. Their tours are from Thursday thru Saturday 9:00 to 4:00 and moonshine available for sale.

Special thanks to Mary Hooper for the amazing pumpkins and squash that she donated to the Trading Post. Truly appreciate your response to our request.

Auntie Ann told me the other day: You're old when getting lucky means you find your car in the parking lot! Then, Uncle Fester cried to me about the fact that old age is when you have stopped growing at both ends and have begun to grow in the middle! Does he not realize that his visits at the local bar just might have something to do with it? He just needs a sympathetic pat on the head...with a hammer! Honestly Fester!

Remember, Folks to come on in to the Trading Post on Short Mountain Highway and buy your raffle tickets for the fantastic Turkey Fryer. And, while you are there enjoy the barn all decorated for Halloween. C'mon In! Well, listen everybody, hang in there and take care of each other, smile, laugh and be happy for what you have. Enjoy our fall weather and see you soon at the Trading Post. Thanks to all of you who have come to see us and been repeat visitors as well. Love it!

Chat next week.

Century farms on Facebook

A few weeks back, I received an invitation to be the speaker for the Wilson County Fair Century Farm Luncheon. It was one of those hot days in August, but it was a grand day for a visit to one of Tennessee's top county fairs and a chance to celebrate the Century Farm Program in our state. Along with the Century Farm families as guests, there were also numerous special guests on hand who had contacts with the government, and their attendance brought back the memory of an old story about my Uncle Sid's visit with a government man out on his farm. That visit wasn't as important as recognizing the farms in Wilson County that have been around for more than 100 years, but it sure did cause the government man, I understand, to consider changing his line of work. Wilson County has one of the largest numbers of Century Farms in the state. Each year they celebrate that accomplishment at their outstanding county fair with a special luncheon. I look forward to this event each year because it does recognize the farming family unit, which makes up 98 percent of today's farms located across this country.

The story is told that on the farm where my Uncle Sid and Aunt Sadie live, a young man drove up in front of their house in one of those white, federally owned cars with official license plates on the back. Uncle Sid was sitting on the front porch enjoying an afternoon break from working in the garden out back of the house. The old man had seen the car earlier, down at the country store, and had heard that the government man driving it was asking a lot of questions in the area.

Of course, you can just imagine what rumors developed from the local store-sitters who saw the car, and Uncle Sid was a bit concerned why the government had sent someone to his house. He had been taught by his own grandparents to be somewhat cautious of the government. They had gone through the Civil War and Uncle Sid figured they knew what they were talking about when it came to trust in Washington and all.

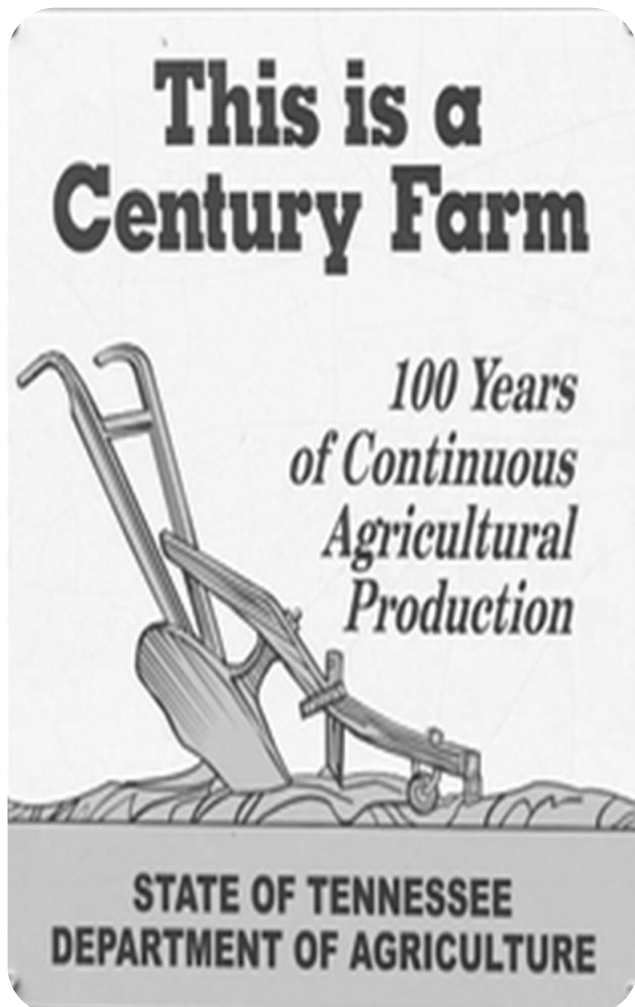

A young fellow in a white, short sleeve shirt and necktie got out of the car and walked up the old man's sidewalk with a pad and pencil in his hand. Uncle Sid does not trust anyone, other than a preacher, and not too many of them, who wears a tie in August and comes out on the farm with a pencil and paper in hand.

As the government man stepped up on the steps, Uncle Sid asked him, "What are you selling, young feller?"

would have been.

To be considered for Century Farm eligibility, a farm must be owned by the same family for at least 100 years, must produce $1,000 in revenue annually, and

"I'm not selling anything, sir," the young man replied very politely. "I'm the Census Taker."

No one had ever approached Uncle Sid like that before. In fact, he didn't even know what a census was, let alone someone who actually came to your house and took it from you. Uncle Sid swallowed a bit and asked, "A what?"

The young man from the government knew he had walked upon a problem for such a hot day and tried his best to explain his reason for being there. Smiling, somewhat, he said, "A Census Taker. We are trying to find out how many people are in the United States."

The young man's statement caused Uncle Sid to lean back in his old, front porch rocker and take his well-worn cap off his balding head. He took out his red bandana, wiped his brow and began to scratch his head a bit and said, "Well, young feller, I guess you're just wasting your time with me, because I have no idea, but if you find out I sure would like to know."

To be selected as a Century Farm, a farm owner has to answer several questions and fill out an application. I'm just glad those who have received the honor were much more interested in sharing their information than, I am sure, Uncle Sid must have at least 10 acres. There are currently 1,487 Century Farms all across the state, with many of them having been around for more than 200 years.

The Tennessee Department of Agriculture began the program in 1976. Since 1984, the Center for Historic Preservation at Middle Tennessee State University has handled the important work of documenting Tennessee's agricultural heritage and history through the Tennessee Century Farms Program under the direction of Tennessee State Historian Carroll Van West. For the next two years, the program is going under some changes with a major upgrade of its website. Currently, there is a cost-effective replacement for listing farms on a newly created "Tennessee Century Farms Program" page on Facebook. Just "like" the page and join in for some great information on Century Farms in our state.

If you have a possible Century Farm candidate, or want more information, you may call 615-898-2947. We promise a government man will not come out and ask you any questions.

You need to read about Sudden Death Syndrome in soybean

Onset of SDS with scattered, interveinal chlorotic spots in leaves

Sudden Death Syndrome (SDS) in Soybean

Sudden Death Syndrome (SDS) has started showing up in soybean fields in Tennessee. The cool, wet season Tennessee has experienced, similar to last season, has been conducive for the disease to develop in susceptible varieties.

SDS is caused by the soilborne fungus Fusarium solani f. sp. glycines which produces a toxin that is translocated to the foliage resulting in the scattered, interveinal chlorotic spots in leaves (see images below). These spots may become necrotic (brown, dead tissue) or enlarge to form chlorotic (yellow) streaks that can become necrotic. Severely affected leaflets will usually detach from the petioles, leaving just the petioles attached to the plant. SDS leaf symptoms can look similar to southern stem canker, brown stem rot, and chemical burn. By examining the entire plant one can correctly identify SDS - after splitting the stem, the middle pith should be white, while the vascular tissue surrounding the pith will be discolored (image below), and there should not be any fungal development or cankers on the outside of the stem. If only foliage that had contact with a pesticide displays symptoms and new growth is unaffected, a pesticide burn is most likely the cause and not a disease. In a field, SDS affected areas usually show up in spots or scattered areas throughout the field (usually associated with low spots or areas of compaction), not uniform across a field (a uniform pattern across the field is more likely to be pesticide injury). Descriptions and pictures of other soybean disease symptoms and management options can be found at UTCrops.com (Soybean Disease and ### Nematode Identification Guide).

SDS is usually more severe in saturated soils, such as in low spots and under irrigation as opposed to non-irrigated fields. Other factors associated with SDS affected areas include high fertility and soil compaction. SDS is also more likely in soybean fields following corn, as corn is also a host for the pathogen. Furthermore, soybean cyst nematode (SCN) infestations can be associated with SDS and increase the effect on yield. It is best to take soil samples in the fall to check for SCN infestations to clearly identify all the possible pathogens affecting the field. More information on sampling and free testing for SCN can be found at UTCrops.com (Nematode Sample How To and Nematode Sampling Form).

Fields that develop SDS are likely to develop the disease during subsequent years when favorable weather conditions occur. So if there were fields that developed SDS last year, there is a good chance it will show up again this year in the same fields and spots. Management options include planting a resistant variety - the majority of varieties tested by UT in 2013 in the variety performance tests were rated for SDS and can be found at UTCrops.com (Soybean Variety Trials). Specific tables that have SDS ratings in the publication include Tables 4 and 10 (Maturity group (MG) III), 14 and 20 (early MGIV), 24 and 30 (late MGIV), 34 and 40 (early MGIV), 40 and 44 (late MGIV), 51 and 57 (Liberty Link (LL) MGIV), 61 (LL MGIV), 68 (conventional, LL, RR MGIV), 73 (conventional, LL, RR MGIV). Some tables rate

SDS as low, mod, or high; where fields highly affected by SDS should be planted in a low-only rated variety, similarly a variety with low disease index rating on other tables would be recommended in SDS affected fields. Other management practices include using cultivation practices that prevent or reduce soil compaction and improve drainage in low spots, and reducing soybean cyst nematode populations and not over fertilizing.

Post-harvest-weed-control

Corn harvest will likely start toward the end of this month. As the corn dries down the next couple weeks expect a new flush of Palmer amaranth. Moreover, with all the rain the first week of August any thin corn stand areas will likely have a new heavy flush of Palmer amaranth. Though no one wants to spend more money with corn commodity price so low, it will pay off next spring to have less Palmer amaranth to manage in soybean or cotton. Good options to control this late flush of Palmer include tillage and the burndown herbicide Gramoxone (paraquat).

Please note if you elect to go with tillage that a disking will likely provide good control of smaller Palmer (<4") but larger Palmer (>8") will often re-root and grow back. Likewise, Gramoxone will provide consistent control of smaller Palmer but regrowth can happen with larger Plants.

Residual herbicides should be considered as well with so much growing season left. Fall applied residual products like Sharpen, Valor, Dual Magnum, metribuzin and simazine would all be good choices here, depending upon what crop is to be planted next spring.

Sharpen is probably one of the more versatile residual options as wheat can be planted anytime after the herbicide is applied. Sharpen can be used at rates up to 2 oz/A in the fall before wheat, corn, grain sorghum and soybean. Valor could work as well if corn harvest is early as there is a 30 day plant back to wheat after a Valor application.

Other residual options can work as well like Dual Magnum or metribuzin if the fields will go to crops other than wheat this fall.

Auburntown News

BY ANNA PATRICK

Glad to hear Kizzie Lou Vance is home following a recent stay in the hospital. She is doing well.

The wedding was September 5th 1964. It was 50 years later on September 13th that our children and grandchildren honored us by hosting a Golden Wedding Anniversary reception. What a day! Papa and I thoroughly enjoyed seeing many family and friends join us in this celebration. Thanks to all who came and to the ones who made this possible, especially to Jewell Dale supplied a lot of her dishes. My original wedding dress was displayed by granddaughter, Alayna Reed (and no I can't believe I was ever that little!) Of course the dress was made by my mother for a school function in the spring of that year. Since cousin Jewell married 2 weeks previously, it was complemented with her veil, lace jacket and belt made by her mother and my aunt, Mary Patterson. I also wore her shoes! The only thing that was mine was the dress and my undergarments!

It was great to have my brother, Richard Harris and wife, Barbara, from Macon, GA to spend the weekend with us. We are so thankful that he is doing great with his treatments.

There was another big celebration that day. It was supposed to be a surprise but he guessed. Rick Jones hit the big 5-0 and wife, Cynthia, hosted a big celebration for him Saturday at the C. S. Hawkins Park. The Stembridge Family entertained the honoree and guests and a lot of good food was enjoyed.

Brian Dale of Chattanooga came up Wednesday to spend the night with his mom, Jewell Dale.

Don't forget the Harvest Festival this Friday night beginning at 6:00 o'clock with the King/Queen Coronation. There are lots of good items to bid on, a concession stand and cake walk. Be sure to come and support Auburn School.

Krista Nicole Bryson turns 7 on the 26th. Cody

Hughes has his 24th on the 27th. Pam Gaither hits her 45th year on the 28th. The 29th is popular with Cheyrel Pursell, Bethany Griffith, and Phillip Phelps put on another year. Oh yeah, my daughter, Bethany Morrison turns 31 that day. I knew it was popular for a reason! Ending the week's worth of wishes and the month of September is Charles "Button" Cooper. Happy birthday, happy birthday to all of you.

Ronnie and Becky Gandy celebrate their 25th on the 25th. On September 28th 1985 Anita Haley became Anita Patrick when she wed Ray (bless her heart!). Red and Shirley Young have their 43rd on the 29th the same day that Scott and McKenzie Bennett celebrate their 2nd. Happy anniversary to all of you and may you be blessed with many more.

The level of reimbursement depends upon certain economic criteria. The CACFP, sponsored statewide by the Tennessee Department of Human Services and funded through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, serves to ensure that children enrolled in private day care homes receive nutritious meals and snacks.

Day care providers interested in learning more about or enrolling in the CACFP are encouraged to contact UCHRA for more information.

Any questions should be directed to Christa Widener, UCHRA Child Care Manager, at (931) 528-1127. Neither UCHRA nor its providers discriminate against any participant because of race, color, national origin, sex, age, or disability.

a means of survival during the Depression. They traded them for lamp oil, sugar, coffee, cloth, thread and other things they couldn't grow or hunt. The stores hauled the baskets and chairs to major cities like Detroit, Miami and New York, and peddled them on the streets.

In the 1960s there was a resurgence of interest in those traditional crafts with Ida Pearl Davis emerging as the most famous of the basket weavers. "She was blind, but still made the most beautiful baskets," Dorothy said.

This year's craft fair attracted a record number of attendees as well as artists.

"The craft fair is one of many reasons for folks to visit Cannon County. We work hard to ensure that both craft vendors and visitors have a splendid experience," Appelbaum said.

Word-of-mouth attracts the most visitors, he continued.

"The Arts Center invests time and funds in print and social media marketing the event. However, it is word-of-mouth that brings the most people to Cannon County. Treat folks with respect and show them a good time and they will return bringing friends. Person to person advertising," he said.

The White Oak Festival added to the reputation of the Arts Center of Cannon County, caused Woodbury to be the only town in Tennessee selected by John Villani in his book, "The 100 Best Small Arts Town in America."

LILES ...

and around boats, including a stint in the Navy as a young man," noted Master Captain Liles, the highest civilian rank bestowed by the U.S. Coast Guard.

This was not the master captain's first long sailing adventure, the first being aboard the original "Lifestyle" back in 2002, when Liles sailed the Tennessee-Tombigbee (Tenn-Tom) ... a 234-mile waterway that links the Tennessee River down to Demopolis, Ala., and points south, for an entire journey of 450 nautical miles.

"Two years planning, practicing, studying navigation and boat safety went into that initial long voyage," Liles accounted. "That trip was partly inspired by Murfreesboro boating enthusiast (the late) C.B. Arnett."

The first sailing adventure, however, paled in distance, since the "Hero Loop" took Liles and crew 6,000 nautical miles through countless minor crisis mixed with funny, even joyful experiences ... some of which was triggered by 40-pound mixed breed land-dog Maggie that initially didn't like water.

"Beagle dogs are scent dogs, and we had our green carpet (indoor-outdoor) on deck for Maggie's potty benefit," skipper Liles shared. "So, Maggie knew the carpet was there."

This came at the trips' beginning before Lifestyle II had sailed out of Florida coastal waters.

"Since Maggie was yet to adapt to the green carpet on board, Denniese noticed a long green grassy park with a seawall at Hollywood, Fla.," Liles noted. "Seemed like a good idea to me too ... and I advised shipmates to get the fenders and lines ready and we were going to pull up along the seawall.

"All was going well as I eased over to the seawall, until I noticed a brown blurred furry object jump over the bow of the boat," Skipper Liles added. "(It was) our second day, and our crew was already jumping ship!"

Shipmate Denniese also jumped ship in order to catch up with Maggie, as she bolted full land speed ahead, while searching and sniffing for the just right place to "poop" alongside Florida Highway A1A.

Later in the voyage, Maggie took a plunge when she got excited about seeing a pod of dolphin doing antics alongside Lifestyle II.

"We were prepared to jump in the ocean too, if necessary, for Maggie is our baby," Liles confirmed. "But Maggie, although exhausted, safely swam back to the dinghy, where I reached down and snatched her out."

tion, a $197,350 grant was awarded to the 16th Judicial District, of which Cannon County is a part, for DUI abatement and prosecution enhancement. Beavers said the awards will be disbursed by the Governor's Highway Safety Office (GHSO). The grants are provided to agencies that successfully applied for funding based on problem and statistical need. Applications were reviewed and scored by the GHSO and external highway safety advocates. "The funds are essential in helping us curb drunk driving," added Senator Beavers, who has sponsored numerous laws cracking down on DUI offenders. "The grants should have a great impact in reducing the number of alcohol-related crashes."

VOTING ...

Mankin said she had suggested using the bubble ballot for the May and August elections but it was met with resistance by the Election Commission.

"This should make the process of counting absentee ballots much smoother," Mankin said.

The November ballot will not only include state and federal races, but also the District 2 Cannon County School Board election will be included.

Archery only deer season set to open statewide

The 2014 deer archery-only hunting season opens statewide in Tennessee on Saturday, Sept. 27. The archery season dates in all three of the state's deer hunting units are the same. The dates are Sept. 27-Oct. 24 and Oct. 27-Nov. 7.

Tennessee is divided into three deer units for better management, A, B, and L. The antlerless deer bag limits are four in Units A and B deer management areas and three per day in Unit L areas. The antlered deer bag limit is a total of three for the entire deer season. A hunter may take his three antlered deer during any season, but no more than one per day.

In addition to deer, archers may harvest wild turkeys of either sex during the archery-only deer season in counties that have a fall turkey hunt. Turkeys harvested during the archery-only deer season count toward the fall turkey county bag limits.

(A list of counties and their bag limits are located on page 34 of the 2014-15 Tennessee Hunting and Trapping Guide).

The TWRA makes the recommendation that all archery hunters obtain a 2014 Tennessee Hunting and Trapping Guide. The guide lists the counties and bag limits for each of the different deer management units. The guides are available where hunting and fishing licenses are sold and on the TWRA website, www.tnwildlife.org.

National Hunting, Fishing Day slated for Sept. 27

NASHVILLE --- The Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency is celebrating 2014 National Hunting and Fishing Day (NHFD) on Saturday, Sept. 27.

NHFD was established by the U.S. Congress in 1972 and recognizes hunters and anglers for their contributions to wildlife conservation. The NHFD is an event celebrated in all 50 states annually on the fourth Saturday in September.

"It is so significant that a great nation like ours takes the time to pause and recognize two activities that are steeped in our nation's heritage," said Ed Carter, TWRA Executive Director. "For those who participate, it is not only a great recreational venue which generates the lion's share of funding for the management of all wildlife but also generates billions of dollars in economic return. For those who don't participate, it is fitting that we all join together to take a moment and reflect on how the North American Wildlife Conservation Model has enhanced all our lives."

Together with federal aid programs, wildlife conservation efforts are funded mainly by the money sportsmen and women spend on their license fees, as well as the taxes they pay on certain types of outdoor recreational equipment that includes firearms, ammunition, and fishing gear. These funds support conservation programs, habitat acquisitions, and outdoor recreation opportunities in Tennessee and throughout the nation.

For the second straight year, a Tennessee resident has been selected to the prestigious honor of serving as NFHD honorary chairman. Country music entertainer, award winning television host and former solider Craig Morgan will serve in the role this year. The Dickson County resident follows fisherman and television host Bill Dance who was last year's honorary chairman. They joined the list of former honorary chairmen from the entertainment, sports, and political ranks.

Consumers continue to feel better about Midstate economy

Consumers in three Midstate counties continue to feel better about the economy, according to the latest economic survey by Middle Tennessee State University.

The overall Middle Tennessee Consumer Outlook Index rose to 226 for September, up from 203 in May.

The current poll of 343 randomly selected adult residents of Davidson, Rutherford and Williamson counties was conducted Sept. 8-10. The index score is computed by adding the percentage of favorable responses to each survey question and subtracting the percentage of negative responses.

"The fact that the overall outlook index has remained above 200 since May of this year indicates that consumers believe that the economy has improved and has begun to gain a solid footing," said Timothy Graeff, director of the Office of Consumer Research in the Jones College of Business.

"However, concerns about the future of the overall American economy are evident. Any drastic changes in world events could cause consumers to lose confidence and decrease spending in reaction to potential threats to continued economic growth."

"This is good news for local businesses as many retailers begin setting their sights on the ever important Christmas and holiday shopping season," Graeff said. "This positive view toward spending could signal healthy sales at the cash register later in the year."

Local consumers have become more concerned about what lies ahead for the American economy. The percent of consumers who believe U.S. business conditions will be "better" six months from now dropped from 31 to 22 percent.

Volunteers needed

Volunteers needed for the elderly who have no one else. Woodbury has several elderly that need volunteers.

All they need is someone to check on them and show them that you care. We have a 13 county area and need volunteers to be our eyes and ears.

You must visit a minimum of once a month and report the visit and conditions to the South Central Tennessee Development District. This is to document that the program is worth funding. Reports can be done by phone, e-mail or a written report.

It takes very little time, is immensely rewarding and greatly appreciated by those who have no one else. Background check is required. To apply or find out more details, please call Glenda Porterfield at 931-698-7346 or e-mail gporterfield@sctdd.org.

Cannon County's cross country teams are hitting their stride at the right time.

Marshall McReynolds finished third overall out of 92 participants to lead the Lions. McReynolds ran a 17:46.45 on the 5,000-meter course. Senior Jake Burdick had a strong meet, finishing ninth with an 18:55.43. Gilpatrick, Duggin and Morten all turned in personal records to help anchor the top five in scoring for the Lions.

Hannah Whited enjoyed another strong effort, finishing third overall out of 65 runners with a time of 21:07.64.

Whited's superlative performance led the Lionettes, who also had record efforts from Erin McReynolds and Elva Magana. Each enjoyed personal records. McReynolds finished fifth overall with a 21:39.78 and Magana provided the Lionettes with three runners in the Top 10 when she finished ninth with a 22:12.88.

Kristen Hale finished 20th with a time of 23:57.13 and Alayna Reed rounded out the scoring for the Lionettes with a 25th-place finish.

Gretchen Elmy and Laura Nichols also participated for Cannon County.

On the boys side, Corey Seymour finished 23rd overall and John Frazier was 27th overall for the Lions.

Success on the run

Cross country teams continue to shine

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County's cross country teams continued their outstanding season with impressive showings at the Sparta Backyard Invitational Saturday (Sept. 20).

Four Lionettes ran to a second-place finish with three runners earning medals, and the Lions claimed a third-place finish as two team members earned individual accolades.

Hannah Whited, Erin McReynolds, Elva Magana and Hannah Faulkner all turned in Top 15 finishes to earn medals as the Lionettes finished second with 53 points. They were just behind winner Cookeville, which had 31 points. Cannon County finished ahead of Rhea County (71), Cumberland County (81) and Central Magnet (132).

Kristen Hale just missed earning a medal but still turned in a Top 20 finish. Hale was 17th.

Cannon County's boys also had another sterling day. The Lions were third overall in the loaded field, finishing behind Cookeville (40) and Lebanon (49).

Mainstay Marshall McReynolds had another outstanding showing and led the Lions. McReynolds was fifth overall out of the 96 runners with a time of 15:02.20 on the 4,000-meter trek. Freshman Austin Duggin continued his breakout season with a 20th-place finish to earn an individual medal. Duggin finished just ahead of teammate Jake Burdick, who was 21st overall.

Another promising freshman, Corey Seymour, also continued to produce consistent results. Seymour finished 27th overall and Devin Gilpatrick rounded out the top five for the Lions with a 32nd-place finish.

Cannon County's top five girls finishers all were in the Top 20 out of 75 participants on the girls side.

Whited finished fifth overall with an 18:35.04, just ahead of teammate Erin McReynolds who was sixth with an 18:49.08. Magana just missed a Top 10 finish. She was 11th. Faulkner was 14th overall and Hale was 17th. Alyna Reed and Sarah Hickman finished 20th and 28th, respectively. Laura Nichols also participated for the Lionettes.

In addition to the top five finishers for the Lions, Tristan Morten and Sam Sissom finished 36th and 39th, respectively.

John Frazier, Reece Wisdom, Tyler Bailey, Aaron Smith and Michael Higdon also competed for Cannon County.

Only the top five finishers count toward the team score.

DeKalb opens air assault on Lions

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

Any thought Cannon County had of upsetting rival DeKalb County was quickly extinguished as the Tigers jumped out to a 20-0 first-quarter lead and rolled to a 47-0 win at Schwartz Field Friday (Sept. 19).

The Lions (0-4, 0-1) lost their 24th consecutive home game and were never a factor against DeKalb County (2-3, 1-1).

DeKalb County quarterback Steven Jennings put on an air show, completing 16-of-31 passes for 315 yards and five touchdowns. He threw for 296 yards and all five touchdowns in the first half as the Tigers roared to a 40-0 halftime advantage.

Luke Boss added 64 yards and a touchdown on the ground to close the Tiger scoring in the third quarter. If not for a running clock the second half due to the mercy rule the score may have been worse.

A.J. Daniel led the Cannon County offense with 54 yards on 11 carries. He turned in one of the few highlights for Cannon County with a 76-yard touchdown run midway through the second quarter. The positive quickly turned negative when the play was nullified due to a penalty. Three plays later quarterback Jake Walkup threw the first of two interceptions.

Cannon County turned the ball over on three consecutive possessions in the second quarter to fuel the Tiger attack.

Trailing 27-0, Cannon County had moved to midfield but Walkup was intercepted at the Tigers' 37.

DeKalb's Lane Ball turned an interception into a 54-yard return for a touchdown on Cannon County's next drive. The Lions fumbled the ball away on the following possession.

The Tigers converted all three turnovers into touchdowns to take complete control by halftime.

Daniel led Cannon County defenders with four tackles and Eldon Resco added three. Resco was averaging 11 tackles per game coming into the contest.

Cannon County will be looking to get into the win column for the first time when they travel to Watertown Friday. Kickoff is 7 p.m.

JR Lions score win

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

Cannon County's Junior Lions turned in back-to-back wins when they held off Jackson County for a 26-22 win at Schwartz Field Thursday (Sept. 18).

Cort Litchford's punt return for a touchdown proved to be the game winner. Jackson County had rallied from a 18-8 halftime deficit to take a 22-18 lead.

The Lions forced a punt and Litchford returned it for a touchdown to provide the comeback win.

Cannon County opened the scoring when quarterback Charlie Parrish connected with Wade Love for a 40-yard touchdown strike and the Lions added the 2-point conversion for an early 8-0 lead.

The Lions (4-3) primarily pounded the middle with Gabe Elrod and Jacob Raines between the tackles. They hit Jackson County with another pass; however, when Parrish connected with Reece Smith for a 10-yard touchdown. Cannon County added the 2-point conversion when Love took a pitch from Elrod and scored on a reverse.

Bryson Bell, Alex Clark and Blake Farless continued their strong play on the line. Ty St. John, Litchford, Gage Jones did a good job on the corners.

"It was another four-quarter battle that the boys refused to lose," JR Lions Head Coach Jason Elrod said. "We teach mental and physical toughness that these boys demonstrate on the field. They are a great group of boys who are always willing to fight to the whistle."

Soccer drops pair

TONY STINNETT
Courier Sports Editor

It was the tale of two matches for Cannon County's girls soccer team last week.

The Lionettes (3-8, 1-4) dropped two district matches but showed tremendous progress during the week.

Cannon County opened the week with a frustrating 7-1 loss against Smith County before closing the week with a tough 3-2 setback against rival DeKalb County.

The DeKalb match was intense and competitive. The Lady Tigers scored 15 minutes into the match but the Lionettes countered moments later when Molly Williams connected for her fourth goal of the season to tie the score, 1-1.

DeKalb County managed another goal just before halftime to take a 2-1 advantage at intermission.

The Lady Tigers scored a quick goal at the outset of the outset of the second half to go on top 3-1 but Cannon County settled in defensively with Kendra Maynard performing well at stopper.

Hannah Taylor's fourth goal of the season closed the gap to 3-2 but the Lionettes couldn't score the tying goal.

The offense took a blow when leading scorer Livia Walker left the game with a foot injury in the second half.

Junior Baylee Nemeth had her strongest performance and provided critical minutes in multiple positions. She won several heated battles. Raquel Novoa provided key minutes off the bench and freshman Tori Jones played supporting minutes as a forward and continues to develop.

Junior keeper Jessica Elmy had an impressive 15 saves. She has 110 saves on the season.

It was a strong turnaround from the team's 7-1 setback against Smith County earlier in the week.

Freshman Hannah Haley scored Cannon County's only goal against Smith County.

The score was 2-0 at the half but it got away in the second half.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Nahum
Book of Nahum

The name Nahum means consolation or comfort. Nahum served as prophet to Judah near the end of the seventh century B.C. He spoke of the fall of Nineveh, the capital of Assyria. Nahum described how ruthless the Assyrians had been as they were victorious in the conquering of many nations. A righteous and holy God would not tolerate such action for very long. Nahum predicted and described the coming siege and fall of Nineveh. He said that this would be the end of the Assyrian kingdom, a kingdom that had controlled the Fertile Crescent for over 100 years. Nahum calls for the people of Judah to observe their feast dedicated to honoring God.

Here's exciting happenings in Middle Tennessee

National Storytelling Festival Oct. 3-5

Jonesborough

The National Storytelling Festival will welcome some of the world's best storytellers Oct. 3-5 to the International Storytelling Center in downtown Jonesborough.

The event is packed full of activities including dozens of world-renowned storytellers, food and merchandise vendors, and an anticipated crowd of more than 100,000 visitors encompassing nearly the entire historic downtown area. Several events leading up to the weekend include concerts, a Wine and Beer Garden, and an additional day of storytelling featuring Donald Davis 7:30 p.m. Oct. 1 in the Library Tent on the festival grounds.

"To see how this festival has grown has been exciting to see," says Brenda Whitson, executive director of the Johnson City Convention and Visitors Bureau. "What started in 1973 as a few good storytellers and a handful of entertained listeners exchanging stories has turned into what's now called one of the Top 100 Events in North America."

Featured tellers include New York Times best-selling children's author Carmen Deedy; Kevin Kling, best known for his popular commentaries on NPR's "All Things Considered"; Megan Wells, known for her one-woman shows, including "Dracula," "Psyche and Eros," and historical re-enactments of famous women; and The Healing Force, a family of performers who use a cappella singing, West African drums, guitar, shekeres and thumb pianos in their show.

Hilarious tales, ghost stories, storytellers that are self-described "fantastic liars," inspirational stories, and stories that utilize art, music, song, and dance are planned.

For more information, visit www.storytellingcenter.net/festival.

News from the Mountain

BY CAROL GUNTER

Sure hope all of you are feeling well and able to enjoy these lovely fall days we are having now. I'm simply myself loving these cool and crisp mornings we are having and I have no complaints just glad to get outside and work on projects that I need to get done before the first snowflake falls. As you know, I go into hibernation after that happens.

Seeing a whole lot of mums and pumpkins at different households which is a beautiful sight to see you know this time of year to add so much color to our landscaping and makes us feel so good when an idea of ours comes together!

George my garden spider missing during the Gunter Reunion. Maybe too many grandkids around and scared him off or either they did him in. Oh well, not to fret as another garden spider at the front of our house in the shrubbery. He's probably safe there as I'm not bothering him. He is growing at a fast pace and yes, his name is George, too.

Stopping by our house on Tuesday, while I was doing some trimming around my flower beds was Melvin Ferrell. He gave me a flyer on the Gospel Jamboree at the Justin Pemberton Arena in Woodbury on Friday, September 19th, and on Saturday, the 20th. A free event to enjoy some good gospel music. Good to talk with Melvin for awhile. He said Alene was doing okay.

I spent a little time chatting with Diane Evans one evening this week. Also Beverly Hubler came by for a visit on Monday evening.

Wanted to tell you about a poem my cousin/Aubrey's cousin Wayne Gunter sent me titled "Our Heavenly Home."

The time has come for us to kneel before our God for the love we feel.

No one could love us more than He

For He died on the cross for you and me. He was sent from heaven to take our sin

That if we believe in Him there is no end.

For the Father waits for both you and I

For he promised us a home on high.

One day we'll walk the streets of gold and listen to stories from the prophets of old.

We will soon be home with our families so dear

And Jesus said there would never be a tear.

This was verse 1 - there are two more to come. Wayne is so talented and I love what he writes. Great job, Wayne!

September birthdays to tell you about: Lynn Underwood 2nd, Judy Gunter 2nd, Sherry Gannon 11th, Chris Hood 17th, Richard Graham 19th, Katie Underwood 25th, and Emily Graham 27th.

Years ago, our two oldest granddaughters and I went down to their Granny Warren's for a visit. The oldest granddaughter was wanting to go to the barn to see Granny's chickens. Granny/my mom told her she might get some mites on her. Sort of astonished the granddaughter at that statement but she told mom when they came back they could all "suit up" before they went to the barn as she was thinking as a young child that they would be protected then from those so called mites. She probably had seen on TV how the suits were worn and masks to keep people safe from any danger they might encounter. I reminded her at the reunion about that episode down at Granny Warren's years ago and how much fun we had over it. She was a young child but she remembered saying that to her Granny Warren.

Do keep these people in prayer: Chloe Evelyn Bogle, Edith Miller, Bobby Taylor, Denise Stanton, Donna Lawson, and Carlon and Mai Nell Melton.

Short Mountain School's Harvest Festival will be on Saturday, September 27th. Try your best to come out to this event and enjoy all the festivities there. Anyway you can, try to support the kids, teachers, and all the others who work there, and the school in this endeavor for our community as a whole. A successful night this will be if each one of us does our part even if its small.

Stopped at Short Mountain Market yesterday and several people outside talking there at the benches and having one more time. naturally I had to join in the conversation they were having - not that I like to talk - guess that can be blamed on Aubrey for all those blessed years with him by my side and listening to such a wonderful guy who always had something to say. Debby, Ralph, Bernie Braswell, John Henry Parker, and Marty Youngblood talking about black bears, pigs, and yes, even the little green men, and a gorilla. I made it a point not to ask about the gorilla. We have enough going on about the other animals/aliens and do not need to add a gorilla to the list.

If you have any news for the column, just give me a call at (615) 563-4429. Have a great day!

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yea, I will praise Him among the multitude.

Psalm 109:30
