

Summer Grilling Safety

Grilling food is very popular- yet grilling sparks more than 10,000 fires on average each year. To avoid this, check out these grilling safety tips:

1. Always supervise a barbecue grill when in use. Don't add charcoal starter fluid when coals have already been ignited.
2. Never grill indoors - not in the house, camper, tent or any enclosed area.
3. Make sure everyone, including pets, stay away from the grill.
4. Keep the grill out in the open, away from the house, deck, tree branches or anything that could catch fire.
5. Use the long-handled tools especially made for cooking on the grill to help keep the chef safe.

Tenpenny Interview From B1

to see it be a more cohesive program between its high school successor.

Several folks have stepped up and served in the role since the inception of middle grades basketball including Ashley Cantrell, Jordan Anderson, and, most recently, Karen King. Mrs. Karen really stepped up last year when we struggled to find a coach, but due to her demands as principal and also the need for personal time to see to her family, she didn't want to commit if she could give it the full attention it deserved. So that's where the necessity part comes in.

Secondly, the original idea of the middle grades programs were for them to be an extension of their high school program. We wanted the high school coaches to have a hand in selecting the coaches for MG and for those teams to be running the same schemes, so the transition between elementary athletics and high school would be smoother because it's a huge adjustment. So with the high school and middle grades position vacant, I knew that once we had a high school coach in place, I could work with them to better make this happen on the MG level.

While Coach Patrick, newly named head coach of the Lionettes, and I have different styles, we share much of the same philosophies, especially in the need for our girls to learn quality man-to-man defensive principles. I think we'll be able to work together well, especially being in the same building to make the transition and cohesion between the programs much better.

Thirdly, I might also say, those who have coaches know, when it's in your blood, it's in your blood. It's hard to get away!

Courier Sports: Why basketball? Why not football, tennis, baseball, etc?

Tenpenny: For me it really boils down to what I feel most competent in. I love all sports, but I'm certainly not qualified to coach them. Some would argue that I'm not really qualified to coach basketball (laughs), but it's the sport I feel most knowledgeable of. I've had the privilege of learning from some awesome coaches over the last decade or more, and I'm grateful for their influence on my coaching journey. As for the other sports, I'll continue to support in every way that I can from the administrative side and our athletes and coaches on the field/court through my presence and leave the coaching to those much more qualified Courier Sports: You've always kept your schedule full with extracurricular activities even when you were a student in school. How has this helped you keep everything organized in addition to your teaching duties at Cannon County High School?

Tenpenny: It's kind of a running joke amongst my family and friends that I'm one of the hardest people in the world to keep up with, from the standpoint that I seem to always be busy with something. I think that comes from the example set by my mom and others in my family of not wasting time.

However, I think one of the talents or skills God has blessed me with is that of organization. I know many may not see that as a great gift, but for the roles I fulfill at CCHS, they're critical. Whether it's the administration of the Cannon County Youth Basketball (CCYB) league, the senior trip, a Beta Club trip, or anything else, being organized is critical to its success.

I'm glad you mentioned about the teaching responsibilities, though, because, as I said earlier, those come first. I'm proud of CCYB's success, I love interacting with students on the school trips I have the privilege to organize and go on, but if I'm not having success in the classroom first, those other things are all for not. I love being a teacher first and foremost, and my classroom is the place I want to experience success before all others.
